The T. M. T. M. Club met Wednesday, May 13, at 4:00 o'clock and enjoyed a big picnic at Lover's Lane. Many games were played. The refreshments were spread on the ground and everyone enjoyed them. Our leaders, Mrs. Peterson and Mrs. Ballard, were chaperones. The following were present:

Marjorie Reynolds, Doris Guy, Ruth Northcutt, Elizabeth Bald, Ruth Reynolds, Marie Guy, Melba Patton, Helen Ray, Frances Glasscock, Virginia Price, Emogene Edwards, Mary James Patton, Mrs. Ballard, Mrs. Peterson, J. O. Cobb.

The T. M. T. M. Club met Wednesday, May 20, at 4:00 o'clock for the regular meeting. The meeting was called to order by the president. Roll call and minutes were read by the secretary. There was no business to be attended to, so the following program was given:

"Meaning of Parliamentary Law," Marie Guy; "Where Parliamentary Law was Originated", Doris Guy; "Duties of the Officers—President," Helen Ray; "The Constitution", Virginia Price.

After this splendid program was given we played many interesting games, and decided at our next meeting for everyone to bring something to sew. Adjournment.—Ruth Northcutt, Sec'y.

Prize of $50.00 to be Given Away Saturday Morning, May 20, at 10 o'clock, near Hayes Chevrolet Company.

LETTER FROM DR. BOB JONES

Cleveland, Tenn.
May 7, 1936.

Dear Friends:

My work as an evangelist has taken me into every state in the Union and into twenty or thirty foreign countries. I know what is going on. I have seen hundreds of young people who went away from home to college and who came back to their parents with wrecked faith and shattered morals. I therefore, made up my mind to build a college that would stand without apology for hte old time religion and for the absolute authority of the Bible, which would enforce the proper discipline and chaperonage, and which would at the same time have as high educational standards as any other college in the Unitde States.

The motto of the Bob Jones College, located at Cleveland, Tennessee, is, "No college shall excel us in the thoroughness of our scholastic training; and, God helping us, we endeavor to excel all other colleges in the thoroughness of our Christian training". If you wish literature, write to hte Bob Jones College, Cleveland, Tennessee.

Yours sincerely,
BOB JONES.

Department Store Collections Lower

Washington, May 22.—Payments on open credit accounts receivable of department stores were made at the rate of 43.9 per cent in March, compared with 44.4 per cent for February, and 43.9 per cent for March, 1935, according to the Department of Commerce. This is the first month since January, 1935, that rate was not higher than in the preceding year.

The Washington New Deal managers are missing an important opportunity. They now have 42,000 men out investigating various farm conditions in all the States. For instance, there are five men in Clay County this week counting the bulls. They should send men out to count the chickens, both hatched and unhatched.—Topeka State Journal.

The modern husband doesn't know anything about the real horrors of house cleaning. He should have lived back in the days when it meant pulling the tacks out of all the carpets, dragging 'em out to the line, beating the daylights out of 'em, then dragging 'em back and getting 'em tacked down again.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Burglars broke into a New England store and stole a dozen alarm clocks. Time marches on!

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert

In this day of ultra-modernism, one of the favorite indoor sports consists of poking fun at the habits and equipment of the so-called Victorian Age. We hear it on the radio, see it in the comic supplements and read it in the wisecracks that embellish the editorial poge.

Everything from father's mustache cup, to the horsehair sofa, the wax flowers and the embroidered mottoes, come in for a satirical panning. The photograph album with the stiff and unnatural poses gets its share of ridicule and the conch-shells which had the roar of the ocean in them when you listened sympathetically, are not forgotten by the humorists.

Perhaps it was an unsophisticated age when compared with our own. The cup with the whisker guard from which father drank coffee has been rendered archaic by the more sanitary saftey razor, the slippery sofa has given way to the luxurious davenport, and instead of wax flowers and mottoes we have ash trays and pictures a la September Morn. In the family photographs the choker collar is no longer in evidence, because the one-piece bathing suit, often disclosing a rotund paunch or a pair of hips as wide as Pennsylvania Avenue, is now the vogue. The funny looking furniture was all paid for, and while mother's picture looked like it had been taken under great duress, one mother lasted in usual cases a lifetime and it wasn't necessary to change all the photographs every few months when a new mama came to take temporary charge of the household.

There was no car in the garage and no radio in the home or in the house next door. But the cellar was filled with smoked meats, canned goods and vegetables, and there was enough wood stacked in the back yard to keep a roaring fire all winter. It was necessary to feed the old gray mare on cold mornings when it would have been nicer to stay in bed, but there was no danger of a man coming from the finance company around the corner to take Dobbin away from the family.

Father worked all week for a private concern which paid him every Saturday night for services performed. Every four years he voted for his favorite presidential candidate and then forgot about the government for another 40 months, when the local politician came around to remind him of it again. He didn't have to depend on Uncle Sam for a job or a place in the bread line. He preferred to be crude rather than regimented. He knew that the only kind of social security which counted was the kind he earned for himself.

It's a lot of fun to recall those old horse and buggy days and make light of the celluloid collars and the wide suspenders. And some of those old tintypes do look funny to us now.

But if we could move the calendar forward 50 years and have the privilege of gazing in on some wisecrackers of 1986 who were looking back at our generation, wouldn't the follies of 1936 look funny, too? Might we not find them laughing at the naive innocence of those silly Americans back in the Roosevelt-ian days who thought they could make themselves rich by spending more and producing less, who believed that they would be happier and more comfortable, even safer, if they were letting Uncle Sam do it? And won't the political polemics of the 1936 Brain Trusters sound as funny then as the sentimental ballads of 1886 sound to us in these sophisticated days? Rubber currency look as goofy as a rubber collar?

We have taken great strides during the last 50 years, but the progress has been made through scinece and private industry. It has not been due to the fulminations of any political medicine men.

CHILTON'S DELEGATE TO CLEVELAND

At the district convention held in Birmingham last Wednesday Mr. C. C. Conway of Jemison, was selected as the delegate from the sixth district to the Republican national convention to be held in Cleveland, Ohio, on June 9th. A more suitable man to reprseent the district than Columbus Conway could scarcely have been selected. He is a staunch Republican, with a family record of party loyalty behind him that is admirable and unsurpassed.

And as alternate another good man was selected. J. Dewey Rockett was chosen in this capacity. The Union-Banner ventures to say that the selection of this young man to this position of honor will meet with the approval of a vast majority of the Republicans of Chilton county. We understand that Mr. Rockett, although not allowed a vote in the national convention but with privilege of the floor, will attend the Cleveland gathering; which decision we are pleased that he has concluded to make.

Another thing about this latter selection that is appealing to us is that Mr. Rockett is a member of the Young Republican movement in the county. The unit in the county feels distinctly honored in that one of its members has received this distinct recognition at the hands of the regular Republican organization. This selection will serve as unction toward more fervent work among the young members of the party in the county.

THE SOUTHERN REPUBLICAN

The Union-Banner has come into possession of "The Southern Republican", Volume 1, No. 1, date of May 20, 1936. Directly under the name of the paper appears this slogan: "A New Day in Dixie Journalism," followed up with this wording: "Published Twice Monthly at Atlanta, Ga."

This Republican weekly in Clanton, Alabama, salutes The Southern Republican. We are glad to have it come into the field and help us down here in dear old Dixie to hoist the flag of the good old Republican party and to proclaim to our citizens the merits of the party that has had most to do with building the nation and making it what it is. And too, there are lots of things about the Democratic party which are not always published in our Democratic papers. We can expect to get lots of news in Republican papers that the others dare not touch upon. We feel that The Southern Republican will serve a great and broad purpose in this respect.

We are impressed with the first editorial under the heading "No Longer Hog Tied". This editorial begins: "If there is one thing apparent to the average citizens, it is that the South is awakening to the fact that its hog-tied allegiance to the Democratic party is a thing of the past . . . . . The battle lines are now drawn hard and fast. The New Dealers, in the unmistakable language of the Supreme Court, have been told that they cannot twist and warp the fundamental law of the land in order to work their socialisic schemes of trickery and evasion."

These passages quoted above have the right ring to them; and the paper is filled with such editorials. The Union-Banner predicts a great future for The Southern Republican. There is a great work for it to do, and we hope there is steam enough behind the undertaking to do the job and do it well. If our commendation and salute to The Southern Republican is any encouragement, then we extend them forty-fold. May its life be long and fruitful.

COX FOR TAX ON LIQUOR - GAS

Representative Charlie Cox, of Chilton, would hate to place any more taxes on anything, "except liquor," but believes that the motorists of the state would stand another cent gasoline tax if they knew they were going to get $10,000,000 worth of highways in return.

"I've spent a lot of time thinking about that $5,000,000 in federal aid that is available in Washington if we match it," Mr. Cox said. "We certainly ought not to let a $10,000,000 road program get away from us, and that's what it means unless we match the government's $5,000,000.

"But how are we going to do it? I've studied it, and I've talked to a lot of people about it, including automobile men. It seems to me, from these conversations, that most people would be willing to submit to an additional gas tax—provided that tax was earmarked for this specific purpose. We don't want any more diversion of gas taxes."—Alabama Journal.

A bill has been introduced in Congress to give freedom to Puerto Rico. As the Democratic platform writers promised the island ultimate statehood, this latest action is consistent, if nothing else.

Military experts say that the Ethiopians were routed because they couldn't stand up against mustard gas. Why don't our board of strategy organize the politicians for military purposes?

Wonder why some Brain Trust professor doesn't find a way to pay the American hen for not laying fewer eggs?

MAN IN THE MOON

BOUND FOR ELECTION

I wish that every person in Chilton county who ever had a remote idea that he or she MIGHT vote a Republican ticket could have been present at the State Republican Convention which met in Birmingham last Wednesday, May 20. You would have come back from there, even as I did, with a new determination to scrap to the last ditch against the system of autocratic rule which we are now experiencing under the New Deal, and more determined than ever to turn the affairs of our government once more into sane and trustworthy hands.

To say that a spirit of optimism pervaded the whole gathering is putting it mildly. That old elephant was really trumpeting in the magic city on that day of days. That fighting spirit, together with the condemnation heaped upon the Democratic (or Socialist) regime now in power, was so convincing that even the reporters of the wholesouled Democratic newspapers of Birmingham and the rest of Alabama could not muster words to offer against it. There have been times in the past when these Alabama dailies found themselves able to make fun of these Republican meetings, but last Wednesday was not one of them.

Instead, as they sat and listened to speaker after speaker take his turn at the whipping post with the New Deal tied thereon, how they must have squirmed in their seats. The speakers exploded theory after theory with facts; compared Roosevelt promises with later lack of achievement; turned the words of condemnation of certain practices during the 1932 campaign against the record of the president, confirming condemnation of his own administration; and finally getting around to the old "lily white" question, read from the congressional record passages which must forever take the present Democratic regime out of the class of "white supremacy," and stamps it as one who "receives the negro colleague with open arms."

Very little did the Democratic dailies have to say about the meeting—just about as much, I imagine, as "The Journal of Hades" would have to say in reporting an old time revival meeting. But, as you know, there is always plenty of action around an old time revival meeting; and likewise, plenty was going on at the convention. Don't doubt it.

MR. CALLAWAY OF FLORIDA

One of the principal speakers at the Republican state convention in Birmingham last Wednesday was E. E. Callaway, former Alabamian and new Republican candidate for governor of the State of Florida.

Mr. Callaway made one of the best speeches at the convention, and was wildly applauded time after time. This is the first time I ever had the pleasure of meeting Mr. Callaway, but the impression he left me (and I believe with all others who heard him) is that he is one of the best Republicans that we have in the land.

Although a caustic critic of the New Deal, yet he left no doubt of the soundness of his criticism, backing up his every assertion with undeniable facts. Quick witted, he poked barb after barb at his adversary, and while the wound was yet fresh, poured in the salt of permanent rememberance, that his remarks might never be forgotten.

A fine orator, Mr. Callaway held the intense interest of all his hearers, as they hung on to catch every word. His remarks were not bitter—only straightforward and pointed. He pointed to the fallacies of the New Deal on numerous occasions. He held up the backward condition of the South as a result of the abject economic blindness and personal prejudice of its citizens. Offering a ringing plea for a cesation of sectional enmities, he said:

"My grandfather was a Confederate soldier, and loved and believed in the cause for which he fought; I imagine he would turn over in his grave if he could know that I am a Republican. But I am looking to the future, and to what is best for the America that is to be when we are gone. I am more concerned, my friends, for the welfare of my grandchildren than I am in carrying out the wishes of my grandfather. I cannot help my deceased grandfathers, but I CAN and I WILL do what I think is to the best interest of future Americans, among whom my grandchildren will be a part."

I am writing Mr. Callaway to try to arrange to have him stop over for at least one speech at Clanton on his way back from Cleveland, where he will attend the national convention during the week of June 9th. As soon as I can get a reply, if he will stop over with us, notice will be given in The Union-Banner. Look for it. And if he can be with us, by all means hear his speech. You'll never forget it.

APOLOGIES IN ORDER

Ever since the present Roosevelt administration has been ruling the roost, I have commented on their deeds and misdeeds from time to time. Nor have I any apologies to offer for any adverse comment I have made in regard to the administration. But I feel that I have done the Democratic party a grave injustice. In truth, however, the Democrats are partly to blame for this.

In the first place, the Democrats elected Mr. Roosevelt in their name. That can be excused, however, for I believe that they were just as much shocked and surprised as any of us when he deserted them and took off after the Tugwells and Moleys and others of their stripe. I can hardly believe that the honest and conscientious Democrats of the nation would have gone for him like they did had they known his actions would be as they have.

Another thing, the Democrats have been blindly backing his every move, although they KNEW it was wrong after they had time to see just what was being done. However, even this might be excused, inasmuch as honest Democrats might have been acting on a hunch that the president would sometime desert his wayward habits and return to the fold that put him in power.

In all my criticism of the president and his policies I have connected him with the Democratic party. For this I offer apologies! Strange? Not at all. The national Democratic party merely made a mistake when it elected Franklin D. Roosevelt, and although I believe the party should be held accountable for its mistakes, yet there is a distinction between an honest mistake and a wilful foolish action.

THE PRESIDENT IS NO MORE A DEMOCRAT THAN I AM! He has proved that during his present administration, and every honest Democrat knows it. He has PROVED that he is a communist of the highest order. He has used Communists as his closest advisers! He has carried out the Communist platform to the letter! Nowhere in his whole administration can be found a trace of the Democratic platform of 1932, but instead, every move has been a furtherance of the contentions of Communists and Socialists for years. Since the first three months of his administration not one plank of the proposed Democratic platform upon which President Roosevelt was elected has been touched.

Further than that, President Roosevelt might be branded a traitor to his own party, as well as his country. In that he has thrown aside the Democratic platform, has ignored Democratic statesmen and their advice, and has taken in their stead admitted Communists, and has placed the latter in key positions in the administration, he has committed treason against his party. The fact that some of his brother Democrats (of 1932) have submitted to this does not lessen his treason one whit. From time to time, honest and conscientious Democrats have had the courage to oppose this kind of action, but he has flattened his opposition at every turn. I submit that President Roosevelt is a traitor to his own party—a proved traitor.

And when President Roosevelt took the oath of office, he swore to defend the Constitution of the United States. On several occasions he has sulked when adverse decisions were given on some of his pet measures. Further, in taking into the administration advisors who were admitted Communists and enemies of our government, and in turn putting their ideas forward, I submit that President Roosevelt has proved himself a traitor to his country.

I do not believe the Democrats of America believed he would prove so when they elected him, and I offer apologies to the Democratic party for any unjust connection I have mentioned between that party and the man they elected, when they could not ynow that he would completely desert them.

Within the next few weeks, though, we will be able to judge more closely whether Democrats are in accord with this treason or not. If Mr. Roosevelt is repudiated at Philadelphia at the Democratic convention, it will be proved that Democrats were honest, but misguided. If he is nominated for another term, it will prove that they condone such treason to their country, and are not worthy of an apology from anyone. In the latter case, I have no apologies to offer, and even wish I had said more in the first place.—Man in the Moon.

HELP BUSINESS TO HELP

Although a great many barriers have been thrown in the way of normal business recovery by attempts at Federal regimentation, we very frequently hear from New Deal sources that it is up to private business from now on to take care of unemployment in an increasing degree. This is, of course, a tacit admission that the government itself cannot restore business by priming the economic pump with billions of the taxpayers' money.

It will undobutedly be up to private business to furnish the jobs to restore normalcy if we are to have such normalcy. Private business has undertaken this job successfully many times before and it will do the job again if given the proper sort of support. But this support includes encouragement from the federal government and not further restrictions tending to put business in a straight-jacket and weakening confidence in the future, through mounting federal debts and impending higher taxes.

President Roosevelt himself in his Baltimore speech told the country that it was now up to business to hasten re-employment. To this assertion business itself gives a hearty amen.

But it is not to be forgotten that business can only make more jobs by expanding its activities, to take care of any increase in public demand for the materials produced by business interests. To expand, to build new units and add new machinery, to create more jobs for the unemployed, in its own as well as in other industries, a business must have money. The best place to get this money is out of its earnings and its reserves.

The new tax bill is designed to penalize corporate thrift by taxing business reserves, forcing the money which might be put back for a rainy day, or for expansion if the skies look bright, into dividends. The only alternative is confiscation by the government through taxation.

Certainly discouraging the building of reserves by business corporations is a strange way to encourage such corporations to expand so that they can take up the slack of unemployment. It is a good deal like advising a small boy to save his pennies in a toy bank, and then extracting the pennies after the youngster has gone to sleep.

By all means let business restore normalcy by expanding and creating new jobs for the unemployed. But let us also encourage and assist business in its efforts to do this. Taxing business reserves which might be used for expansion is certainly no way to help business to restore normalcy. Neither is beclouding the future by piling up federal indebtedness and perpetuating an uncertain money policy.

PLATFORMS THEN AND NOW

One document which will reach us in [illegible] is the Democratic national platform to [illegible] drawn up and adopted at Philadelphia. [illegible] a document looked forward to with a [illegible] deal of interest by political students, [illegible] ally with those who are inclined to be [illegible] ical of the New Deal. To realize the [illegible] of this interest we must go back to the [illegible] ocratic plaftrom of 1932. It is pretty [illegible] ally realized by political students everywhere that this platform promised, among [illegible] things, an adherence to the gold standard, [illegible] ancing of the national budget, economy [illegible] federal expenditures and a curtailment of [illegible] reaucracy. Among the things denounced were the present protective tariff and the [illegible] leged "waste" in the administration of [illegible] government. President Roosevelt, then [illegible] the nominee of his party, endorsed this platform as a sound and patriotic document which it unquestionably was.

The development of the New Deal politics, however, has impelled the Administration to violate all of the promises mentioned above. There has been no adherence to the gold standard, no economy, no curtailment of [illegible] reaucracy and the tariff law enacted in the Hoover Administration is still on the [illegible] books.

But now another four years have rolled around. It is time for the adoption of another set of principles. The political observers are now wondering whether the 1936 convention will endorse the forgotten principles of 1932, or whether these will be idly thrust aside as worthy of little mention. They are of the firm opinion that the acts of the New Deal during the past three and a half years will be unqualifiedly endorsed. Any other course at Philadelphia is unthinkable. And when the endorsement comes, they wonder how it will be explained in connection with the platform og 1932.

It may be that the excuse will be one of national necessity, but it is difficult to understand how the necessity was any greater in 1933 than it was in the campaign days of 1932. And the plea of necessity will give the opponents of the New Deal a suitable excuse for quoting those memorable words of William Pitt, which were uttered a century and a half ago, when he exclaimed: "Necessity is the plea of every infringmeent of human freedom. It is the argument of tyrants and is the creed of slaves"

The New Deal politicians themselves profess not to be worried by the impending inconsistency between the platform pledges of 1932 and the declaration of 1936. They [illegible] on the tremendous expenditure of public money to take the minds of the voters off the platform of 1932. If they are guessing right in this, then indeed will the old political axiom prove true: that a party's platform is made to run on, and not to stand on.

COLOSSAL FAILURE

The United States did well to stay out of the League of Nations, now apparently a colossal failure. Although responsible for its creation this counrty wisely refused to become a member because it foresaw that Europe would still be beset by international passions that could not be quenched. As long as France and Germany exist they will hate each other. They have been at the hating business for generations. The Balkans are still a hotbed of racial prejudices and individual jealousies. John Bull will continue to dominate the World trade and exhibit a huge fleet to maintain his grip. Clashing economic philosophies almost certain to lead to war are to be found in Germany and Russia. South of the Alps a modern Caesar is already seeking new worlds to conquer, while Japan will continue her policies in the Far East. The League of Nations, in attempting to regulate the destinies of war-diseased Europe and Asia, is a dam of sand before onrushing floods of irresistible force.—Meriden, Conn., Record.

ANSWERED

Mark you, the President was speaking to banqueters who were honoring the memory of Thomas Jefferson. His emphasis in the speech was on defense of the agricultural crop contral directed fro mthe National Capital and on defense of deficits whose burden our children will have to bear.

Yet it was Thomas Jefferson who said: "Were we directed from Washington when to sow and when to reap we should soon want bread."

And it was Thomas Jefferson who said: " * * * The principle of spending money to be paid by posterity, under the name of funding, is but swindling futurity on a large scale."

Out of the mouth of Thomas Jefferson, whom he was honoring, comes the answer to President Roosevelt's speech of Saturday night.—Portland Oregonian.

STATE-WIDE BAPTIST SUNDAY SCHOOL PROMOTIONAL CONFERENCE

Delegates from the Chilton Association selected to attend the state-wide Baptist Sunday School Promotional coferece which will be held in Birmingham on June 4-5, include: Miss Ora Devaughn, Mrs. A. L. Bearden, Mrs. S. J. M. Webb, Mrs. Cecil Armstrong, Miss Marie Jackson, H. D. Durbin, Horace Kendrick, J. M. Parrish, D. S. Robinson, M. Lockhart and W. E. Robinson.

The conference will be fostered by the Baptist Sunday School Board of Nashville, Tennessee, with Dr. T. L. Holcomb, secretary, and the Sunday School Department of the State Mission Board of Alabama, with Davis Hopper, secretary.

The purpose of the conference is to study the possibilities of the district association as a means of promoting Sunday School and Vacation Bible School work.

It is stated by J. N. Barnette, who has been selected to lead in the new promotional plan, that the majority of the increase in Baptist Sunday school enrollment has been in a small per cent of the Sunday schools. It is believed by Mr. Barnette that the district association can be used to bring about general increase in a larger per cent of the Sunday schools.

The Baptist Sunday School Board of Nashville and the Sunday School department of the State Mission Board of Montgomery will provide twenty or more speakers and leaders for the meeting, including Dr. T. L. Holcomb, Dr. P. E. Burroughs, of Nashville, and Dr. F. M. Barnes and Davis Cooper of Montgomery.

For each one of the seventy-two associations in Alabama eleven Sunday school workers have been selected and invited to the conference.

BEN G. GLASSCOCK THANKS VOTERS

Editor Union-Banner:

I wish to express my appreciation to the voters who supported me in the past election. I am very glad to get acquainted with as many good people as I did. I am sorry I did not have time to see more of the voters. I haven't words to express my thanks to everyone that helped me in any way. I hope everyone will line up and pull together for the success of the Republican party.—Yours truly, Ben. G. Glasscock.

HOWARD COLLEGE PLACES SOME DESERVED EMPHASIS

The inauguration of an annual "Scholarship Day" at Howard College is positive proof, if any were needed, that schools still exist that place emphasis upon learning. It is proper recognition of this fact that those who excel in scholarship at a college are as deserving of recognition as those who are outstanding on the athletic field.

Many observers have agreed that too much stress has been placed upon athletics in college recognitions. The public, through the popularity of football, has fallen into the error of rating schools according to their gridiron prowess. How often does one hear such comment as: Siwash? Oh, yes, that's where Fleet, the great halfback, played," or "Nonesuch ought to be a great school now that whoozis is coaching down there." Of such stuff has college fame largely been built.

But now Howard is doing its bit toward restoring the balance. It has set aside a day on which to give special honors to those who have evidenced a true spirit of scholarship a zeal for learning. These students will be the heroes of the day, and, one hopes, a persuasive example.

This movement on the part of Howard College comes during a session when the colege has great reason to be proud of its athletic program. The East Lake school holds today the city collegiate championship in the three major sports of football, base ball and basket ball. The attention drawn to the scholarship, therefore, is not a sour grape attitude, but a proper acceptance of the idea that a school is not truly great, regardless of its athletic record, until it also publicly honors those who have borne their part well in the class room and the laboratory.

So all honor, then, to these boys and girls who will receive this merited approbation of their work, and honor to the college that places high value upon scholarshipp.—The Birmingham News.

MOTORING with MILADY by JEAN MARSH

WOMEN often experience brake pedal "fade" without knowing it by this name. It usually happens in warm weather or on a dry day when the brakes are used too freely. Under such conditions the brakes seem to be about half as effective as usual and if you do not consult the service people about it you may not come to know that it often is due to not having the right kind of lining on the brake shoes. Brakes that "grab" in damp weather are usually the kind that lack "bite" in dry weather. Adjusting such brakes to avoid grabbing makes them prone to fade when the drums heat up and expand away from the shoes.

Speaking of brakes, have you had a chance of driving a car fitted with the new hydraulics? One of the officials of the Fisher Body Craftsman's Guild made arrangements so I might drive a new General Motors car to Indianapolis to witness the presentation of a model Napoleonic coach to Colleen Moore. The movie actress, you know, is taking her miniature castle on a tour of the country for the benefit of the nation's crippled children, and the coach is for the fairy princess that ostensibly dwells in the little palace. Anyway, I always make a practice of "pumping" the brake pedal in bringing a car to a stop. The theory is that it reduces the strain on the mechanism. While it really is no longer necessary, I do it from force of habit, just as some people continue to "double clutch." I'll have to tell you about that some time, but to get back to the subject at hand, the thing I noticed is that one builds up additional braking power by pumping the pedal. It certainly is a pleasant feeling to know that all the power one could possibly use is available if you need it. And the pedal works so easily too. It's no trick at all for the slightest woman to bring a big car to a stop smoothly and easily.

That reminds me to make a bow to a deb of my acquaintance, who makes use of the glove compartment to carry some spare shoes—an old, comfortable pair that are decidedly easier on the feet than the ones she usually wears on the street. Once in the car, she slips off the good shoes and puts on the old. With the spacious compartments motor car manufacturers are now providing in the instrument panel, there is still room, she tells me, for her driving gloves, maps, the registration card for the car, a flashlight and other little things she wants to keep within easy reach. (See illustration.)

In an accessory shop I saw a clever little spray gun which will operate from the air in a spare tire. With the aid of this device doubtless many women will be trying to touch up the fenders and will try even more ambitious lacquering in the garage. So just a word of caution. Have the place well ventilated, and don't smoke. Lacquer fumes are highly combustible.

May I interpolate the simple idea of slowing down before you start descending a hill instead of tolerating the great waste of energy the brakes after the car has gathered momentum. If the car is started down a hill at ten miles an hour it probably won't need to be braked the rest of the way. No time will be lost in making the descent, but the brakes will benefit considerably.

If you are one of those people who doesn't believe in changing his oil frequently, you must replace the oil filter promptly every 8,000 miles, technical experts tell me. It becomes so choked up that it is no longer effective after that length of service. Equally important is the need for replacing with a filter of a capacity suitable for the size of the engine.

I don't know whose idea it was to employ crank handles to operate the ventilators in the new cars, but he should receive a vote of thanks from every woman who has broken her finger nails on the old thumb screw business. I just looked at the dictionary to obtain the spelling of thumbscrew. One of the definitions given is: An old instrument of torture for compressing the thumb by a screw. I think it quite apropos.

NEW FEED HELPS MILK PRODUCTION AND COW HEALTH

The cow to be a money-maker at her best must freshen and refreshen within 52 weeks of the year, according to Van Pelt, dairy authority of the Purina Mills. When the cow is allowed longer than 12 months for the completed cycle of her yearly work, she automatically sinks to a lower level of profit making, Van Pelt claims. To make a cow's year the most efficient with the greatest returns on the energy expended, the dairyman must take into account the natural characteristics of the cow herself and play them up to the fullest advantage.

Danger at Freshening Period

"There is no time that a cow is more susceptible to costly cow troubles," says Van Pelt, "than at the time immediately following freshening. This particular period easily can be termed a period of susceptibility. Susceptible because she hasn't the strength and the vitality to build up resistance. It is in this particular period when the cow finds herself an easy victim to the disease carrier in the herd whether it be tuberculosis, Bang's disease, mastitis, or any of those troubles that are so malignant in their influence in the dairy herd.

"A cow in calving shrinks herself 130 to 150 pounds. This includes the calf, the placenta, and the water expelled. Following this loss at calving time, finds a slight fill-up or return in weight for the next three days of 12 to 15 pounds. Then, unless the dairyman guards against it by proper methods, he finds a still further shrink of 70 to as high as 90 pounds through the next three months.

Special Feed Required

"In the past dairymen have been inclined to think of holding up on the feed immediately following freshening because they didn't feel that the cow's digestive tract should be over taxed. But science now makes it possible to start feeding immediately after freshening. Years of experimenting at the Purina Research Farm have resulted in the development of a special feed that is light, easy to digest, cooling in its nature, laxative and building in tissue and bone. With this new feed for the cow two months' before freshening and one month after freshening, the dairyman need not be afraid of overtaxing the cow, because it has been developed especially to fit the cow's digestive and body condition during those periods."

In explaining the result, Van Pelt says, "Everything that the cow lost isn't gained but a refill takes place that guards against any drastic shrink that carries with it so much of the cow's vitality. The results show in a stronger herd, greater foundation, and over a year's time stepped-up milk production. There are fewer replacements to contend with, better quality of udders, greater percentage of conception at breeding time and greater return of net profit in dollars and cents."

ALABAMA MILLS SWAMPS PRATTVILLE TEAM 16 TO 0

Following the Alabama Mills and Plantersville game, the Mills team then took on the Prattville club, swamping them 16 to 0 in a 6-inning affair.

The Millers touched Franklin for 11 hits, which coupled with nine errors, built up the huge score. Meanwhile, Williams was holding the Prattville team to two singles, one in the first and one in the sixth.

The Millers big inning was the fourth, when 11 men went to bat, banged out six hits, and the Prattville team bobbled four times.

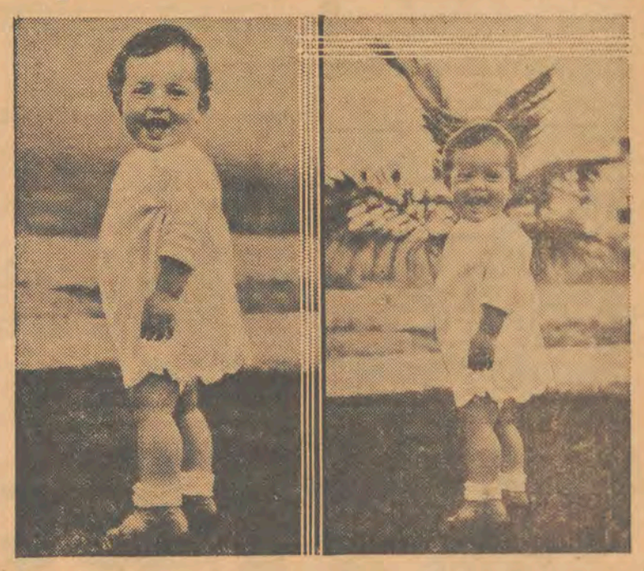
MONTEVALLO HIGH BEATS CHILTON HIGH 11 TO 4

Chilton County High's baseball team went to Montevallo last Friday afternoon and lost to Montevallo High 11 to 4, in a game marred by 13 errors.

Wilson and Williamson, who toiled on the mound for Chilton, gave up nine hits ,including homers by Comer and R. Ambrose, while Bowden and Hartley muzzled the Tigers with four scattered hits, only one of which was for extra bases. A double by Ted Reynolds. Chilton made seven errors, and Montevallo six, all of which figured in the scoring.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

Watch Your Background



The young lady on the right seems to have sprouted wings, or is she about to be seized by birds of prey? These pictures illustrate the importance of observing backgrounds before you shoot.

SOMETIMES we amateur photographers, in trying to catch outdoor "offguard" pictures of our friends, especially of children, take too little thought of the picture's background. We rush to the most convenient "shooting" point, take a haphazard aim and pull the trigger, as it were, much as if we feared being actually shot ourselves if we did not act quickly.

Too often we find that after all we did not win the skirmish because we discover when the picture is developed that in our haste we have included in the background some unpleasantly dominating or distracting object, or one so placed in relation to our subject as to create a photographic illusion that makes him look ridiculous. We find the angel face of Baby Ann competing with an overturned garbage can, or plump Aunt Julia seeming to be the pedestal of a flag pole, or we behold Uncle Henry grinning from ear to ear, but what ears! Each has been magnified to donkey-like proportions by the tips of fence pickets.

Such poorly composed pictures we may treasure just the same and say in parody that "It is better to have shot and lost than never to have shot at all," which may be true, but certainly we are not proud of them as examples of our ability to make artistic photographs.

Instead of taking chances with these "off-guard" pictures, it is worth while to stalk the subject until he voluntarily moves to a more scenically attractive place, or, if he does not move voluntarily, to entice him there. Even then we should take notice of what is behind him before snapping the picture, lest we include some large object that will distract attention or otherwise spoil the composition.

Of course, if it is to be a picture of a person engaged in some characteristic activity, objects that pertain to the activity properly belong in the picture, but to take a picture, for example, of a dainty maiden gathering flowers in the garden against a background of the family wash hanging on the line is not artistic composition. Let us take pains to exercise all the artistic judgment we possess in keeping our pictures free of the incongruous.

Derris Powder

We cannot say too much in recommending this insecticide which has been put to almost every imaginable test by Auburn and other governmental agencies, which in every case have proved it superior to anything yet developed.

Don't let insects ruin your garden or field crops. Derris is especially effective against the Mexican Bean Beetle, but also destroys other insect pests. Is not injurious to the plants and is non-poisonous to animals.

We also have a complete line of sprays for flies, and mosquitoes. Don't let these pests annoy you this summer.

SPRAY GUNS DUSTERS

To get the best results from insecticides you should use correct sprayers, dust guns, etc. We have all sizes and kinds, priced very reasonable, and we will be glad to recommend the right kind to use for any type spray or dust.

BIRTHDAY DINNER

On Sunday, May 24th, the family of Mrs. John Chandler gathered at her home to celebrate her 56th birthday. This afair was entirely a surprise to her and a happy surprise too, for when she came home from church, at New Harmony, Lomax, found her children and other relatives there, she was a happy person.

The morning was spent in talking and laughing among the families and friends.

At noon a bountiful dinner was spread out on tables under the shade trees. It was such a beautiful day and spreading the dinner outside really showed the appreciation of the day.

Those enjoying this dinner were: Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Dobbs and children, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Dobbs of Clanton, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Dobbs and children, Mrs. Percy Lemgy and son, all of Aldrich, Alabama, Mr. and Mrs. Doss Lovelady and children, Mr. and Mrs. Cecile McSheeham and daughter, of Maplesville, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Easterling and Mr. and Mrs. Odis Nobles, all of Clanton.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Chandler and children, Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Burnette and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Harvie Langston and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Bennie Bullard, Mrs. John Chandler.

The friends present were: Mr. Cecile Lemby of Aldrich, Ala., Miss Inez Bullard of Clanton, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. G. White and two sons, of Jemison, Mr. Melvin Adams of Jemison, Elder L. G. Warren of Birmingham, Mr. and Mrs. Winford Jackson of Jemison, Mr. Joe Pembleton.

In the afternoon the crowd was entertained by Elder L. G. Warren who delivered us a wonderful message of God, which was enjoyed by everyone.

There was only one daughter of Sister Chandler who was not present at this happy meeting.

We hope to have the opportunity to meet with Sister Chandler at several more happy birthday dinners, for this was a happy one for her.—A friend, Mrs. Myrtle Jackson.

MASONIC DAY CELEBRATION

Among the coming events in the Gulf Coast states in June, is the 65th Masonic Day celebration at Florala, Ala., which will be held Wednesday, June 24th, beginning locally at 6:00 p.m., June 23, and closing 12:00 midnight, June 24, the main celebration lasting one day only—June 24th.

This is conceded to be the largest annual Masonic Day celebration in America; attended last year by more than 25,000 visitors, representing nearly every state in the United States.

Florala's celebration was established June 24th, 1871, and in all these years there has never been a single omission. It began simply as a communtiy gathering to witness the public installation of Masonic Lodge Officers. Gradually, new features were added until it now embraces an enormous program featuring nearly every attraction of Mardi Gras and other ancient festivals of the Old World—everything to entertain and amuse its visitors.

Florala is a beautiful little city situated on the shore of beautiful Lake Jackson, where delightful breezes temper the atmosphere of June to that of early May. Aside from the big program of attractions, such as a mile-long parade, beautiful floats, bands, big carnival city, street clowns, comedians, all day dancing, all day sacred harp singing, championship boxing, marvelous air stunts, boat races, beauty parade, etc., no more delightful outing could be enjoyed anywhere in the country than at Florala, on beautiful Lake Jackson.

Mr. Claude Headley, of Mt. Pisgah community, had to carry his little son to Hubbard's Hospital, in Montgomery, Monday of this week.

LIQUOR STILL CAPTURED LAST SATURDAY AFTERNOON

Deputies H. R. Wright and Velpo Mims captured a 65-gallon copper box-type liquor still in the Free Springs community, in northwest Chilton county last Saturday afternoon, about 4:00 o'clock. Jack Collins was placed under arrest, brought to Clanton and placed in jail on a charge of possesion of still.

The deputies reported that the still was just ready for operation when they closed in on it, and that 60 gallons of beer were poured out. A gallon of beer was brought in with the still for evidence.

HEALTH UNIT NOTES

Members of the local county health unit are carrying out a house to house hookworm survey to determine the prevalence of hookworm disease in Chilton County. In this study an attempt is being made to obtain a representative sample of the whole county rather than make a complete survey of any one community. To do this every 10th house is being selected and all members of this household tested. By this means a fairly accurate estimate of the percentage of infestation throughout the county can be determined.

A hookworm survey among school children was carried out last year, the survey showing that about 35 per cent of the school population was infested. As a result of this study approximately 500 school children were treated. The aim of the present study is to determine the amount of infestation among the population as a whole rather than among any age group.

SINGING AT LIBERTY HILL

The Liberty Hill singing society met last Sunday afternoon and a good singing was enjoyed by a large crowd of listeners.

Directors for the afternoon were: Leonard Culp, Zane Lowery, George Chambers, Houston Melton, D. T. Melton, Herman Culpepper, and Prof. L. T. Grant. Special numbers were rendered by the Liberty quartet, and the small children of Leonard Culp and Duncan Wells. The specials by the children were greatly enjoyed.

Prof Grant will teach a singing school beginning in July, and the cooperation of the people of the community is necessary if the school is to be a success.

Don't forget our singing each 4th Sunday afternoon. Everyone is invited.—Marvin Lowery, Sec'y.

STATE G. O. P. MEETING HELD IN BIRMINGHAM

mainly at the Democratic party and the president, were E. E. Callaway, Lakeland, Fla.; J. H. Baskin, Virginia, and C. O. Vardaman, Birmingham, who was elected permanent chairman of the convention, along with J. A. Stephens, Scottsboro, permanent secretary.

Mr. Street told the convention in his keynote address that "the entire New Deal is founded upon a falsehood."

"That falsehood," he added, "involves the theory that our system of government is a failure, and the question before the people today is whether we want to do away with our present system of government."

Mr. Callaway, who is a Republican candidate for governor of Florida, concluded his attack on the Democratic party and its national leadership by charging "we are headed for that system of government that knows not the sacredness of the marriage vow, the Communistic system."

Mr. Baskin asserted that the party in power now "is not the Democratic party, but the New Deal party."

Victory Is Predicted

Mr. Vardaman, upon taking over the chair as convention chairman, also attacked the national administration and expressed his view that the enemy is on the run and the Grand Army of the Republicans is marching to victory in November."

District delegates to the national convention in Cleveland were elected in district conventions held recently. These delegates include:

S. D. Adams, Mobile, First District; C. B. Kennamer, Jr., Montgomery, Second District; J. R. Dawsey, Hartford, Third District; Judge Curtis Hankins, Ashville, Fourth District; R. Hawkins, Fort Payne, Fifth District; C. C. Conway, Jemison, Sixth District; Judge F. M. Johnson, Double Springs, Seventh District; W. J. Kennamer, Woodville, Eighth District and J. E. Trains No. 1 And 4 Will Stop In Clanton

Mayor Jones Scores Again With Service To City Much Wanted

Back in 1910 and 1911, and probably before, the officials of Clanton were holding conferences with L & N railroad officials relative to getting No. 4 and No. 1 to give passenger service to Clanton, but of no avail. Several times since then similar attempts have been made, only to get a polite but definite refusal from the company officials. Every time, the slight grade near the crossing was given as the principal reason for not having these trains stop here.

However, the question has been settled at last, and congratulations to Mayor C. Fenn Jones, it is in our favor this time. And, besides giving us service on these two trains, the L. & N. Railroad Company is going to spend a substantial sum toward leveling the tracks, so as to facilitate No. 4 starting off. This work will be help to Clanton and this territory too.

We reproduce below a letter to Mayor Jones from Mr. T. E. Brooks, vice-president of the Company, which conveys the glad news which many have been longing to hear for the past two or three decades:

"Louisville, Ky., May 28, 1936.

Hon. C. Fenn Jones,
Mayor, Clanton, Ala.
My Dear Mr. Jones:

Referring to our conference on May 20th relative to plan to give you additional passsenger train service for—

(a) Passengers to and from Montgomery and points beyond,

(b) Passengers to and from Birmingham and points beyond,

on trains Nos. 1 and 4.

Please be advised that the work of raising the grade of our track at Clanton, at a cost of $3,800, will be started promptly, and immediately upon completion of that work, the arrangement will be inaugurated. You will be advised of the date on which stops of Nos. 1 and 4, as agreed to with you, will commence.

Appreciating your cooperation in this matter, and the opportunity you gave me, after more than ten years, to note the unusual progress made by your city since I knew it so well, I am

Very truly yours,
T. E. BROOKS,
Vice President."

And let us show our appreciation to the railroad company by using No. 1 and No. 4. Remember that if you go to Montgomery, you can stay over until late in the afternoon and return to Clanton, arriving here about 7:15. Also very often No. 1 can be used in returning from Birmingham as well as going to Montgomery, as this train goes through here about 9:45 every morning. Consult the agents here and find out the exact time of arrivals and departures.

JUDGE REYNOLDS RETURNED HOME AFTER EYE OPERATION

Judge L. H. Reynolds returned to his home last Friday, after having spent ten days in Montgomery, where he underwent an operation on his eye at Dr. Thigpen's infirmary. He is reported to be recovering satisfactorily, and will be able to be out within a few days.

Judge Reynolds had an operation on one of his eyes about two years ago, which greatly improved his vision. It is hoped that this operation will likewise prove successful.

VERNON KLINNER NEW MANAGER OF E. L. KLINNER FURNITURE CO.

Beginning Monday of this week, June 1st, K. V. (Vernon) Klinner assumed management of E. L. Klinner Furniture Company, on the highway, Clanton. Mr. Klinner is a native son of Chilton County, and has had a number of years experience in the furniture business. He has many friends in Chilton County, and states that he expects to give every effort toward better service to the customers of his firm, assuring them of quality merchandise reasonably priced at all times.

Mr. Klinner succeeds Mr. J. B. McRae as manager, who returned to the Birmingham store of the same firm. Mr. McRae expresses his appreciation for the many courtesies shown him during the 15 months he has been in Clanton, and urges them to give his successor the same fine support he has received.

CENTRAL ALABAMA MILLING CO. NOW USING ENLARGED QUARTERS

The large addition to the building of Central Alabama Milling Company, in East Clanton, has been completed and is now being occupied by the company. A coat of paint is being put on the outside of the new addition, to make it harmonize with the rest of the building.

"We have installed more new machinery," said the operator, Mr. Willie Crowson, "and we have also enlarged our storage space. We are better prepared to take care of the enlarged business which we have been favored with from people of this section. We invite our friends to visit us at any time."

Clanton and Chilton county are justproud of Central Alabama Milling Company. It is bringing our people feed-grinding service which we have keenly felt the need of for many years.

ELECTION OFFICERS URGED TO KEEP ORDER AT VOTING PLACES

There has been some criticism of the maner in which voters were permitted to crowd in around voting places in the county at the last primary election. It is not considered such a serious matter, but at the same time, it is the intention of the law that only a few be permitted to be at the polls and vote at a time. When these have voted, they should get out and give their places to others who wish to vote.

When some dozen or so crowd around the polls, there may be no intention for anything wrong or illegal, but it gives an opportunity for such, should there be someone present so disposed.

Therefore, let us urge that the election oficers take note of this and see that there be no room for criticism at the coming second primary election next Tuesday, June 9th.

The same election managers, clerks and returning oficers wil serve for this primary as did the first one on May 5th.

SHERIFF REPORTS 19 ARRESTS

Sheriff J. R. Hardy reported 19 arrests during the past week by county oficers, and State Highway men stationed in Chilton County. Four of these arrests were by the highway patrolmen, Henley and Waits.

The cases were as folows:

Two for driving a motor vehicle while intoxicated. One was released on bond for $300; the other on bond for $200.

One for reckless driving. Released in justice court on payment of fine and costs. One for driving a motor vehicle wihtout driver's license. Bond for $300.

One was taken into custody on a revoked parole. The charge on which the parole was granted was for manufacturing whisky and possession of a still. In jail.

Two for violating the prohibition law. One was released in justice court on payment of fine and cos s. The other is in jail.

Four for assault and battery. Two are in jail; one furnished bond for $300; one was released in justice court upon payment of fine and costs.

Four for assault and battery with intent to murder. One is in jail; the other three furnished bond for $300 each.

Four for manufacturing whisky and possession of a still. One is in jail; the other three furnishet bond for $300 each.

TWO ARRESTS BY CITY OFFICERS

Mayor Jones reported Monday morning that city officers had made two arrests during the past week. These, with their disposition, were as follows:

One for driving a motor vehicle while intoxicated, and public drunkenness. Sentence of 30 days hard labor on the streets.

One for fighting. Fine of $1 and cost of $7, paid.

Veterans Urged To Spend Bonus Wisely

State Commander of Legion Urges All Buddies To Exercise Thrift

The Union-Banner is in receipt of communication from Mr. Francis M. Inge, commander Alabama Dept. American Legion, urging that Alabama legionnaires spend their bonus money wisely. Mr. Inge says: "Entrants from Chilton county into the World War were 741 men. Bonus money will soon begin to circulate into every community in the county. All veterans should be encouraged to spend their bonus money wisely."

The Union-Banner wishes to emphasize what Mr. Inge says to the veterans of our county. This bonus money can be used greatly to the lasting advantage of the recipients, or it can be scattered to the four winds and no appreciable good will come to those receiving it. Therefore, let us urge these buddies to be very careful how this money is spent. See that it is put into something that is sound and that you will have something lasting to show for it after many years; then you and everyone about you will

G. G. GRAY DIED SUNDAY

G. G. Gray, prominent farmer and business man of Clanton died at his home one mile northeast of Clanton last Sunday morning at 6:10, after an extended illness. In addition to farming, Mr. Gray operated school busses during the school season, and also has operated a grist mill in Clanton for several years. He was generally respected as a man of the highest integrity and fair dealing.

Funeral services were held at Bethany church at 10:00 o'clock Monday morning, with Rev. J. A. Raines officiating. Burial was in the cemetery at that place, with Spigener directing.

He is survived by: his widow; four sons—N. A., and R. Z. Gray of Clanton, W. G. Gray of Verbena Route 1, and W. J. Gray of Burnsville, Ala., four daughters—Mrs. Maggie Summerlin of Selma, Mrs. Alice Summerlin of Burnsville, Mrs. Minnie Cobern of Clanton, and Miss Cora Gray of Columbus, Ga.; two sisters—Mrs. Louisa Courtney of Selma, and Mrs. Evie Logan of Bilingsley Route 1.

REPUBLICANS URGED TO GO TO THE POLLS TUESDAY AND VOTE IN SECOND PRIMARY

[AN EDITORIAL]

Before The Union-Banner comes to you again, the time will have arrived on which the Republican voters of the county will have the opportunity of casting your votes for those whom you would have represent your ticket in the November general election. You are urged to bear this in mind, and do not fail to go to the polls and vote on next Tuesday, June 9th.

At this time the Republicans will select one of two men—W. J. Billingsley or Paul C. Mims—as their nominee for county treasurer. Also they will decide which of the two remaining candidates for Commissioner from the Third District they will run as their nominee against the Democrats in November,—J. L. Burnett or J. C. Atchison.

The Union-Banner does not anticipate that any underhand methods will be used by any of these candidates or their friends; but we would appeal to the election managers and to all who will exercise their franchise in this primary, to take every precaution to have everything carried out strictly according to law. Let there be no opportunity allowed for criticism, but may this primary be carried out in such a way that whoever wins, all will be satisfied that it was done fairly and that it came out just like a majority of the Republican voters would have it come out. Let the Republican party go on record as favoring fair and square politics.

OTHER THINGS ABOUT THE NEW DEAL THAT BEAT THE DICKENS

If anyone wishes to hunt for something that "beats the Dickens" and is really outrageous, we know of no more fertile and more likely field than the Democratic administration and the New Deal. Of course, "No one is so blind as he who will not see." If one just WILL NOT see, it is a difficult job to show him anything; but we are proud that there are not many people in Chilton county of this stripe.

The Union-Banner just a few days past clipped this little article from The Montgomery Advertiser. It is regarding statements made by Mr. Donald Comer, of Sylacauga, president of the American Cotton Manufacturers Association. The Advertiser did not likely misquote Mr. Comer when it said: "The manufacturer cited figures showing that in the first quarter of 1934 Japanese textile imports (into the U. S.) amounted to 450,000 yards; first quarter, 1935, 12,722,000 yards; and this year, first quarter, 21,530,000 yards."

Mr. Comer is quoted directly as saying: "This record indicates clearly that our industry (textile), acting voluntarily with our government under NRA shortened our hours and increased our wages, thereby doubling the labor cost of our goods, that Japan immediately took advantage of the situation."

And again, the following assertion sounds mighty like a lie that The Union-Banner is trying to ram down the throats of the people of Chilton county, but in this particular instance The Union-Banner is in possession of a reproduced copy of a check for the tidy little sum of $82,000.00 issued to Mr. William N. Dak of Farmers Union Cooperative Association, "Object for which drawn, Emergency Relief, appropriation Act of 1935." Now, how does this $82,000.00 check look when placed up beside the little measley $15 or $20 check which the people of our county have been drawing. Who is getting the big end of this deal? According to this, where is the relief money really going?

And as to keeping the relief out of politics a photostatic copy of a letter in possession of The Union-Banner will probably be a little enlightening: "Philadelphia, Penn., March 14, 1935. Dear Committeeman: Contact all houses in your division and get the names of all men on relief, also all those holding W. P. A. jobs. Urge them to register Democrat on March 25, OR ELSE LOSE POSITION. Sincerely yours, Charles McDonald."

Now, just don't this beat the dickens? If we did not have a reproduction of the letter right before our eyes, we would not believe it. But read this: "Indiana, Pa., Dec. 4, 1935. Mary C. Shearer, Emergency Relief Area. Dear Madam: I am very much surprised that you have not responded to our previous letter requesting your contribution in the amount of $27 to Indiana County Democratic Campaign Committee, as I was sure that you appreciated your position (with the emergency relief) to such an extent that you would make this contribution willingly and promptly. I must, however now advise you that unless your contribution in the above amount is received promptly it will be necessary to place your name on the list of those who will not be given consideration for any other appointment after the termination of the emergency relief work, which, as you know, will terminate in the near future. Yours very truly, Judge Harry W. Fee, Chairman Indiana County Democratic Committee."

Yes, indeed, The Union-Banner is opposed to the Democratic New Deal, and we would be opposed to any other sort of deal that is full of corruption, graft and perjury. And we believe a big majority of the people of Chilton county are with us on the question. There will always be some people who care little enough for their birthright to sell it for a trifle, but the mass populace of our country is not made of this kind of material. Some say that the election this fall will go where the most money is, and $4,800,000,000 is a lot of money. The latter phrase is true; but The Union-Banner is willng to place Amercan manhood up against the powerful enchantment of filthy lucre. The temptation is great, and this form of evil, like most all others, always presents itself right at a time when the resistance is lowest; but we believe our people can "take it", and until they fail, we will continue to have abiding faith in American manhood and citizenship.

SUPERINTENDENT LITTLE AND PARTY ON TOUR THROUGH WEST

Superintendent Luther Little and Mrs. Little, with Prof. and Mrs. T. J. Searcy, left last Friday afternoon for an extended western tour. The party went by way of New Orleans. They expect to cross Texas on the southern end, visit the Republic of Mexico, turn north to Los Angeles, San Francisco and Sacramento, California, turn east again to visit Yellow Stone National Park and other scenic wonders of the west, including Pike's Feak and the Grand Canyon, returning home by way of Dallas and Road 80. While at Dallas the party will take in the Texas Centennial Exposition. They are expected to be away two weeks or more.

THIS WEEK IS NATIONAL COTTON WEEK—JUNE 1 TO 6

This week, June 1st through June 6th, has been proclaimed as national Cotton Week. The event is of especial significance to us people here in the South and in Chilton County, inasmuch as we live in the heart of the country where the fleecy staple is raised.

Some of the merchants of Clanton are advertising some special bargains for National Cotton Week. They wish to impress upon the trading public the sigificance of the event and to encourage that everybody use cotton goods. Look through this issue of The Union-Banner and see what you find in the advs. about Cotton Week bargains.

SPECIAL NOTICE TO ALL RETURNING OFFICERS

The Sheriff very urgently requests all returning officers serving in the primary elections to be held on June 9th, to make copies of the results of the balloting at their respective voting places, and bring them in when they return their ballot boxes. Bring returns from primaries of both parties. This may be done by securing an extra ticket, and marking the number of votes cast for each candidate beside his name. This is urged, so that a more accurate tabulation of returns may be obtained as early as possible, and before the official count.—J. R. Hardy, Sheriff.

SINCLAIR GAS STATION IS UNDER NEW MANAGEMENT

The Sinclair gasoline service station formerly known as McKee Brothers Service Station, at the corner occupied by Dief's for several years, will be under new management in the future.

The new firm will be known as Burdette Service Station, managed by Mr. Tom R. Burdette, who has been connected with the wholesale gasoline supply business in this territory for a number of years.

As has been the custom at this place since its beginning, the new management will be open 24 hours a day, to give their customers the utmost in service any hour of the day or night.

Mr. Burdette has securd the services of John Klinner, Guy McKee and Kermit Lowery as attendants. These are all well trained men in this business, and it will be the policy of the management to provide the most courteous and efficient service possible.

Burdette Service Station will carry a complete line of the well known Sinclair products—gasoline, oils, and greases, and is equipped to wash, polish or grease your car or truck to perfection

Mr. Burdette, who has been driving the wholesale delivery truck for Sinclair, will be replaced by his son, Jarrel Burdette.

Elsewhere in this paper, the Burdette Service Station is carrying an advertisement, announcing the change. Drive in to this new service. You will find Mr. Burdette and his force pleasant people to do business with.

Republican Speaker Here Sat., June 27

Hon. C. O. Vardaman Will Address Chilton Folks At 2:00 O'Clock

Prominent State Leader Will Lecture In Interest of Republican Party Principles

Honorable C. O. Vardaman, of Birmingham, Will speak at the courthouse in Clanton Saturday afternoon, June 27th, at 2:00 o'clock. The meeting will be sponsored bf the Young Republican unit of Chilton county, but will be open for everybody. If you are interested in civic affairs, government or politics, you will want to hear Mr. Vardaman.

Mr. Vardaman was in Clanton and spoke one Saturday afternoon last January. Those who heard him know what an outstanding speaker he is and what a caustic critic of the New Deal he has proven himself to be. If you are interested in politics, don't let anything keep you from hearing Mr. Vardaman on June 27th. There will be loud speakers so all can hear.

Special Legislative Session Is Certainty

Some Form of Sales Tax Said To Be Among Things For Passage

Montgomery, Ala., May 28.—The sales tax has changed spots again!

Now that Governor Bibb Graves has all but officially announced he will call a special session of the state legislature soon after the Democratic Convention in Philadelphia, his sales tax lieutenants have made a deal with the educational lobbyists to put over a sales tax in the form of a gross receipts levy, Jeff P. Beeland, campaign manager of the Consumers Anti-Sales Tax Association of Alabama, sharged in a statement issued here this week.

"They have jumped at this gross receipts levy, because they think they can fool the people, but the people will not be fooled," Beeland said. "The 'smart boys' who have been advising the Governor have figured out how they can make a three per cent sales tax out of a gross receipts tax.

"It doesn't take much of a mathematician to figure that out. A one and one-half per cent gross receipts tax is a three per cent sales tax, for a gross receipts tax is a tax upon a tax, and if there is a three way turn-over it is a tax upon two taxes," Beeland said.

"Our organization now warns the taxpayers of Alabama to girdle for one of the biggest tax battles in the history of the state. Our state administration refuses to heed the voice of the people who demand economy, but now they are going to try to cram this sales tax down our throats under disguise," he added.

Beeland said that if a special session is called, his organization is "ready to fight any attempt to place extra tax burdens on the people of Alabama."

WILL DISPLAY WORK OF SEWING PROJECT HERE

Mrs. Pearl Jordan of Mountain Creek, Supervisor of the Words Progress Administration Sewing Project of Chilton county, at Clanton, will give a display, Wednesday, June 10th, of the work done by the Women of the county employed on this project. Mr. I. S. Levine, Manager of Mazer's Department Store, has donated the use of one of the store's windows for this display. The public is invited to come and see what this project is accomplishing. Mrs. Gladys McQueen, Director of Women's Work for this District, whose headquarters are in Montgomery, is expected to be here on this date.

Miss Nolan Meroney, Director of the Department of Public Welfare of this county, distributes the clothing made by the employees of this project to the people of this county who are in need.

CALL FOR EMPTY JARS TO REFILL FOR ORPHANS HOME

For several years the Chilton-Unity Association has shipped produce, canned fruit, etc., to the Baptist Orphanage. In doing this we have sent quite a number of fruit jars. Brother Colley for the last two years has sent a number of empties back. He has left here at Thorsby several hundred jars and I am writing to urge that you call for these jars at Mr. Willis's grocery store if you will fill some of them for the home.—J. W. Jones.

BARNSTORMING STARS BEAT BLACK SOX 7-2

A group of barnstorming negro baseball players blew into town last week and scheduled a game with a bunch of local negroes, the game being played on the Clanton park last Friday afternon, the locals losing by the score of 7 to 2.

Although not the typical loosely played negro game, yet the fans got several hearty laughs out of the antics of the players. There is nothing funnier than a negro baseball game, and this was no exception.

Possibly one of the most important men on the field was the umpire, and although he may have been doing his best to call the game right, yet on several occasions he took his cue from the direction of white fans who were loking on. That brought more laughs.

It is expected that the Clanton negroes will put on several games this summer, and they are always funny. Last year the Wetumpka team of negroes brought one of the best players to Clanton ever to perform on the local diamond. If it is advertised that he will be here, the local fans, both white and black, will be out to see him.

YOUNG REPUBLICANS TO MEET AT BETHSALEM FRIDAY NIGHT, JUNE 5

There will be a young Republican meeting at Bethsalem church on Friday night, June 5th, beginning at 7:30. We invite both men and women, young and old. There has been some talk of us not wanting the old ones. We want them to come and help us out in encouraging the young members. We are expecting to have with us, Hon. Percy M. Pitts, Mr. T. E. Wyatt and Mr. J. Z. Mims to speak for us.—C. M. Billingsley, chairman; S. B. Williams, secretary.

STATE CAPITOL NEWS

Montgomery.—Completing a round of campus engagements for the commencement exercises at the University, Auburn and Montevallo during the past two weeks, Gov. Graves has a full agenda for the month of June.

His engagement book shows the following:

June 11—Convention of the Alabame League of Municipalities.

June 12—A tour of inspection with the State Oyster Commission at Cedar Point on Mobile Bay.

June 19.—Departs for Washington, thence to Valley Forge, Pa., for the annual patriotic ceremonies.

June 21—Governor Graves will deliver the "Alabama Address" at Valley Forge.

June 22—Dinner and reception at Independence Hall, Philadelphia, with other state Governors.

June 23—Democratic National Convention.

Montgomery—By the addition of a few simple words in the 1935 Revenue Act the State is collecting approximately $500 a month in lubricating oil taxes from certain corporations which formerly resisted payment, claiming they were not included in the provisions of the old act.

Clarification of the law was effected by a former country weekly newspaper publisher, A. B. Tucker, once publisher of the now defunct Thomasville Echo.

Tucker is now chief clerk of the gasoline division of the State Tax Commision.

Montgomery. — Alabama's proposed experiment with cotton fabric in road building will soon be launched, H. H. Houck, chief engineer of the State Highway Department stated last week upon returning from Washington.

"I was advised by officials of the marketing division of the U. S. Department of Agriculture that bids are now being received for the purchase of cotton to be used in the experiment," Houck said.

About 600 bales of the fabric known as osnaberg will be used on the 105 miles of road in this state. The material is a gift to the State by the Federal government, he explained.

Montgomery. — The semi-annual meeting of the Alabama National Guard Association composed of commissioned officers will be held in Mobile, June 13 and 14, according to announcement by Adj. Gen. John C. Coleman.

The officers will discuss plans for the annual field training encampments that are soon to begin.

Montgomery.—Quick work on the part of Deputy State Fire Marshall Thomas J. Hall brought about the arrest last week of Dr. Leo Meller, prominent Atlanta dentist, charged with the burning of a Montgomery dwelling owned by the dentist.

Declaring he was "broke and needed money", Dr. Meller admitted that he sought to collect $3,000 insurance He is held in Montgomery county jail.

POPLAR SPRINGS

Our Sunday school seems nothing to boast of, although we have continued to have it every Sunday morning. Our classes seems small sometimes but do not prevent a thorouyh discussion of the lesson. Next Sunday morning we agreed upon meeting at 9 o'clock on account of the home coming at Cooper. Every one come at 9:00 o'clock and help in the Sunday school and then have time to go to Cooper.

Our B. Y. P. U. is doing fine. We have a fine lesson every Sunday night and visitors are always welcome. We appreciate our large crowds.

The W. M. U. will meet at Poplar Springs church next Friday afternoon. All the women are invited to attend and help in the society.

THE HOME COMING AT SHILOH

As we announced in last week's paper, we had our home coming and dedication services at Shiloh, which we think was a real success. We had some real inspiring talks, good preaching and singing.

We had to make some changes from the published program. We first had the devotional by Rev. T. W. Billingsley at 9:30 o'clock. He read from James and prayer was led by Rev. G. G. Williams. Next came the welcome addres by Rev. W. P. Lowery, our pastor, extending a hearty welcome to all, also giving a brief history of the church and saying many other inspiring things.

Response to the welcome address was by Rev. G. G. Williams. It seemed that his talk meant as much or more than any we had with such few words. Just a real sermon in about ten minutes.

Next on program was a talk by Rev. Paul Oden. Subject: "The Scriptual Way to Finance the Church" which was real interesting and teaching. Quoting many scriptures to prove that God taught us how to do business for Him.

At 11:00 o'clock we had the dedication sermon by Rev. J. W. Jones, using the 18th verse of the 16th chapter of St. Matthew for his foundation, which was a real treat to us all. If there had been nothing else said or done this sermon would have been worth many times more to us than the sacrifice we made to prepare for the day. The prayer was led by Rev. Goss.

At 12:00 o'clock we spread our lunch on a table that was prepared in the grove. It seemed that all had plenty of dinner and really enjoyed it, for all of this we are very thankful. We also thank the visitors who responded so liberally to help make this meeting a success.

At 1:30 the congregation was called back by singing. The devotional for the afternoon was conducted by Rev. Norris, reading from the 5th chapter of Matthew, beginning at the 11th verse and reading through the 16th. Next were talks made by Mrs. A. L. Bearden and Mrs. W. J. Billingsley on W. M. U. and Sunbeam work. Then came the open discussion which was responded to by most of our eight preachers that were there, talking mostly of the old pastors that have served Shiloh church, telling lots of good they had done and the hardships they had to encounter and sacrifices they and their wives had to make to carry the gospel to a lost world. We had some good singing by C. M. Billingsley and his quartet. Altogether this meeting was a real success and real teaching for which we, as a church, are very thankful.

We have been made to wonder if it would not be wise and also pleasing to God to make our home coming an annual affair.—L. C. Keen.

J. WESLEY BILLINGSLEY

J. Wesley Billingsley of Woodlawn, age 62, died at a Birmingham hospital on Friday, May 29. Funeral services were held Sunday from Johns Funeral Chapel with Bro. Bryan conducting the services. Interment was made in Wodlawn at Forest Hill Cemetery.

Surviving Mr. Billingsley are his wife, Mrs. Obie Smith Billingsley; five sons—Alpheus, Rufus, Mason, Vastine and Homer; two sisters—Mesdames Leila and Mae Martin of Thorsby; seven brothers—J. G. of Thorsby, W. J. and Claud Billingsley of Clanton, S. J. of Birmingham, Edward and Ira of Mobile, and Sam R. of St. Petersburg, Fla., and a host of grandchildren and other relatives.

Mr. Billingsley was the oldest of the ten ihildren of Mrs. J. R. Billingsley, who passed away last September. He was a former resident of Chilton county but for several years had resided in Birmingham where he was connected with Avondale Mills Company and Continental Gin Company.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Stanley spent the week end in Montgomery with Mr. Stanley's parents.

PREPARE NOW FOR HARVESTING

Timely suggestions for profitable spare time activities during June are contained in the Ford Farm Almanac and Facts Book under the hearding "Reminders".

According to the Almanac this is a good time to clean and disinfect the granary; get haying equipment in order; transplant flowers; spray roses; can rhubarb; and do everything posible in preparation for harvesting.

The Almanac also contains historical data for the month, listing an historic event for each day. Among the events listed are the world's first balloon ascension on June 5, 1783; the organization of the Y. M. C. A. on June 6, 1844; the landing of the Dutch on Manhattan Island on June 10, 1610; the Battle of Bunker Hill on June 17, 1775; and the signing of the treaty of Versailles on June 28, 1919. The Ford Motor Company was incorporated on June 16, 1903, the Almanac states.

Full moon this month occurs on the 4th, the last quarter on the 12th, new moon on the 18th and the first quarter on the 26th, according to the Almanac.

Miss Irene Jones of Bessemer spent the week end here with her mother, Mrs. Andy Jones.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Wade and little daughter, Margaret, of Prattville, Ala., were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Wade Sunday.

J. L. Burnett Makes Final Appeal Before Republican Run-Off

To the Voters of Chilton County:

As you know, only a few more days will pass until it will be time to nominate a man who will represent the Republican party as a candidate from the Third District. I am asking that you carefully consider me and my qualifications for this place.

As I told you before the last primary, I had served as Commissioner of that District for two terms and that during that time we paid $103,000 on the indebtedness of Chilton county and since that time only $15,000 has been paid. I make this statement again in order for you to make a comparison of the work that I helped do while I was Commissioner, with that which has been done the past few years.

While I was Commissioner before, it was my idea and thought that repealed the section of the road law which required citizens to either work the road or to pay a fee. In doing this, I felt that the other taxes which were forcibly placed on us by the State would take care of the roads and that it was my duty to lighten the taxes in any way that the court could help. I promise you that if I am elected again that should any opportunity present itself so that I could lighten the burden of taxation that it will be my pleasure to do so.

To those who voted for me before, I hope that you will not fail to go and cast your ballot for me again. Please do not think that some other person can fill your place, because it is one by one that the ballots are cast and one by one they are counted. Therefore every vote speaks for itself and I hipe that you wil exercise your voting privilege again and that you will again see fit to cast your ballot for me.

To those who saw fit to vote for some other person I am asking that you again reconsider me and that you give me your vote if you can.

I have not had the opportunity to see every person as I would like to do, therefore I am asking that you take this as a personal appeal for your vote and influence.

Before I close I would like to say that I have always been a Republican, as I believe in Republican principles, and whether or not I am nominated I will still be a Republican and will help elect the successful man that is nominated by the Republicans for the position I am asking. Respectfolly,—J. L. Burnett.

BOB JONES COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

The writer has just returned from a lecture tour of North and South Carolina. He is more convinced than ever that the mass of people in this nation are chafing under the heavy burden of ecclesiastical machinery. Most of the churches are empty and yet the people flock to hear a simple, straightforward, gospel message. The people are really hungry for God. There was a time when all you had to do was to ring a Methodist, Baptist, Presbyterian, or some other denominational church bell and the people would flock to the house of God. That day has passed. The trouble is we have majored in church machinery, church organization, church programs, and church buildings. We should have majored in the gospel. About all the Lord told His church to do was to take the gospel to the world and baptize believers. The gospel answers human need. Men know that they are sinners and they want a way out. There has never been a time in the history of the nation when there was such an opportunity as ministers of the gospel have today. The people want the gospel. They do not want a program. They want a message.

There has never before been such worldwide unrest. Nations have had their problems and revolutions but never before was the revolution so worldwide. No man can tell what will happen tomorrow. Anything is liable to happen. A great revival in America might save the world. The trouble with this nation is that we have not kept our spiritual development apace with our commercial and material development. Everybdoy is talking about good times and business. It is strange that in all of our distress we have refused to listen to Jesus Christ who said, "Seek ye first the kingdom of God and His righteousness and all these things shall be added unto you". It is strange that no nation seems inclined to try the philosophy of Jesus and solve its problems.

America will listen to faddists and to fanatics who have all sorts of wild theories, but will not listen to the one who "spake as never man spake". Jesus never said "I think" or "This is my opinion" or "I suppose". He said, "I say unto you". He spoke unequivocably. He offers this nation a solution for its problem. What America should do is to have a day of prayer and acknowledged the supremacy of Jesus Christ and do what He said do.

CUBS SPLIT GAMES

A game against the Billingsley team Saturday morning that was called at the first half of the fifth came out 9 to 0 for the Cubs.

Terrell won the second for the CCC boys 5 to 1. The camp collected 10 hits off Smith, while Terrell held the Cubs for a mere 4 bingles. "Happy" led the campers in hitting with a perfect day. He collected 3 singles and a double for his 4 times up. Clifford Jones led for the Cubs with 2 for 3.

LAY DAM OUTSLUGS CLANTON TEAM ON SUNDAY 17 TO 13

On last Sunday a proup of Clanton baseball players went to Lay Dam for a practice game, and lost to the Dammers in a slugfest, 17 to 13. The Clanton aggregation was managed by none other than Albert "Rookie" Pyron, well known Clanton baseball player of former days.

A total of 31 hits were registered during the afternoon, the Dammers getting 17 of them, and Clanton 14. Several of the Dammers' hits could have been converted into easy putouts by a little better fielding. However, considering that the local boys were playing their first game together, and had not had any practice, they did well. L. D. Easterling, 17-year-old portsider, pitched an exceptionally good game, considering the class of team he was pitching to, and the brand of support he was given. He struck out seven, and allowed five bases on balls during the affair. Clanton's five errors ran up the score.

Tiffin led the Clanton batters with four hits out of six tries, two of which went for the circuit. To begin the game, Tiffin parked Foshee's first pitch in the juniper bushes in distant left field for a home run. Dock Baker led the Dammers with three out of six, two of which were triples, although Lakeman had a perfect day at bat with three singles in as many trips; Lakeman replaced Crit Jones in the fourth inning, after he was injured in sliding into second base in the third.

Foshee srutck out two, walked two, and hit one. The Dammers' 17 hits were good for 32 bases; Clanton's 14 were good for 25 bases.

REV. R. M. HONEYCUTT TO PREACH AT BILLY ADAMS HOME

Rev. R. M. Honeycutt, of Jemison, will preach at the home of W. S. Adams, Beat 16, the second Sunday in June, at 10 a.m. Everybody is invited to hear him.

LETTER FROM DR. BOB JONES

Cleveland, Tenn.
June 3, 1936.

Dear Friends:

I am a father and I know how a father feels about his children. Some people say that mothers love their children more than fathers. I do not believe a word of it. A normal father loves his children as much as any mother ever loved her child. The love, of course, may expres itself in a different way.

I just want to say to you fathers and mothers that you can send your boy or girl to the Bob Jones College at Cleveland, Tennessee, and go to sleep at night in peace knowing that he or she is safe physically, mentally, and spiritually, and knowing at the same time that you child has a good educational advantage a he can find in any other intitution in America.

If you wish literature, write Bob Jone College, Cleveland, Tennessee.

Sincerely yours,
BOB JONES.

HAD BIRTHDAY LAST WEEK

The Montevallo Times, edited and published by W. M. Wyatt, came out with a 12-page edition last week, in celebration of the close of the first year of the paper under the present management. To say that the Times has improved does not begin to give it proper credit.

The print is clear and distinct, and everything about it is spick and span. The general make-up is creditable, and the editorials are impressive and to the point. All of which very forcibly reflects the progressive spirit of the town from which it emanates as well as the people among whom it enjoys its existence. The Banner extends congratulations.

JOE BEN DOWNS AND FAMILY VISIT RELATIVES IN LAKELAND

Joe Ben Downs and family are leaving Clanton today (Thursday) for an extended visit among Mrs. Downs' relatives, who live in Lakeland, Fla. They expect to be away about ten days or two weeks. During his absence Mr. Downs has aranged to leave his electrical business in the hands of Dr. V. J. Ward, who is a well-known electrician of long standing.

Joe Ben says that he will appreciate any one desiring him to do electrical work during his absence to get in touch with Dr. Ward and he assures them the work will be carried out in a way entirely satisfactory to all concerned.

NEGRO FUNERAL HOME AT WEST END—CLANTON

There has recently been established according to reports, a negro funeral home at West End, Clanton. The establishment, reports say, is owned by a white man named Gold Stucker, of Montgomery, and the place is to be operated by a family of local negroes, probably some relatives of F. K. Dudley. The home is located at the rear of Mrs. Culver's store.

Miss Bess Thomas, who has been teaching in Birmingham, has returned to her home in Clanton. In a short while she will visit Dallas, Texas, and the Centennial. During the vacation season, she with her sister, Mrs. Spigener, also intends to visit relatives in Tennessee.

Mrs. M. R. Orr is visiting her daughter in Guin, Ala.

M. Lande Prop. the LEADER Always Leads In Values

THE COMING PRIMARY AS VIEWED BY MR. J. N. SCOTT

Mr. Editor:

I have been on the puny list for the past several weeks, and have not had anything to say about the candidates in the run-off primary next Tuesday, but here I come now, asking that the voters of Chilton county consider well as to who we should vote for in the commissioner's race in the Third District. It appears to me that we should give that place back to Mr. Atchison. He has had it only one term, and it has been our custom to let our officers serve two terms if they got along all right the first time. So I haven't heard any complaint, and it seems that he is the choice of the people in his district. So we from other parts of the county should vote for the man they want.

Mr. Burnett made us a good commissioner, but he had it two terms, and I think that is enough for any man in office. If we had carried this rule out in the past, we would have been better off today in our county.

As to the treasurer's office, I think that we should give that office to Mr. Chester Mims. He is considered a nice man and real worker for the Republican party. He seems to be sincere in his work, and has never offered for election before. We should pass around the pie to our young people some of the time, and give them some encouragement. Mr. Billingsley is a good man, but has held office two or three terms as a member of the school board; and I think that is enough. I think when men have held office two terms they should be willingling to get out and let some other good brother Republican have a chance. Let us not be selfish. Some people are greedy and seem to want all the pie themselves. That is not right. As I see it, we should pass it around to the people of our county; and if some of our old county officers want a State office, we then should work to that end and promote them higher. We should always treat our brother Republicans like we would have them treat us. Live the Golden Rule, and everything will work out all right.

I will close here by saying that I have always stood for justice to all; so go to the polls next Tuesday and give Mr. Atchison and Mr. Mims your support. I feel that they are the most deserving as their opponents have held office long enough in the county. I hope we will have unity this time instead of confusion; so I leave it up to you voters to do what you think best. But consider things well; peace and harmony in our ranks should come first. I close with kindest regard to all. Your friend, as ever—J. N. Scott.

"FAKE DETECTOR"

As a recent poll of sentiment on the relief problem brought out scarcely less than half of the nation's relief recipients feel with Senator Vandenberg that to get relief out of national politics and to get it back to the states and communities that know their own problems best, the federal government should abandon all forms of public charity to the state and towns. It is a common experience for persons who move among W. P. A. workers to find that even those who can cite no clear purpose for thinking that they are in a false position are troubled by the feeling that the system is somehow all wrong. To account for this, one can best quote what William J. Cameron of the Ford Company said of the farmer and his crop curtailment subsidies at Dearborn the other day:

"Even the farmer who takes a check resents the philosophy which gives it to him. There is a fake detector in every man's breast tells him that the W. P. A. is an institution which is doing a job that does not belong to the national government, doing it very badly, doing it at exorbitant cost which posterity must meet, and doing it with much incidental damage to the morale of the unemployed."—New York Herald-Tribune.

If only one-half of the world now wants to know how the other half lives all it has to do is look at the U. S. Treasury reports.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert

Invalidation by the United States Supreme Court of the Guffey Coal Act, which was found unconstitutional along the same lines of reasoning as were followed by the Nation's highest tribunal in the celebrated N. R. A. case, brings once more to the public mind that in the greater part of the so-called "reconstruction" legislation which has been enacted in Congress during the past three years, we have been going in the direction of collectivism. The centralization of authority in Washington for the control of business and industry, of wages, hours of labor and prices, whether we like it or not, is an undoubted move in the direction of Fascism, or national Socialism, as the Hitlerites call it.

For it is to be remembered that Fascism envisions an extreme of nationalism, the centering of all power in the state, and the state sooner or later is the dictator who assumes the highest power in the nation. In America we have always enjoyed a representative democracy and in our land we have written the greatest story of progress that has ever been achieved by any nation. It may be true that our rise to prosperity and affluence has been due in part to the almost boundless supply of our national resources and the sparse population with which we set out on our career as a nation. Yet the fact remains that while we have gone out in front, so far as economic condition is concerned, we have preserved a freedom of individual initiative that has been the ideal and envy of liberty-loving people everywhere.

Most of us hope that this plentitude of individual opportunity will remain, but a great many are now in doubt. It is not necessary to charge any man with Fascist personal ambitions. In spite of any idea of such ambition the fact remains that the tide in America has been running strongly toward national collectivism and bureaucracy, and this is a situation which spells the end of individual enterprises and the possibility of Fascism, should the right man seize a propitious opportunity.

To sense the tend of modern legislative developments in the United States, we have only to quote the following paragraph from the majority opinion of the Supreme Court in the Guffey case:

"Every journey to a forbidden end begins with the first step, and the danger of such a step by the federal government in the direction of taking over the powers of the States is that the end of the journey may find the states so despoiled of their powers, or—what may amount to the same thing—so relieved of the responsibilies which possession of the powers necessarily enjoins, as to reduce them to little more than geographical subdivisions of the national domain. It is safe to say that if, when the Constitution was under consideration, it had been thought that any such danger lurked behind its plain words, it would never have been ratified."

When the Founding Fathers drew up our Constitution, one of the fears for the future which impelled them was the construction of an autocratic government in America. That is why the rights of states were preserved and the delicate system of checks and balances set up. So long as the rights of states and the balance of government are preserved, then America, in spite of everything else, will have a reasonable degree of individual liberty and local self-government. But once these rights are taken away and the balance destroyed, we will be well on the way to collectivism or Fascism, call it what you please, whether our legislators are mindful of the danger or not. Recent decisions indicate that our Supreme Court is the great bulwark of American individual liberty and enterprise, expressing as it does the will of our Constitution. If we desire to give up democracy in the hope that by embracing collectivism we can get the government to make a living for us, then we must do so by amending our Constitution in the ways provided by our fundamental law. But in grasping at the chimera of security through paternalism let us be careful that we do not lose the privileges of democratic freedom in the effort.

BALLOT DEBAUCHERY

(Huntsville Times)

The ballot debauchery that has taken place in and around Madison county courthouse the past two days—probably it is continuing today, too—is creating such a stench that it smells to high heaven.

It is common knowledge. It is not denied.

The odor is so strong, and the practice is so open and above board, that even the present circuit judge left his chambers yesterday to walk down to this office with a written protest.

The probate judge's office is so crowded with applicants for disability certificates to obtain exemption from payment of poll taxes, that it is difficult to carry on the regular business.

Able-bodied men—young and old—are getting these blank certificates, which they carry to shyster doctors, who, for a fee, are willing to purjure themselves, debase their profession, and join in a conspiracy with ignorant or vicious crooks, by certifying that the holder is physicially incapacitated, and therefore unable to pay a poll tax.

The vote sellers and buyers are virtually operating a curb market, not only outside, but even inside the courthouse.

There is open, active bidding for votes.

Prices for absentee ballots have skyrocketed. From $1 to $2, the sellers, have worked the price up to as high as $13 or $14.

The normal number of absentee ballots is about 300. It will be surprising, if this practice is not broken up, if the number cast in the June 9 primary does not reach 1,000 or more.

The ignorant and the vicious are reaping a harvest at the expense of the thousands of decent, law-abiding citizens in this country who prize their suffrage, and who are willing to pay poll taxes to exercise their right of electing public officials.

In the name of decency, cannot the sheriff be aroused to make wholesale arrests, and stop this wholesale debauchery of the ballot?

The jail ought to be filled with these political vermin, who are fast making elections in this country a mockery, so far as they represent an expression of the will of the free, untrammeled voters.

CAN'T UMPIRE AND PITCH TOO

There was plenty of punch in the speech delivered recently at Philadelphia by former President Hoover, and one of the best things he said was this:

"If we are to preserve democracy, we must make the Government the umpire of business If the New Dealers would go to a few baseball games they would learn that the umpire cannot play on the team and be an umpire. Bad business practices can be ruled off the field. But who is to umpire, if the umpire is to pitch?"

There is considerable food for thought in this paragraph. We have heard a great many platitudes from New Deal statesmen of late, how "private business" ought now to take up the slack of unemployment, and solve this problem by creating more jobs for labor. This has got to be done, we are informed, or else—!

Yet while private business is being called on to restore the country to normalcy and wipe out unemployment, something the Government has been unable to do with an expenditure of billions of dollars, the New Dealers themselves, through legislation nad regulation, seem to be doing everything they can to hamper business, by placing new hobbles on our economic system. They seem to be doing this on the theory that, although they say they are seeking to restore prosperity, they believe there is something unethical about a private business concern which seeks to go ahead and develop itself economically in line with old fashioned American traditions.

The Government has never been looked upon by men who possess American constitutional ideals, as an institution which is to hamper or hamstring private business by unfair legislation, unethical investigation or regimentation. They have regarded the Government as an umpire indeed, one who seeks to enforce fair rulings between competitor and producer and consumer.

But now it seems to be becoming popular in certain circles to have Uncle Sam, act not as an impartial umpire, but demand that private business play ball in an ethical way, and then side against it by pitching for the oposing team.

If the New Dealers really want American business to solve the unemployment problem then let them give American business a fair oportunity to expand.

Walsh, Colo., has a population of 454. The Federal government, it is said proposes to build the town a new municipal golf course and the W. P. A. is said to have approved a project to expend $10,566 to build the citizens a new city hall with council room, two rest rooms, offices and a community hall. We suggest that W. P. A. also build the town a municipal billiard and pool hall so that the taxpayers can get behind the eight ball where they belong.

"Higher wages for workers, more income for farmers,' Mr. Roosevelt promises. Yes, indeed! And "Four years more in clover under Grover," and "Four more years of the full dinner pail," not to mention "They're lighting the fires in the mills for Taft" or "He kept us out of war." Also "Two cars in every garage and a chicken in every pot," and "Balance the budget with beer!"—Chicago News.

MAN IN THE MOON

WHY YOU SHOULD VOTE

On next Tuesday you will have another chance to help name the Republican nominees for the general election this year. It is a duty and a privilege to vote. It is a duty you owe to your country in helping to pick the best officers, and a privilege to be able to help name those officers.

You may have some person in mind whom you would like to see have the office he may be asking for. Perhaps, by your vote and influence you will help him to secure that place, and thereby assist both the candidate and yourself. If you, through negligence, withhold your vote, you might never have the chance again to help that person whom you would like to see secure his office.

I know numbers of people who hold the privilege of naming their officers all too lightly. There are but few places in the world where people are allowed a voice in the picking of their officers, and nowhere in the world is the privilege as free and broad as in our own United States.

In some countries, where are dictators, a voice is allowed, but only where the voter wishes to endorse the dictator—to go against his wishes is considered almost treason. In other countries, where there are monarchies, officers follow each other by heredity, an office goes to the son or daughter of the last officer holding it, and so on down the line—the common class has no voice. In still other countries, the people are not considered intelligent enough to name officers, so the so-called "upper class" meet and name them. But in our own country every man and woman, from the most humble to the most famous, has the same voice in the picking of his officers. That is a privilege for which our fathers fought and died, and they knew the true value of it, for they had known what it meant to be without this voice.

So, if you are a qualified voter, let nothing keep you from the polls on next Tuesday. Go out and exercise that royal franchise of yours. Vote! By all means, vote for somebody! Make up your mind as to your choice, and cast a ballot for them. If you are not qualified, you can attend to that later. But if you are qualified, don't let next Tuesday go by without voting.

HALLELUJAH!

Hallelujah! The Chilton County News has come to life again! We had almost decided it was dead and hadn't found it out yet, but last week it came forth with another of those blazing, glaring, enlightening editorials for which it is noted—not so much for the above qualities, but for the long intervals between them. In this "editorial", headed: "What Do They Mean by Such Statements?" The News apparently undertook to "haul The Union-Banner over the coals", but down in the neck-'o-the-woods where we came from they haul each other over the coals. This is a rare and juicy opportunity. We thought for a while The News would never crawl out on a limb again, but it has, big as life. So here goes!

The News says it is sometimes difficult to say just what we are trying to do in writing our editorials, but that recent statements would lead one to believe that we are trying to mislead the people of this county in a very crude manner.

Glory be! The News, of all papers, dares to mention misleading people, when it has been behind more asinine suggestions, dodged more issues, and spread more pure hot air than any other sheet it has been our experience to scan. The News, apparently, can't stand back of its own statements, for it has backed down and out in every skirmish in which it has found itself. If The News would state facts, it would not be forced to give ground like that. But then, perhaps, if The News should attempt to use facts, its editorials might even be more scarce than they are—maybe it wouldn't have anything to write about and defend.

The News goes further and lays a cloud of doubt on some figures quoted. If The News doubts these figures, let its editor scan the official reports given out from headquarters at Washington, and then lets see if he will publish his true findings. Because The News "doubts" our figures is no reason they are not true. We have not heard of anyone denying them from the bureaus in Washington, from whence they came.

The News says the New Deal "has meant so much to our country and to The Union-Banner". Let me tell the world at large, right now, that the New Deal has never meant any more to The Union-Banner than something ridiculous from tail to snout. And as for the county, it has done the same for Chilton County that it has done for all other counties—made beggars out of self-respecting people, slaves out of free men, and dependents out of self-supporting people.

The New Deal has meant the same to The Union-Banner that it has to The Chilton County News and every other business establishment—a pain in the neck, with its codes, etc.—the noly difference is that we admit it and The News can't afford to, because their patron saint, the autocratic, domineering, communistic Franklin D. Roosevelt, of whom The News has at all times been quick to editorially kiss the toe, "planned it that way". If The News can see so much that the New Deal has done for The Union-Banner, suppost we ask the editor of The News to set out a few instances in which it has benefitted his paper, or any other business anywhere, any time. Tell us, Mr. Editor.

The News says The Union-Banner would have its readers "believe" its figures are facts. We'll venture one guess—The News editor does not doubt for a minute that they are facts. If they are not, then we humbly ask The News editor to disprove them. Please, Mr. editor.

The News says The Union-Banner would have its readers believe the administration is playing the very dickens in general, when it is really placing thousands back on their feet again. We agree there. We have an idea, also, that we are not the only bunch who believe the administration is playing the dickens—we believe there are a number of Democrats right here in Chilton County who will give the nod to that. And as for putting people back on their feet, just like they were when they began life, without anything.

The News said we were trying to "push surh information down the people of Chilton County." We don't have to push it down them—they know it already, learned from bitter experience.

And as for the depths we have fallen to, spoken of by The News, we have at least formed our own opinions and advanced our own ideas, while the News have cow-tailed every wild scheme the pin-heads at Washington have advanced, never questioning whether they were right or wrong, good or bad. And as for pushing something down somebody, we believe The News talked out of school in this connection, in view of the recent action taken by our Democratic representatives in connection with proposed local bills.

And by the way, during all the hullabaloo about those bills, just where did The News stand on them? Was The News in favor of those Cox and Thomas bills tha tthe people voted down 19 to 1? We don't recall havng ever heard one word it had to say for or against them. Did The News favor the bills, but did not have the grit to face the people and say so? Or was it against them, and didn't have the grit and grace to tell Messrs. Cox and Thomas how it felt? Or was it a fact that The News was only up to its old game of pussyfooting again—sitting astride the fence, without the courage to get off on either side?

Why not tell us how you stood on the question, Mr. Editor? Since you are so set on seeing that we do not "mislead" the people, suppose you make your position clear in this matter. And another thing, while you are out on this limb, suppose you stay put and fight this one out. Don't run in a hole and pull the hole in after you, as you have done on numerous occasions in the past. We like a scrap. Come on—lead!—Man in the Moon.

AMERICANISM AND VOTING

We hear all sorts of complaints nowadays about the unsatisfactory results of elections and the growth of subversive and other American movements which are at times encouraged by some of the results at the ballot box. But a great deal of the fault lies with many of the American complainers, declares Major A. S. Atwood in the current issue of the National Republic, because in too many instances these complainants fail to go to the ballot box themselves on election day. In part, Major Atwood says:

"Many mediums of publicity today are circulating all manner of propaganda concerning Communism, Fascism, Nazism and countless other nauseating 'isms' fomenting class hatreds, industrial upheavals and political and economic unrest. All of this insidious publicity through the printed word, the stage and the moving pictures has the one eventual goal of the overthrow of the United States government, or the circumvention of the Constitution, and the ultimate repudiation of the very document on which our country was founded and prospered to become the greatest nation on earth. In many groups that gather for social purposes, one hears the same revolting talk of sedition and unpatriotism. This seemingly fashionable line of conversation and thought is not confined either to the foreign born, nor the citizen born of parents of foreign extraction, but ne hears it from persons of long American lineage; students in our colleges and universities, and the very teachers and professors of our colleges who are entrusted with the education of the youth of America. Destruction of our Army and Navy through drastic limitation by pseudo peace advocates is not the least important of the aims of this element.

"The severest cause for alarm is that very few of the real lovers of America and its time- honored institutions give any thought to the basic cause of all this unpatriotic and subversive expression that is flooding our country; dismissing it with the single comment that times of economic distress always bring about unrest and dissension and are the very spawn of radicalism, and with the return to normalcy all of the rantings and unpatriotic activities quickly subside. There may be some truth in such a statement, for there is no doubt but that idleness begets trouble. But can we be sure of this? Cannot it be said that this is a smug and complacent manner of ducking the issue? Do many of our patriotic citizens ever give a thought as to the basic culpability in many of the existing conditions in our country? They take gleeful delight in destructive criticism, almost to the point of vituperation. They castigate the government for laxity in immigration laws, and the apparent apathy of officials of the Department of Labor regarding deportation of aliens residing in this country illegally. They charge these unwelcome residents from European countries with a large percentage of the total crime committed, with cluttering up our relief rolls, and say that many of them are here as the paid agents of the Third International. There is, without doubt, much basic truth in such statements, and if so, why do such conditions exist? One apparently disgusted and disturbed about economic and political conditions in the country might very naturally ask these 'patriotic' citizens who is at fault in placing in office these officials whom they so loudly denounce. The answer is, of course, the voter. Just who is the voter? Is he the same American-born 'patriot'? One will find on investigation that many, many citizens of this type never, or seldom ever, cast a vote. And then you have the unequivocal answer to many of the ills of the nation today. There can be no doubt that the extreme passiveness of the American voter is the fundamental cause of the alleged waning of the representative and democratic form of government that is embodied in and set up in the Constitution of the United States of America."

DICTATORS FEAR FREE PRESS

At the recent fiftieth annual convention of the members of the American Newspaper Publishers Association, especial stress was laid by various distinguished speakers on the need for maintaining inviolate the ancient American doctrine of freedom of the press.

Colonel Frank Knox, publisher of the Chicago News, said: "A free press and a dictator cannot live in the same country. If a free press exists, a dictator is unhorsed—and the people retain their liberties. If a free press is destroyed, a dictator thrives—and the liberties of the people disappear."

Sir Willmot Lewis, Washington correspondent of the London Times said: "The newspapers of today are not free in all lands, but where they stlil have liberty and defend it—against enemies without and within—where they stand for discussion and agreement, setting themselves unbreakably against the regimentation of customs and obedience by goose-step, even the cynic may find a place for hope."

Other speakers presented similar views. And it is difficult to see how any man with a knowledge of world history, ancient and modern, could disagree. The two greatest treasures any people can have are a free press and the right of free speech. They constitute the basis of all liberties. They are the very lifeblood of social, economic and political freedom. They are the friends of representative government and the enemies of dictatorship.

The newspapers of America have shown courage in aggressively resisting all efforts to curb their liberties. In doing this, they perform a duty to the people of the nation—and they show that they are worthy of the great responsibility that is theirs in these discordant times.

"Did you get the number of that car that knocked you down, Madame?" asked the bystander in Harper, rushing up to the unfortunate woman.

"No," she gasped, "but the hussy that was driving it wore a three-piece tweed suit lined with canton crepe and she had on a perky winkle hat trimmed with artificial cherries."—Wichita, Kans., Eagle.

ENDORSES W. J. BILLINGSLEY FOR COUNTY TREASURER

To the Editor of The Union-Banner and Voters of Chilton County:

I would like to have an opportunity in your paper this week to say a few words to the voters of the Republican party in behalf of W. J. Billingsley, candidate for County Treasurer.

I have known Mr. Billingsley for quite a number of years and have been closely connected with him in various ways. I served with him on the County School Board for a number of years and I always found him trying to do the best thing for the cause of education in this country and for the betterment of the boys and girls of Chilton County. I have also been connected with him in the associational work of Chilton County, as he was clerk of the Chilton Association for 14 years and in that capacity I found him to ever be true to the cause in the associational work and also in the Sunday school work. In many other instances I have been closely connected with him and I have always found him true and tried and ready to do the best thing for the cause which he was representing.

I would not hesitate to recommend him to the voters of the county at this particular time for treasurer, as I feel that this county is duty-bound to honor him with this office in recompense for the service which he has so faithfully rendered our county in the past. I feel from the very depth of my heart that it would be unpatriotic for the voters of this county not to confer this privilege and this honor on him at this time and I sincerely trust that the people will consider him very closely on June 9. Yours truly,—S. J. M. Webb.

Lesson for June 7

JESUS IN GETHSEMANE

LESSON TEXT—Luke 22:39-53.
GOLDEN TEXT—Not my will, but thine, be done.—Luke 22:42.
PRIMARY TOPIC — When Jesus Prayed in the Garden.
JUNIOR TOPIC — Jesus in Gethsemane.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—The Loyal Christ.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Doing the Father's Will.

Jesus went from the upper room, where the last supper was eaten, to the Garden of Gethsemane. Night had now fallen.

I. Jesus at the Mount of Olives (v. 39).

The garden was a favorite resort of Jesus and his disciples on the slope of the Mount of Olives, a short distance east of Jerusalem (Matt. 26:30). Gethsemane means "oil press," and the garden was a place where the oil was crushed out of olives. There is a striking significance in Jesus' coming to this place. Olive oil was precious, being used both for food and lighting. The bruising and crushing of Christ in this garden has yielded the largest blessings to the world—food for the souls of men, and light for their lives.

II. His Companions (vv. 39, 40).

Peter, James, and John, who had been with him on the Mount of Transfiguration, were permitted to go with him into the deep shadows of the garden (Matt. 26:37). He took those who were best able to apprehend the meaning of the tragic hour, and, too, as a human being he craved sympathy. Knowing the peculiar trial that would be theirs when the Shepherd should be smitten, his purpose was to prepare them for it. It was well that they taste the bitter cup of which he drank, and of which they, too, would later drink.

III. Jesus in Prayer (vv. 41-44).

1. Withdrawal from the disciples (v. 41). Even the members of the inner circle could not go with him through this hour. He went apart from them, for he must be alone with his Father in this darkest hour. Thus alone he kneeled and prayed.

2. What he said (v. 42). "If thou be willing, remove this cup from me." The cup did not primarily mean the physical sufferings of the cross, though they were exceeding great. He did not now desire to escape from the cross and thus to stop short of his redemptive work, for this was the supreme purpose of his coming into the world (Heb. 2:14). Rather it was the revulsion of his holy nature from the burden of sin which he was representatively to bear when the cross was placed upon him. He, indeed, was to be made sin for us who knew no sin (II Cor. 5:21). He was so completely identified with a sinning race that the judgment of a holy God which rightfully would have fallen upon it, was about to strike him.

The cup, therefore, meant his death as the bearer of sin. He came to Gethsemane with a full knowledge of what it meant, and here he bowed in submission to the Father's will. The agony of this hour drew from his brow as it were great drops of blood, but an angel came and strengthened him, and from that place of victory he went with unfaltering steps to the cross.

IV. The Sleeping Disciples (vv. 45, 46).

Though they had boasted of their fidelity (Matt. 26:35), they could not watch with him one hour. They were so benumbed by perplexities and sorrow that they slept, and could not watch with Jesus one little hour.

V. Jesus Betrayed (vv. 47, 48).

1. The betrayer (v. 47) was Judas, who had been at the last supper with Jesus; who had journyed up and down the land with the Lord and his disciples. The fact that he had listened to Jesus' teachings, had witnessed his miracles, had been with him in seasons of prayer (John 18:2), intensified the horror of his deed.

2. The sign of betrayal (v. 47) was a kiss, the age-long token of most tender affection and friendship. The betrayer now degraded that symbol of love by making it the instrument of disloyalty and treason.

3. The words that Jesus spoke (v. 48) to the infamous disciple reveal the infinite tenderness of his heart. But so hardened was the heart of the betrayer that he carried through his brutal contract to deliver the Redeemer of men for thirty pieces of silver. The money was in his purse; he must not weaken. The deed was done.

Shall not those who study this lesson inquire with deep earnestness if anything in their lives may be serving as a practical betrayal of Christ?

Good Deeds

"For every good deed of ours, the world will be better always. And perhaps no day does a man walk down a street cheerfully, and like a child of God, without some passengers being brightened by his face, and, unknowingly to himself, catching from its look a something of religion."

A Man's Acts

Man should be ever better than he seem; and shape his acts, and discipline his mind, to walk adorning earth, with hope in heaven.—Aubrey de Vere.

Paul Cox, of Daytona Beach, Fla., spent the week end here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Cox.

W. J. BILLINGSLEY APPEALS TO VOTERS OF CHILTON COUNTY

Editor Union-Banner:

I would like to get in on a small space this week for a few lines, as this will be the last issue of the paper before the June 9th primary.

Would it be too much for me to appeal to the voters of the Republican party to go to the polls on June 9th and vote for the best interest for the party and for the candidate you think wuold best fill the offices that are to be filled at this time? I particularly appreciate the outstanding loyalty and support the voters gave me on May 5th. It has strengthened my detremination to prove worthy of your vote and support in this next primary, June 9th, for county treasurer.

I have tried to conduct my campaign in a clea nand conservative way, trying to do the best and right thing for our party. I have tried to see all of the voters since the first primary. If I did not see you it was for the lack of time since the May primary. Through the untiring labors and efforts on the part of the voters of the Republican party to try to make the party better and to cary out the principles to which the party stands for, it has created a wholesome pride in my heart to go out and do more for the party. We have something at stake now, and that is our party. So it behooves every voter to stand loyal to party. I think one of the best moves has been made in organizing the young Republicans. They are the future hope of our country. I am interested in them. They can be of valuable help to the party.

Again may I appeal to the voters to be sure and go to the polls on June 9th and help to get the voters out to the polls. Yours for the success of the party.—W. J. Billingsley.

FREE MATINEE AT THE NEW WADESONIAN THEATRE

On next Friday, June 5th, at 3:00 p.m., the New Wadesonian Theatre will have a free matinee show, presenting "The Restless Urge," a full length feature, sponsored by the Polk Bros. Motor Co. This fre ematinee is for ladies only. Age limit 15 years.

"The Restless Urge" is sensational, emotional, entertaining, instructive, humorous, educational, and boasts a cast of 12 brilliant stars of the stage and screen, including Roy Roberts, the male lead, featured with Nancy Carroll in "The Night Angel," Kathryn Crawford, famous star of musical comedy "Flying High", in the leading role of Oelen Hunter; Philip Lord, stage and radio star, as Old Crombie, played opposite Ethel Barrymore and Jane Cowl; Edith Hauber, former leading woman for Ernest Treux, plays Margery Blane, the banker's daughter.

Immediately after the show a drawing will be held for valuable prizes given away by the Polk Bros. Motor Co., Inc. Holders of lucky tickets must be present.

Don't miss this free, instructive, entertaining sound-film by James A. Sterling, famed author of such legitimate productions as "Norging Ahead Together."

Tickets for this free matinee can be obtained at the Polk Bros. Motor Co., or at the ticket window of the New Wadesonian Theatre. Remember, no admision charge to ladies. Mr. George C. Polk says come early as they cannot guarantee seats for late arrivals.

"MAGNIFICANT OBSESSION" TO BE SHOWN HERE FRIDAY, 5th

One hundred and seventy-seven miles of motion picture film, enough to reach from New York to Saratoga —that is "Magnificent Obsession." Or, rather, it was until director John M. Stahl began to cut it down to the 8500 feet which will appear on the New Wadesonian screen starting next Friday, June 5th.

Meticulously working out every scene, taknig and retaking until he felt that he had the dramatic values he wanted, Stahl ran up 467,000 feet of negative at the end. The sound track film, made separately and joined to the pictorial scenes on the positive, required a similar length of celluloid. The total, almost a million feet, was a staggering length for John Stahl to edit. Most of the scenes were shot 15 times, and many reached 25 takes. Camera work and editing required 26 weeks.

For those with a penchant for figures, these facts will be significant. 'Magnificant Obsession" has a cast of 70, headed by Irene Dunne and Robert Taylor. Six experts of all sorts were employed during the production of the picture. Eleven different types of movie cameras were used by John Mescal and his six assistants.

A hospital and a church were built, the latter being made from blocks of wood that had been charred and chipped to resemble old stone. A section of Monmatre was constructed, with shops, sidewalk cafes, public parks, cobbled streets and dwellings A giant section of the Normandie, accurately rendered with blueprints. was one of the 41 sets which went to make "Magnificent Obsession" a convincingly mounted production done on a grand scale.

The feminine viewpoint was remembered in the fashions created for the ladies of the cast. Irene dunne wore 38 different original styles of gowns for the filming of "Magnificent Obsession." Betty Furness wore 18, while Sara Haden had 12 dresses.

PAUL C. MIMS WRITES LAST LETTER TO VOTERS

To the voters of Chilton County:

This being the last issue of The Union-Banner to be published before the primary election on June 9th, I want to take this means of getting a last word to the voters.

Due to causse over which I had no control, I have been unable to go into as many different communities since the other primary as I had planned. However, I want the voters to know that if I have by any means missed them in my rounds, it was for lack of time or a cause which I could not help.

In making up your mind as to your choice for Republican nominee for Treasurer, there are a few things that I would like to have you consider—(1) ability and fitness for the office; (2) loyalty to the Republican party; (3) worth to the Republican party, past and future.

(1) I would like you to consider my ability and fitness for the office. Since December 9th, 1932, I have been connected with the type of work that is done in caring for the Treasurer's office, and for three years was in the offices of Avondale Mills, and Wisconsin-Alabama Lumber Company, at Sylacauga. I would be glad for anyone to ask regarding the record I made while with these concerns. While with Avondale Mills I was a payroll clerk in the main office, making payrolls and checking payrolls. While with the Lumber Company, I had complete charge of the payroll sheets at the main plant, and by my figures the Company paid out thousands of dollars each month in wages. Both companies have their books closely audited yearly, and not one cent was marked against me at either place during my term of work at either place. I believe this should assure anyone of my capability as to the duties of the office.

(2) I cast my first ballot in 1924—a Republican vote—and ever since that day I have continued to cling to the Republican party. I believe in its principles, I am proud of its record, and have the utmost confidence in its future. I have never allowed personal whims to throw me off the straight Republican pathway, but have at all times voted my ticket straight. Not once have I "split or "scratched" my ticket.

(3) For the past several years I have worked for the Republican party relentlessly. During the most of these years I have carried a column in The Union-Banner. At first this column dealt with various subjects, but little by little it inevitably came to be known as a political column, as I aimed article after article at our political opponents. I hope this column has done good. Sometimes I found myself fighting shoulder to shoulder with other Republicans—sometimes I waged a lone fight; but always I have brought to my readers my own ideas of what I thought was best for the whole people, and for our party in particular. I have fought the "brain trust" ideas of the present administratoin from the beginning, because I believed they were basically wrong and un-American. I believe my arguments have carried some weight in the past, as most of the principles I have espoused have been borne out by actualities and facts. I shall continue that fight. As stated before, I believe implicity in the principles of the Republican party; I believe those principles are best for our whole people, and my every word shall be in defense of them. I have, I hope, several years of life ahead of me, and at all times, you may expect to find me with the great common people, helping to fight their battles.

I believe in a harmonious local party, yet one made up of all the people, where all progress together. I do not subscribe to the principles of a great group being directed by an autocratic few, with the party's principles being directed from behind closed doors or from closeted caucuses, but rather I believe in a full and free discussion of our party's problems by its whole membership.

If you want a Treasurer who is amply capable of carrying on the duties of the office, one who has always been a staunch Republican, and one who intends to remain so; if you wish to reward a man who has helped to fight your party's battles unceasingly, and intends to continue, rather than to sit quietly and "let the rest of the world go by", then I will appreciate your vote on next Tuesday. And by all means, come out and vote. Make your voice be heard.—Paul C. Mims.

PASTORS OF UNITY ASS'N MEET

The pastors of the Chilton-Unity Association will meet Monday, June 8, at the First Baptist church, Clanton, at 10:00 a.m. There are matters of importance to be discussed other than the regular program. It is desired that we have a full attendance of all the pastors.—J. W. Jones, Secretary.

Mr. and Mrs. P. D. Wilson and Miss Sophia Mullins have moved into the old Mullins home. They have leased the Hotel to Mr. Thomaston, of Cullman, Ala., who took charge Monday.

DICKINSON, FOE OF NEW DEAL, WINS AT POLLS IN IOWA

Des Moines, Ia., June 2.—U. S. Sen. L. J. Dickinson, bitter foe of New Deal farm policies and mentioned as a Republican presidential candidate, appeared to have won renomination today.

Dickinson based his campaign flatly on his opposition to the New Deal. He was the particular target of Democrats urging retention of New Deal Farm policies.

Incomplete returns from yesetrday's primaries gave Dickinson almost a two to one lead over his closest rival, former Sen. Smith W. Brookhardt.

Returns from 1,075 of the state's 2,442 precincts gave:

Dickinson, 48,736.
Brookhradt, 25,864.

Game and Fish News

Montgomery, Ala., May 3.—With 30 county conservation councils either completely or partially organized. Commissioner I. T. Quinn of the State Conervation Department, hopes to organize an Alabama Wildlife Federation early in July.

Thomas A. Ford, director of county conservation planning for the department, has been in the field organizing county councils for the past two months and expects soon to have councils established in more than half the counties of the state.

Montgomery, Ala., May 3.—Conservation Commissioner, I. T. Quinn today urged Alabama individuals and organizations to enroll in a national waterfowl refuge movement as a means of increasing the number of "duckports" in the State.

The movement is sponsored by More Game Birds in America—a foundation which makes annual awards in contests for the best refuge projects.

Commissioner Quinn declares that owners of ponds and marshes, or others who can secure the use of suitable refuge sites, should contact his department.

Miss Beverly Hester, a popular music teacher of Judson College arrived Monday to spend the summer months here with her mother, Mrs. J. A. Hester.

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by J. W. Fant, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County

FFA ANNUAL MEETING IS SET FOR JULY 16-18

Auburn, Ala.—Plans are being made for approximately 900 young farmers and vocational teachers to attend the sixth anual convention of the Alabama Association of future Farmers of America to be held here July 16-18.

During the three-day meeting the delegatse will receive special training in farm leadership which is to be the keynote of this year's convention, says A. C. Allen, Jr., Holtville, State FFA president, who will preside. In addition, they will visit the State Experiment Station here to study the latest developments in scientific agriculture and research.

R. J. Goode, commissioner of agriculture, and Dr. J. B. Hobdy, director of vocational educational, will be two of the principal speakers.

FARMER'S CASH INCOME HIGHEST IN SIX YEARS

Auburn, Ala.—Farmers' cash income to date this year is the largest since 1930 and further gains are in prospect, reports the Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

Total sales of products plus government benefit payments was $2,079,000,000 the first four months this year compared with $1,970,000,000 in the corresponding period of 1935.

"Farm income in the second half of 1936 will depend to some extent on the new crop yields," says the Bureau, "but it is probable that if industrial activities are maintained at the level now in prospect income will continue to exceed that of a year ago.

NINE HEALTHIEST 4-H CLUB GIRLS ARE NAMED

Auburn, Ala.—The nine healthiest 4-H club girls in Alabama are Mary Gardiner Peck, Somerville, Rte. 2, Morgan county; Doris Stewart, Tanner, Limestone county; Cleone Holland, Altoona, Rte. 2, Blount county; Phyllis Bridges, Notasulga, Macon county; Olga Spratlan, Union Springs, Bullock county; Jane Fletcher, West Point, Chambers county; Marion Stone, Prattville, Autauga county; and Verda Mae Lee, Lenox, Conecuh county.

These girls scored highest in a semi-final health contest held at the girls' short course here, May 26-29. They will enter a final health contest to be held in Montgomery on October 3. The winner in the final will be given a free trip to the National 4-H Congress in Chicago this fall.

PEANUT DIVERSION PROGRAM EXTENDED

Auburn, Ala.—The offer to make payments to peanut growers for the diversion of peanuts into oil at a rate of $21.00 a ton for Virginia type, $11.00 a ton for Spanish type, and $3.00 a ton for Runner type peanuts has been extended to June 20 this year, acording to information received by Dr. L. N. Duncan, director of the state extension service, from the Agricultural Adjustment Administration in Washington.

The peanut diversion program is designed to remove surplus peanuts from the normal channels of trade and divert them into the manufacture of peanut oil.

J. C. Atchison Asks For Your Support In Republican Primary

To the Voters of Chilton County:

Since there are only a few more days until you will select the man who will represent you as a candidate for Commissioner of the Third District, I am making this, my final appeal, to you for your vote and influence.

This is the first and only term I have served as Commissioner. This service has been a pleasure to me and I have realized that I was only a servant trying to do the bidding of what a majority would have me do. I might have made mistakes, as none of us are perfect, but I feel that the past four years experience will help to make a better Commissioner if I should be re-elected.

I notice that a comparison of the redemption of bonds has been made with the term which preceded mine. I wish to call your attention to the fact that the general and road taxes were reduced from an assessable valuation of $12,000,000 to $9,000,000 in 1935. This would mean that approximately $48,000 less would be collected from the people for county purposes, while times were so hard and money so difficult to raise. We collected less money because we felt that it would be better to let the people keep their money to help defray the necessities of life than it would be to take it away from them by taxation and apply it to the redemption of bonds which would not be due until 1947; however, since times have improved some, we saved $10,000 last year and have deposited it on interest. This will be applied to the debt of outstanding bond as soon as the owners will agree to sell them. If conditions remain as good as they are now, or get better it is my intention to vote to set aside a similar amount each year.

I again want to call your attention to the fact that I received more votes in the Third District than any other. It is the people in this District that I will represent if I am re-elected and I hope you will carefully consider the matter and help to give the people of my District the Commissioner of their choice, which was proven by the majority they gave me.

I noticed that my opponent told you in his last letter that he had a majority of the votes cast in two Beats in that District. I wish to state that there are thre Beats in our District—Beats 7, 8 and 15. I live in Beat 7 and he lives in Beat 8. He told you that his majority in Beat 8 and 15 were above mine. I wish to state that even though his votes do exceed mine by a few in these two Beats, but if you will add my home Beat with either of the other Beats, you will find that I still have a majority. I consider it fair that if you add his home Beat with any other that you should also add my home Beat with either of the other Beats.

I am begging you to exercise your voting privilege and to go vote on June 9th. I believe that America, Alabama and Chilton county are getting too deeply into a state of dictatorship. We can get out of this only by electing men who favor rule by the people. I recently made a hard fight to defeat the local bills which would take away the right of the people to elect the officers and whether or not I am re-elected I shall always be in favor of the majority ruling.

I hope you will see fit to give me the nomination, but if you do not, I am still a Republican and will help all I possibly can to elect the ticket in November. Yours very truly,—J. C. Atchison.

CLANTON METHODIST CHURCH

Sunday morning at the eleven o'clock hour Dr. D. P. Slaughter, presiding elder of the Selma District will occupy the pulpit. Dr. Middlebrooks will occupy the pulpit at the evening service at 7:30. The public is cordially invited to these services.

Church school wil assemble at 9:45. The staff of officers and teachers will meet at 9:30. Young peoples' evening meeting at 6:30.

Last Sunday night the congregation voted to change the hour and type of the evening service. A week from this Sunday the evening service will be changed from 7:30 to 5:00. Each Sunday afternoon there will be thirty minutes of music and meditation from 5:00 to 5:30. There will be no sermon or address. The congregation will spend the thirty minutes in quiet and meditation and prayer aided by worshipful music from the pipe organ played by Mrs. Barney Roberts and Mrs. Percy Pitts. This afternoon service will not conflict with any other service at the churches of the city and the members of other churches are invited to this period of rest, meditation, prayer (in silence) and worship for ONLY thirty minutes.

Friday night of this week the Board of Christian Education and the Workers' Council will hold a joint meeting at 7:30. Each member of the Board and each officer and teacher of the church school is urged to be present.

This week two young ladies from the Intermediate Department are attending camp at Spring Lake, sponsored by the Alabama Conference Board of Christian Education. These young ladies are Mary Roberts and Doris Deloach. The adult division of the local church gave a scholarship to this camp.

Find your way to church next Sunday.

DELEGATES SELECTED FOR WASHINGTON CAMP

Auburn, Ala.—Charles L. Hill, Etowah county, Wiliam Paulk, Montgomery county, Louise Florey, Monroe county, and Geraldine Resmonde, Baldwin county, have been selected as the four delegates to represent Alabama at the tenth anual 4-H club camp in Washington, D. C., June 18 to 24.

The four were selected on a basis of their achievements with club projects, their participation in community activities, and their leadership qualities. Each one has made a definite contribution to the community in which club membership is held and each one has accomplished something of state-wide importance, said Dr. L. N. Duncan, director of the State Extension Service.

The delegates will be accompanied to Washington by Elizabeth DeLoney and T. A. Sims, 4-H club leaders in the State.

LACKEY QUARTET IN CONCERT AT MULBERRY CHURCH JUNE 6th

There will be a fish fry at Walnut Creek Camp (formerly Crumpton's Camp) Friday night, June 5th. Tickets are now on sale at the camp and at The Union-Banner office.

ALL DAY SINGING AT MULBERRY SUNDAY, 7th

There will be an all day singing at Mulberry church next Sunday, June 7, begining at 10:00 o'clock.

The Lackey Quartet, of Birmingham, will be present, as will the Tyler Quartet of near Montgomery. Other quartets will attend also.

You are invited to come and spend the day with us.—O. L. Davenport.

COTTON LEAF WORMS BREAK ALL RECORDS

Auburn, Ala.—The cotton leaf worm this year broke all recent records for an early appearance in this country, reports the Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine, which states that "a half-grown worm was found in that vicinity on May 23 and in 1934 on May 24. "Even these dates were unusually early for this pest that overwinters in the tropics and flies north into the United States during the summer," says the Bureau.

Last year the damage caused by the leaf worm was much greater than usual because of its early appearance and widespread distribution over the cotton belt. It was most numerous and most destructive in Texas, Oklahoma, and Arkansas, but infested practically all of the cotton belt before the end of the season.

The worm is a serious pest when it appears in large numbers early in the season before the crop is made.

Veterans' Hospital Is Given Approval

$2,000,000 Institution Gets Comptroller's Sanction

Comptroller J. R. McCord has approved a $2,000,000 appropriation for a new veteran's hospital in Alabama, according to word received here today from United States Sen. Hugo L. Black.

In a telegram to William S. Pritchard, charman of the hosptalization committee of the Alabama Department, American Legion, Senator Black said the project had been sent to President Roosevelt for final approval. The President's signature is expected this week.

It is believed by Mr. Pritchard that the hospital will be located in Birmingham.

Senator Black stated that the hospitization board of the Veteran's Administration at Washington has recommended that the 160-bed award to the Tuscaloosa Veterans Hospital, increasing the number of beds at the institution from 340 to 500, be approved.

The board also is considering converting the Tuscaloosa instituton into a hospital exclusively for psychiatric cases, Senator Black stated.

CHILTON FARM BUREAU PRESIDENT IS ONE OF YOUNGEST TO HOLD JOB

Mr. Marvin Durbin, president of the Chilton County Farm Bureau and former FFA member, is perhaps the youngest president of a farm bureau organization in the United States. He was elected president of the Chilton County Bureau early this year. He made a remrakable record in FFA work during his four years as a student in vocational agriculture, graduating in 1932. For two years he was president of the Isabella FFA Chapter and was state FFA reported for an equal length of time. In 1927, as a result of his vocational agricultural training, he was able to take over the active management of a farm while yet a high school student. In this, as in subsequent undertakings, he has succeeded. In 1934 he was appointed farm foreman for the Alabama Rural Rehabilitation Corporation. The following year he was named chief farm foreman for the Resettlement Administration, and three months later was appointed to the post of county supervistor for the Resettlement Administration.

Reorganization Of Public Road System

Difference In Expenditure of Money Under The Old System and The New System of Road Work

In order to overcome any undue criticism of the policy being attempted to pursue in connection with the operation of the public roads of Chilton county and coming under the office of the County Road Supervisor, the following statement should convey a reasonable understanding of the principles involved and the effort being made to hew to the line of fairness to all, and at the same time incur the most good to the roads, and this means all of the roads of Chilton County, through the most efficient management possible in the power of the personnel of the office of the Road Supervisor.

Under the old system of operations the total, daily, costs of actual field supervision and equipment operators, not including common labor, fuel and maintenance of machinery and equipment costs, was $158.00 for each day of operation, divided by Commission Districts as follows:

Disrtict No. 1—Six road overseers, $15.00; 1 road patrol operator, $3.25; 2 tractor operators, $6.50; 2 blademan operators, $6.50; 1 truck operator, $2.00; 2 chunk movers, $4.50; total per day, $37.75.

Districts No. 2—Four overseers, $10.00; 1 patrol operator, $3.25; 2 tractor operators, $6.50; 2 blade operators, $6.50; 1 truck operator, $2.00; 2 chunk movers, $4.50; total per day, $32.75.

District No. 3—Five overseers, $12.50; 1 partol operator, $3.25; 2 tractor operators, $6.50; 2 blade operators, $6.50; 1 truck operator, $2.00; 2 chunk movers, $4.50; total per day, $35.25.

District No. 4—Eleven overseers $27.50; 1 patrol operator, $3.25; 2 tractor operators, $6.50; 2 blade operators, $6.50; 2 truck operators, $4.00; 2 chunk movers, $4.50; total per day, $52.25.

Total for the county per day $158.00.

Under the new system of operation which become efective June 1st, 1936, the total, daily costs of actual field supervision and equipment operators, not including the cost of common labor, fuel and maintenance of machinery and equipment, will be $109.00 for each day of operation, divided as follows:

District No. 1—One supervisor, $2.50; 2 foremen, $4.00; 1 patrol operator, $3.25; 2 tractor operators, $6.50; 2 blade operators, $6.50; 1 truck operator, $2.00; 2 chunk movers, $3.00; total per day, $27.75.

District No. 2—One supervisor, $2.50; 1 foreman, $2.00; 1 patrol operator, $3.25; 2 tractor operators, $6.50; 2 blade operators, $6.50; 1 truck operator, $2.00; 2 chunk movers, $3.00; total per day. $25.75.

District No. 3—One supervisor. $2.50; 1 foreman, $2.00; 1 patrol operator, $3.25; 2 tractor operators, $6.50; 2 blade operators, $6.50; 1 truck driver, $2.00; 2 chunk movers, $3.00; total per day, $25.75.

Billingsley And Burnett Named As Republican County Nominees

Light Voting In Tuesday's Run-Off Primary Eliminates Mims and Atchison From Republican Races

In Tuesday's run-off primary election, unofficial returns showed W. J. Billingsley leading Paul C. Mims almost 2 to 1, the count being 779 to 400, in the Treasurer's race. In the Third District Commissioner race, J. L. Burnett was leading J. C. Atchison 123 votes, the count being 511 for Atchison, and 635 for Burnett.

The primary brought out the smallest vote in a Republican primary that has ever been recorded. The unofficial tabulation is as follows:

SINGING AT FRIENDSHIP

There will be singing Friday night, June 12th, at Friendship church, two miles north of Clanton. All singers are invited; came and bring your new books. You will be welcome and your help will be appreciated.—Jim Parrish.

Attending National Convention In Ohio

Messrs. C. C. Conway and J. Dewey Rockett caught the Pan American as it passed through Clanton Sunday morning, headed for Cleveland, Ohio, where they were to attend the Republican National Convention. Mr. Conway was the delegate from this congressional district, and Mr. Rockett was alternate. Both were selected for these places when they attended the State and District conventions in Birmingham a month ago. They expect to be away for about a week.

J. V. HIGGINS HERE MONDAY

A welcome visitor to Clanton Monday morning of this week was Mr. J. V. Higgins, of Alabama City. Besides being an optician, Mr. Higgins is now in the bee hive and honey business. He deals in supplies for beekeepers, buys beeswax, etc. Mr. Higgins placed an adv. in The Union-Banner telling people about his business. Some to it and read it. His many friends were glad to see Mr. Higgins.

THERE ARE 75,000 YOUNG REPUBLICANS IN NATION SAYS FEDERATION HEAD

News is released from Cleveland, Ohio, by Mr. J. Kenneth Bradley, head of the Young Republican Federation, that there have been enrolled in the ranks of the federation a total of 7,000 members. These are men and women between the ages of 21 and 36 years. There are said to be 8,000 members in California.

The official publication of the Federation, "The Trumpeter", started out with 35,000 circulation. There are now 75,000, and the list is rapidly growing. The young people are being recognized everywhere by the regular Republican organizations, there being several members of the Federation sent as delegates and alternates to the national convention in Cleveland.

Young women are being encouraged to join the ranks of the organization, on the same terms as men.

There is an organization in every State in the Union, and Mr. Bradley hopes to have a unit in every county by November. Thus, new blood will be stirring in the brains of the Republican elephant.

WORK STARTED ON RAILROAD GRADING JOB LAST MONDAY

Work was started by the L. & N. Railroad Company last Monday, to grade a portion of their road near the Clanton Depot. This is being done preperatory to having trains 1 and 4 stop at Clanton.

The Company plans to start just north of the trestle, and will spend approximately $3,800 on the job. Several carloads of materials are on the tracks already to finish the job.

A FUNNY CHICKEN

Mr. Clint Connell, of Route 5, sent in to The Union-Banner last week an odd looking little chicken. It had just hatched; and lived only a short time. The chicken had only one wing, and its feet were very odd-looking, resembling more a ground mole. The specimen is being kept at The Banner office preserved in alcohol.

"High Tax Crowd" Hit By Bomb Shell

Beeland Charges A. E. A. and P.-T. A. Used As Aids To Raise Taxes

Montgomery, Ala.—Something like a bomb shell dropped into the "high tax camp" last week by Jeff. P. Beelond, campaign manager of the Consumers Anti-Sales Tax Association of Alabama, when he cited the financial condition of the Butler County schools as a typical Alabama county.

The "high taxers" have been waging a vigorous campaign under the guise of the Alabama Educational Association and now have been joined by Alabama Association of Parents and Teachers.

The use of these two organizations by politicians to shove through new taxes in Alabama is nothing new to the taxpaying public, according to officials of the anti-sales tax organization.

Beeland disclosed that the schools of Butler County could have operated a full term of seven months for the elementary schools and nine months for the high schools and still have money left on hand.

"However, we had only six months and one week elementary school and eight months and one week high school," he said. "Now, what we would like to know is this same condition peculiar only in Butler County. Maybe the taxpayers will find the same condition in their own county."

Beeland pointed out that 24 per cent of the school money of Butler County was used for other purposes than teachers salaries and bus transportation. He listed the "other purposes" as executive expense, home demonstration agent's salary, child welfare department and libraries.

Butler County received a total of $105,253.00 receipts for schools, not including amounts received since the schools closed," Beeland said. "The total expenditures were $122,530.00 which included receipts plus amount left from 1934-35 term.

The total spent for teachers salaries and bus transportation was $98,-610.00. This leaves amount on hand at this time $10,821.90 and does not include any special funds set up for other purposes than teachers salaries. The anticipated receipts prior to beginning of 1936-37 term in $12,000.00 in addition to cash on hand.

Even with the 24 per cent spent for other purposes there is today available funds on hand to run the schools of Butler County full terms," he added.

"If this is true of Butler County, is it unreasonable to believe that is is not true in most counties in the state?" he added.

KIWANIS CLUB BRINGS MANY THINGS TO CITY

The Kiwanis Club of Clanton is fast realizing many of its main objecives in the way of bringing improvements and better conditions to Clanton and Chilton County, according to a report that is being prepared now for publication.

Many of the things that are taking place now are directly or indirectly due to preliminary work and efforts, and to continual untiring efforts of the Club, which, during its many years of existence has meant much to Clanton. This report of accomplishments of the club will be published in next week's Banner.

FREE DISHES AT BIG FOUR

The Big Four Hardware Company is this week making a specialty on China Dishes; and in order to attract people's attention, they are offering some pieces free. It is all going at Bargain prices.

Turn to the adv. of Big Four elsewhere in this paper, and read what they say about these dishes, and see how you can get in on their free offer.

VETERANS

The majority of your bonds will be delivered to you Tuesday, June 16th, and the Clanton Post Office will remain open Tuesday and Wednesday afternoon for the purpose of certifying the bonds you wish cashed.

Caution: Do not sign or do anything to your bonds except in the presence of the certifying officer, or at the Post Office.—H. F. Downs, Postmaster.

NEW CITY WELL BEING DUG

Work started early this week on the new city well, according to Mayor C. Fenn Jones. The work is in charge of B. M. Connell, Chilton county's veteran well-digger. The contract price agreed on was $2.00 per foot for the first 20 feet, $2.50 per foot for the next 10 feet, and $3.00 for the remainder. When this well is finished it is expected to furnish plenty of water for the city's needs.

PROFESSOR L. T. GRANT TO TEACH SINGING SCHOOL AT LIBERTY OR BAKER

Prof. Luther T. Grant, of Cooper, will teach a singing school, beginning Monday, July 6th, and continue for three weeks or more. It will be taught either at Liberty Hill church or at Baker schoolhouse, that to be determined later.

Already Prof. Grant has taught two schools at Liberty Hill, and the people of the community have urged him to teach them another. He is one among the foremost teachers of sacred music in Chilton county, having been in the business for the past thirty years. If you are interested, Prof. Grant will like to have you get in touch with him.

Mrs. Birdie Johnson will play for the school, also will give piano lessons both in the school and outside. Arrangements as to hours for lessons will be made. Also prof. Grant announces that conveyance to and from the school will be provided for those who have no way to get there. If interested, get in touch either with Prof. Grant, Wilbur Ward or Zack Lowery.

Jury Charges Fraud In Absentee Voting

Ballots Ordered Thrown Out And Disability Papers Declared Void

Huntsville. — Charging fraudulent ballots had been cast in the absentee box in Madison county, a special Grand Jury Saturday ordered all absentee ballots thrown out for Tuesday's Democratic primary.

The Grand Jury addressed the order to Circuit Judge Speake, W. E. Rodgers, chairman of the Madison county Democratic Executive Committee, and W. L. Humphrey, secretary to the committee.

At the same time, a second order was sent to Probate Judge Butler ordering him to "declare void" all disability certificates signed by Dr. T. L. Masetin and Dr. C. H. Russell, Huntsville physicians.

The two physicians were placed under $300 bond each Saturdiy night as material witnesses in the investigation.

Rodgers and Humphreys, both called as witnesses before the jury, said they had agreed to obey the order on absentee votes. Applications for absentee ballots stood at 1,009 when the Grand Jury met. At the same time, 587 disability certificates had been presented the probate judge.

The jury adjourned until Thursday after issuing the two orders.

Under terms of the order on absentee ballots, the probate judge was instructed to provide election officials with the names of those making applications, and officials were instructed such persons would not be qualified electors for Tuesday's primary.

Atty. Gen. Carmichael was asked Saturday night to rule on the legality of the order.

The attorney general was informed of the Grand Jury order by telephone. Martin Marsh, employee of the probate office, will take the order to Montgomery Monday, with a request for an immediate ruling.

Carmichael also will be asked to decide the legality of an order requiring the probate judge to throw out disability certificates signed by two Huntsville physicians.

Charges of open "buying and selling of votes within the shadow of the courthouse" led to the special call of Judge Speake.

Solicitor McEachin said the jury would resume its investigation Thursday. He explained court sessions the first three days of next week led to the recess.

ADJUSTED SERVICE BONDS TO ALL VETERANS AND OTHERS CONCERNED

It will be my privilege on June 13, from 7 to 7:15 p.m. Eastern Standard time, over a nation-wide radio broadcast (Blue Network, National Broadcasting Company), to bring to the men and women who participated in the World War a special message explaining the final preperations for the delivery and payment of the Adjusted Service Bonds.—James A. Farley, Posmtaster General.

PLOWED UP RARE COIN

Mr. Carson Williams, on the Manning place, near Isabella, plowed up a curious coin in his corn field last Saturday, May 29th. It is a Spanish coin about the size of a dime, and was made in 1807.

THE REPUBLICAN KEYNOTER MADE A SPIRITED ADDRESS

The opening gun of the Republican campaign was fired Tuesday night, when the keynote speech of the national convention was sounded by Senator Steiwer of Oregon. If there ever was a masterpiece of American oratory, that keynote speech delivered by Senator Steiwer was a masterpiece.

Although numerous and well-directed attacks were leveled at the New Deal and the Democratic administration, Senator Steiwer did not resort to any degree of underhand tactics and did not use any too caustic criticism. His speech was strictly in defense of American principles and American institutions, and wherever the New Deal or any other deal happened to conflict with such principles, the chips really flew. And from all indications, that huge audience of fourteen thousand delegates and citizens sitting at the Cleveland convention drank it in like so much ginger ale.

A masterful appeal was made to the youth and younger citizens of the country throughout the speech, in the way of opportunities offered by the two parties. He referred to Mr. Roosevelt's speech of some months ago when he said in substance that the opportunities of the youth of the country are not great enough now and never have been great enough. In this regard, Mr. Steiwer asked this question: Which offers our young men the greatest opportunities, to be given a fair and unhampered chance in the race of life as they have in past Republican administrations, or to be forced to enlist in federal camps by Roosevelt and paid $30 a month for such service?

Then the keynoter brought his speech to a close by sounding the greatest principle to which people have ever clung and the principle without which no nation has ever been able to subsist long: that principle is a sublime trust in Almighty God and submission to His divine leadership and guidance both in times of necessity and of plenty. On this principle, he said, America still rests, and it will come out of the adversities into which we have drifted, because it is in Him that America places her abiding trust.

YOUNG REPPUBLICANS OF COUNTY ARE ASKED ADVERTISE SPEAKING

Beat Unit Officials Urged To Bring Large Delegation to Hear C. O. Vardaman Speak at Courthouse

The Young Republicans of Chilton County are expected to turn out in masse to hear Hon. C. O. Vardaman speak at the courthouse Saturday afternoon, June 27th, at 2:00 o'clock. Of course, the whole family is expected, as for that matter—father, mther, grandpa, grandma and all the children. So, we want to impress upon every member of the unit in Chilton County that you are a committee of one to advertise this speaking in your community, and see that everybody has a way to get to Clanton. Let the Beat chairmen and secretaries take up this matter, and see that it is attended to.

Mr. Vardaman is one of the best speakers in Alabama, and he really has the interest of the Republican party at heart. He knows the New Deal from A to Z, and it afords him the greatest of pleasure to expound to the people the unsavory tactics of the Democrats from Washington on down the line.

Judge J. Osmond Middleton will also be present, and will have some words to say, as well as other notable Republicans. Loud spakers will be provided so that the crowds outside may hear the same as those in the court room. Make your arrangements to come, young Republicans, and let no one else in your community be deprived of attending; tell evevrybody about it, and help them arrange a way to get to Clanton.

Baptist Revival Begins June 14

Dr. L. L. Gwaltney Will Preach And Fred Bond Will Lead Singing

Beginning Sunday, June 14th, and continuing through June 24th, the Clanton Baptist Church will hold a series of revival services. Dr. L. L. Gwaltney, editor of the Alabama Baptist and President of the Alabama Baptist State Convention will be the preacher. Dr. Gwaltney is one of the outstanding leaders among Southern Baptists and a preacher of great power. Mr. Fred Bond will be the song leader. He needs no introduction to Clanton—having been our singer in meetings before. The services will be held each day at 10:30 and 7:30. The public is cordially invited to share in the blessings that these men will bring. Come, and invite your friends to come with you. We want you to come.—S. J. Ezell, Pastor.

THE SINGING SCHOOL AT SYLACAUGA GOING OVER BIG

Prof W. M. Devaughn was in Clanton last Saturday, and made a report to The Union-Banner of the singing school at Sylacauga being taught by himself and Prof. Eugene H. Whitt. The school began Monday morning, June 1, and the enrollment now is 100 in theory and harmony classes, and Mr. Whitt has about 20 taking voice. There are two sessions daily.

A night session was begun on Monday of this week, taught by Mr. Floy Devaughn. The whole school is proving very favorable, reports Prof. Devaughn.

SCHOOL CLOSED AT PRATTVILLE

Prof. L. T. Grant and Prof. Ralph D. Grant closed a very succesful singing school at the courthouse in Prattville last Friday night. Prof. Grant reports that the enrollment was large, and that the interest was fine as one could wish for. The school was a success from every standpoint.

SPEAKING AT COURTHOUSE IN INTEREST OF TOWNSEND PLAN

On Friday, June 26th, at 1:30 p.m. Hon. M. E. Snelgrove, of Montgomery, will speak at the courthouse in Clanton, on the subject of the Townsend Old-Age plan. The public is invited to hear Mr. Snelgrove.

AGITATION TO PAVE SOUTH END OF SIXTH STREET HERE

There is some talk of an improvement in Clanton, which, should it materialize, would be a worth-while undertaking for the community. It is the matter of paving that part of Sixth Street from the new post office south to the junction with the highway across Poley Bridge Creek. This undertaking was discussed at length while the rest of the city streets were being paved, also while the highway was being put through the city.

That really ought to be done, if for no other reason but that it would make a two way passage through the city for the B. & M. highway. This alone would be worth lots, to say nothing of the enhancement of the property along the route.

Right at this time there is being released into Alabama a considerable sum of money from the Federal gov- Etc. It might be possible for some of this federal money to be procured for this job. If so, that would be fine. Any way, such a bit of improvement would be fine for the city if any arrangement can be made to get it done, without too much cost to the property owners along the route.

One Killed; Two Injured In Wreck

Fatal to Winston Robinson, But Carlis Wyatt and Vernon Robinson Recovering

A very bad automobile wreck happened near Clanton last Wednesday afternoon, June 3rd, when a new Ford V-8 car collided with a heavily loaded lumber truck. The accident occurred nearly in front of the home of Mr. Hugh Honeycutt in Friendship community at about 5 o'clock in the afternoon. The car, headed east, was driven by Vernon Robinson, oldest son of Rev. Wm. E. Robinson. The car belonged to Rev. Robinson. The accident proved fatal to Winston Robinson, younger son of Rev. Robinson. The driver of the car was painfully but not seriously injured; so was Carlis Wyatt, young son of T. G. Wyatt, also of Friendship community. The driver of the lumber truck, Vernon Scott, was not injured; both the car and the truck were almost completely demolished.

Reports say that Winston Robinson was riding on the left front fender of the car, and Carlis Wyatt was riding on the right fender. The left side of the car went directly into the truck and the ends of the heavy lumber. The Robinson boy was killed instantly, while Carlis Wyatt was thrown clear of the wreckage and landed about thirty feet away, against a ditch bank. He was rendered unconscious for several hours from a severely bursted nose. Two other boys were riding in the back seat of the car, but were only slightly injured.

Vernon Robinson and Carlis Wyatt were rushed to Central Alabama Hospital, where both were treated, and were released a few days later.

HOME COMING IN COOSA COUNTY

There will be a home-coming service held at old Olive Branch, 4 miles northeast of Richville, in Coosa county, the Third Sunday in June, the 21st. All former residents of the county are especially invited to attend. All others will be welcome. Come, bring your dinner, and spend the day with old acquaintances.

TWO WEDDINGS AT HILL STORE

The Hill Grocery Store at Clanton is becoming conspicious for something else besides good things to eat. It is becoming famous as a marriage altar, besides being a grocery store.

This past Monday morning, there were two marriages performed by Rev. Wm. E. Robinson, who clerks at this store. The contracting parties were Mr. A. J. Mitchell, Jr., and Miss Thelma Burgess, both of Birmingham; and Mr. Oscar Smith and Miss Pet Edwards, both of this county.

GRANT TO TEACH SINGING SCHOOL AT PATES CHAPEL

Prof. L. T. Grant will teach a singing school at Pates Chapel church beginning Monday, August 3rd, and continuing for three weeks. Already about 60 pupils have signed up for attendance, and many more are expected.

The playing for the school will be done by Mrs. Birdie Johnson, who will also give piano lessons to any who may desire such training.

Prof. Grant had a very successful school last year at this same place, taught at night. This year it will be in the daytime, and indications are that it will be a fine school. Anyone interested should get in touch with Prof. Grant at an early date.

L. & N. Officials Help Organize Club

A continuing campaign to render a more courteous, helpful and friendly service to the public by employees of the Louisviille & Nashville Railroad was officially begun when James B. Hill, president of the road addressed his public relations committee, composed of 12 officers of the company, at Louisville, Kentucky, Wednesday.

At the completion of his address Mr. Hill pinned attractive gold and enamel emblems, reading "L. & N. Friendly Service" on T. E. Brooks and A. R. Smith, vice presidents of the road.

All employes of the system are being enrolled as members of the Friendly Service Club, organized to assist the railroad men and women to thoroughly acquaint themselves with the object of the courtesy campaign. Chapters of the club are being formed on each operating division.

In discussing purposes of the club, President Hill said:

"It is the main purposes of the Friendly Service Club to develop to its fullest, and to maintain courteous, friendly and helpful relations between employes and the public and at the same time to render a most efficient and satisfactory transportation service to the travelling and shipping public. To promote the movement, the divisional clubs will hold general meetings, provide personal contacts between committee mebers and in other ways endeavor to achieve a genuine attitude of helpfulness on the part of its more than 25,000 employes in their dealings with the public."

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by J. W. Fant, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County

FARMERS TOLD HOW TO CONTROL CATTLE FLIES

Auburn, Ala.—Now is the time to declare war on flies, says W. H. Eaton, of the dairy department of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, in advising that "barn lots, stables, box stalls, and premises in general be kept clean in order to eliminate all posible fly breeding places."

"The Alabama State Board of Health suggests the following fly poison: ½ pound sodium arsenate, 2 pounds brown sugar, 1 pint of vinegar, and 1 pint of molasses with enough water to bring the volume up to 5 gallons. Shallow pans of this poison should be placed high enough to be out of reach of children, small animals and poultry. "

The dairy department of Auburn suggests the following remedy to protect cattle from flies:

One pound laundry soap dissolved in 3 gallons of water, mixed with one pound powdered moth balls which have been previously dissolved in 1 gallon of water, and finally adding 1 gallon of crude oil. This is not a fly killer but an excellent repellent. The mixture should be shaken before use and should be slightly applied with a brush.

FARMERS URGED PLANT SORGHUM AND COWPEAS

Auburn.—Planted on good land a combination of 25 pounds (or more) of sorghum and 60 to 90 pounds of cowpeas per acre will still give excellent yields of hay, advises J. C. Lowery, extension agronomist.

"Though difficult to handle, some good low land, which is not too wet, will produce a supply of hay when planted to this mixture," he says. "Since seed of this well known combination can usually be purchased from one's neighbors, it is very practical for those who cannot obtain soybean seed."

135,000 ALABAMA FARMERS APPLY FOR PRICE PAYMENTS

Auburn, Ala.—The State Soil Conservation committee have received over 135,000 applications for cotton price adjustment payments, reports Walter L. Randolph, administrative officer in charge of the State Soil Conservation program.

Checks are being issued on these applications as rapidly as possible and mailed to county agents for distribution to farmers. The county agents are notifying the farmers as soon as the checks arrive in the county offices.

Farmers can still make application for the cotton price adjustment payments but there may be a considerable delay in checks being issued unless the applications are filed immediately with county agents. The delay on late aplications will be due to state and county forces being busy on the new $470,000,000 soil conservation program.

BOYS AND GIRLS RAISE $7,366 FOR CRIPPLED

Auburn, Ala.—FFA and FHA chapters have raised a total of $7,366 to help equip convalscent homes for crippled children in Alabama. A check for this amount has been turned over to Dr. J. A. Keller, state superintendent of education, by A. C. Allen, Jr., Holtville, state FFA president, and Miss Annie Moon, Ashland, state FHA president.

The money raised must be spent to buy equipment from a list provided by surgeons at the three orthopedic centers in the state. The sum of $1,000 is to be spent in convalscent wards in Selma, there being no plan for a convalscent home there. The remaining $6,366.41 is to be divided equally bettween convalescent homes in Birmingham and Mobile.

BRIEF FARM NEWS

Several truck loads of purebred jersey cows have been shipped into Hole County during the past few months.

Sumter and Butler County farmers have recently organized a livestock producers association to encourage and promote better livestock in the counties. Jefferson county dairymen have organized a cow-testing association.

The Hale County soil conservation association has purchased approximately $13,000 worth of new equipment to terrace, ditch, and subsoil farm lands of the county.

Elmore County farmers are reported to be better pleased with the 1936 farm program than they have been with any of the other programs.

Lesson for June 14

JESUS CRUCIFIED

LESSON TEXT—Luke 23:33-46.

GOLDEN TEXT—But God commendeth his love toward us, in that, while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us.—Romans 5:8.

PRIMARY TOPIC—When Jesus Died for Us.

JUNIOR TOPIC—The Savior—Christ the Lord.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Jesus Died for Me.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Meaning of the Cross.

It is highly important that every teacher have the personal experience of Christ's death for himself and then get his pupils to see that Christ's death was instead of their own death. We escape judgment because judgment fell upon Christ. He was made to be sin for us that we might be made the righteousness of God in him (II Cor. 5:21). No one lacking this experience can truly teach this lesson.

I. The Place of Crucifixion (v. 33).

They led him away to Calvary, a hill north of Jerusalem resembling a skull. Calvary is the Latin word, and Golgotha is the Hebrew. This is a most significant name for the place where man's redemption was accomplished. The skull is an apt symbol of man's condition as a result of sin. Life and intelligence are gone, leaving only the dark empty cavern which once contained them.

II. His Companions on the Cross (v. 33).

Two malefactors were crucified with him. This is in fulfillment of the Scriptures: "He was numbered with the transgressors" (Isa. 53:12). Personally, he was sinless, but he became sin for us.

III. His Forgiving Love (v. 34).

He cried, "Father forgive them." He doubtless had in mind not only the soldiers who acted for the government but the Jews who in their blindness were ignorant of the enormity of their crime. He was absolutely destitute of hatred, even for his betrayer and murderers.

IV. The Revelation of the World (vv. 34-43).

Take a cross section of the world at any time since Christ was crucified, and representatives of the various classes therein were found around Jesus on the cross. The cross is the judgment of this world (John 12:31).

1. The covetous (v. 34). They gambled for his seamless robe where he was dying. This represents those whose primary interest in Christ is a means to get gain. If they had had eyes to see they could have beheld a robe of righteousness being provided in his death.

2. The indifferent (v. 35). "The people stood beholding." They gazed upon him with indifference. The great mass of the world today gazes upon the crucified Christ with stolid indifference.

3. The scoffers (vv. 35-39).

a. The rulers reviled him for his claim to be the Savior. They wanted a Savior but not a crucified one. Many today are religious but have only contempt for a salvation which centers in an atonement made by blood. They uttered a great truth when they said: "He saved others." But he could not save himself and others because God's plan was to save others by giving himself.

b. The soldiers reviled him for claiming to be a king. The title "King of the Jews" had been placed over him in irony. But it was pre-eminently true, for by right of the Davidic covenant, he shall one day be king over Israel (II Sam. 7:8-16). Through his death, he came into the place of Lordship over all who acknowledge him.

c. The impenitent malefactor (v. 39). This brutal man joined in reviling the Savior, even though he himself was under condemnation.

4. The penitent malefactor (vv. 40-43).

The conscious sinner who discerned the heart of the Savior prayed for mercy. The salvation of this penitent man is a remarkable picture of the saving power of Christ. The man confessed his sin as against God and cried to Jesus for salvation. He saw that the dying man was the forgiving God. His salvation was immediate. Christ said: "Today shalt thou be with me in paradise."

V. The Death of Christ (vv. 44-46).

So shocking was this crime that nature herself threw around the Son of God a shroud to hide him from the godless crowd. Darkness was upon the land at noonday. When the price of sin was paid he cried with a loud voice, showing that he still had vitality, that his death was not through exhaustion but by his sovereign will. He died like no other one in all history. He gave up the ghost, that is dismissed his spirit.

The Soul

I am fully convinced that the soul is indestructible, and that its activity will continue through eternity. It is like the sun, which, to our eyes, seems to set in night; but it has in reality only gone to diffuse its light elsewhere. —Goethe.

Active in Good Works

Beautiful is the activity that works for good, and the stillness that waits for good; blessed the self-sacrifice of the one, and the self-forgetfulness of the other.

The home of Mr. Will Martin, of Enterprise community, was destroyed by fire on Monday, June 1st.

"—I feel and look better
—there is color in my cheeks
—my appetite is keen
—my weight is back to normal.

"This I am noting in my Diary and I give full credit to S.S.S. for causing me to 'feel like myself again.'"

So we suggest—

Don't try to get well in a day...this is asking too much of Nature. Remember, she has certain natural processes that just cannot be hurried.

Therefore, if you are pale, tired, lack a keen appetite, have lost weight and feel rundown . . . a frequent sign that your blood-cells are weak, with a tendency towards anemia—then do try in the simple, easy way so many millions approve—by starting a course of S.S.S. Blood Tonic.

JEMISON FFA MET JUNE 5th

Members of the Jemison Chapter of the Future Farmers of America held a meeting on Friday evening, June 5, for the purpose of electing officers for the next year, appointing committees and discussing two trips to be made this summer.

Lemonade and cake were served and enjoyed immensely after which the business meeting was opened. C. W. Wells, Jr. acted as chairman in the absence of president, Orban Crim, who is away in school.

Officers were elected as follows: C. W. Wells, Jr., President; James Smith, vice-president, Erdis Atkinson, secretary; W. A. Crowson, Jr., treasurer; Leo Collum, second vice-president; Arnold White, reporter; H. H. Denson, adviser. A social committee was appointed, consisting of James Smith, Erdis Atkinson and Archie White. This committee will be in charge of planning a trip to the coast of Florida, of members and vocational agriculture students. All those who are interested in taking this trip are urged to get in touch with members of this committee.

A publicity committee was appointed consisting of Arnold White, chairman, Hobson Cost, and C. W. Wells, Jr. All officers plan to go to the state meeting at Auburn on July 16, 17, and 18. Two of these boys. C. W. Wells, Jr. and Leo Collum plan on taking their State Farmers Degree at this meeting.

BOB JONES

COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

Recently a young lady came to the writer and told a tragic story of how in a certain college which is supposed to be Christian she was fighting for her faith with the odds against her. The teacher of the Bible, so she reported, ridiculed the idea of the deity of Christ. "Practically all of the other members of the faculty go out of their way to ridicule the old-time religion,' she said. The college under discussion is supposed to be Christian. It was built with Christian money. It is not square to run a school and wreck the faith of young people without telling their parents what the school believes. Under our system of government, it is all right to have a Unitarian, Jewish, Catholic, or Protestant college. I suppose from a governmental standpoint it might be all right to have an Atheistic college, but it is crooked — downright crooked—to take young people from a Christian home when their parents believe they are sending their children to a Christian school and then in the classroom wreck the faith of these young people.

We read in the Bible that a farmer sowed some wheat in his field and while he slept the enemy sowed the tares. You will note that it was "while the farmer slept" that the tares were sown. While Christians have slept, the modernists have been sowing tares in many Christian institutions. The writer, who knows what is going on, urges with all his heart you fathers and mothers who read these lines to investigate the school and college to which you plan to send your children. You have no right to sacrafice the faith of your child even on the altar of a false church loyalty. I am the president of a college. Do not send your child to the Bob Jones College unless the institution can stand any sort of religious investigation. Before sending your son or daughter off to a college, find out what the college stands for. Is there a smoking room for girls? Does the administration wink at drinking? Does the school believe in evolution? Does the teacher of Bible believe in the virgin birth and atonement? Does the teacher of science or any other member of the faculty ridicule the first chapter of Genesis? Does the college, if it is a church institution, believe in the old-time religion? The writer has seen more young people with wrecked faith who attended supposedly religious schools than he has ever seen from any other type institutions. If you cannot find a good, orthodox, evangelistic, Christian college, send your child to a state institution. When your child goes to a state institution you can say, "In America we have separation of church and state and you will have to look out for your own religion." If your child goes to a church school and does not find real religion, the chances are he will come back home with his faith shattered.

County Road Supervisor Writes Regarding New Working Set-Up

Tom Arledge Explains Plans And Purposes of New Organization In County

Note From Mr. Arledge:

My statement, "Reorganization of the County Road Syetem" appearing in this paper this week and which was partly printed in The Union-Banner last week, was not intended to criticize or be construed as a comparative statement of operation costs as some have considered it to be; it is not intended for a comparative statement of any week, month or annual cost, but the figures were used as an example to show the differnce between costs for operations for any one day, using the full quota of overseers employed under the system of one or more overseers for each Beat, and the costs of operations where only six foremen and four supervisors were used for any one day of operations. It is not the intent nor purpose of the office to criticize, judge or condemn any act or acts, methods or policies formerly followed in connection with the construction, maintenance and repairs of the public roads and bridges of the County.—Thomas J. Arledge, Road Supervisor.

REORGANIZATION OF SYSTEM OF OPERATIONS ON THE PUBLIC ROADS OF CHILTON COUNTY

In order to overcome any undue criticism of the policy being attempted to pursue in connection with the operation of the public roads of Chilton county and coming under the office of the County Road Supervisor, the following statement should convey a reasonable understanding of the principles involved and the effort being made to hew to the line of fairness to all, and at the same time incur the most good to the roads, and this means all of the roads of Chilton county, through the most efficient management possible in the power of the personnel of the office of the Road Supervisor.

Under the old system of operations the total, daily, costs of actual field supervision and equipment operators, not including common labor, fuel and maintenance of machinery and equipment costs was $155.50 for each day of operation, divided by Commission Districts as follows:

Kind of Work	Each per day	Total
District No. 1:
5 Road Overseers	$2.50	$12.50
1 Road Patrol Opr.	3.25	3.25
1 Road Patrol Opr.	3.25	3.25
2 Tractor Opr.	3.25	6.50
2 Blademan Opr.	3.25	6.50
1 Truck Opr.	2.00	2.00
2 Chunk Movers	2.25	4.50
Total per day		35.25
District No. 2:
4 Overseers	$2.50	$10.00
1 Patrol Opr.	3.25	3.25
2 Tractor Opr.	3.25	6.50
2 Blade Opr.	3.25	6.50
1 Truck Opr.	2.00	2.00
2 Chunk mover	2.25	4.50
Total per day		$32.75
District No. 3:
5 Overseers	$2.50	$12.50
1 Patrol Opr.	3.25	3.25
2 Tractor Opr.	3.25	6.50
2 Blade Opr.	3.25	6.50
1 Truck Opr.	2.00	2.00
2 Chunk Movers	2.25	4.50
Total per day		$35.25
District No. 4:
11 Overseers	$2.50	$27.50
1 Patrol Opr.	3.25	3.25
2 Tractor Opr.	3.25	6.50
2 Blade Opr.	3.25	6.50
2 Truck Opr.	2.00	4.00
2 Chunk Movers	2.25	4.50
Total per day		$52.25
Total for the County per day		$155.50

Under the new system of operations which became effective June 1, 1936, the total, daily costs, of actual field supervision and equipment operators, not including the cost of common labor, fuel and maintenance of machinery and equipment will be $109.00 for each day of operations divided as follows:

District No. 1:
1 Supervisor	$2.50	$ 2.50
2 Foreman	2.00	4.00
1 Patrol Opr.	3.25	3.25
2 Tractor Opr.	3.25	6.50
2 Blade Opr.	3.25	6.50
1 Truck Opr.	2.00	2.00
2 Chunk Movers	2.25	4.50
Total per day		$25.75
District No. 2:
1 Supervisor	$2.50	$ 2.50
2 Foremen	2.00	4.00
1 Patrol Opr.	3.25	3.25
2 Tractor Opr.	3.25	6.50
2 Blade Opr.	3.25	6.50
1 Truck Opr.	2.00	2.00
2 Chunk Movers	1.50	3.00
Total per day		$27.75
District No. 3:
1 Supervisor	$2.50	$ 2.50
1 Foreman	2.00	2.00
1 Patrol Opr.	3.25	3.25
2 Tractor Opr.	3.25	6.50
2 Blade Opr.	3.25	6.50
1 Truck Driver	2.00	2.00
2 Chunk Movers	1.50	3.00
Total per day		$25.75
District No. 4:
1 Supervisor	$2.50	$ 2.50
2 Foremen	2.00	4.00
1 Patrol Opr.	3.25	3.25
2 Tractor Opr.	3.25	6.50
2 Blade Opr.	3.25	6.50
2 Truck Opr.	2.00	4.00
2 Chunk Movers	1.50	3.00
Total per day		$29.75
Total for the County per day		$109.00

It will be noted from the above that we have a net saving of $46.50 on each day of operation under the new set up on the supervision and equipment operators alone and under the following plan of direct supervision of machine and equipment operations we can expect further savings and more efficient work done for every dollar spent.

Organization

According to my interpretation of the State law providing the office of the Road Supervisor, the following is the duties and responsibilities of the personnel of the County Road Department:

1.—The Commissioners Court determine, set aside and appropriate the funds for operations; approves all requisition orders for and make all purchases of machinery, equipment, materials and supplies; approves all claims for payment of labor, materials and equipment; designates and approves all plans for new roads and make periodical inspection of all work being done.

2.—The Road Supervisor is directly responsible for all machinery, equipment, materials and supplies used in connection with the work on the public roads; he makes requisitions, in writing, for all machinery, equipment, supplies and materials; he hires and employs all foremen or supervising supervising members of his personnel, all machine and equipment operators, labor and equipment; he approves all claims for payment of labor and materials; he maintains cost records for all work done and other costs incident to his office to the Commissioners Court.

3.—The District Supervisor, one of which is in charge of the work in each Commission District, is responsible to the Road Supervisor for all machine and equipment operations and the direction of work done by the Road Foremen in his district. He has direct charge of all machine operators; he verifies the reports made by all employees in his district; keeps in contact with all work being done, prepares lists of materials and supplies needed and reports direct to the Road Supervisor.

4.—The Road Foremen are responsible to their District Supervisor, reporting and receiving their instructions from him; they have full authority to employ the necessary labor and to remove any such labor as may be found unsatisfactory; they have full charge of any truck or team assigned to their work. They will keep a daily record of all time made by employees under their dirction and properly report such time an all equipment, materials and supplies in their district on the report forms provided for such purpose, and they are strictly responsible for all tools, equipment, and suplies assigned to them.

5.—Machinery and equipment operators report to and receive their instructions from the District Supervisor; they keep a daily record of time made; all fuel, gasoline, oils, greases, repairs and repair parts are reported on their report forms provided by the Road Supervisor.

Policy

The employment of all labor will be done indiscriminately, giving every man an equal opportunity to share in the work on the roads, regardless of race, creed or color, and all employees of the Road Department are warned that the practice or any practice of discrimination against any person, party or group because of such political or social preferences will be summarily dealt with. The purpose of this office is to serve the people of Chilton County and this means all of the people.

Operation

This office intends to select those men who are most capable and qualified to fill the various positions, and those men now employed who have been loyal to Chilton County in their efforts to make better roads for the people need have no fear of losing their jobs, especially those who have been operating the machinery and equipment in a sincere manner and effort to get the most good out of such operations. I may make a lot of mistakes in the selection of these men, and I expect a lot of criticism which I hope to will constructive criticism which might enable me to better every condition. Constructive criticism is invited because it will tend to a better understanding and encourage a more helpful cooperation from everyone. And all suggestions and recommendations will be given the most careful consideration.

During the past thirty days an opportunity has been given the old system to prove its efficiency, and the writer has made a careful survey of the condition of the road equipment and its operation, also as to the manner and method of work being done under the overseers. It was found that there were insufficient trucks to enable the overseers to properly carry out their work. There were 26 overseers scattered over the county and only five trucks available to them for use in handling materials. Therefore, neither the trucks or overseers were able to function efficiently.

In order to overcome this condition it is found that a different set-up is necessary, and that is to provide a regular crew of men with a full time truck assigned to them. Therefore, as indicated in the tables above, there will be six Road Foremen for the whole county, each of whom will have a regular crew of from 6 to 10 men. These men will be employed from those who are physically able to work and so rotated as to give every man in the County an equal opportunity to share in the work.

The people need not expect too much, but they can expect and we propose to give attention to every matter brought to our attention in connection with the roads and bridges of the County and to correct every bad condition as rapidly as humanly possible. Any lack of attention or any act of discourtesy on the part of any employee of the County Road Department should immediately be called to the attention of this office.

Prepared by the Road Supervisor,
THOMAS J. ARLEDGE

MT. CARMEL NEWS

CLANTON METHODIST CHURCH

Members of other churches are invited to attend the organ music and meditation service Sunday afternoon from 5:00 to 5:30. The evening service has been changed from 7:30 to 5:00 each Sunday until further notice. There will be no speaking of any kind but only music, meditation and silent prayer. Come about four or five minutes before five o'clock in order to be in your place when the music begins. This thirty minutes of quiet, rest and devotion with impressive music aiding our worship should be a great benediction to everyone.

The pastor will preach at the 11:00 o'clock service. Church school begins at 9:45. The young people's Epworth League meeting will be at 6:30.

At the third quarterly conference last Sunday two new stewards and one new trustee were elected. The stewards are Evan Parrish and Reese Mullins, Jr. The trustee elected is M. L. White. Joe Mullins was also elected superintendent of the adult division in the church school. The pastor reported twenty-four members received during the year. The board of Christian Education last week elected Miss Lois Thompson a teacher in the children's division. It also announced the date of the vacation church school for July 27 to August 7.

The Sheriff's office reported nine arrests for the past week, two of which were made by State Patrolmen, Henley and Waites. The cases and their disposition so far, are as follows:

Two for reckless driving. Bonds for $300, and two for $400.

One for driving a motor vehicle while intoxicated, and abusive, indecent and obscene language. Bond for $300.

One for assault with intent to murder. In jail.

Five for violating the prohibition law. One is in jail, two made bonds for $300, and wo for $400.

PLEASANT HILL

The all day singing at Pleasant Hill was a success. Mr. P. M. Cleckler was elected chairman, after which a song and prayer by Rev. J. R. Cost. Directors for the day were Mr. Andrew Blow, Miss Lillian Mims, Dr. Williams, Mrs. A. O. Boswell, Mr. B. L. Cobb, Mrs. Jas. N. Collum, Mr. Akins Collins, Mr. A. M. Devaughn, and Miss Berney Dean Cobb. The Oak Grove Quartet sang three songs. The last song before noon was by the quartet.

In the afternoon the directors were Mr. Will Northcutt, Mrs. Carrie Shaw, Mr. A. H. Glasscock, Mr. Floyd Little, Dr. Williams, Mr. Sam Collins, Mr. Akins Collins and the quartet. The pianists for the day were Mrs. O. L. Martin, Mr. A. O. Boswell, Mrs. B. L. Cobb, Mrs. Giula Murry and Mrs. Northcutt.

The closing song was directed by Mrs. Jas. N. Collum and prayer by Rev. Baker.

We will have our Sunday school begin at 9 o'clock next Sunday and go to an all day singing at Bay Springs.

MINERAL SPRINGS

Health of this community is not so good at present. Mr. Martin Gore is on the sick list. We hope for him a speedy recovery.

A number from here went to the singing at Pleasant Hill Sunday and reported a nice time.

Sunday was our regular preaching day. Brother Robinson delivered a wonderful sermon to only a few members. We are having a real good Sunday school now and we urge the old as well as the young to come and help us out. Let's make our Sunday school one of the best.

Next Friday night, June 12th, Bro. Paul Oden will show some new pictures at this place. Everybody is invited to come. I am sure you will not regret coming.—Reporter.

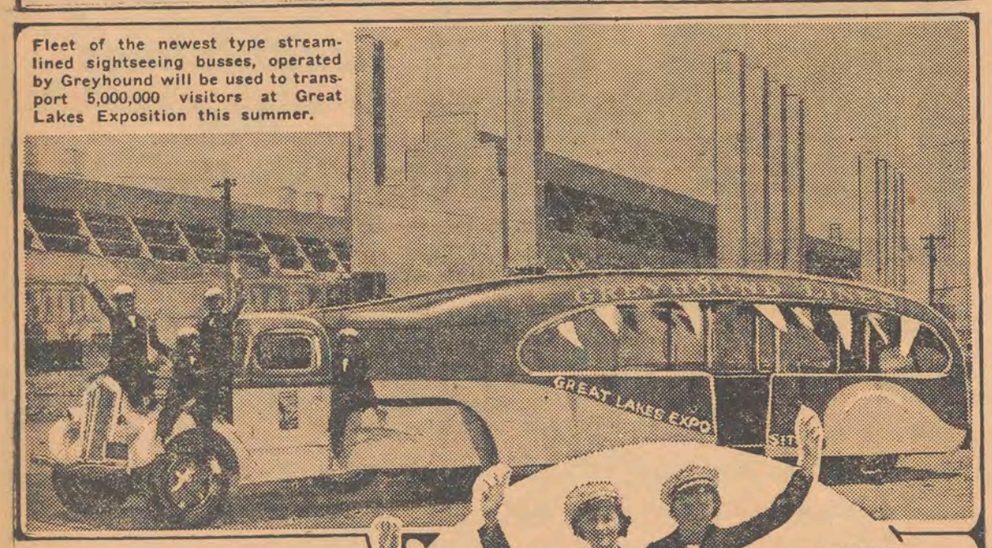
Streamlined Busses for Exposition Sightseers



Fleet of the newest type streamlined sightseeing busses, operated by Greyhound will be used to transport 5,000,000 visitors at Great Lakes Exposition this summer.

Beautiful Yoemenettes will act as greeters in welcoming visitors to Great Lakes Exposition.

A FLEET of the most modern, beautiful, streamlined sightseeing busses ever developed will carry the 5,000,000 visitors on sightseeing trips through the 125 acres of lake front devoted to the Great Lakes Exposition at Cleveland this summer. The Exposition runs from June 27 to October 4.

These busses, painted a brilliant blue and white, are the first of their kind ever used and will be operated by the Greyhound Bus Lines. The tractors were built by the White Motor Company of Cleveland and were especially designed by Count Alexis de Sakhnoffsky, internationally famous creator of streamlines. The long, roomy, open sightseeing trailers also were especially designed for the Exposition.

Preview by G. O. P. Delegates

Although the Republican National Convention at Cleveland opens on June 9—18 days before the Exposition gates are officially thrown wide—GOP delegates and convention visitors will be given a preview of the Exposition under the direction of Lincoln G. Dickey, general manager of the great display.

The Exposition is international in scope and rivals a World's Fair in intriguing exhibitions, stellar entertainment, and educational attractions. The major attractions of the Exposition will include the Automotive Building, a mammoth structure filled with animated displays of modern products that conquer time and space; the Hall of Progress, where science will hold sway and display its wizardry in scores of fascinating exhibits; a Museum of Art featuring a comprehensive display of the world's fine art gathered from leading European galleries; a Horticultural Building with a 1,000-foot garden

Radio Stars to Perform

Amusements also will be plentiful. The main auditorium in ... land's $12,000,000 Public Hall will house Radioland—the largest broadcasting studio in the world—where daily the nation's outstanding radio stars will originate their programs. Other attractions will include the Great Lakes Symphony Orchestra; military bands; a lagoon theater; pageants; athletic events; fireworks; song festivals; strolling troubadours; motorboat races; Parade of the Years; Show Boat; Marine Theatre; Enchanted Wonderland for the children; 35 acres of "Midway," and hundreds of others.

MASONIC DAY CELEBRATION

Among the coming events in the Gulf Coast states in June, is the 65th Masonic Day celebration at Florala, Ala., which will be held Wednesday, June 24th, beginning locally at 6:00 p.m., June 23, and closing 12:00 midnight, June 24, the main celebration lasting one day only—June 24th.

This is conceded to be the largest annual Masonic Day celebration in America; attended last year by more than 25,000 visitors, representing nearly every state in the United States.

Florala's celebration was established June 24th, 1871, and in all these years there has never been a single omission. It began simply as a communtiy gathering to witness the public installation of Masonic Lodge Officers. Gradually, new features were added until it now embraces an enormous program featuring nearly every attraction of Mardi Gras and other ancient festivals of the Old World—everything to entertain and amuse its visitors.

Florala is a beautiful little city situated on the shore of beautiful Lake Jackson, where delightful breezes temper the atmosphere of June to that of early May. Aside from the big program of attractions, such as a mile-long parade, beautiful floats, comedians, all day dancing, all day sacred harp singing, championship bands, big carnival city, street clowns, boxing, marvelous air stunts, boat races, beauty parade, etc., no more delightful outing could be enjoyed anywhere in the country than at Florala, on beautiful Lake Jackson.

STEAM PLANT BACK IN OPERATION

Because of the severe drouth in Alabama, the No. 2, or new Gorgas steam plant of the Alabama Power Company, on the Warrior River in Walker county, was placed in operation Sunday.

It is estimated that 1,000 tons of coal per day will be required for operations at the plant which will continue for several months.

Herbert S. Salmon, president of Alabama Coals, Inc., upon hearing of this gave out the following statement:

"Upon my return to Birmingham I heard good news for Alabama coal miners. The Gorgas steam plant of the Alabama Power Company will resume operation Sunday requiring more than 1,000 tons of coal per day. It probably will be kept in operation for several months.

ALABAMA REPUBLICANS IN CLEVELAND READY FOR ACTION

Delegates Favor Landon But Will Wait 24 Hours For Pledge

Cleveland, June 9.—Alabama, first in the roll call of states, held off Tuesday from any pledge to yield her place when presidential nominations are in order Thursday at the Republican Convention.

Although favorable to Gov. Alf M. Landon, of Kansas, for the nomination, the southerners decided that they would wait only 24 hours before deciding the question of yielding. A caucus on the matter was to be held Wednesday.

The delegation met briefly late Tuesday, and afterwards Dr. J. C. Swan, Wedowee, chairman, said "my guess is that Alabama will cast 13 votes for Landon for nomination."

He explained, however, there was no official poll. When ballots are started Thursday, the delegates will decide on the convention floor and instruct Swan how to cast their votes.

This will leave the delegation free at first to cast complimentary votes for candidates of their own choosing. They were not instructed by their state convention.

T. J. Kennamer, Birmingham, national commiteeman, joined the Fla. delegation in opposing an unsuccessful effort by a group of Negroes from Jacksanville to win seats as Florida delegates.

"Due to the activities of the G-men, about the only public enemies left are the fellows who go around slapping people on the back," says Clyde Moore. And from now on until November what a pest they are going to be.—Detroit Free Press.

We doubt whether the price of agricultural land will ever rise, so long as so many farmers seem so anxious to admit that farming is a failure.

Secretary Hull says that his program of lower tariffs will give us international security. Without admitting this, what will it do to our economic security?

Reports from Great Britain are that John Bull is planning to fortify Cape Town. No doubt this military move is due to our protective tariff.

We hope that Secretary Hull doesn't do any more to lower the tariff on nuts. We have an oversupply in the United States right now.

Of course the modern automobile goes faster than the old gray mare did in father's day. But when you fed the old gal a bucketful of oats there was not a five-cents-a-gallon tax on it.

A Washington newspaper tells of a woman who was out of a job with a family to support who won a nice sum of money on an Irish sweepstake ticket which may lead somebody to wonder why, if she was out of a job, she could afford to buy a sweepstake ticket. Was she on relief?

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert)

One of the facts of the present economic situation in the United States which gives the average serious-minded American a chill of apprehension when he takes a calm view of things, is that despite the expenditure of billions of the taxpayers' money on relief projects of various kinds by the Federal Government, he is told that there are still 12,000,000 people unemployed and that many more millions of the people of the nation are dependent on the governmentt, in one form or another, for a living. With all the talk about business revival, and the depression being "solved", he wonders what we are going to do about this unemployment situation, and just how long we can keep up the present pace of national expenditure for relief without directly facing inflation or some form of repudiation.

There can be no question that there is cause for serious thought, and even for apprehension. Yet many thinking people are of the opinion that too many "experts" on unemployment, including the majority of the New Dealers, have not taken exactly the right slant on the situation. They are wondering whether the economic planners have not spent so much time thinking up ways and means of spending government funds to "prime the pump" that they have failed to take a real survey of what the unemployment situation actually is.

For instance, the Topeka Capitol, in a recent editorial expressed the opinion that "a large percentage of this unemployment is the deliberate response of the people who would rather be on relief than earning their own living." At first thought this may seem like a harsh statement, especially as all Americans believe that the really dependent and unfortunate should be taken care of—even though they disagree as to the method.

But the Capitol points out that 17 per cent of the twelve million are listed as domestic servants, which means that approximately two million of those counted as jobless are servants. Yet it is very difficult in many parts of the country to employ servants. And this class was never on a federal relief roll until now. Before this ultra-modern era of paternalism, they took care of themselves, perhaps with the assistance at times of their relatives or friends. Is it possible now, in view of the servant problem, that some of them prefer relief checks to jobs in the house or the garden?

The Capitol points out further that 21 per cent of those on relief are listed as farmworkers. This means something near two and one-half million of the total on relief. These farm workers were never on relief rolls before, but many of them were regarded as part-time workers, and they seemed to "get by" without federal checks. Perhaps some of them could do so now, as in many instration seems willing and anxious to take up the burden and spend the money. Yet it agricultural sections, farmers report it is very difficult to get help. Is it possible that federal relief money has something to do with a part of this shortage of labor?

To quote the Capitol again, only 15 per cent of the entire 12,000,000 registered as unemployed are classified as skilled workers, which means that something like 1,800,000 of skilled workers are out of jobs. It becomes altogether possible, therefore, that the social planners have not examined very carefully into the relief problem, have not gone into the number and classification of those who prefer a federal check to a job.

Here is the weakness of the present system of relief. It loads too much on the federal government, although, of course, the Administration must follow carefully prescribed accounting the death of the Guffey Act regulating the coal industry at the hands of the Supreme Court. From many sources comes the implication that the outlawing of this act means chaos in the industry, that enforced unionism is essential to the industry, and that Federal laws are necessary to protect the miners.

But in this connection these facts must be borne in mind:

First, this same chaos was forecast when the NRA and the AAA were kicked out by the Supreme Court, but instead business improved and reemployment spurted.

Secondly, industries such as the automobile and steel groups in which workers meet with their employers under democratic company organizations are prosperous, while the heavy unionized industries where labor organizers sit enthroned, are on their backs. These include this same local industry, the railroads and the building industry.

Three, the head of the mine workers boasted last year that he had more than $2,000,000 to use for political purposes without any check-rein, and he offered to give $500,000 to another union to place its strangle-hold upon the steel companies.

It is not hard to imagine the ranting of this same union spokesman if the steel industry announced that it had collected $500,000 to protect its loyal workers from flying squadrons, brickbats, and threats to their families which almost invariably accompany the efforts of the minority unions to collect dues from the great majority of American workers who have steadily turned their backs upon unions largely because of their tactics.

MAJORITY DECISIONS

Some of the critics of the United States Supreme Court's recent decision invaldiating the Guffey coal law, are already seeking to detract from the moral force of the decision by pointing out that the Court's opinion was a divided opinion, and that three of the Court's justices disagreed with the other six in holding the act unconstitutional.

The contention of the critics of the decision, however, will not bear the light of careful examination. In the first place in every free country we have the principle of majority rule. This is as true in the enacting of legislation by Congress as it is in opinions of the Supreme Court. The Guffey act was invalidated by a two to one majority in the court. No President of the United States is ever elected by any such overwhelming vote. To say that Mr. Roosevelt was not decisively President because he got a little less than 60 per cent of the pouplar vote in 1932 would not get very far in the court of American public opinion. Yet Mr. Roosevelt's vote, on a percentage basis was not so great as that by which the Supreme Court knocked out the Guffey coal law.

So it might be well said that if a unanimous opinion of the Supreme Court is to be required to invalidate a law passed by Congress, a unanimous vote by Congress should be necessary to enact the law in the first place. The experience of the country is that Congress is just as apt to make legislative mistakes as the Supreme Court is to make judicial errors. The probability is that the legislative body is even a "little more" apt to err.

There is little more force to the argument that the Supreme Court should have no right to invalidate a law unless at least seven or eight members vote that the act is unconstitutional. Let us say, for example, that eight of the nine Justices are required to assent to the invalidating of a law. Then if two justices declare that the law is sound, it becomes the law of the land despite the majority opinion. So we have the situation in which the opinion of two men is of more force than that of seven others. Such an idea seems decidedly preporterous in a land of democracy.

WHO PAYS THE SALES TAX?

The Tax Commmission of Ohio classified last year's sales tax revenue, as follows:

Groceries and meats	32.00%
General merchandise	15.55%
Automobiles, accessories	13.86%
Apparel and accessories	10.27%
Lumber, building supplies	3.52%
Furniture and fixtures	3.32%
Miscellaneous	21.48%

Those who have attempted to spread the propoganda that a sales taxe is a "fair" tax should read these figures.

This table clearly shows that the sales tax is a tax upon the poor because 32 per cent of the total sales tax paid in Ohio was for food.

Those who could spend money for expensive gowns and tailor-made suits and other expensive wearing apparel only paid a fraction more than 10 per cent of the tax.

Do we want this kind of a tax in Alabama? Such a tax faces the citizens of the state if the governor calls another special session of the legislature this fall.

It behooves the citizens to keep on guard for the same ald camouflage will be used—more money for the schools.

But first, the people of Alabama want to know and to know the truth about the schools.

Can the schools be operated on an economical basis for a full term with the present revenue—that's the question.

And how much money could the state administation save on useless jobs and wasteful expenditure which mightt be used for the schools.

These questions should be studied by every tax payer in the state.

AMUSING HORSE TRADE

A very amusing horse trade was pulled off here recenttly indicated that Barnum was really right and that th old-ttime horse swappers are still here and about.

For some time during April of each year the Gazette has carried a story telling of an elderly mare owned by C. S. Shartzer, feed dealer, who lives in West Leitchfield. The mare, "Daisy"," was 36 years old this spring.

Last winter Mr. Shartzer decided to dispose of hes. With many regrets he disposed of the aged animal for $10 after she had served him faithfully for more than three decades. "Daisy," never having been overworked and kept in fine fettle by her original owner, looked like a good buy to anyone not acquainted with her age. The farmer buying her saw an opportunity to make a profit in offering "Dairy" for sale. He succeeded in getting $20 in cash and a young mule in a trade with a lady who soon discovered that her newly-acquired buggy horse had the heaves and was getting on in years, a fact the farmer overlooked when he said she was 10 years old, which was true, but she was also three times ten.

The farmer, threatened with a suit, traded back with the lady and the last that was heard of "Daisy" was that she was headed for Brownsville where she was not so well known.

Moral: Read wour county paper every week and it will save you money, time and worry.—From the Leitchfield, Kentucky, Gazette.

GOVERNMENT BY MINORITY

MAN IN THE MOON

"BOONDOGGLING"

Did you ever hear of "boondoggling"? That's another catch phrase that Mr. Roosevelt coined. He said it "would be just too grand for words if we could boondoggle our way out of the depression." We agree, it would be grand.

Time has proved that "boondoggling" means whipping the devil around the stump, or trying to pull ourselves out of the mud by our bootstraps—a thing that can't be done. In this "boondoggling" process, too, some of the most idiotic things have been done. There have been hundreds of such instances as the three given below—these were just picked out at random, like picking leaves from a tree.

Up in New Jersey there is a small stream of water known as Wigwam Brook. Now the New Dealers must have been fishing on that brook and caught fish which had sore noses, from bumping into stumps and things, or came up with mud in their eyes from diving a little too deep. However that may have been, these New Dealers decided something ought to be done with Wigwam Brook. And what did they do? Decided to pave the bottom of the brook! Imagine that! and the lost was to be a paltry $14,962. Foolish? Yes, we think so. But still there is a pretty fair sample of "boondoggling," paid from your tax money.

Out in New Mexico there was another pretty nice case of "boondoggling". A village out there, with 134 inhabitants—all humans, or nearly so—received $19,000 with which to build a gymnasium. We wonder if the New Dealers had an idea those 134 pople had never seen a dumb bell. If that was the reason, then why, in high heaven's name, didn't some of them go out there and show them dumb bells in the flesh? Yet that was more "boondoggling," likewise paid from your tax money.

And then, in Vermont, $62,000 was set aside "to repair a community center." But thank goodness this was saved, because the community center had never been built, so there were no repairs that could be made. There we saved $62,000 of your tax money. Wonder of wonders—money "saved" in a "boondoggle" scheme—such instances as the last were few and far between. How do you like "boondoggling"? Yet these were the kind of schemes President Roosevelt was going to pull us out of the depression with. Think they will do the job? We don't!

TIMES HAVE CHANGED

Time after time President Roosevelt has been quoted as saying that "times have changed, and we must change with them." Right! Times HAVE changed, but in a far greater number of ways than Mr. Roosevelt seems to suspect.

In 1932 the people of this country had been taught by Mr. Michelson, dean of the "smear Hoover" campaign, that Hoover was the cause for all their troubles. As a result, the people were not so Democratic minded as they went anti-Hoover minded. Anything from a stray alley cat on up, if running against Hoover, could have won. It is very probable that any other Republican nominee could have won easily.

At this time the minds of the people are reversed again. Gone is their almost reverent awe of the mighty Roosevelt. They have become disillusioned. He is not the economic god of 1932, in their minds. They know him now for what he is—just another man, with a lot of fancy ideas that fail to work out when put to the test; they know now that he is just as susceptible to mistakes as any other man; they know him as a man who is not nearly so concerned over the plight of the "forgotten man" as he is in getting a firm grip on the throats of all Americans. They know him now as a man who dreams of all power, and one with a mind to grab that power above all things.

And again times have changed. Americans are just as resolute that he shall not have that power. Seeing, as they plainly do, that he has his weaknesses just like all other men, that supreme confidence is gone. And like 1932, having lost confidence in the man at the helm, America is ready and willing to find a new pilot.

Socialism may have gained great headway during the past administration, but the country is not yet ready for socialists to run the affairs of their land. They have had a chance to observe at first hand the workings of a socialistic and bolshevist form of government, and the vaccination didn't take. Having once strayed off the straight and narrow pathway to economic success, our people are not in a frame of mind to try another experiment soon. So indications are that next November will see another shift—back to the Republican party, and its safe and sane principles, such as have built the nation.

TO THE PEOPLE

The national Republican partty is taking its fight this year to the people of the nation. For weeks national headquarters have been conducting nation-wide broadcasts, asking people from ever walk of life to write in and tell their own problems, and what they believe should be done to solve them.

When the framers of the Republican platform sit down around the council table to do their work they will have all these letters before them. They will be read by committees, and real worth while suggestions will be noted. Later, these suggestions. "the cream of the crop", will be made into parts of the platform.

For instance, letters from farmers all over the country will be considered, and a farm plank made up from them. Letters from industrial laborers will be used in drawing up a labor plank. Manufacturers' letters and their ideas will be incorporoted in a plank of the platform to cover their needs. Capitalists ideas will be considered, also, and these will be used. Of course all these widely divergent views will be balanced, one with the other, so that no group will have "the world by the tail and a down hill pull," but each group will be given what it wants, insofar as its wants do not encroach upon the rights of another group.

In this way, no committee will draw up a platform, but the people of the country will do it. They are the ones most vitally affected, and we believe they should say how they should be governed, what provisions should be made for them, and how their tax money shall be spent.

The Republican party does not believe in dictatorship and will have none of it. It is not promising something to "the forgotten man" (shades of 1932!) but is asking that forgotten man to speak his mind and help work out his own economic salvation.

What could be fairer?

FROM A TO Z

In this column, in the near future, I intend to start a series of articles dealing with the New Deal, and to set forth that ignoble experiment in detail from its inception on down to the present time.

As you know the New Deal first came to be a fact through our present president. He was the first who ever spoke of it. It was a catch phrase, and he was elected on it. Whether or not Mr. Roosevelt had in mind the course of action he has followed when he first set forth the term, "New Deal" no one knows, or ever wil know. It is very probable that he had no such plan of administration in mind—in fact, I don't believe he did. If he did, then he spoke falsely when he said that he accepted the 1932 Democrattic platform 100 per cent. If he intended to follow his platform as set out at that ttime, ond on which he was elected, and later allowed himself to be led astray by those who would destroy our government and give us a communistic set-up, who would tear our beloved stars and stripes from thousands of flagpoles throughout the nation, and plant in their stead the "red" flag of communism, knowing that they were men of such ideas, then he has proved himself the most unworthy traitor in our history.

If the latter is true, and if it is true that a man is fashioned from the clay of the country in which he is born, then there must have been some mistake—surely he was not born of good old American clay, but fashioned from that of the back alleys of Moscow.

In this series of articles I intend to quote passages from pre-election speeches of Mr. Roosevelt and compare them against his performance. I shall quote his platform, which he "accepted 100 per cent", and again compare them against his performance. I shall follow him from election into the White House watch him as he wields a dictotor's wand from the first, watch him as he grafts about him the communistic scum of two continents for "advisers", follow his 'must" bills, which brought us the NRA, the AAA, and other measures as hateful to free-born and freedom-loving Americans, follow him as he sulked and smirked at the Supreme Court when it defended Americanism and halted his autocratic measures, follow him right on down to the present day. Read these articles. They might be interesting.—Man in the Moon.

THE WORKER PAYS

If you think the so-called rich pay all the taxes, and the rest of us receive all the bounty of government for nothing, here are some facts that will disillusion you. They are taken from an editorial in the Charleston News and Courier, entitled "Taxing the Worker."

Every dollar spent by the Federal Government in the last fiscal year was derived as follows:

Seven cents from personal income taxes; eight cents from corporation taxes; six cents from liquor taxes; six cents from tobacco taxes; seven cents from processing taxes; five cents from excise taxes; five cents from customs duties; three cents from estate and gift taxes; four cents from all other forms of taxes.

Practically every one of these taxes is, in effect a sales tax. Each represents a part of the cost of the things we buy. Each one, with few and unimportant exceptions, must be and is passed on to the consumer.

And that isn't the worst of it. The total of the taxes listed above comes in just 51 cents, leaving 49 cents of each dollar unaccounted for. It will be the worker and the man of average means who will have to foot practically all of the gigantic bill.

SUPREME COURT

The Guffey Coal Act has raised discussion as to just what President Roosevelt would like tn do to the Constitution.

As everyone knows, the New Deal's Supreme Court battling average has been very bad. It won in the gold seizure and TVA cases—it lost in all other cases of importance including the NRA, the AAA, and the Railway Pension Act.

The opinion is growing in some quarters that President Roosevelt, if reelected, may go before the people and ask for an amendment to the Constitution which would either curb the powers of the hibh court, so exprtssly make legal acts which are now illegal. It is thought in other quarters, that the President may prefer to wait until a number of Justices retire—which is forecast for next year—in the belief that he could get a more "liberal" court through his appointive power. Little is heard from public officials of such possibilities—they're too full of political dynamite.

CHILDREN IN FOR IT NOW

A publication backed with the PWA funds, and designed for reading by school children, recently published a tabulation, taken from a Federal Power Commission survey, of the rates charged by private and publicly owned utilities for different consumption brackets. In every bracket, according to the tabulation, public plants made the more favorable showing, undercutting privote rates by one-tenth of one cent per kilowatt hour for a consumption of 500 kilowatt hours per month, six-tenths of one cent per 250 kilowatt hours are consumed, nine-tenths of one cent for 100 kilowatt hours, and so on.

The deduction was then added that municipal electric plants are more efficient. But if thost same figures are analyzed, a very different picture is obtained.

The municipal plants pay almost nothing in taxes—private plants pay an average of around 12 per cent of all their revenues in taxes.

Private plants receive no free service. Many municipal plants are given billing, bookkeeping and other services "for nothing" by their local governments—which means they are paid for by all the tax payers.

Private plants receive no subsidies. Municipal plants are often subsidized to the hilt and, in addition, incur deficits the tax payers must meet. Capital investment means little or nothing to them. In one instance, brought out in an article in the Wall Street Journal, a much-praised municipal plant was found to have a gross income, before deduction of any expenses whatsoever, about equal to 5 per cent of its cost.

Private plants, regulated as they are by state commissions in every phase of operation

Propoganda pouss fom Washington upon methods. Municipal plants, free from regulation, can follow any system they choose—and they often choose systems that don't make sense to the best statistical minds in the country, and thus hide the true state of affairs from local citizens.

The fractional cent savings out by this WPA publication which is itself subsidized with taxpayers' money, would vanish and then some in actual-cost-to-the-citizen figures were available. Even a school child would catch on if he were given a fair opportunity.

The United States is engaged in an impossible job. It is trying to write a tax bill that will not be a burden to the average consumer. It's just got to be a burden, one way or another.

GOVERNMENT BY ESPIONAGE

In hotly denouncing indication of organized espionage conducted by certain bureaus and agencies at Washington Senator Bone made the first open reference to reports, apparently based on more than suspicion, that have been circulating at the Capital.

There have been stories of mysterious spying upon Senators and Representatives who are unfriendly toward the New Deal, of the entering of their offics at night and scanning of their private records. The victims have been loath to complain, but desks and filing cabinets have been broken into and at least two Republican Senators suspect tapping of their telepehone wires.

Mr. Bon makes no specific charges, but believes there is sufficient warrant for a senatorial investigation. Certainly Congress has a right to know just why the W.P.A. has need of 98 detectives and why 43 sleuths are carried on the pay roll of Dr. Tugwell's Resettlement Administration. The Interior Department has a division of investigation with 300 employes. Just who do they need to investigate besides the respective merits of big and little dams?

Senator Bone is right in asserting that a governmental spy system, "a budding Ogpu" might readily be utilized for "the most odious forms of oppression and coercion and become the basis for what might amount to political blackmail." It's time to find out what's behind these ugly rumors. Why not, as Mr. Bone suggests, turn on the light?—Philadelphia Inquirer.

The women, who, as a widow of a World War veteran, will receive the last pension check to be paid for that war, if we go in for general pensions by and by, is probably not yet born.

Death has just claimed the last surviving widow of a veteran of the War of 1812.

On the basis of the figures just cited the last surviving widow of a World War veteran will die in the year 2041, a lapse of 121 years after the United States entered that war and still 105 years in the future.—Des Moines Register.

LETTER FROM DR. BOB JONES

Cleveland, Tenn.
June 3, 1936.

Dear Friends:

I am a father and I know how a father feels about his children. Some people say that mothers love their children more than fathers. I do not believe a word of it. A normal father loves his children as much as any mother ever loved her child. The love, of course, may expres itself in a different way.

I just want to say to you fathers and mothers that you can send your boy or girl to the Bob Jones College at Cleveland, Tennessee, and go to sleep at night in peace knowing that he or she is safe physically, mentally, and spiritually, and knowing at the same time that you child has a good educational advantage a he can find in any other intitution in America.

If you wish literature, write Bob Jone College, Cleveland, Tennessee.

Sincerely yours,
BOB JONES.

CALL FOR EMPTY JARS TO REFILL FOR ORPHANS HOME

For several years the Chilton-Unity Association has shipped produce, canned fruit, etc., to the Baptist Orphanage. In doing this we have sent quite a number of fruit jars. Brother Colley for the last two years has sent a number of empties back. He has left here at Thorsby several hundred jars and I am writing to urge that you call for these jars at Mr. Willis's grocery store if you will fill some of them for the home.—J. W. Jones.

REV. J. W. JONES ANNOUNCES HIS SCHEDULE — SUMMER REVIVALS

SINGING AT MULBERRY

Editor Union-Banner:

Will you please give space in your paper for a few remarks about our singing at Mulberry?

The day was enjoyed by a large crowd. The singing began at 10:00 o'clock. The opening song was directed by home talent. Then Mr. Dick Martin was appointed chairman for the day. He is a fine chairman and a real singer. There were many directors during the day enjoyed by all—each one doing well.

After several choir songs were sung, then the treat came. We were favored with two of the most outstanding quartets in the state—the Lackey's from Birmingham and the Titus Quartet. Folks, you will be fortunate if you can secure either or both of these quartets in your singings. We are also favored with two solos and a duet which added must to the day.

ALABAMA MILLS 15 — McDADE 11

The Alabama Mills team took kthe McDade Tinners of Montgomery into camp last Saturday onthe local field, and won a slugging match 15 to 11. The Millers banged out twenty hits to eight for the visitors. Several times, however, the inner defense of the Millers blew up like a ton of dynamite, accounting for the high scoring on such few hits. The Millers made grand total of 13 bobbles.

Willie Armstrong, Culver Burnett and Reynolds all gathered 3 hits each, closely paced by Bill Armstrong, Alex Hayes, and Smith with a pair each. T. Taylor was the only Tinner to get more than one hit, he getting a triple and a single. Nine of the Miller's hits were for extra bases.

Republican Speaker Here Sat., June 27

Hon. C. O. Vardaman Will Address Chilton Folks At 2:00 O'Clock

Prominent State Leader Will Lecture In Interest of Republican Party Principles

Honorable C. O. Vardaman, of Birmingham, Will speak at the courthouse in Clanton Saturday afternoon, June 27th, at 2:00 o'clock. The meeting will be sponsored bf the Young Republican unit of Chilton county, but will be open for everybody. If you are interested in civic affairs, government or politics, you will want to hear Mr. Vardaman.

Mr. Vardaman was in Clanton and spoke one Saturday afternoon last January. Those who heard him know what an outstanding speaker he is and what a caustic critic of the New Deal he has proven himself to be. If you are interested in politics, don't let anything keep you from hearing Mr. Vardaman on June 27th. There will be loud speakers so all can hear.

BUCK CREEK 5—LAY DAM 2

The Buck Creek "Bucks" defeated the Lay Dam "Dammers" here last Lednesday by the score of 5 to 2, in ten innings. The Dammers outhit their rivals 10 to 7, but four glaring errors at inopportune times in the first and tenth innings lost the game.

Foshee and Dock Baker led the Dammers at bat with two hits each, while Thompson led the visitors with two.

Phillip Foshee went the route for the Dammers on the mound. For the Bucks, "Red" Amos started and was relieved in the sixth by "Lefty" Lowery.

Cosby-Hodges Mill Officials Honored

Gather In Montgomery For Celebration Of Biggest Day In History Of Montgomery Office

The Montgomery agency of the Cosby-Hodges Milling Company, of Birmingham, was host yesterday to the executives and employees of the concern from Alabama and Georgia, the occasion being a celebration of the biggest month's business in May since the local house was established about 12 years ago. In the city for the special event were J. C. Hodges, president of the company with mills in Birmingham, and a number of other executives and employees. A luncheon was given at the Jefferson Davis Hotel at 1 p.m. when several guests felicitated President Hodges, H. W. Jackson, manager of the Montgomery office, and his force upon the outstanding achievements last month.

During his remarks at the luncheon, President Hodges spoke of the opportunity in Alabama for development of the corn and hay crops. "Our company is 50 years old and its doors are always open to farmers who have grain and hay to market," said Mr. Hodges.

Other speakers included Sylvain Baum, president of the Chamber of Commerce; N. L. Walker, president of the Alabama Independent Merchants Association; and Paul B. Fuller, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce. It was recalled at the luncheon that the first check ever drawn by the local office of the company was to the Chamber of Commerce for membership dues. The firm owns its warehouse on North Lawrence Street and employes eight men.

Members of the firm who attended the celebration luncheon were President Hodges, M. J. Robertson, vice-president; L. A. Brooks, vice-president and sales manager; R. C. Blanton, secretary-treasurer; W. Cosby Hodges, Paul Sims, S. S. Godbee, E. G. Blanton, manager of the Columbus office; R. W. Blanton, Ira Weldon, H. W. Duncan, C. W. Scott, Jack McBrayer, John Bentley, manager Gadsden office; Joe Roberts, R. Handley, Chester Sowell, Ike Parker, J. E. Hollingsworth and H. W. Jackson, manager of the local office.

Several from here attended the singing at Longview and Mulberry Sunday.

We want to thank everyone that helped with the baby show and ice cream supper Saturday night. Little John Woodley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Woodley, won the prize at the baby show. John was sponsored by Mary Elizabeth Woods.

STATE CAPITOL NEWS

Montgomery. — Alabama's 15 toll bridges may become free within a few weeks.

Final plans seeking to free the bridges are being worked out by officials of the State Highway Department and representatives of the owners of bridge bonds totaling $3,800,000.

Accomplishment of the plan through refinancing at a lower rate of interest and transfering the bridges to the Highway Department was expedited last week by an act of Congress, extending the time the State may legally charge tolls, thus strengthening the State's credit in clearing the way for refunding the debt.

Declaring that the movements to free the bridges was definitely on its way to completion, Lawrence Lee, the Governor's legal advisor this week filed a "friendly" suit in Montgomery Circuit Court on behalf of the State Bridge Corporation against the Highway Department and certain bondholders to clarify the legal questions involved in the refunding plan.

He said the lower court's decision would be appealed to the Supreme Court for a final ruling before the new bonds are issued.

Thus, patrons of the bridges will be relieved of tolls averaging $325,000 a year.

FARMER FOUND DEAD

Henry Johnson, 68, Was Widely Known In Verbena Area

Verbena, Ala.—The body of Henry Johnson, 68, the father of 13 children, seven boys and six girls, was found dead Sunday midnight across the road from his home with a shotgun clasped in one hand.

Johnson was a prominent farmer of the district. He had been despondent over ill health for several months, according to members of the family. He left his home about 10:30 p.m.

Johnson was known to his friends as "Watermelon," and was a familiar figure at "fiddlers' conventions."

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at the residence. Survivors are the widow and 13 children.

CLANTON LOST TO COLUMBIANA THURSAY

"Rookie" Albert Pyron's Clanton baseball team went to Columbiana last Thursday and lost a good game 8 to 3.

YOUNG REPUBLICAN MEETING HELD AT BETHSALEM

ditor Union-Banner:

Please allow me space in your valuable paper to say a few words about our meeting held at Bethsalem church on June 5th. The house was called to order by the chairman, Mr. C. M. Billingsley.

W. J. Billingsley led in prayer. Mr. T. E. Wyatt made a wonderful speech, followed by Mr. J. Z. Mims, who made a real good talk for his first time to be with us. We had two candidates with us, Mr. W. J. Billingsley and Mr. Paul C. Mims. Each one made a good talk. Believe us that Beat 6 will be with the winner in November. We have a large number on roll and hoping to get lots more. We wish people, both old and young would wake up to a sense of this duty and come out to our meeting. I am sure you will be benefitted by hearing that good speaking we have. We are hoping to get an appointment at Shiloh church before long. We want the people to come out and join us. We are anxious for more new members. If you can't get in touch with us and you want to join, let us know and we will send you a card for membership. Let's all try to hear C. O. Vardaman at the courthouse on June 27th.—C. M. Billingsley, chairman, S. B. Williams, secretary.

ARCHIE E. BRUNER

Cotton wood Ala., June 7.—Archie E. Bruner, pioneer citizen of Houston County, died at his home here today of heart complications following a long period of ill health. He was charter member of the local camp, Woodmen of the World. The funeral will be held from the home Monday at 3 p.m. with the Rev. Dykes officiating.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Amanda Jane Bruner, of Cottonwood; five sons, A. L., of Graceville, Fla., A. G., of Columbus, Ga., O. V., of Hartford, A. E., of Luverne, and L. C. Bruner, of Jacksonville, Fla., and two daughters, Mrs. Robert Powell, of Atlanta, and Mrs. M. E. Martin, of Montgomery.

O. V. Bruner was teacher and coach at Chilton County High School for a number of years.

A. E. (Edwin) Bruner finished his high school and was graduated from C. C. H. S.

200 ALABAMA RURAL WOMEN ATTEND WORLD CONFERENCE

Auburn, Ala.—Over 200 Alabama rural women attended the third triennial Conference of Associated Country Women of the world in Washington, D. C., reports Helen Johnston, state home demonstration agent. They left Alabama on May 29, and will return about June 12 or 13.

University News

University, Ala.—Dr. Howard W. Odum, director of the Bureau of Sociological Research in the University of North Carolina, has been selected as the principal speaker during the second annual Institute of State and Local Affairs. The Institute will be held a tthe University of Alabama, June 24-26. Dr. Odum will speak four times during the sessions.

R. Murray Christian of Mobile, completing Ph. D. work at the University of Virginia and James F. Doster, Tuscaloosa, finishing doctorate work at the University of Chicago, will join the history faculty at the University of Alabama next fall. They will fill vacancies created by the resignation of Dr. Daniel Thomas called to the University of Pennsylvania, and Prof. Clanton Williams, who will pursue Ph. D. studies at Vanderbilt University.

Dr. Gladstone Yeuell, head of secondary education, at the University of Alabama, is new review editor of "High School Quarterly." The Quarterly is the official publication of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

The University of Alabama unit of the ROTC has again won rating as "excellent" given by the War Department Inspection Board. General George Van Horn Moseley, commanding the Fourth Corps Area, accorded the unit high praise in a letter to President Denny.

September 9th has been selected as the opening date for the 1936-37 session of the University of Alabama. The announcement is made in the new general catalogue which has just gone from press.

The first term of summer school opened June 8th. Classes met for the first time Wednesday, June 10. A big enrollment was expected as the most recent check-up of advance registration showed a 17 per cent increase over registration on the same date for last year.

Taking another decided step forward in the expansion of its services the University of Alabama will hold this summer the South's first Traffic Officer's Training School. Dr. John R. McLure, director of the summer school, announced Monday morning. The school will be conducted July 20 to July 31 and will offer to officials of all traffic departments in the Southern States the scienttific methods of accident prevention and cure.

Dr. McLure said that Lawrence B. Tipton, State director of Public Safety, has been assigned to the University by the State of Alabama to direct the school. Tipton has established offices in the Alabama Union.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to take this opportunity to thank the many friends, realtives, doctors and nurses for their sympathy and kindness shown me during the eleven days I spent in the Central Alabama Hospital after an operation for appendicitis. I especially thank my beloved pastor, Rev. M. Lockhart, for his prayerful visits. They were greatly enjoyed and appreciited. My parents also wish to thank you all. May God bless each and everyone of you who visited, or assisted in any way is our prayer. Again we thank you for your kindness.—Gladys Wyatt.

FFA ANNUAL MEETING IS SET FOR JULY 16-18

Auburn, Ala.—Plans are being made for approximately 900 young farmers and vocational teachers to attend the sixth anual convention of the Alabama Association of future Farmers of America to be held here July 16-18.

During the three-day meeting the delegatse will receive special training in farm leadership which is to be the keynote of this year's convention, says A. C. Allen, Jr., Holtville, State FFA president, who will preside. In addition, they will visit the State Experiment Station here to study the latest developments in scientific agriculture and research.

R. J. Goode, commissioner of agriculture, and Dr. J. B. Hobdy, director of vocational educational, will be two of the principal speakers.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Be Sure They Properly Cleanse the Blood

YOUR kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as nature intended—fail to remove impurities that poison the system when retained.

Then you may suffer nagging backache, dizziness, scanty or too frequent urination, getting up at night, puffiness under the eyes; feel nervous, miserable—all upset.

Don't delay? Use Doan's Pills. Doan's are especially for poorly functioning kidneys. They are recommended by grateful users the country over. Get them from any druggist.

FORD V·8 ECONOMY MEANS HIGH "Dollar Mileage" (MORE MILES PER DOLLAR)

NO MATTER how you classify your expenditures for car up-keep — it's your total expenditure that counts. How much "dollar mileage" is your car giving you?

Dollars do go farther in the Ford V-8. Modern improved carburetion gives you unusual gasoline mileage with brilliant V-8 performance. Most owners of today's Ford change oil only every 2000 miles and add none between changes.

And after the first few thousand miles you begin to understand what Ford V-8 "dollar mileage" really means.

It gives you more miles per dollar because it gives you all-round economy — low first cost, low up-keep cost, low depreciation and long life — as well as low gasoline and oil consumption. All these are big items if you aim to buy the most economical car.

Color Floods Screen In Outlook Drama

Sylvia Sidney, Fred MacMurray and Henry Fonda are co-starred in "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," first natural-color picture of the outdoors, which will be at the New Wadesonion Theatre on Thursday and Friday, June 12th and 13th.

Filmed almost entirely outdoors, against a background of lake and forest, "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine" represents an entirely new approach in the use of color on the screen. Using the new three-color Technicolor process, which gives full value to the entire spectrum, Walter Wanger, the producer, and Henry Hathaway, the director, nevertheless concentrated on the unfolding of their story rather than upon the display of gaudy colors. Believing that past color production suffered from too much emphasis on color, they relegated it to the position it holds in life—as a normal part of the background—and stressed instead of their values.

That "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine" has these aplenty is testified to by the popularity of the John Fox, Jr., novel over a period of many years. It is the tale of warring Cumberland Mauntain clans—specifically of the Tollivers and the Falins, who for more years than any of them can remember have carried on a feud that has caused the death of dozens of men. Isolated from the world, and loyal to only their own code, they shoot each other on sight.

Both Miss Sidney and Fonda are members of the Tolliver family, and the general assumption is that some day they will be married. Suddenly however, their entire world is changed, for MacMurray, a young engineer, arrives on the scene to build a railway through the hills. With him he brings the first taste of outside civilization and standards that the mountaineers have ever known.

Miss Sidney is immediately entranced by the stranger. Fonda, too, is his friend, for MacMurray saves him from death. But Fonda soon discovers Miss Sidney's love—and knowing only one code, to fight and kill for what he holds dear, sets out to "get" MacMurray. Simultaneously, the rival Falins set out to "get" Fonda.

The thrilling battle that occurs when all three elements get together brings the film to a highly dramatic climax.

STATE ROADS GET U. S. CASH

Another $2,500,000 For Alabama Seem Certain, Says Highway Chieftain

Another $2,500,000 of Federal funds for road construction in Alabama is now practically "in the bag" according to information brought back from Washington Monday by President Gaston Scott, of the State Highway Commission, who has been at the national capitol for the past week on official business.

The making available of the additional $2,500,000 of road funds for this State will, it is understood, be authorized under the bill by Congressmen A. H. Carmichael, which provides that in states having highway toll bridges and desiring to free them, the Federal Government will match on a 50-50 basis any and all funds raised by those states or any of them for the "freeing" process.

According to Mr. Scott, final passage of the Carmichael bill by Congress had been scheduled for the day following the death of Speaker Byrns. It was delayed by the Speaker's death, but will be passed, Mr. Scott said, when Congress reconvenes on June 15th.

Baptist Institute Here June 30th

June 30th, July 1st and 2nd, has been selected by the W. M. U. of the Unity and Chilton Association, as the dates most suitable for our Mission Institute. This article is written to remind you that you and your whole family are urged to be present. Many preparations are being made for your pleasure, instruction and inspiration. Dr. L. O. Dawson, Howard College, preacher and philosopher without peer, is to bring the inspirational address each day. Miss Juliette Weeks, who gave chalk talks so interestingly last year, will conduct the devotionals. Dr. Fred Barnes is to speak each day. Miss Essie Fuller, recently returned Missionary from Brazil, and Rev. J. F. Plainfield, wso was converted in Brazil by a Missionary, and worked there for seven and a helf years will make South America interesting and very real to every class and age. Miss Hallie Lee Stoudemire from India will tell us of that strange far-away land. A fine song leader and good teachers for every age groups have been secured.

Now! What Are You Going To Do?

1. Please draw a circle on the calendar around these three days and let no member of the family plan for anything else at that time.
2. Talk about these meetings to all your friends and invite them.
3. See that the Institute and dates are announced in your church SOON.
4. You men. Begin to plan at once, at Sunday school, for busses, trucks, or cars sufficient to bring your membership. Take up a collection to pay for the gasoline if necessary.
5. You women. Plan your lunch early. Talk it over with your lunch chairman, if she doesn't do anything, plan it anyway. That's your part of the meeting. Clanton cares for the speakers and teachers, furinshes the drinks, serves the lunch and entertoins all who will spend the nights. If each church will plan to feed about fifty, one day only, of the meeting we will all come out with flying colors.
6. Plan to attend all three days, regardless of your age or sex. If you wish any information write Mrs. W. E. Cobern, Maplesville, for Unity, Mrs. J. Lee Grant, Verbena Rte. 2 for Chilton or Mrs. S. J. Ezell, Clanton. The programs with detailed lunch plans will be mailed to pastors, superintendents of Sunday school and W. M. S. presidents soon.
7. Pray that our people may take advantage of this wonderful opportunity and that the speakers may bring us the messages that we so greatly need.

I am going to be looking for you to meet me at Clanton Baptist church, June 30, July 1 and 2.—Mrs. S. J. Ezell, Director.

Judge Smith Says That Arledge Road System Costs County More

PROBATE JUDGE CITES RECORD TO SHOW MERITS OF COMMISSIONER WORK SET UP

To the Citizens and Tax Payers of Chilton County:

My attention was called to an article which appeared in The Union-Banner on June 4, 1936, which was written by Mr. Thos. J. Arledge, Road Supervisor, under the heading of "Reorganization of Public Road System. Difference in expenditure of money under the old system and the new system of road work."

You will note that Mr. Arledge stated in this article that we have a net saving of $49.00 on each day of operation under the new set-up on the supervision and equipment operators alone, whereas, the records in the Probate Office show that under the new set-up by our Road Supervisor, Mr. Arledge, that the supervision and equipment operation cost the county $295.70 more per month, than the last month cost under the old system. Figuring this on a 26 working day basis it cost our county $11.37 per day more to operate under our Supervisor set-up than under the old system.

I feel it is only fair to the tax payers, who pay the operating expense of our county, that they should know the difference in the cost of operation, since Mr. Arledge has seen fit to publish his statement.

If anyone doubts the above statement I will be glad to show them the official records which are open for inspection. I am for better roads at less cost.

Yours very truly,

J. LEE SMITH,
Judge of Probate.

RESPONSIBILITY OF HAND-LOANS IS RESTORED TO FARM LOAN ASSOCIATIONS

In keeping with the plans of the Farm Credit Administration to decentralize its operaions, the Federal Land Bank of New Orleans will place the responsibility of handling loans endorsed by national farm loan associations in this section in the hands of local directors, effective June 15, according to Mr. Edward B. Green, President of the bank. In those areas where he associaions are cooperating with the bank in this move, the field representative who has been servicing loans for th past few years will be removed.

"There is a very marked improvement over the conditions which made it necessary in 1392 for the bank to use direct contact methods with its borrowers," said Mr. Green, "and we are very proud to be abl eto turn over to associations the job of servicing their loans and reassuring all management responsibilities.

"The boards of directors elected by members of the associations will now pass on the problems of their respective associations and make recommendations as to the handling of loans of their borrower members. All borrowers are encauraged to take up their problems with the officers and directors of their association. In this way control of these national farm loan associations will be in the lands of farmer-borrowers. The Federal Land Bank will cooperate with these associations in every way, but will act only in a general advisory capacity."

National Farm Loan Associations in Alabama and Louisiana are providing a ready source of money for long term loans to farmer-borrwers.

As cooperative organizations, they offer advantages to farmers not found in other lending institutions. Through these cooperative organizations, the Federal Land Bank is now offering to farmers the lowest rates in history, on most convenient terms. Membrship in a national farm loan association igives each borrower a voice in the election of directors who manage its affairs.

MR. AND MRS. R. W. LOWE HAVE RETURNED FROM A FINE TRIP

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Lowe, and daughter, Evelyn June, have returned from an extended motor trip which carried them into nine different states. They visited such interesting places as Jesse James' old home, the famous Clarke Memorial in Indiana and little Miss Lowe especially enjoyed her visit with the tribe of Cherokee Indians, during which time she engaged in conversation with several of them.

Mrs. Lowe also visited her old home in Bristow, Okla. The states visited were: Tenn., Kentucky, Indiana, Illinois, Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Mississippi.

Beat 16—S. J. Nation, Clanton Rte. 1; R. M. Robinson, Clanton Rte. 1.

You will note that for some precincts there are more than two names. All but two will be eliminated as soon as the actual vote cast can be ascertained. This will be done at this meeting; but all whose names appear are urged to attend this meeting called for June 27th.

Remember, the hour is 1 o'clock, and do not be late, as the meeting must be held and finished with before time for Mr. Vardaman to speak.

MISS MARY NELLE JONES

Miss Mary Nelle Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Jones, has recently received her A. B. degree from Howard College. Miss Jones was a pledge of Alpha Delta Pi Sorority.

SINGING SCHOOL AT MT. CARMEL

A singing school at Mt. Carmel church will be taught, beginning Monday, July 13th. It will run for a term of twenty days (6 days per week). The teacher will be Prof. A. O. Boswell, of Coopers.

The teacher, as well as those of the community who are sponsoring the school, invite the support and co-operation of Mt. Carmel and all surrounding communities. Regular tuition prices will prevail.

Prof. Boswell is a deservinb young man and a good music teacher. He has had much experience in teaching in various communities of the county. Any community is fortunate in getting him to teach their singing school.

VERBENA NOSES OUT THE CANE CREEK CLUB 5 TO 4

Coming through with a run in the tenth inning the Verbena club eked out a victory over the Cane Creek club 5 to 4 here last Saturday afternoon. D. Williamson allowed 3 hits to the Verbenions, while Cane Creek was held to 4 hits by Adams and Moates.

OUTSTANDING ACHIEVEMENTS OF CLANTON KIWANIS CLUB

In an exhaustive report issued this week by the committee on public affairs and the publicity committee of the Clanton Kiwanis Club, many important accomplishments of this local civic organization during the past year are enumerated. Through the efforts of Kiwanis, in connection with persistent efforts put forht by individuals and other interested agencies, many worth-while improvements and attainments have been brought to Clanton and Chilton county. Turn to another space in this issue of The Union-Banner and read the report of these committees of the Clanton Kiwanis club.

Miss Margaret Floyd of Clayton, ... was the guest last week of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hayes.

SINGING AT MT. CARMEL THE FOURTH SUNDAY IN JULY

There will be an all-day singing at Mt. Carmel, the new church, 6 miles southwest of Thorsby, Sunday, July 26th. The new books will be used. Everybody invited to come and bring dinner. All singers especially invited.

ALABAMA TEACHERS RECEIVE MORE THAN AVERAGE

Montgomery, Ala.—Alabama teachers receive 11 cents more out of every dollar spent on education than do the average teachers of the nation according to figures from the office of J. A. Keller, made public by the Alabama Congress of Parents and Teachers.

Of each Alabama school dollar, 71 cents goes for teacher salary payments. The national average is 60 cents. Even then the shortage of money forces the Alabama teacher to accept a salary one-half as large as the national average.

Next to teacher salaries, the largest single item in the Alabama school dollar is transportation. Ten cents goes to run the school bus and pay the salary of the driver. The smallest item is administration; only two cents of each dollar is used for superintendent's salary, office expenses, and costs of the board of education.

Contrary to public opinion, the cost of capital outlay in Alabama is low compared to other states. Six cents goes for new building programs. The national average is sixteen cents.

Of the remaining 11 cents, five goes for insurance and building upkeep, three to buy fuel and pay janitor's expenses, and three cents for libraries and teaching supplies.

DEVAUGHN TO TEACH SINGING SCHOOLS, CONCORD AND COLLINS CHAPEL

Prof. W. M. Devaughn announces that he will teach singing schools at Concord schoolhouse and Collins Chapel schoolhouse, beginning Monday, July 6th. The one at Concord will be taught in the mornings from 8 to 12, and at Collins Chapel from 2 to 6 in the afternoons.

Prof. Devaughn needs no introduction to the people of these communities. He has taught at both places before, and everybody knows his ability to get the most good out of singing schools. If you are interested you should get in touch either with Prof. Devaugh nor some of the leaders of these two communities.

The Sylacauga School

For the past two weeks Prof. Devaughn and Prof. Eugene H. Whitt have been teaching a school at Sylacauga, and they have met with gratifying success. The school over there has been extended for two more weeks, and will probably run even longer than that.

MRS. ORR PROUD GRANDMOTHER

Mrs. M. R. Orr, of the Exchange Hotel, is jubilant over the news from Shreveport, La., announcing the arrival on June 10th, of a baby girl born to Mr. and Mrs. V. B. Curtiss (nee Miss Madelyn Orr). Mrs. Orr expects to go over to see the youngster at an early date.

CLANTON 9—COLUMBIANA 7

Clanton's baseball team defeated the Cloumbiana aggregation last Wednesday afternoon on the local field. 9 to 7. "Bull" Watkins and L. D. Easterling yielded 11 hits, but on several occasions bore down with men on the path, to pull out of tight holes. Oscar Martin gave the Clanton club only 8 safe blows, but these, together with the 7 costly Cloumbiana bobbles lost his game for him.

Taylor led the Columbiana club at bat with three singles and a double out of 5 trips. "Gabby" Tiffin led the locals with 3 out of 4.

CHILTON REPUBLICANS HAVE SPOKEN

[AN EDITORIAL]

The Republican voters of Chilton county have chosen whom they want to represent them in the coming general election next November. Some certain voters got some of their choice, others got others of their choice; more than likely, those voters who got every one they voted for are few and scattering. But be that as it may, the voice of the majority has been registered; and the voice of the majority is most generally a fairly good criterion by which all may be guided.

All the nominees chosen are good men, well qualified to fill the offices which they seek, and no just reason can be advanced by any Republican for not supporting the entire ticket in November. There have been some ripples—that was to be expected in the beginning and no doubt was expected by all who announced for the various offices. We believe all our Republican candidates who announced are big enough to take defeat and stand pat whether successful or not.

We are facing issues now that are greater than any personal feelings could possibly be. We can look back a few years past when the Republicans had full power in Chilton county. Then everything was running peaceably, everybody was working together, and the county government was being carried on to the complete satisfaction of the common people of the county. That was good old-time Republican rule in Chilton county.

Kind voters, just take the time to compare the workings of our county governmental machinery now with what we had then. Which do you prefer? In which did you have the most voice, and in which were the wishes of the common people most considered and heeded? The answer is conclusive; there is no argument.

A united Republican party is what The Union-Banner represents, and that is what we offer as the surest solution to the manifold problems which confront the people of the county. There are three Republicans to every two Democrats in Chilton county. All we have to do is to stay together, then our voice will predominate. The Union-Banner takes this opportunity to call on all Republicans in the county, in the name of fair, honest, representative government, to stay by our colors in the coming general elections this fall. The Democrats will hold allurements out in front of us; they will be attractive—they will look good from the outside; but beware, Republicans. Be not deceived. There is only one sensible thing for us to do, and that is to stand by our nominees one hundred per cent. The Union-Banner has faith in the Republicans of Chilton county. We are depending on you.

NO LONGER CONNECTED WITH CHILTON COUNTY EXCHANGE

Mr. Evan Parrish is no longer connected with the Chilton County Exchange. Mr. Parrish has been manager of the business for some years. No new manager has been selected as yet.

Mr. Parrish, we understand, is making arrangements to open up a business of his own in the very near future.

SINGING AT STANTON

There will be an all day singing at the Stanton Baptist church on Sunday, June 21. Everybody is invited to come and bring their dinner and spend the ay. There will be several quartets here from different places. Singing will begin at 10:30 p.m.—W. D. Rush, Chairman.

WILL PREACH — BEAT 16

Rev. J. W. Enfinger will preach at the home of W. S. Adams, Beat 16, next Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Everybody invited.

CLANTON TO HAVE ORCHESTRA

Arrangements are rapidly being made whereby Clanton will have a new orchestra in the near future. This bunch of local musicians is being assembled and trained by Mr. H. Pinkerson, who will be violinist. Mr. Lester Carter will play the saxaphone, and Mr. Grady Carter is bonjoist. Drummer is Mr. James Parrish.

This orchestra will be supplemented by many other musicians of Chilton county to be added from time to time. They will play popular musical numbers of the day, and will be glad to furnish music for churches and other public gatherings. They will engage in tours to distant towns as the former orchestra did in the past.

P.-T. A MEETING AT BILLINGSLEY

Our next regular P.-T. A. meeting will be held Tuesday evening, June 23rd, at 7:45 o'clock. Let us all, parents, teachers and friends to the school come to this meeting and help to make our P.-T. A. the best we have had. We want to make plans for our summer's work; report on our barbecue held May 30th, and listen to program on "Good Citizenship," that our Home Demonstration Club has so kindly consented to sponsor for us.—E. B. Mills, Pres. P.-T. A.

ONE CASE IN CITY COURT

One case was docketed in Mayor C. Fenn Jones' court last week. This was for public drunkeness. A fine of $1.00 and costs of $5.50 were paid.

ABOUT PAVING PROJECT

Mayor C. Fenn Jones informs The Union-Banner that the PWA paving and waterworks project is not dead yet.

A few days ago Mayor Jones wrote a letter to th state supervisor of PWA in regard to having his application transferred to the WPA, and received a reply that it would not be advisable to do this, inasmuch as the Clanton project is on the preferred list of projects of PWA, whereas if transferred, it would have to go "through the mill" at Washington all over again, as a WPA project, and might endanger its chances of going through.

EVAN PARRISH TO OPEN BUSINESS IN OLD STAND

Mr. Evan Parrish, since he is no longer connected with the Chilton County Exchange, is this week making arrangements to open up a business of his own in his same old stand, next to Newt Gray's barber shop. He will operate a cream business in connection with his general line of seed and feed, etc.

Mr. Parrish has a number of friends in this section, who will be glad to learn that he is going to continue in business in Clanton. Mr. Parrish will have full announcement about his new business next week.

SHERIFF REPORTS EIGHT ARRESTS

Sheriff J. R. Hardy reported eight arrests during last week, three of which were made by State Patrolmen Henley and Waites. These were as follows:

Two for violating the prohibition law. One made bond for $300; the other is still in jail.

Three for public drunkenness. Bonds were made for $200 each in two of the cases; the other is in jail.

Three for reckless driving. Two made bonds for $200 each; the other was released in jusaice court on payment of fine and costs.

FIFTEENTH ANNUAL CONVENTION OF PILOT INTERNATIONAL TO BE IN BIRMINGHAM JUNE 19 AND 20

Clear all decks! Set your sails and follow the "True Course Ever" to the Pilot International Convention at Birmingham June 19-20, where two full days of happiness awaits you. Birmingham, in the heart of Dixie, has anticipated this event for many months, and now that the time is almost at hand, let nothing interfere with your plans to attend. The Birmingham Club has planned entertainment galore—full of thrills and surprises that will make you glad you are living.

Reception Thursday night. Big luncheon Friday. Sightseeing Tour. Tea at Vestavia Gardens. Swimming party and dinner at Club Rex. Saturday, Banquet at Peacock Ballroom, Tutwiler, and International President's Ball at Pickwick Night Club.

Business in between times. And what business! Reports, election of officers and the proverbial fight for the convention site for next year. Pilots! Choose up sides!

The following members of the Clanton Club have already made reservations at the Tutwiler Hotel: Lona Thompson, Dewey Branch, Irene Smitherman, Willie Maude Kelley, Ruth Session, Alma Allen; Edith Mae McCutcheon, Mamie C. Smith and Gertie Fiquette are going as delegates from this club. There are others who are planning to attend both Friday and Saturday and return home Sunday.—Gertie Fiquette, Secretary and Reporter for Clanton Pilot Club.

EX-SOLDIERS—NOTICE BONUS MEETING CALLED

There will be an American Legion chicken barbecue at Hugh Mims Pond, on Friday, June 26th, from 2 to 7 p.m All ex-service men are asked to get their chickens ready. There will be more about the meeting and barbecue next week. Watch the papers for it. —J. N. Calloway, Chairman of Arrangements Committee.

URGES PEOPLE TO HEAR VARDAMAN

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow us space for just a few words. We are planning to have trucks from different points to carry all who want to go to Clanton to hear C. O. Vardaman on June 27th. We hope everyone in Beat 6 will make arrangements to go. You can watch the papers next week We wil notify you about what time the trucks will run, and from what place. There will be some from Enterprise school and Bethsalem church, and we hope to make some arrangements for the people of Shiloh community.—C. M. Billingsley, Chairman; S. B. Williams, Secretary.

YOUNG REPUBLICANS TO MEET AT SHILOH

The Young Republicans of Beat 6 will meet at Shiloh church on Friday night, June 26th. We have been having some good speakings, but we haven't had a meeting at this place yet. We are going over there to make this the best one we have had. We have only one or two members from this community. We hope the people will come out and join in and help us out. This is not just for young people, it is for all. We especially invite everyone, both young and old. We invite the ladies especially. We have some of the best speakers in the county. Mr. T. E. Wyatt, Hon. Percy M. Pitts and Mr. J. Z. Mims have all promised to be with us. We want people from other Beats to be with us and also our Republican candidates, we invite them. This will be explained by our county chairman, Mr. T. E. Wyatt, "Why it is called young Republican meetings." We hope the older ones will come out and be with us. Tell your friends and tell them to see others. They all might not take the paper. All from this community that want to go to this meeting meet at Mr. C. L. Wilkins, not later than 7:15. We will provide you a way to go.

Don't forget the date, Friday night, June 26th, at 8:00 o'rlock. Everybody come and bring all the family.—C. M. Billingsley, Chairman; S. B. Williams, Secretary.

Tiffin Furniture Co. Opens Special Sale

The Tiffin Furniture Company is this week announcing a special veterans sale, for the especial benefit of war veterans who are at this time receiving their "bonus" allotments.

In a letter sent out to all veterans last week, Mr. J. B. Tiffin, proprietor had the following to say:

"Many of you have homes and families. Many of you have been denied that privilege of properly furnishing your homes. Few of us have ever experienced such hardships as the depression has brought about.

"Within a few days many of you will make real investment in fulfilling the promises you have made to yourselves and your families regarding furnishing of your homes. When the time comes for you to do this, we would appreciate quoting your own prices.

"Furnishing homes is our business and our pleasure, and we believe you will find our prices to be right."

Accordingly, Mr. Tiffin has stocked his store with all kinds of home furnishings, and has put on his special veterans sale. He has a list of specials, including: Living room, bed room and dining room sets, breakfast room sets, ranges, electrical appliances of many kinds, floor coverings of all kinds, kitchen cabinets, kitchen utensils, too numerous to mention.

In this paper Mr. Tiffin has an announcement announcing this sale. Turn to it, read it, and then come in to the store and let Mr. Tiffin show you through his stock. It will be a pleasant revelation, and you owe it to ourself and your family to furnish your home well.

MARRIAGE LICENSE

Claud Harden Pipes, of Clanton, and Elizabeth Tinker Darby, received a marriage license Saturday at the probate office.—Montgomery Advertiser.

W. J. BILLINGSLEY THANKS THE REPUBLICAN VOTERS

To the Voters of Chilton County:

Please accept my sincere thanks for the votes which gave me the Republican nomination for county Treasurer in the coming election. I am most grateful to you for the confidence you placed in me and I assure you that I will do my very best to be elected and to help elect the entire Republican ticket.

To those who saw fit to vote for my opponent, I wish to say that this was your privilege, and since a clean campaign was waged between us and since there are no unkind feelings and no "scars" to be healed, I am asking for a solid and united front in the general election. If this is done we will have a happy victory in November.

I hope to see every voter before the election but if I do not, I am asking that you consider yourself a committee of one whose duty it is to work for the success of our ticket in the general election.

Again thanking you for my nomination, I am, sincerely yours.—W. J. Billingsley.

C. O. Vardaman To Run For Congress

Will Oppose Luther Patrick In Birmingham District; Is New Deal Critic

Jefferson County Republiians planned Tuesday to run C. O. Vardaman for Congress against Luther Patrick, Democratic nominee, and W. A. Denson and W. S. Glazener, independent candidates.

Mr. Vardaman is chairman of the Republican County Executive Committee and a leader of the Alabama League of Young Republicans. Paul Parsons, G. O. P. leader, said the executive committee probably would meet next ween to make the nomination.

Alabama delegates to the Cleveland Republican convention returned today and announced plans for an active campaign for the Landon-Knox ticket in this state.

"We are much pleased with the candidates and the palftorm," said O. D. Street, Sr., former G. O. P. national committeeman and one of the delegates. "We are encouraged over the party's chances in the Fall election."

Mr. Street said the Alabama delegates were unanimously for Gov. Alf Landon of Kansas and Col. Frank Knox of Illinois.

C. C. CONWAY WRITES ABOUT REPUBLICAN NATIONAL CONV.

Editor Union-Banner:

I would like to have a small space to tell of some of the happenings at the National Convention held at Cleveland. The convention was called into session on June 9th and a general routine of business gone through with, followed with the adoption of the platform. This did not take much time, for everyone seemed to be anxious to get into the nomination of a president.

Governor Alfred M. Landon was nominated as the Republican candidate for president without a dissenting vote—almost by acclamation. When this happened there was almost a stampede—people went wild, everyone alike.

When the matter of nominating a vice-president came up there were several placed before the house, but there being so many in favor of our good friend Frank Knox, the others withdrew in his favor. This selection was unanimous.

According to estimates, there were 18,000 people present at the convention. It must have been a rare happening for so many people to be so nearly of the same mind. It was the most unanimity and co-operation ever to prevail in any meeting I have ever attended. I am saying this to show our people what fine spirit reigned among the members of the party. It would be such a fine thing for this spirit of unanimity to reign in our county. If everyone could have been there and seen and heard for themselves, they would have come away inspired to go back home and put over the best program ever undertaken by the Republican party.

I would like to take this means to thank those, and especially those of Chilton county, who made it possible for me to attend this convention. If I can be of any service to the party in the future, I am waiting to be used.

Respectfully yours,
C. C. CONWAY.

WHIRLWIND TAKES OFF ROOF

This section of the country has come to expect most anything from tornadoes and hurricanes; but a new story comes to The Union-Banner about a whirlwind that visited near Thorsby Monday afternoon. About four o'clock a whirlwind originated near the home of Mr. Leon B. Popwell, one mile south of Thorsby, and it attained such power that it lifted a large portion of the tin roof from Mr. Popwell's barn, as well as the two-by-fours which were spiked to the rafters and to which the tin was nailed. A young man, who was working on Mr. Popwell's farm, was hurled some ten or twelve feet against the side of the barn and bruised up slightly. A large piece of tin was picked up by the whirlwind and thrown into Mr. Popwell's mule, which in turn ran away and skinned itself up considerably. This all happened while the sun was shining hot, and there was no sign of a cloud.

PAUL C. MIMS THANKS VOTERS

To The Voters of Chilton County:

I wish to thank each and every person who cast a vote for me in last week's primary. I am proud to know that I have that many friends who appreciate the efforts I have put forth in the interest of our party.

Further, I have no hard feelings against any voter who favored the other candidate. It was their privilege, and I would be the last to deny that privilege.

In conclusion, I want to assure everyone that I shall remain on the firing line, giving all that I have in support of my party. That will not only include my vote, but also what influence I can wield, and all the fight I am able to put into the campaign to come. What grievances I have will be satisfied within our own party in time to come, and not by my "jumping the fence", so to speak.

Again I wish to thank my supporters, assure our other people that I hold no ill will against them, and to pledge my whole support to the Republican cause.—Paul C. Mims.

ILLINOIS CENTRAL MAKES IMPROVEMENTS IN ALABAMA

That the dependable service rendered by the railroads in the transportation of passengers, freight, express and mails represent only a part of the benefits of the railroads to the communities which they serve is strikingly shown by a statement of expenditures just issued by the Illinois Central System.

Last year the Illinois Central system spent $1,055,689 in Alabama for wages, materials, supplies, taxes and other items.

Providing employment to an average of 336 workers in Alabama, the railroad paid out $525,300 in wages in the state last year.

The railroad's next largest outlay was for fuel, materials and supplies. For these items the Illinois Central spent $459,600 with 28 Alabama firms las tyear. A large part of this sum went to pay wages for industrial workers in the state.

State, county and local governments and other taxing bodies in Alabama received $47,868 in taxes from the Illinois Central system last year. A substantial part of this sum went to the support of the public schools and maintain the public highways.

An additional $22,900 was spent by the Illinois Central in Alabama last year for water, electricity, telephone service, rentals and pensions.

The Illinois Central is a property owner and tax payer in eight counties in Alabama, and its 1935 expenditures for all items were spread over sixteen counties of the state.

FFA ANNUAL MEETING IS SET FOR JULY 16-18

Auburn, Ala.—Plans are being made for approximately 900 young farmers and vocational teachers to attend the sixth anual convention of the Alabama Association of future Farmers of America to be held here July 16-18.

During the three-day meeting the delegatse will receive special training in farm leadership which is to be the keynote of this year's convention, says A. C. Allen, Jr., Holtville, State FFA president, who will preside. In addition, they will visit the State Experiment Station here to study the latest developments in scientific agriculture and research.

R. J. Goode, commissioner of agriculture, and Dr. J. B. Hobdy, director of vocational educational, will be two of the principal speakers.

J. L. BURNETT THANKS VOTERS

To the Voters of Chilton County:

I am most grateful and thankful for the confidence you placed in me by making me the Republican nominee for Commissioner of the Third District of our county.

My association with and contacts with the voters during the primary were indeed pleasant and I conducted a fair, honest and clean campaign. I won the nomination and now I am asking for your support in the general election.

I have always voted the Republican ticket and am a firm believer in the Republican principles. I believe we will elect our ticket overwhelmingly this fall and I want to insist that every Republican consider himself or herself a committee whose duty it is to work untiringly and unceasingly for the success of the Republican party from now until the date of the general election. If this is done we will be victorious in November.

Again thanking you for your votes, I am—Respectfully yours, J. L. Burnett.

Game and Fish News

Montgomery, Ala.,—Pointing to a recent example of cooperative effort on the part of Jefferson County sportmen in assisting game wardens in eliminating fish traps, the State Conservation Department has appealed to sportsmen in other sections of Alabama to aid the wardens in stamping out game and fish law violations.

Recently, says the Alabama Game and Fish News, a group of 35 sportsmen met two game wardens in north Jefferson County at 6.00 o'clock in the morning and spent the entire day assisting them in removing five dams and confiscating as many fish traps in the little Warrior River and a creek flawing into it.

"How quickly game and fish law violations could be erased if sportsmen in other parts of the state would join the wardens in enforcing the laws and seizing nets and such traps as those found in the Little Warrior," comments the News.

"The lakes above Montgomery have been beset for years with dynamiters, seiners and trappers and would be an excellent spot for similar work on the part of the sportsmen. The wardens in this district have confiscated an untold number of nets and seins and the department has sponsored strict laws in an effort to stamp out these violations . . . but only with the combined efforts of the sportsmen of this region will they ever be entirely wiped out."

What is true in the lake section and Little Warrior river likewise is true in other sections of the state, said the News, adding that it was unfortunate that the builders of the traps on Little Warrior could not be apprehended.

Lesson for June 21

JESUS EXALTED

LESSON TEXT—Luke 24:36-53.

GOLDEN TEXT—Wherefore God also hath highly exalted him, and given him a name which is above every name.—Philippians 2:9.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Goes Home to Heaven.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus Goes Home to Heaven.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—The Lord We Worship.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Exalted Christ and the Unfinished Task.

In order properly to view the ascension of Christ into heaven, it would be well to study his ministry during the forty days prior to his ascension.

I. The Walk of the Two Discouraged Disciples (vv. 13-15).

Emmaus was seven and a half miles northwest of Jerusalem. Just why these disciples were walking this way we do not surely know. Perhaps their home was there. Or they were merely walking to seek relief from their stunning sorrow. If they had believed what Jesus had told them about his death and resurrection, they would have escaped this great disappointment. Unbelief causes many heartaches and disappointments. The topic of conversation was the tragedy of the cross and the resurrection rumors. So little had his teaching about the resurrection impressed the disciples that the reports which the women brought were as idle tales to them.

II. The Unrecognized Companion (vv. 16-24).

1. Who he was (v. 15). While they reasoned together on the wonderful events of the last few days, Jesus joined them. When he questioned them concerning their sadness they did not recognize him. How often we are so engrossed with our sorrows and disappointments that we fail to recognize Jesus, even though he is walking by our side.

2. His question (v. 17). Perceiving their sadness and perplexities, he sought to help by calling forth a statement of their grief.

3. Their answer (v. 18). His questions so surprised them that they jumped to the conclusion that he was a stranger in Jerusalem. The condemnation and crucifixion of the great prophet of Nazareth were so recent and notorious that no one who had lived in Jerusalem could be ignorant of them.

III. The Scriptures Opened (vv. 25-31).

1. His rebuke (vv. 25-30). He did not rebuke them for not believing the strange stories that they had heard, but for ignorance of and lack of confidence in the Old Testament Scriptures. They had only accepted such parts of the Old Testament as suited their notions. The very center and heart of the Old Testament Scriptures set forth the death and resurrection of Christ. Ignorance of the Scriptures and unbelief as to the wonders and complete redemption wrought by Christ robs us of many joys and deprives us of power as workers for Christ.

2. Jesus Recognized (vv. 31-35). While sitting at meat with the disciples, their eyes were opened as they saw him bless the bread and distribute it to them. We too can see the Lord on such common occasions as eating a meal if we have open eyes. Indeed, we ought to see him when eating, buying, selling, and in our recreations, for he has promised his abiding presence. They were so filled with joy over this revelation of the Savior that they hastened back to Jerusalem to tell the other disciples of his resurrection.

IV. Jesus Stands in the Midst of the Eleven (vv. 36-47).

1. He said, "Peace be unto you" (vv. 36, 37).

However, they were terrified and affrighted. Sinful man in the presence of a holy God is ill at ease.

2. He showed them his hands and his feet (vv. 38-40). In order to convince them of his personal identity, he gave them tangible evidence that he was not a mere spirit.

3. He ate before them (vv. 41-45).

4. He commissioned them to evangelize the world (vv. 46-49). They were to testify concerning his shed blood and resurrection, and on this ground they were to preach repentance and remission of sins to all nations.

5. Jesus ascends into heaven (vv. 50-53).

Having given them the parting message to evangelize the world he ascended into heaven. From his place in heaven he continues to carry on his work through his disciples as they are energized by the Holy Ghost. Just as we treasure the last words of our departed loved ones so we should ponder this farewell message of our Lord.

Magnet of Thankfulness

The unthankful heart, like my finger in the sand, discovers no mercies; but let the thankful heart sweep through the day, and as the magnet finds the iron, so will it find in every hour some heavenly blessings, only the iron in God's sand is gold.—Henry Ward Beecher.

Growth to Perfection

Earth holds heaven in the bud; our perfection there has to be developed out of our imperfection here.—C. Rossetti.

Mrs. A. E. Middlebrooks and daughters, Christine and Kathryn, left Monday for several weeks visit in Florida.

BOB JONES COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

There must be some final court of appeal in the domain of religion. The Roman Catholic Church appeals to a Pope and to the Catholic church. The pope is infallible when he speaks as head of the church. The writer has the most profund respect for every man who is honest in his religion. The Protestant church is supposed to believe in an authoritative Bible. "Whatever the Bible says is so" has always been the position of Protestant Christians. During the last few years in colleges and universities a question mark has been injected in the minds of the youth about the authority of the Bible. The Bible says Jesus was born of a Virgin. Was He or was He not? "It doesn't matter", says the modernist. The orthodox Christian says, "It does matter." The Bible says He was born of a virgin. If He was not born of a virgin then the Bible is not true. Respect for the authority of the Bible has been dying out in the hearts of Protestant young people. That accounts for our empty Protestant churches. Catholic churches are crowded and Protestant churches are empty. When a Catholic goes to his church and the priest speaks, even though he may be speaking in Latin, the Catholic layman says, "Whatever he says is so". Protestant young people fresh from our colleges and universities if they go to church at all and the preacher reads out of the Bible, they sit there wondering if the Bible is so.

"When Jesus Christ was here the common people heard him gladly" because He spake as one having authority. Men have always listened to an authoritative voice. A great physician one time spoke to the students of the Bob Jones College. He did not make a great speech, but the speaker had an authoritative voice. He talked like he knew what he was talking about and each student listened. A great authority was speaking. The Protestant pulpits of America need to again give an authoritative message. We need to clean out from our institutions of learning these modernistic, behavioristic, atheistic teachers who are destroying in the hearts of our young people respect for the Bible. The writer has gone with his work into every state in the union and into many lands across the sea and every man he has ever known who knows the Bible believes it. These half-baked, superficial "upstarts" who are questioning the authority of the Bible are ignoramuses. They were so branded a few years ago by Dr. Robert Dick Wilson, who to the writer's mind, was the greatest scholar of this generation. John the Baptist came preaching "Repent for the kingdom of heaven is at hand" and he talked with such authority people repented. The apostle Peter on the day of Pentecost was unequivocal. He talked like a man who knew what he was talking about. The people listened and three thousand people were converted. Billy Sunday, Dwight L. Moody, Sam Jones, and all the other great preachers who have reached the masses and moved them to repent did not "pussy-foot". There is no place for the man in the ministry who has any doubts about his message. A great salesman must first be "sold" himself. If a preacher is not sold on the gospel he preaches and the Bible from which he is supposed to get his gospel, how in the name of common sense can he sell anybody else. No wonder we have empty pews in our churches. "Why do you actors give fiction and your audiences weep," a minister inquired of an actor. "We actors give fiction like it is fact and you preachers give fact like it is fiction". Men know they are sinners. They want a way out. The Word of God and the gospel offer a way out. May God raise up men who have burning hearts to show poor, distressed, lost men the way to God!

BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION

On Sunday, June 7th, the children grandchildren and a number of relatives and friends of Rev. T. J. Deramus gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Williams in the Concord-Billingsley community to celebrate his 86th birthday anniversary. All the children were present except Mr. T. A. Deramus of near Haynes. There were a few grandchildren absent. We were sorry they could not be present. The morning was spent in meeting old friends and making new ones.

At the noon hour lunch was spread, picnic style, out in the oak grove where everyone enjoyed a real feast.

Those enjoying this happy occasion with Rev. T. J. Deramus were:

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Williams and family, Mr. and Mrs W. R. Ledbetter and family, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. McLean and family of near Adams, Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Deramus and son, Mr. J. L. Deramus and children, Mr. and Mrs. Cooper Deramus and family, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Wright and son, all of Selma, Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Deramus of Clanton, Mr. and Mrs C. E. Williams of Maplesville, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Moore of Billingsley, Mr. and Mrs. William Deramus and family of Haynes, Mr. and Mrs. Isaiah Deramus of Montgomery, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Deramus and family, Mrs. Sam Abbott and family of Independence, Mrs. Agnes McLean of Jemison, Miss Ethel Deramus of Clanton, Miss Catherine Deramus of Maplesville, Mr. Charles Williams of Prattville, Mr. A. A. Deramus of Haynes.

The invited guests were Mr. and Mrs. M. V. Brown and family, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Knowles and family, Mrs. D. H. Missildine, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Moatts, Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Jones and family, Mr. and Mrs. F. T. Williams and family, Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Wright and little daughter, Mr and Mrs. G. M. Moore, Mrs. Susan Moore, Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Moore, Misses Fannie, Alice and Ella Williams of Billingsley Rte. 1, Mr. and Mrs. Merda Colee and family, Mr. and Mrs. Euell Colee and family, Mr. David Weaver, Miss Jeanette Weaver, Mr. Davis and Mr. Clarence Colee of Jones, Misses Lottie Seymore and Ollie Mae Fuqua of Adams, Mrs. Lillie Campbell of Haynes, Mr. Grover Smitherman, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Wilson and family of Adams, Mr. W. E. Jones and daughter, Norma, of Independence, Mr. J. M. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Snyder and daughter, Mrs. Moses Ledbetter, Mr. Houston Mims of Clanton Route 3.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Foshee and family and Mr. Clifford Jones were afternoon guests.

Kodaking and music were enjoyed during the afternoon. At a late hour every one departed for home, wishing grandpap lots more happy birthdays and hoping to meet again soon.

L, & N. SPENDING SEVERAL THOUSANDS FOR IMPROVEMENT

Approximately $330,000 is being spent by the Louisville & Nashville Railroad in air-conditioning 39 day coaches for use in several of its better trains, according to the L. & N. Employes' Magazine for June.

Three of the coaches were completed and placed in service the last week in May. It is expected that the remaining 36, 14 will be ready for the rails in June, and 22 in July.

Thirty of the air-conditioned coaches will be placed in the Pan-American and Nos. 1 and 4 between Cincinnatti and New Orleans and Memphis, and the remainder will be assigned to the Southland, the Flamingo, the Dixie Flyer and the Dixie Limited in joint service between Chicago and Florida.

University News

University, Ala.—"Come on in; the water's fine" rings out over the University of Alabama campus these days as men students wend their way to the University's new swimming lake to enjoy a cool swim and escape the summer's heat after a morning in classes. The new pool, completed with federal funds after three years of construction work, has just been thrown open to men enrolled in the summer session.

Lawrence B. Tipton, State Director of Public Safety, has been appointed supervisor of the first all-south training school for traffic officers to be held at the Alabama campus July 20-31. Tipton will be assisted by a faculty composed of outstanding national figures in public safety.

President George H. Denny in a statement issued to the Executive committee of the Board of Trustees early this week announced that he is willing to remain in the presidency until the Board has had time to find his successor. "I frankly admit," Dr. Denny said. "that, in view of the debt I owe to the people of Alabama in general and to the University in particular, I am constrained again to yield to the appeal that the trustees be allowed additional time for the selection of my successor. This I do gladly and without the slightest feeling that I am, inspite of my health, being asked to do more than my plain duty. Meantime, the trustees are making provision for the lightening of my load."

Annual conference week will be open at the University, Monday, June 22. During the week the University will again be host to the State Education Conference, the Institute of State and Local Affairs, the institute of the Alabama Congress of Parents and Teachers, and the Alabama Federation of Women's Clubs. Dr. Howard Odum of the University of North Carolina will lead the Institute of Affairs; Dr. L. Thomas Hopkins of Columbiana University will direct the Education Conference, and Mrs. Stoe of Washington will collaborate with Mrs. James Fitts Hill in the Parent Teacher Institute.

2,800 COTTON CHECKS BEING MAILED DAILY

Auburn, Ala.—Cotton price adjustment payment checks are being sent Alabama farmers at the rate of 2,800 per day, announces Walter L. Randolph, administrative officer in charge of the State Agricultural Conservation program. "The majority of the checks will be in the hands of the producers by July 15th," says Mr. Randolph.

As rapidly as the checks are issued they are mailed to county agents who in turn notify the producers as soon as they are received.

STATE-WIDE CREAM CONFERENCE CALLED

Montgomery, Ala.—R. J. Goode, State Commissioner of Agriculture, has called a state-wide meeting of Alabama cream producers, creamery and cream station operators, and agricultural leaders to consider the establishment of grades and standards for cream sold in Alabama. The meeting will be held at the state department of Agriculture hear on Wednesday, June 24, at 10 a.m.

All interested persons in the State are invited to attend. Those present will include producers and creamery and cream station operators from all sections of the state; also officials of the State Department of Agriculture, the State Extension Service, the Dairy Department at Auburn, and the State Health Department.

OAK GROVE

There will be singing at this place on the first Sunday in July. Everybody come, bring your dinner and new books and spend the day with us. Prof. A. H. Glasscock will be here with his new books.—W. J. Northcutt.

4-H CANNING GIRLS OFFERED FINE PRIZES IN NATIONAL CONTEST

Girls enrolled in 4-H canning projects are ayain offered select prizes for superior records, announces the National Committee on boys and Girls Club work at Chicago. The awards which are profided in the 8th Natnonol 4-H Canning Contest by the Kerr Glass Corporation comprise gold medals for county winners, chaperoned educationla trips to the next national Club Congress for state champions, and three college scholarships of $300 $200 and $100 to national winners.

To compete, a 4-H canner is required to fill a standard report form available from local leaders or county extension agents giving a record of her canning experience. She should show the number of jars and kinds of foo dcanned, how they were utilized, the number of exhibits made and prizes won, demonstration and judging contests entered, the assistance given to other canning girlus and housewives, and any awards or recognitions she has received.

Contestants are not requared to enter any of their products or pay a fee of any kind. County and state winners are to be chosen by extension agents late this summer on the basis of their reports and national winners will be chosen in November by a committee of nationally known 4-H leaders

Forty-one states participa'ed in the contest last year in which Isabel Travis, age 17, of Sun River, Montana, won national honors on a four year 3,720 pints of foods. Julia Menuk, 19, Clintonville, Conn., won a $200 scholarship on 3,223 pints canned in seven years, and Lois Carr, 17, Goddard, Kansas, a scholarship on 2,000 pints.

ALABAMA MAY LOSE EXTENSION FUNDS

Auburn, Ala.—Dr. L. N. Duncan, director of the State Extension Service has officially notified all State Extension workers, including county men and women farm agents, that Alabama will lose its allotment of Federal funds for the State Extnesion Service unless definite provisions are made to meet the requirements of the Feneral Government in the matching of Federal funds.

He also has given notice that the ten million dollars or more, which the farmers of the state should receive under the new Agricultural Conservation program will be greatly endangered unless the Federal extension funds are matched.

In making the official announcement, Dr. Duncan quoted statements from Dr. W. C. Warburton, director of the United States Extension Service, Washington, D. C., showing that Alabama cannot be allotted any Federal funds for extension work for the fiscal year July 1, 1936, to June 30, 1937, unless the Federal funds are matched by State funds as provided by the Federal acts.

Dr. L. N. Duncan did not make any suggestions as to how to solve the problem, except to say to extension workers:

"It is exceedingly important that you make these facts known at your earliest opportunity to the farm men and women leaders and other citizens of the several counties in order that these people may take such steps as they may deem wise and proper with reference to the matter.

Dr. A. E. Middlebrooks is teaching a course at Huntingdon College this week in the Alabama Conference Leadership School for all pastors and laymen of the Conference. He is expected to return to Clanton Saturday and be in his pulpit Sunday morning.

Mrs. Durwood O. Foshee and children, Jeannie and Durwood, Jr., and Mrs. Julius H. Foshee, all of Jacksonville, Florida, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. B. G. Foshee of South Clanton.

Farm Planning

Farm planning has a new meaning to farm families in Chilton County who have borrowed from the Resettlement Administration to carry them through this crop year, accorading to who recently announced that 218 families in this county are receiving rural rehobilitation aid this year.

"Those families who have received such loans," said Mr. Durbin, "are learning that budgeting and other business methods are just as important in their come back as the money advanced to them. Most of our farmers were forced on relief by conditions over which they had no control, but undoubtedly some of them went on relief because they failed to use business methods and employ sound judgement in plonning their farm operation.

"The Resettlement Administration recognizes its responsibility to guard such families against a return to relief status, and that is what is back of our farm and home management plans."

Each family, Mr. Durbin explained, agrese when his loan is advanced that both farm and home will be managed according to plans drawn up with the help of J. W. Fant, county Agricultural Agent, and Ruth Pardue, County Home Demonstration Agent.

Under this plan, according to Mr. Durbin, farm produce is divided into three groups—food crops, feed crops and cash crops. The major emphasis in determining crops to plant is placed first on a comfortable living for the family, and second, on feed for farm animals. This, he said, is based on the fact that living at home is less expensive and more certain than living out of stores.

HAY MOWED AT CORRECT STAGE MAKES BEST FEED

Auburn.—At what stage of growth and development should cowpeas, soybeans, alfalfa, lespedeza, and grasses be cut to make the best hay?

"Based on research and practical experiecne," answers O. E. Pollock, extension hay specialist, U. S. D. A., "it appears that alfalfa should be cut for hay when from one-tenth to one-fourth in bloom or about the time the first basal shoots appear; soybeans between the time the seeds begin to form and when they are half developed; lespedeza when in full bloom; cowpeas when the first pods begin to turn yellow from maturity, but before any of the pods mature enough to scatheirseeds in handling; johnson grass when the first heads appear from the boot; and miscelleanous grasses not later than full bloom."

Mr. Pollock states that late cutting "not only results in actual loss of protein but the hay becomes less palatable and more difficult to digest." The quality of many excellent crops of hay is virtually sacrificed after the hay is ready for harvest because of late cutting, he says.

Baptist Institute Here June 30th

June 30th, July 1st and 2nd, has been selected by the W. M. U. of the Unity and Chilton Association, as the dates most suitable for our Mission Institute. This article is written to remind you that you and your whole family are urged to be present. Many preparations are being made for your pleasure, instruction and inspiration. Dr. L. O. Dawson, Howard College, preacher and philosopher without peer, is to bring the inspirational address each day. Miss Juliette Weeks, who gave chalk talks so interestingly last year, will conduct the devotionals. Dr. Fred Barnes is to speak each day. Miss Essie Fuller, recently returned Missionary from Brazil, and Rev. J. F. Plainfield, wso was converted in Brazil by a Missionary, and worked there for seven and a helf years will make South America interesting and very real to every class and age. Miss Hallie Lee Stoudemire from India will tell us of that strange far-away land. A fine song leader and good teachers for every age groups have been secured.

Now! What Are You Going To Do?

1. Please draw a circle on the calendar around these three days and let no member of the family plan for anything else at that time.

2. Talk about these meetings to all your friends and invite them.

3. See that the Institute and dates are announced in your church SOON.

4. You men. Begin to plan at once, at Sunday school, for busses, trucks, or cars sufficient to bring your membership. Take up a collection to pay for the gasoline if necessary.

5. You women. Plan your lunch early. Talk it over with your lunch chairman, if she doesn't do anything, plan it anyway. That's your part of the meeting. Clanton cares for the speakers and teachers, furinshes the drinks, serves the lunch and entertoins all who will spend the nights. If each church will plan to feed about fifty, one day only, of the meeting we will all come out with flying colors.

6. Plan to attend all three days, regardless of your age or sex. If you wish any information write Mrs. W. E. Cobern, Maplesville, for Unity, Mrs. J. Lee Grant, Verbena Rue. 2 for Chilton or Mrs. S. J. Ezell, Clanton. The programs with detailed lunch plans will be mailed to pastors, superintendents of Sunday school and W. M. S. presidents soon.

7. Pray that our people may take advantage of this wonderful opportunity and that the speakers may bring us the messages that we so greatly need.

I am going to be looking for you to meet me at Clanton Baptist church, June 30, July 1 and 2.—Mrs. S. J. Ezell, Director.

Republican Speaker Here Sat., June 27

Hon. C. O. Vardaman Will Address Chilton Folks At 2:00 O'Clock

Prominent State Leader Will Lecture In Interest of Republican Party Principles

Honorable C. O. Vardaman, of Birmingham, Will speak at the courthouse in Clanton Saturday afternoon, June 27th, at 2:00 o'clock. The meeting will be sponsored bf the Young Republican unit of Chilton county, but will be open for everybody. If you are interested in civic affairs, government or politics, you will want to hear Mr. Vardaman.

Mr. Vardaman was in Clanton and spoke one Saturday afternoon last January. Those who heard him know what an outstanding speaker he is and what a caustic critic of the New Deal he has proven himself to be. If you are interested in politics, don't let anything keep you from hearing Mr. Vardaman on June 27th. There will be loud speakers so all can hear.

LETTER FROM DR. BOB JONES

Cleveland, Tenn.
June 17, 1936.

Dear Friends:

The Bob Jones College at Cleveland, Tennessee, has as high educational standards as any similar college in the United States. It stands without apology for the old time religion and the absolute authority of the Bible. The Bob Jones College is engaged in training great orthodox Christian leaders — doctors, lawyers, teachers, preachers, busines men, business women, etc. The Bob Jones College gives piano, pipe organ, violin, speech, and voice without additional cost.

Going to college is serious business. A young person's entire future life depends largely upon the contacts made off at college. In the Bob Jones College students make safe contacts.

If you wish literature, write Bob Jone College, Cleveland, Tennessee.

Sincerely yours,
BOB JONES.

MASONIC DAY CELEBRATION

Among the coming events in the Gulf Coast states in June, is the 65th Masonic Day celebration at Florala, Ala., which will be held Wednesday, June 24th, beginning locally at 6:00 p.m., June 23, and closing 12:00 midnight, June 24, the main celebration lasting one day only—June 24th.

This is conceded to be the largest annual Masonic Day celebration in America; attended last year by more than 25,000 visitors, representing nearly every state in the United States.

Florala's celebration was established June 24th, 1871, and in all these years there has never been a single omission. It began simply as a communtiy gathering to witness the public installation of Masonic Lodge Officers. Gradually, new features were added until it now embraces an enormous program featuring nearly every attraction of Mardi Gras and other ancient festivals of the Old World—everything to entertain and amuse its visitors.

YOUNG REPPUBLICANS OF COUNTY ARE ASKED ADVERTISE SPEAKING

The Young Republicans of Chilton County are expected to turn out in masse to hear Hon. C. O. Vardaman speak at the courthouse Saturday afternoon, June 27th, at 2:00 o'clock. Of course, the whole family is expected, as for that matter—father. mther, grandpa, grandma and all the children. So, we want to impress upon every member of the unit in Chilton County that you are a committee of one to advertise this speaking in your community, and see that everybody has a way to get to Clanton. Let the Beat chairmen and secretaries take up this matter, and see that it is attended to.

Mr. Vardaman is one of the best speakers in Alabama, and he really has the interest of the Republican party at heart. He knows the New Deal from A to Z, and it afords him the greatest of pleasure to expound to the people the unsavory tactics of the Democrats from Washington on down the line.

Judge J. Osmond Middleton will also be present, and will have some words to say, as well as other notable Republicans. Loud spakers will be provided so that the crowds outside may hear the same as those in the court room. Make your arrangements to come, young Republicans, and let no one else in your community be deprived of attending; tell evevrybody about it, and help them arrange a way to get to Clanton.

LAY DAM BEAT COLUMBIANA TWICE

Columbiana was an all-round loser to Chilton County teams last week. coming out on the short end of three games. After being beaten by Clanton on Wednesday afternoon by the Clanton team. Lay Dam beat them two other games over the week end.

On Friday afternoon the Dammers went to Columbiana and won 3-2 behind the effective 4 hit pitching of Golson.

On Sunday, Columbiana came down to Lay Dam and lost 11-3. The Dammers collected 13 hits off the combined pitching efforts of Bird, Jackson and D. Faulkner, while Foshee held the visitors to seven safeties. The Shelbians blew up for nine errors during the game.

Miner and N. Crumpton led Columbiana at bat with two safe hits each; Cobb led the Dammers with three. and Marcus and Warren had a pair each.

GRANT TO TEACH SINGING SCHOOL AT PATES CHAPEL

Prof. L. T. Grant will teach a singing school at Pates Chapel church beginning Monday, August 3rd, and continuing for three weeks. Already about 60 pupils have signed up for attendance, and many more are expected.

The playing for the school will be done by Mrs. Birdie Johnson, who will also give piano lessons to any who may desire such training.

Prof. Grant had a very successful school last year at this same place, taught at night. This year it will be in the daytime, and indications are that it will be a fine school. Anyone interested should get in touch with Prof. Grant at an early date.

HOME COMING IN COOSA COUNTY

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert

One of the political misapprehensions of the day, and one which has doubtless been fostered by astute members of the Brain Trust is that which maintains that the liberal thought of the country is lined up behind the so-called New Deal. A concerted effort has been made in some respects to characterize all of those who oppose the centralizing principles of the new era as conservatives, or moss-back Tories of a departed generation. Yet it is gradually becoming evident that such is not the case; that there is no cohesive sentiment of so-called liberals behind the New Deal. This must become evident to all who stop to consider that men like former Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania and William Allen White, the Kansas editor, have been by no means mild in their criticism of some of the supposedly ultra-modern federal policies.

And it is of considerably more than passing interest to note that Dr. Glenn Frank, often regarded as the dean of the liberal movement in the United States, has spoken out unqualifiedly against the movement toward centralized authority toward real liberalism. In a Memorial address over a radio network, in commenting on centrtalization of power, Dr. Frank pointed out these facts:

"Even when effected with democratic consent and designed to serve emergency ends only, centralized power has always moved relentlessly in the direction of self-perpetuation. And it has scorned no weapon that would advance it on its road to permanent power. It has always, sooner or later, sought to bully into silence the voice of corrective criticism intimidate minority opinion liquidate all opposition by charactter assassination, and thus gain unsuestioned right-of-way for its very whim. And, once entrenched, with a presumption of permanence, centralized power has always grown domineering. It has become the victim of whim and caprice. Until, at last, a revolt of the governed has proved the only road to progress."

Dr. Frank pointed out that if we are to keep the faith we must "not premit an undue centralization of political power or an undue centrtalization of economic power to drop seeds of a new tyranny in American soil," but that "we must, at whatever cost, preserve ourselves as a self-governing democracy, for only so can we hope to keep power centralized enough to achieve efficiency without tyranny and keep power decentralized enough to preserve freedom without anarchy." This is what the Founding Fathers sought to do when they wrote the Constitution of the United States. He added that "we must be eternally on our guard lest our new reform but give expression to our old evils. We must not delude ourselves into thinking we are making progress if our public planning does the incredible thing of adopting without revision all the old tricks of private monoply, such as the arbitrary fixing of prices, the arbitrary cutting down of production, and the arbitrary elimination of competition which have so long jammed the gears of what might have been a workable economics of plenty."

It will be interesting to note what reply, if any, there will be from the federal planners to this enunciation of the doctrine of liberalism. Will Dr. Frank be classed among the Tories, because of his denunciation of centralized power as a stepping-stone to Old World autocracy? The words of Jefferson on individual initiative and those of Franklin on economy and thrift could easily be quoted to indict them as Tories under the new political dispensation. Yet, as a matter of fact, true liberalism has always advocated the freest expression of individual effort and enterprise that is consisuent with sound public policy. The sooner we become aware of this fact, the better we will resolve political elements into their proper spheres.

THE LANDON-KNOX SET-UP

The Republica national convention has come and gone, and the party's choice has been arrived at. American history does not record many such harmonious national conventions in either of the great political parties. The convention's choice had been approved by the nation long before the body convened; and never has a candidate for the presidency received a nomination which was more obviously the free, spontaneous and uninfluenced expression of the people's choice. The same was true of the convention's selection for vice-president.

Governor Landon's personal charactor, the snese of his capacity, plainness of speech and his directness of diction, felt first in his home state of Kansas, has already spread throughout the nation. His achievements have come to be known and his fitness to serve the country in a great crisis has already been perceived throughout America.

And Mr. Landon's running mate is a wheel-horse too. A better team than Governor Alford M. Landon and Colonel Frank Knox could not have been selected had months been consumed in scouring the country. They are both men of unquestioned ability, and their life's record show that they do things. They may not possess a million-dollar smile, and they may not be able to speak sugar-coated words into the "mike" as well as some we might mention; but the nation will become aware that they are fighters within the next few months. Watch out for Landon and Knox; they will open somebody's eyes in the coming national campaign.

CHILTON'S REPRESENTATIVES RETURN

The two representatives from Chilton county and from this Congressional District to the National Republican convention—Messrs. C. C. Conway and J. Dewey Rockett, returned Saturday night from Cleveland, Ohio, the former, our delegate and the latter, our alternate.

Mr. Rockett reports a mighty enjoyable time and what he terms a most successful national convention. He says that he tries not to become over-confident, but that everything points to a Republican success this fall.

Our two Chilton countians had the rare privilege of rubbing elbows with the really great men and statesmen of the nation—a privilege that does not often come to citizens of our county. We are proud for them that they had the opportunity, and we are proud that the name of Chilton county was carried to the heights of a great national gathering. Conway and Rockett feel elated and we feel elated too.

JUST A YEAR AGO

Newspapers on May 27th called attention to the fact that it was just one year ago from the date that the famous NRA law was declared unconstitutional by a unanimous Supreme Court decision and the Blue Eagle became, legally, at least, as extinct as the dodo bird.

It is interesting now to recall the many dire predictions made on that occasion by many of the architects of NRA legislation. All sorts of terrible things were going to happen. There would be strikes, lockouts, wage reductions, cut-throat competition and business would take a nose dive into the depths of economic despair. The high court has put us back in the terrible horse and buggy age when every man was responsible for making his own living and supporting his family, and there was much talk about clipping the powers of the Supreme Court either by legislation or constitutional amendment.

But the succeeding 12 months showed that the prophets of ill-omen were talking through their mortar-tar board hats. Since the Blue Eagle was relegated to the political zoo, business has proceeded to get better rather than worse. Even some of the direct prophets of despair now not only admit that business is improving, but even boast of it. The depressoin is solved, they say, and it won't be long now until we will be sailing in the greatest sea of prosperity the good old Ship of State has ever encountered.

All good Americans hope that these rosy prophecies will turn out better than the gloomy ones did last year. They hope and look forward to better things in spite of the 12,000,000 unemployed, the bigger and bigger appropriations for relief and prospects of higher taxes.

But the point to be remembered now is that the predictions of despair made by the proponents of the Blue Eagle a year ago have gone very much "blooey", for which all of us, of course, ought to be thankful. The fact is that instead of growing worse after the demise of the NRA, business actually began to get better. And it would continue to get better even more rapidly were private enterprise assured that there would be more federal econmoy, looking toward budget-balancing in the near future.

Regimentation may be a cardinal Euporean doctrine, but it has proved unnecessary in the United States. And what more eloquent and convincing proof could there be than the record of private business in the United States from the time that the Blue Eagle sang its political swan song?

Usually the smaller the brain is in a man's head the greater the head is apt to inflate if given a little opportunity.

The old-fashioned man who was presented with his first watch and chain on his 21st birthday, now has a son who has worn out three automibiles before he is old enough to vote.

MAN IN THE MOON

PAINLESS

Well, its all over, and I lost. But strange to say, I don't seem to be in any extreme pain over the fact. You know, all along I wondered a bit about just how I would feel in case I should be beaten at any stage of the game. I had three chances to be beaten—in the first primary, the second primary, and the general election. Strange to say, again, it fell to my lot to lose the middle race. But maybe that was appropriate—I was a "middle-of-the-road" candidate any way, and it may have been best that I lose the middle contest.

And now, although my name may never be seen on another ticket, it will not mean that I am not fighting for those party principles which I believe best, but it will mean that I am keeping myself in the open, cleared for action, ready and fighting every minute for a live and active party—a party made up of ALL our pepole.

Here's to a great new, clean, free and militant Republican party in Chilton County. I shall fight for that, and that alone.

WE MUST BUILD

If the Republican party of Chilton County is ever to regain its power, lost in 1934, it must completely rebuild itself. No amount of polishing can do the job, either. It must be a completer job of rebuilding, from the very start.

When a new automobile is driven from the factory, its a marvel of perfection. The parts may be a little rough, but they will polish themselvts, with a little "breaking in" until the whole is a smooth working unit, powerful and efficient.

As time goes on there is more and more friction, until after a period of service, these once smooth working parts begin to bump and rattle against each other. If repairs are not made at once, these bumps continue to impair the whole machine until there is a complete breakdown. Then there is no use to repair. New parts will not fit very well with worn parts. The whole must be dismantled, and all working parts removed, and replaced with new ones. Then the machine is practically as good as new. It may not look as well on the outside, but it will perform, and that is what really counts.

The same thing has happend in our party. We once had a smooth working party machine, made up of many parts, but all worked together smothly. There were no bumps nor rattles. There was no undue wear and friction.

But finally what little friction there was grew and grew until there was room for the moving vital parts to bump against each other. Each bump made the wear still worse, until finally, in 1934, there was a complete collapse. No pressure from the outside caused this; all the damage was caused from the inside.

Now, we cannot build to these old parts. We can't put in a part here and another there. They will not fit. The whole must be taken apart, new parts must be secured, and these parts fitted together again. Parts that FIT must be secured, too, just as in an automobile. When we have done this job—when we have rebuilt from the ground, we will have another smooth working and efficient party—one that can win. But until such time, we will go on knocking and bumping against each other, or else land in the trash pile like any other machine.

1936 MODEL G. O. P.

Last Thursday at Cleveland, the national Republican convention pulled the wraps from the 1936 model G. O. P. elephant. Big husky fellow he turned out to be, too. I know you have all read about it, perhaps listened to the whole proceeding, just as I did, but I enjoy discussing it any way.

The Republicans couldn't have done better than nominate Alfred M. Landon, budget balancing governor of the prosperuos state of Kansas, if they had deliberated until Christmas. But the fact that he was nominated on the first ballot, and that no other candidate was even put in nomination, proves to us that the Republicans are fighting as of old again—shoulder to shoulder—united. The fact that Mr. Knox was nominated unanimously for the vice presidency further proves this fact. A better ticket couldn't have been named.

The new platform is the same old reliable Republican bulwark, with a few new planks to take the place of some obsolete ones which were good and needful in their day, but have outlived their usefulness.

The ticket and the platform has stirred the Democratic press of the nation deeply, too. Of course some of the "jass-ack" papers have poked fun at the whole affair—they always do—but for the most part, the solid, sensible Democratic editors of America know they are in for a fight, and have been honest enough to say so.

Even "Grandma", The Montgomery Advertiser, admits that this year's campaign is no pink tea. And The Birmingham News is honest enough to admit that the platform has its good points, some of which the Democrats would do well to incorporate in their own, that Landon and Knox are formidable rivals of the Democratic cause, and warns its party heads that it would be much the better policy to recognize the strength of the Republican set-up this year, rather than try to laugh it off.

The Republicans will attack along the whole front—the policies that Mr. Roosevelt has carried out or attempted to carry out, his complete reversal of the 1932 platform which he promised so faithfully to adhere to, his many failures and few successes, and many other points, including the foolishh extravagance which has all but bankrupted the nation. This, together with the popularity of the Republican nominees in the mid-west, which usually has the last word in elections, has apparently thrown a scare into the enemy's camp.

A SUMMER VACATION

Signs are that Alabama's legislators will be called back into special session before long to consider the school question again, and to try to load up more taxes on the shoulders of Alabama's people.

Those legislators are a grand group. They never think of any degree of economy in order to make ends meet—only more taxes. It is true that something should be done to insure the children a full school term, but it is not at all necessary that this "something" should be more tax measures.

Why not try trimming running expenses in the highway department or the prison section? The "padding" system of hiring men to pay off political debts in these two departments is a disgrace to the state.

And of course there will be the usual crop of pet local bills to be put through. At every session it seems the fellows go down there loaded to the hilt with big ideas. I believe it would be a good idea if we could get at least one group of legislators together who would try to see how many useless laws they could remove from the law books instead of trying to see how many they could put on. I believe it would meet with favor, and I know it would be something new.

After all, though, this is summer, and vacation time, and I suppose it is just as well to send the boys down for month's vacation, WITH PAY. Of course no one expects them to do anything worth while, but it will be worth the money just to know where the biggest bunch of pin-heads in the state can be found, just in case a spare pin-head is needed. Maybe all of the fellows are not pin-heads, but I beleve it is generally agreed that they are in the majority.—Man in the Moon.

ANOTHER LIQUIDATION

Another good scheme of the New Deal's official brain seems to have departed and will soon be in the process of liquidation. It was one of the most attractive ideas in the whole portfolio of then ational planners. It envisioned the planting of a shelter belt of green and growing trees in the semi-arid lands of the Mid West, a thousand miles long and a hundred miles wide. It was to traverse the Dakotas to the Texas Panhandle. It was to protect the dry lands of that great section of our country from future drouths and change the entire weather map of that portion of the continent. Despite the fact that iconoclastic doubters frowned upon the idea of making forests grow in a region where nature had apparently intended that there should be no forests, the idea caught on and the project was started.

It got under way when President Roosevelt, by executive order, back in the summer of 1934, allocated $15,000,000 of the emergency agricultural funds for tree-planting purposes. But there were objections from the Comptroller General about the legality of the way in which the money was provided, with the result that finally only a million dollars were found available for the start of tree planting on the treeless plains.

In 1935 there was tree planting in Texas and Oklahoma early in the spring, and later in the Dakotas. Several million trees were set out, covering a few thousand acres, and the project seemed well under way. Twenty nurseries were leased, it is said, to provide young trees for the 1936 planting and the production is being planted this summer on something like 1,500 acres.

But now it would seem that our tree culture experiment is about to go into liquidation. Congress has become somewhat Missouri-like in these auspicious days of 1936. In other words, it desires to be shown on the question of lavish spending of public money on more or less doubtful projects. The doubt and hesitation in the matters of the Florida ship canal and the Quoddy project in Maine for the harnessing of the ocean's tides may be cited as examples of which the public has had some acquaintance.

So the tree belt seems to be "folding up," if such a mixed figure of speech be permitted and congress has just appropriated a modest sum to liquidate the entire project. The unplanted trees on hand will be sold to the farmers who want to buy them and the grand plan of a verdant strip down the middle of the continent will be abandoned as just another of "those things", while the few millions expended will be charged up to experience.

The Florida ship canal has divided that southern state into two factions, and the public at large, outside of Maine, has had little interest in the scientific problem of harnessing the tides. But there has been something glamorous, almost romantic, about constructing a tree belt down the middle of the continent where trees are not supposed to grow, yet it seems that the romance is gone out of the idea. There will be no verdant forests to bring rain to the country or shield it from the weather, no nicely fenced groves and no picnic grounds under the spreading trees. Once more political romance seems to have faded before stern reality.

AAA HELPS THE ARGENTINE

There has been a great deal of argument pro and con as to the benefit of the New Deal policies in the United States. There are some who maintain that the policies are doing good to Uncle Sam, while others maintain that they are "doing" him good. Statistics are qnoted to show that other countries, notably Great Britian and the Dominion of Canada, are progressing toward prosperity faster than we, and without a New Deal of their own, while many point to our growing federal deficit as proof that the exemplification of the New Deal policies cannot last much longer without disaster to the nation.

There is one fact, however, which cannot be disputed. No matter what the New Deal is doing for or to the United States, it is doing the Argentine some good, and there is a marked imprvement in economic conditions down in the Pan-American country, a part of which improvement is credited to our New Deal policies. Dean John T. Madden, director of the Institute of International Finance, in reporting a survey of conditions in Argentine said recently:

"In the last two years the general improvement in prices, coupled with favorable crops in Argentina and reduced production in other countries, has resulted in rapid economy recovery. During both 1934 an 1935 the total value of exports increased substantially and the total in 1935 exceeded that of any year since 1929. But to a lesser extent than exports, and the excess of exports in 1935 was larger than that of any of the past seven years except 1932."

Here is the record of Argentina: bountiful crops, and a great increase in exports over imports. In the United States, the situation as to agriculture and kindred industries—and it is these on which Argentina depends—is something entirely different. We have reduced crops and with scarcity and drying up of agricultural exports, now the time has arrived when the international trade balance is against us.

Pictures of the United States and Argentina are well worth comparing. And one fact is not to be lost sight of: the favorable situation of agriculture in the Latin-American country is due part to "reduced production in other countries." The reference is, of course, not only to the drouth in our own country, but the restrictive AAA policies in slaughtering livestock and reducing production—policies which have been of great benefit to the great Republic to the south of us. Yes, the New Deal has helped some—there is no doubt of it—and that "some" includes the Argentine farmers.

The fellow who perists in manicuring his nails in public ought to be convicted of boondoggling in the first degree.

HOW MUCH IS 12 BILLION?

One way to get an idea of the vastness of a billion dollars would be to start counting to that figure, a dollar at a time. But don't begin the job unless you've got a couple of decades with nothing else to do.

According to an article in the Los Angeles Times, it would take a man a week to count from 1 to 1,000,000, working fairly steady. If he continued to count at the same rate, he would reach 1,000,000,000 in just nineteen years and three months. And to count to 12,000,000,000 would require something over 218 years!

Well, $12,000,000,000 is the sum that the American people must fork out every year in taxes—and if some of our lawmakers have their way, it's going to be substantially raised in the future. We pay twice as much for taxes as we do for clothing, eighteen times as much for taxes as for domestic light and power—$500,000,000 more for taxes than for food. The tax item dwarfs all the other items in the family budget.

Twelve billion dollars is more than you would spend if you had a lifetime of nineteen hundred years—and spent $10.00 every minute! And government is putting out that sum every year, with increases just over the horizon!

RELIEF PROJECTS UNFINISHED

The big relief bill this session of Congress included, for the first time in several years, the stipulation that no project could be started unless there was enough money available to finish it. The men who wrote that into the bill had particularly in mind works like Passamaquoddy tides-harnessing and Florida ship canal projects. These were started without Congressional approval of direct appropriations, and it looked for a time as though both would be stopped half finished. Approval for the Florida ship canal finally was wrung from the Senate.

However, the talk about the $34,000,000,000 deficit which is approaching made many members conscious of the millions which some of them felt had been wasted on the unfinished Passamaquoddy symphony.

ALL IS NOT WELL

All is far from well around Soil Conservation headquarters. After the AAA's invalidation, the Soil Conservation program was rushed through and AAA officials said everything was sweetness and light.

Suddenly, though, Chester Davis, who had been the AAA chief, went on a trip to Europe. Upon his return, he stayed in the Capitol hardly long enough to unpack his bags. Then he departed for a western speaking tour.

Davis said he will not resume active direction of the Soil Conservation program. Secretary Wallace will do that. It is no secret to insiders that Wallace and Davis have differed on many things.

Rumors are floating around to the effect that Davis has been offered a job in a private business, which expects his familiarity with farmers and their problems to be very helpful. Many insist that if Davis does accept the job, he will not do so until after the November elections.

The federal payroll last month reached 806,035, an increase of more than 7,000 over the previous month.

The Civil Service Commission's announcement said that 5,126 of these were rated as "permanent" employees, of whom 5,114 were given jobs outside Washington.

An Indiana woman suing for divorce, claimed her husband left cigarette stubs around the house and then accused her of having entertained other men. But all cigarette stubs mean around the house now-a-days is that the afternoon Bridge Club has been in session.

They used to say that the most of the advice on how to raise babies was written by old maids, and now we understand that most of the economists who know how the government funds ought to be spent never had any money themselves.

A Middle Western school teacher has sold to the pulp fiction magazines 800 love stories in the past 5 years. Or was it one love story 800 times?

Have a few items of interest about the Petersen boys — Walter and Willis, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Peterson, of Thorsby. Willis, as some of you know, is on the U. S. S. Saratoga, flagship of the Navy's Aircraft Battle Score. This fleet, on the 19th of May, slid steadily southward into the sullen waters of King Neptune's Equitorial Kingdom. At 0830 the Saratoga steamed into the royal realm of the deep at 81 degrees 5 minutes west longitude, and latitude 00 degrees, 00 minutes and 00 seconds. Gray dawn filtered through an overcast sky to reveal that all was in readiness for the arrival on board of King Neptune and Queen Amphitrite and their royal retainers. Neptune and his lovely Queen ascended the throne and their retinue assumed their places and immediately the king cried in a terrible voice, "The Royal Works". (The above taken from a paper printed on board the Saratoga). Then began the rather ought initiation of all on board who had never previously crossed the equator. Those who survives the ordeal were then pronounced "Shellbacks" and given a "Neptune Certificate". Willis Petersen is now a "Shellback" Willis writes that the fleet is due back in Balboa, Panama, May 23, and that George Nix was coming aboard to see them there. Walter Petersen is now manager and his wife, Helen S. Petersen, assistant managr, of the Honolulu Conservatory of Music with headquarters in Fort Wayne, Indiana, and studios in six different cities. At present they have 250 pupils and are adding about ten or twelve pupils a week. They have a sales manager and salesmen who secure pupils for them. Walter writes that he needs five more salesmen but has been unable to get them yet. He also writes that the companies in Fort Wayne are in need of machinists and that if Martin Nelson is out of work, or any other machinist, they are sure to get work there.

CHILEAN NITRATE DEMONSTRATION CONTEST SPONSORED BY JEMISON CHAPTER OF THE F. F. A

A very interesting demonstration is being conducted by E. C. Martin, son of Charlie Martin, two miles north of Jemison on Highway No. 31. This demonstration is sponsored by the Jemison Chapter of the F. F. A., and financed by the Chilean Nitrate Educational Bureau. It is supervised by H. H. Denson, vocational agricultural teacher of Jemison High School.

On this two and one-half acre plot they have one-half acre in the center with no side dressing of Nitrate of Soda and on each side of this check plat is one acre to which 200 pounds of Nitrate of Soda is used as a side-dressing when corn was 45 days old. Signs will be erected to indicate the check plot and both side-dressed plots so that those passing may tell where they are located. All interested are urged to watch this demonstration and see just what difference develops. Some time in early August a guessing contest will be held at this demonstration at which free lemonade will be served and the person guessing nearest the actual yield of the plots will receive a prize of $2.00. The chapter in this section of the state having the best demonstration of this kind will be awarded a nice radio set.

MISS BOARD WEDS DR. CLYDE H. FOSHEE AT MOST IMPRESSIVE CEREMONY IN LOUISVILLE

A wedding that will be of wide interest to people of Clanton and Chilton county, took place last week in Louisville, Ky., when Miss Isabel Miller Board became the bride of Dr. Clyde H. Foshee, a former Chilton county boy.

Dr. Foshee is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Foshee of Clanton, a member of one of the county's well known families. He is a graduate of the Chilton county high school and has gone up the ladder of success, step by step. Following is a clipping taken from a Louisville, Ky., paper giving an account of the wedding.

The wedding of Miss Isabel Miller Board and Dr. Clyde H. Foshee of Madisonville, took place at 4:30 p.m. Saturday in the Harbison Memorial Chapel of the Presbyterian Theological Seminary. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Lewis N. Stucky. The chapel was decorated palms and ferns.

Miss Jean Shallcross was the maid of honor and the bridesmaids were Mrs. Lawrence Coe of Memphis, and Miss Jean Schwab of Montreal. Mr. Mitchell Foshhee of Knoxville, Tenn., was his brother's best man and the ushers were Messrs. William S. Arrasmith and Robert C. Board.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, Dr. Milton Board, wore a white satin wedding gown with a cowl neck and long sleeves, a panel skirt and a long train. She wore a bolero jacket of rose point lace. Her tulle veil was adjusted with braided satin ribbon and orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of white roses, sweet peas and gladioli.

The maid of honer wore a pale peach color taffeta with a long full skirt with a slight train. Over this was a redingote of peach net. Her headdress was a Juliet cap of braided taffeta. She carried a bouquet of blue delphinium, Roosevelt roses and daisies.

The bridesmaids wore a deeper tone of peach taffeta with net redingotes of the same shade. They wore headdresses of braided taffeta and carried Johanna Hill roses, delphinium and daisies.

The ceremony was followed by an informal reception given by the bride's parents, Dr. Milton Board and Mrs. Board, for the bridal party and the out-of-town guests. Mrs. Board wore a powder blue chiffon with a dark blue toque trimmed in corn flowers, and a shoulder bouquet of orchids. Mrs. Board Dodd, sister of the bride, wore a pale flesh lace jacket dress and a large white hat with a shoulder bouquet of gardenias and sunburst roses.

Dr. Foshee and Mrs. Foshee left after the reception on their wedding trip and at its conclusion will make their home in Madisonville. Dr. Foshee is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Foshee of Clanton, Ala.

Among the out-of-town guests for the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell Foshee of Knoxville, Tenn.; Miss Ethel Walker of Nashville, Tenn.; Miss Beatrice Bainbridge of Chicago; Mrs. T. J. Hook, Mr. and Mrs. Howard M. Hook, Mr. Russell Hook, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Hardin Withers, and Miss Sally Ann Withers, all of Hardinsburg, Ky.; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Loving Kerr of Campbellsville; Dr. John Glover South and Mrs. South, and Miss Martine Monarch of Frankfort; Mr. Dan S. Estill of Lexington; Judge Basil D. Richardson and Mrs. Richardson, Mr. and Mrs. John Evans Richardson, Mr. Ralph D. Kinnaird, Miss Mary Kinnaird and Master Donald Kinnaird, all of Glasgow.

Many parties were arranged in honor of the bride. Mrs. Thomas Graham gave a lunchone at Goshen Gardens. Miss Emma Keats Crutcher gave a tea. Miss Sidney Field gave a bridge-tea. Mrs. Board Dodd gave a luncheon, and Miss Jean Shallcross gave a buffet supper in honor of the bridal party.

All Asked To Help In Baptist Institute

To have a great meeting, we must all have a part. Both Chilton and Unity need but to know what is expected of them to do it. Therefore we are outlining our jobs.

W. M. S. presidents and all Sunday school superintendents, announce the program next Sunday. Get cars, trucks or buses so that all the folks can come. Begin now to plan for everybody.

Those designated as "Leaders" on the programs. Contact every member of every lunch committee in your group. Decide how you will plan your lunch and definitely instruct them. Two plans have been suggested:

1. Ask each church to feed fifty or more on the day listed, using about the suggested menu.

2. Let the leader apportion to one church enough cakes for fifty. To another, chicken, etc., until the menu is filled.

The leaders are asked to be down stairs on the day your group feeds until after the baskets are opened, that you may know about the response from your group and report at your quarterly meeting and be able to make better plans for next year. You are not asked to serve plates. The Clanton W. M. S. will do that, but to check the baskets from your own district.

Lunch Committee

You are to get the lunch in your local church. See that all have a chance to help. That your church feeds some fifty or sixty, according to the plan suggested by your leader. If she fails to contact you, you can still have your church bring or send some five or six baskets serving ten each. That is about the normal size cake and chicken service. You have only to bring your basket to the basement of the church before ten o'clock and to get your dishes, but try to bring as few dishes as possible and mark WELL those you do bring.

If you cannot serve, get some one to take your place at once and send the name to your leader. I know you do not want people to go hungry because they depended on you. I am sure they will not.

Clanton furnishes all the drinks and prepares the plates so that all who come can get all the program and classes.

The menu is suggested by the executive board of Unity and Chilton W. M. U., but may be changed by the leaders, if agreeable to those from each association.

Tuesday, June 30

Suggested menu—Ham or chicken, potato salad, tomatoes, pickel, bread cake.

Unity Association—Leaders: Mrs. Rube Bearden, Mrs. C. C. King; lunch committee: Mrs. A. B. Jones, Alpine church; Mrs. U. T. Milan, Ebenezer church; Mrs. J. F. Apperson, Jones church; Mrs. Rube Bearden, Maplesville church.

Pipes, chairmen.

Wednesday, July 1st

Suggested menu—Fried chicken, potato salad, bread, tomatoes, pickles, cake.

Unity Asscoiation—Leaders, Mrs. L. C. Taylor, Mrs. J. D. Griffin. Lunch committee: Mrs. C. T. Cale, Bethesda church; Mrs. Velma Spigener, Big Springs church; Mrs. L. C. Taylor, Evergreen church; Mrs. Wilson Jones, Mrs. Sam Brigance, Indian Grave church; Mrs. J. N. Carter, Billingsley church.

Chilton Association—Leader, Mrs. A. L. Bearden. Lunch committee: Mrs. L. D. Hughes, Mrs. P. G. Minor, Chestnut Creek church; Mrs. Chas. Wilkins, Bethsalem; Mrs. M. Lockhart, Miss Etta Baker, Refuge church; Mrs. Jim Parrish, Mrs. J. Gillespie, Friendship church; Mrs. J. M. Cox, Miss Lena Downs, Mrs. Roy Traywick, Poplar Springs church; assisted by Circles 3 and 4, Mrs. J. W. Fant and Mrs. Dewey Eubanks, chairmen.

Thursday, June 2nd

Suggested menu—Meat, potato chips, tomatoes, pickles, bread, cake.

Unity Association—Leaders, Mrs. Lester Gilbert, Mrs. Frank Hudson. Lunch committee: Mrs. Dowdle Johnson, Mountain Creek church; Mrs. Forest M. Jones, White Pond church; Mrs. J. Z. Mims, Samaria church; Mrs. W. H. Strock, Mrs. Bill Parrish, Verbena church; Mrs. Lester Gilbert, Mrs. P. H. Connell, Marbury church; Mrs. Hand, New Liberty church; Mrs. W. L. GOOD ATTENDANCE AT PLAY HOUR

The children's play hour held in Mountain Creek on Wednesday afternoon, June 10, was attended by 15 boys and girls who enjoyed stories songs and games. The boys and girl were so enthusiastic for having the play hours more frequently, that plans were made to have a play hour regularly on every Saturday afternoon, at 2:30, on the grounds of the Old Soldier's Home. Misses Bill Baxley and Mary McElryo have consented to act as playground leaders, and it is hoped that other girls and young women in the community will volunteer their services.

All boys and girls below the age of twelve years may come to the play hour.

This is an opportunity for the boys and girls to play together under the direction of capable leaders, and it is hoped that the parents of Mountain Creek will encourage their children to take advantage of the opportunity.

R. I. VARDEN WRITES

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me space in your paper to say a few words about my condition. I don't seem to improve very much, if any. My right side is all that I have any use of. I have been down on the bed nearly nine months and can't get up only when helped. I want to know if any one has a rolling chair that they could let me have for a while. I will take good care of it and I sure would appreciate it. I haven't anybody to see about getting one.

My children are trying to make me a little crop and my wife has to stay with me, for I am as helpless as a baby. So, you who have a wheel chair and are willing to let me have it for a while just bring it to The Union-Banner office or to the court house and notify me when you bring it and I will have it brought out.—R. I. Varden, Clanton, Ala., Rte. 5.

CARD OF THANKS

The Union-Banner has been asked to publicly thank the friends of the Enoch Henry Johnson family for all their acts of kindness and sympathy shown them during their recent bereavement. "May the good Lord richly bless each and everyone of you," is the prayer of the widow and children as well as the brothers and sisters of the deceased.

NEW CEDRON NEWS

Our B. Y. P. U. is planning to present "That Girl Anne" in the near future. It is a comedy drama in four acts. The date and place to be presented will be announced later. Group 1 had charge of the program Sunday night. Some very interesting discussions were heard. The topic being "Peter the development of a rock-like Faith." We are very glad to have the new members in our B. Y. P. U. and Sunday school, and also visitors. We cordially invite you to come and be with us each Sunday and Sunday night. Some Outstanding Achievements Of Clanton Kiwanis Club Here

Local Civic Organization of Business Men Summarizes Activities During The Past Several Months

Just what the Clanton Kiwanis Club has meant to Clanton and to the entire county is clearly brought out in a report compiled this week of the Public Affairs Commitee and the Publicity Committee of the Club, covering works of the past year.

This report not only covered those objectives of the club that have been carried out, completed and marked off the "must" list of the club, but also several objectives that are now about to be realized, and plans for those to take place within the next few months.

The Clanton Kiwanis Club, the only business and civic organization of its kind in this county, has grown considerably in membership during recent months, the report showed. The new members are composed wholly of business men of Clanton who had been watching with keen interest the activities of the club and realizing the splendid, untiring efforts of its members toward progress for the town and county, placed themselves as candidates for membership immediately.

One of the members of the local club through his continued and unselfish work is now holding the position of Lieutenant-Governor of Kiwanis of Alabama. This is John Hollis, superintendent of Mitchell Dam, who gives of his time for the work of the club.

The report compiled by the club this week brought out the following achievements, some of which the club started to rolling and with the cooperation of officials and other non-members brought to a realization, while others were directly credited in full to the club, even thought some individual member took a great part in bringing them into concrete form:

City Water Supply.—The Kiwanis Club, through requests to the city council and considerable work on the outside, brought about an extension of important water mains in the residential section of town, thereby affording better fire protection and living conditions. And now the city has almost completed the digging of another deep well to insure continued, sufficient water supply for the city.

Stock Show.—The Club is now making arrangements for the staging of a Stock Show for the county. This will be held some time during the early fall.

Grammar School.—Considerable interest had been aroused some time ago in the condition of the old grammar school building in Clanton, which was claimed to have been a menace to the safety of the children. The Clanton Kiwanis Club, through considerable effort persuaded officials to tear down the old building, which has been done, and a grave danger eliminated.

4-H Club Work.—For several years the club has been keenly interested in the work among boys and girls over the county, as well as among farmers. The club has realized as one of its objectives a larger appropriation for this type of work and now the county has a worker for young farm boys and girls under the 4-H Club membership. This work is in full swing.

Health Work.—Chilton county now has a full-time health unit. It was through the initiative of the Clanton Kiwanis Club that this work is now in progress in this county and doing a great piece of achievement. And recently there was added to this unit, an all-time sanitation officer. At one time it appeared that this health work would be discontinued and through efforts of the club it is still carrying on its activities over the county.

Crippled Children.—The club has been directly responsible for some time for the bringing to Chilton county of a crippled children's clinic, and recnetly sponsored and pushed the sale of Crippled Children's Seals in the county with the cooperation of the Clanton Pilot club.

Clanton's Airport.—It was through the untiring efforts of members of the Kwanis club that Clanton now has an airport, and not so long ago this field was enlarged to such an extent that it will soon be ready to accomodate most any size ship that lands here. It consists of 92 acres, and work is going on there now. It is also expected that the field will be entirely completed at an early date with a lare steel hangar.

Clanton's City Hall.—The city council was prevailed on by members of the Kiwanis Club to equip the new auditorium with proper seating facilities, and in the very near future this is to be done, thereby causing this attractive building to be suitable for most all occasions and public gatherings.

Christmas Lighting.—The Kiwanis Club is directly responsible for the beautiful lights that decorate the city during Christmas week of each year. This is considered one of the prettiest small cities in the state during Christmas week, through this lighting effect.

C. C. Camp.—The C. C. Camp at Clanton was thought at one tme to be near discontinuance and through work of the club it is now intact and growing. It was also an objective of the club to bring this camp to Clanton and to cooperate with its officials.

Telegraph Service.—For some time the club has been endeavoring to secure an uptown office of the Western Union. This is still being worked on and the club hopes to bring it into a realization.

Telephone Service.—The Kiwanis Club has at all times strived for improvement in the telephone service in Clanton. This is being constantly done whenever possible. At a recent meeting the club had as its guests, the District Manager and the Division Engineer of the Southern Bell Telephone Co., both of whom pledged their cooperation.

Train Service.—One of the most recent and most outstanding accomplishments of the club in past weeks is the realization of their objective to secure better passenger train service for Clanton. Now, the L. & N. Railroad in engaged in work on tracks in Clanton and fast trains Nos. 1 and 4, will start giving Clanton regular passenger service. The club has been doing considerable work on this for some time, and recently several prominent railroad officials have visited Clanton on continued requests of the club that this service be rendered.

Regular weekly luncheons are held with splendid membership attendance and good programs. On the night of Monday, June 22nd, the Clanton Club will observe "All Kiwanis Night" at Mitchell Dam, with an inter-club meeting, bringing the clubs from Montgomery and Selma here to join them. "All Kiwanis Night" is observed at the same time by all clubs in the United States and Canada.

Several other objectives of the club are now in progress and heading toward realization, the report stated.

FOUR ALABAMA 4-H CLUB MEMBERS IN WASHINGTON

Auburn.—Four Alabama 4-H club members—two boys and two girls—are in Washington, D. C., attending the National 4-H club camp. They are Geraldine Resmondo, Baldwin County; Louise Florey, Monroe; William Paulk, Montgomery; and Charles L. Hill, Jr., Etowah. They will return to Alabama at the conclusion of the camp on Wednesday, June 24.

The club members were given trips to Washington because of outstanding accomplishments in 4-H club work. Accompanying them on the trip are T. A. Sims and Elizabeth Deloney, State 4-H club leaders.

After an enjoyable repast at the noon hour, of fresh water Black Bass (trout) and other dainties, pictures were taken of the various family groups, after which games were played and swiming participated in for the afternoon.

Mrs. Henry Stanley and Mrs. J. W. Hayes and children were visitors in Montgomery Monday.

THREE NEGRO BALL GAMES THUR. AND FRI., 25 AND 26

Three negro baseball games are on tap for Thursday and Friday, June 25th and 26th, at the local park. The one Thursday will begin at 3:00 p.m., sharp. On Friday a double-header is billed, the first game to begin sharply at 2:00 p.m.

These games will be between the Clanton Black Sox and the Greenville Black Sox. Herman Stone, manager of the local negro team, is scouring the immediate neighborhood for the best negro baseball talent, and expects to put a good team on the field.

The Greenville team will include Cezelle Marbury, the wonder man of negro baseball, who created such a favorable impression with local fans last year while playing with the Wetumpka negro team here. Our baseball fans will remember Marbury as the "one man team". He is manager of the Greenville team.

If you saw Marbury last year on hie appearance here, you will want to see him in these three games. If you did not see his work, you most certainly must have heard others talk about him, and will want to see him on this occasion by all means.

Remember the dates and hours—Thursday, June 25, at 3:00 p.m.; Friday, June 26, a double-header, beginning at 2:00 p.m. Popular prices. Don't fail to see these games.

ORPHANAGE JARS

I have received 400 jars from Bro. Colley to be filled with fruits and preserves for our children in the home. Those who will take and fill some of these jars, see me at Matt's Cafe. We would urge you to have some part in this good work.—J. Z. Mims, Moderator County Association.

MISS LEE ON VISIT TO SISTER

Miss Euzebia Lee, of The Modern Beauty Shoppe, left recently for North Carolina, where she will visit her sister at Fayetteville. She will also visit Wilmington Beach. After spending a few days in North Carolina, Miss Lee will go to Denver, Colorado, and will spend about a month attending the Denver School of Beauty Culture. She will take special courses in contour hair cutting and general brush-up on beauty work.

Miss Lee will return to Clanton by way of Grand Canyon, the Texas centennial and New Orleans. She expects to resume her work with the Modern Shoppe in about six weeks. In Miss Lee's absence, her place in the shoppe here is being filled by Miss Louise Nolen, an experienced beauty culturist, of Montevallo.

FINE MEETING IN PROGRESS AT CLANTON BAPTIST CHURCH

Beginning last Sunday, a summer revival began at the Clanton Baptist church, which is to continue through Wednesday, June 24th. Two sermons daily are being most ably preached by the visiting minister-evangelist, Dr. L. Gwaltney, editor of The Alabama Baptist, Birmingham. The singing is in the charge of Mr. Fred Bond, also of Birmingham.

Good crowds are attending the night services, and there is a noticeable increase in the attendance morning. Morning services are at 10:30 and the evening services at 7:30. If you have been attending, you are urged to keep it up; if you have not, you are urged to come and enjoy the blessings of a real spiritual revival of Christian religion.

Republican Speaking Saturday Afternoon At The Courthouse

Executive Committee Meets at 1:00 O'clock; Hon. C. O. Vardaman And Mrs. Pearl Wates Will Speak to Gathering. T. J. Kennamer Will Be Present.

3,000 PEOPLE ARE EXPECTED

Everything is in readiness for the big Republican rally at the courthouse next Saturday afternoon. The County Republican Executive Committee meets at 1:00 o'clock for the purpose of electing a permanent chairman and secretary for the coming four years, and will attend to other matters relative to the coming campaign leading up to the general election in November.

Hon. C. O. Vardaman, of Birmingham will address a general gathering at 2:00 o'clock on the leading issues of the day. Those who have heard Mr. Vardaman know of his ability as a speaker and of his knowledge of political and governmental questions. You will not want to miss this unusual treat.

Mrs. Pearl Wates, National Committeewoman, will speak following Mr. Vardaman. Mrs. Wates has the distinction of being the youngest committeewoman to attend the Republican national convention in Cleveland a few weeks passed; she is also an authority on political questions and an interesting speaker. While here Mrs. Wates will organize the first Woman's Republican club to be organized in Alabama. The Republican ladies of the county will certainly want to be here and give Mrs. Wates a cordial welcome and assist her in getting her work started off in Chilton County.

Hon. T. J. Kennamer, of Birmingham, Republican National Committeeman, will be in attendance at this meeting also.

As stated in previous announcements there will be a loud speaker installed, so that everybody can hear the speaking. If the weather permits, there will likely be several thousand people present, but everybody can hear with this loud-speaker arrangement. So, everybody prepare to be in Clanton next Saturday afternoon to take in this Republican speaking.

And too, we would not overlook stating that our own fellow citizen, Judge J. Osmond Middleton, will be present for this meeting. He will likely be called upon to introduce the speakers and if he feels so disdispored will probably make a short speech to the gathering too.

If you are interested in politics and civic righteousness, we assure you of an enjoyable repast by attendnig this meeting. Lay everything else aside and be at the courthouse Saturday afternoon. It is for old people and young ones too. Come everybody. Ladies especially are urged to attend.

Republican Meeting At Shiloh Friday Night, 26

The Republicans of Beat 6 will meet at Shiloh schoolhouse on Friday night, June 26th. We have been having some good meetings, but we want to make this the best of all. This Beat already has a good number of members on roll, but we want more. Be sure and be there. We will have cards for membership and we want you to join. These meetings are not just for young people. We want one and all. Mr. T. E. Wyatt, Hon. Percy M. Pitts, Mr. J. Z. Mims and Mr. Clifford Manning and maybe others will speak.

There Will Be Music

Mr. Lloyd Howard, of Thorsby, has accepted an invitation to attend this meeting and furnish some music. Mr. Howard will play some numbers on his accordion at intervals between the speakers; this will be a part of the program you cannot afford to miss. Mr. Howard plays well, as you already know if you have heard him.

There will be trucks to carry all that want to go to hear C. O. Vardaman speak at the courthouse next Saturday, June 27th. If you hear the fire alarm when Mr. Vardaman begins to speak it will be just another Democrat on fire. There will be two trucks at Bethsalem. Eat early lunch and be there not later than 12:30. Messrs. W. W. Stroud, N. O. Stroud and J. D. Mullins will furnish trucks for Shiloh community. Mr. L. T. Williams and others will go from Enterprise. Be on time if you want to catch the truck. —C. M. Billingsley, Chairman; S. B. Williams, Secretary.

ERBY POPWELL HAS BECOME NATIONAL TIRE DISTRIBUTOR

Mr. Erby Popwell announces that his Gulf filling station has recently been appointed a member of the National Tires Service, and given authority to handle and service National Tires.

According to Mr. Popwell, there are over 6,000 National stores in the United States. This tire carries a better guarantee than any other make of automobile tire on the market, Mr. Popwell added.

Mr. Popwell will be glad to figure with you when you are in the market for any automobile or truck tire.

ALABAMA'S MOST DISTINGUISHED ACTOR IS DEAD

Henry B. Walthall, 53, the Liflte Colonel of the silent screen classic, "Birth of a Nation," died in a sanitarium today.

This tense bulletin over the associated press wires Friday morning told of the passing of a genius, who saw the light of day for the first time in the somewhat barren hills of Shelby County in 1883.

The Little Colonel has gone a long road from the Shelby County plantation in the last 53 years.

He climbed the hills of fame.

He dipped into the deep valley of near oblivion.

He was on the slippery slopes of success, once again near the peak, when death came to him in a sanitarium near Monrovia, California, Friday morning. He had been under treatment three weeks for a chronic ailment and his death was unexpected.

BOARD OF REGISTRARS MEET JULY 6—FIVE DAYS

The Board of Registrars of Chilton county will be in session at the courthouse on Monday, July 6th, and continue in session for five days. The Board will regirter all voters who are eligible under the law during these five days. The Board consists of J. Monroe Parrish, W. W. Wingard, and Jno. T. Thompson.

Younger Members To Direct G. O. P.

Hamilton Says Youth Will Be Served In Campaign Appointments

Topeka, Kans., June 17.—A circle of new faces appeared today at the centrals of the Republican party re-organized for the Landon-Knox campaign.

New members formed more than half of the executive committee that continued campaign-charting conferences with the nomanees for president and vice-president, and signs of a further turnover was expected today with announcement of division heads for the presidential battle.

Seven new members took their places on the executive committee, with seven re-appointed, besides the new chairman, John D. M. Hamilton, and the new treasurer, C. B. Goodspeed, Chicago.

Gov. Alf M. Landon and his running mate, Col. Frank Knox, headed into another huddle with the committee today without announcing details of the opening session yesterday.

Knox planned to remain with Landon several days more. Hamilton's schedule called for a trip to New York by plane this afternoon to talk about raising money—a topic he said figured prominently in the parley yesterday.

In making public the personnel of the re-organized committee, Hamilton commented on its youth, saying the group was "the youngest personnel we've ever had, by far."

Will Continue Trend

With the announcmeent of "some of the division heads" today he said "the pictnure of youth at the controls of the party will be more apparent."

Saying "the average is away under the ordinary," Hamilton referred to his own age, 44, and that of the young est member, Robert P. Burroughs, of Manchester, New York, 36.

In the reorganization, Hamilton traded jobs with Henry P. Fletcher, the retiring national chairman, who took over the Landon leader's former post as counsel of the committee.

Besides Hamilton, Goodspeed and Fletcher, the other committee officers are vice chairman—A man and a woman from the east and a man and a woman from the west:

Ralph E. Williams, Oregon J. Henry Roraback, Connecticutt; Mrs. John E. Hillman, Colorado, and Mrs. Worthington Scranton, Pennsylvania.

Executive Group

The seven new members of the executive committee are: Burroughs; Representative Joseph W. Martin, Jr., North Attleboro, Mass., who will manage eastern headquarters in New York; J. Will Taylor, Knoxville, Tenn., Mrs. Horace Sayre, Ardmore, Okla.; Mrs. John Wyeth, St. Joseph, Mo.; Ezra Whitla, Couer D'Alene, Idaho, and Earl Warren, Oakland Calif.

Members returned to the executive group are: Charles D. Hilles, New York; Harrison E. Spangler, Cedar Rapids, Iowa; R. B. Creager, Brownsville, Texas; Mrs. Bertha Baur, Chicago; Mrs. Paul Fitzsimmons, Newport R. I.; Walter S. Hallanan, Charleston, W. Va., and George Ball Muncie Indiana.

Announcement of plans for notification of the nominees, Hamilton said, "ought to be made within a few days."

FIRST COTTON BLOOM

The first cotton bloom of this season was brought in to The Union-Banner office Friday morning, June 19th, at 6:49. It was brought in by Mr. John H. Gore, the fruit store man, but the bloom belonged to Elijah H. Gore, who is farming on Mr. Gore's place a mile and a half north of Clanton.

Mr. Gore wants the credit for the bloom to be sure and go to Elijah H. Gore. Mr. John Gore says that all his personal blooms are banana blooms.

Another well-developed bloom came in to the office at 7:04 a.m. Friday, from the farm of H. B. McGuire, who lives one mile north of Clanton on the Lay Dam road.

Then on the mail Friday morning a letter came from A. A. Jackson, Lomax, enclosing two red blooms. The letter read: "I was walking through my field Thursday p.m., and counted eight blooms—two on one stalk. This cotton is free from the New Deal contract. I am sending one for you and one for the Man in the Moon. You both may wear them as a bouquet."

Then on Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, Mr. Virgin W. Headley of Pleasant Grove, brought in another bloom. He had four to the stalk.

Clarence Baker of Temple community, brough in a cotton boll a little larger than a pea Saturday afternoon. Mr. Baker said that he saw a bloom first on Tuesday, June 16th.

Then Saturday morning Mr. W. B. Bishop of Mt. Pisgah brought in some blooms; also Mr. Arthur Carter of Maplesville Route 2 brought in some a few minutes later.

Mr. M. N. Allen of Clanton Route 3 brought in a red cotton bloom Saturday afternoon.

The first bloom last year was brought in on June 20, by Archie Hall, colored, of Route 3.

BAPTIST MEN HOLD FISH FRY AT MITCHELL DAM CLUB HOUSE

Mr. John Hollis and the Alabama Power Company at Mitachell Dam proved very gracious hosts to the Men's Bible Class of Clanton Baptist church last Wednesday afternoon, when a fish fry was participated in by the members of the class and a few friends. The men began to arrive at the Dam about 4:00 o'clock, and an hour was consumed in looking through the plant and over the beautiful premises. At 5:00 o'clock sixty-two men gathered around the tables in the club house and enjoyed one of the most tasty and carefully prepared meals ever a man sat down before. The fish and camp stew were fit for those hardest to please, as was the accessories that went with them. A more enjoyable thirty minutes could never be imagined.

The members of the class are much indebted to their fellow-member, Mr. Hollis, for furnishing such an admirable place for the outing. The class has an affair similar to this one every year, but it will be hard to improve on the one enjoyed by these sixty-two men last Wednesday afternoon.

Honor guests of the class were Dr. Gwaltney and Mr. Bond of Birmingham, who were conducting a revival at Clanton Baptist church.

MISS LOIS THOMPSON PLAYS PIANO AND DIRECTS ORCHESTRA

The new orchestra just formed in Clanton a few weeks ago, is said to be progressing fine with its work. Miss Lois Thompson is pianist as well as instructor. Mr. Orville Wright has recently joined the orchestra and will play the banjo. It is said that Mr. Ernest Williams of Verbena is contemplating taking a part in the orchestra at an early date.

We are proud that this musical unit has been formed, and we anticipate a bright future for them in Clanton. It is a fine thing for us to have a good orchestra here.

WORK ON NEW WELL IS PROGRESSING FAST

Mayor C. Fenn Jones advises that the new city well is progressing. The well, eight feet square, had been dug to a depth of 40 feet last Saturday. In whitch water had collected to a depth of 10 feet. This was to be pumped out for a further digging this week.

M. P. ROBINSON FAMILY REUNION AT UNION GROVE

The thirteenth annual reunion of the children, grand children, etc., of M. P. Robinson, will be held at Union Grove church Sunday, June 28th. There will be preaching in the forenoon, and the reunion program will be held following dinner.

There were 102 present at the reunion last year, and Mr. T. G. Robinson, the chairman, hopes and expects a much larger attendance this year. Members of the family are urged to attend and friends are invited.

DURWOOD TEEL ERECTING BRICK BUNGALOW ON EAST 2ND AVE.

Carpenters are this week engaged in building a modern brick bungalow for Mr. Durwood Teel on his beautiful lot at Second Avenue and Second Street, East. When completed it will be the most modern and attractive residence in that section of Clanton.

And we notice, by the way, that Mr. Teel is using the well known Jenkins brick to put into his building. This famous brick concern, in Montgomery, has been carrying a series of advertisements in The Union-Banner for the past several weeks, and The Union-Banner is pleased to note that our people here are using their products.

GWALTNEY-BOND REVIVAL CLOSED AT BAPTIST CHURCH TUESDAY NIGHT

The revival meeting at the Clanton Baptist church, which has been in progress for the past ten day, came to a close Tuesday night of this week. The preaching was done by Dr. L. L. Gwaltney of the Alabama Baptist, and the singing was in the charge of Mr. Fred Bond, both of Birmingham.

The revival was a most successful one from every standpoint. There was not such a large ingathering of members, but all of Dr. Gwaltney's sermons were filled with gospel truths, and the attendance was good throughout the meeting.

J. MELL MARTIN ATTENDING MORTICIANS MEET IN MONTG'Y

Tuesday and Wednesday of this week Mr. J. Mell Martin, of Clanton, is attending the annual convention of the Alabama Funeral Directors Association in session in Montgomery. Mr. Martin is secretary-treasurer of the organization, and is slated to return to Clanton late Wednesday afternoon.

Notables taking part in the convention are: Joseph L. Galen of Philadelphia, M. S. Brislin of Selma, J. J. Duffey and J. R. Higgins of Mobile, Donald MacGuire, R. W. Williams, H. C. Aston. Taylor Boyd served as the toastmaster. The invocation was delivered by the Rev. T. C. Casady. Col. W. P. Screws gave the welcome address.

S. A. JONES STILL WITH EXCHANGE

Mr. S. A. Jones wishes the announcement made that he is still connected with the Chilton County Exchange. Mr. Jones has been working for that firm for the past several years, and is very accomodating and servicable around the place. Mr. Jones states that a permanent manager for the Exchange has been selected and will take charge within a few days.

EVAN PARRISH WILL OPEN UP CREAM AND SEED STORE SOON

Mr. Evan Parrish reports that he will open up a new seed store and cream station in the near future. The location will likely be his old stand next to Newt Gray's barber shop.

For the present Mr. Parrish is doing business at Evans Variety Store, where he is handling most all kinds of seeds. Mr. Parrish will buy cream at this location next Saturday, and says that he will pay the highest market price. His many friends are invited to come to see him, and watch out for the announcement of his opening, which will be at an early date.

NEWS FROM CANAL ZONE

First news from the big "war" in canal zone waters has begun to filter through.

Mr. Carl Pate, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Pate, who enlisted in the United States navy in November, 1935, has just returned from the 1936 South American Cruise. He was aboard the Destroyer U. S. S. Warden. The fleet, during maneuvers, steamed south far enough to make acquaintance with the father Neptune. The Warden steamed into the royal realm of the deep at 81 degrees, 5 minutes West Longitude, and Latitude 0 degrees, 0 minutes and 0 seconds. To those who had never crossed the equator, a rather rough initiation was given. Those who survived the initiation were called "shellbacks" and a Neptune certificate was given to each. Earl Pate is now a "shellback".

The fleet's destination was Callao, Peru, S. A. The fleet returned to Balboa Island, Panama on June 8, and arrived back in San Diego, California, at 2:00 o'clock p.m., June 16.

HUBBARD THANKS VOTERS

To the Voters of Chilton County:

I wish to thank you for the votes which you cast for me in a recent primary for Treasurer. I also wish to apologize to you for my delay in thanking you, but as you know, I am a farmer, and much work accumulated while I was out campaigning. This made it necessary for me to have to work so hard that I kept delaying my vote of thanks.

Although I did not get the nomination, I am still a Republican from principle, as I told you before the primary. To those who did not see fit to vote for me, I wish to say that there is no ill feeling, because it was your duty to vote according to your conscience. The primaries are over and the selections are made. We have splendid men for each office; therefore, I am asking that we go to the polls and roll up the biggest majority that the Republicans have ever polled. Yours very truly,—Gerald Hubbard.

FIRST CASE OF TYPHOID FEVER

The first case of typtoid fever to occur in Chilton County was reported to the County Health Department. This case accurred in a town with a protected water supply and a town that is in good condition so far as sanitation is concerned. The question arose as to the source of the infection, but upon questioning the patient the answer became fairly evident. The person with the typhoid had recently returned from a vacation that had included camping and fishing, which very evidently meant drinking water from various springs and wells, staying in camp houses and poor sanitary facilities, and eating food from doubtful sources and perhaps food that was improperly prepared.

This might properly be called "vacation typhoid" and such cases occur all too often. Most anyone you might ask could tell you that typhoid fever is caused from eating food or drinking water or milk that has become contaminated by the body wastes from a case or a carrier of typhoid fever. They could also tell you that the disease is preventable through vaccination and sanitation. And yet when this person leaves the worries of making a living behind and goes on a vacation, he is very likely to leave this information concerning typhoid at home also.

Be careful of the water and milk you drink and the food you eat, not only while you are away on your vacation, but at all times. And remember to be vaccinated against typhoid, for while the vaccine does not give full protection in all cases it does seem to give some protection in every case. There are so many diseases that science has not yet learned to prevent that it seems a waste of money, time, and what is more important, human lives, to have those diseasse that can be prevented.

MADE LARGE ADDITION TO WAYSIDE GARDENS—THORSBY

Mr. Lloyd Howard, proprieter of Wayside Gardens, just north of Thorsby, announces that he has just completed an addition to his green house which exactly doubles the capacity. With this addition it is now 100 feet long. Running the full length of the house is Mr. Howard's propogation bench filled with sand, wcich is used for rooting plants.

Mr. Howard now has a total of 3,600 Carnation plants, which, when in bloom, will average 10 blooms to the stalk. They will be ready for the market about October and November. A variety of potted plants is kept at all times—any kind you want.

Mr. Howard extends an invitation to visitors to come and inspect his place any time. You will always be welcome.

Clarence Payton Stabbed Last Sun.

Clarence Payton, age 23, son of Mr. and Mrs. N. L. Payton, Clanton Route 5, was stabbed twice last Sunday morning. One of the wounds was in the back and one in the breast. The injured man was taken to the Central Alabama Hospital, where he was reported to be resting fairly well.

The stabbing is reported to have resulted from a misunderstanding with Julius Payton, his brother-in-law, with whom Clarence was boarding A warrant was sworn out against Julius Payton on Monday morning, and officers went in search of him. It is reported that Julius Payton was drinking at the time of the stabbing.

DR. MARCUS FIXING UP OFFICE

Dr. T. J. Marcus is this week engaged in fixing up his office in the Mullins building on the highway. He is going to have it in jam-up shape for optical and general medical work when he is finished.

THREE ARRESTED BY CITY

City officers arrested three persons during the past week. All were charged with public drunkenness. One was fined $1 and costs; the other two were fined $5 and cost each.

MRS. LONGSHORE PRESENTS PUPILS AT MUSICAL TEA

A most artistic and beautifully rendered musicale was presented by Mrs. W. L. Longshore's pupils on Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Napoleon Johnson, to a large and appreciative audience.

The spacious living and dining rooms were thrown together, which, with silver baskets of flowers and a lovely spinet Mathushek, lent perfect atmosphere to the young musicians.

Those taking part on the program were: Ruth Gowan, Myra Johnson, Grace Ezell, Lillian Smith, Inez Wyatt, Edna Lowe, Delene Popwell, Billy Johnson, Ann Callen, Ina Saxon McCraney, Mary Ellen Higgins, Percy Pitts, and Billy Longshore.

Immediately after the program the guests were served a delicious ice from a beautifully appointed lace covered table on which burned green tapers in crystal candlesticks, with green and white mints in crystal plates.

The tea table was presided over by Miss Dixie Johnson and Miss Mamie Middleton.

3,000,000 Jobs Is Relief Goal of FDR

Money For WPA, PWA, CCC Included In Bill Sent To President Roosevelt

PLAN LONG RANGE STUDY

Washington, June 19.—President Roosevelt and his aides will have $3,271,000,000 for relief and public works in the next fiscal year beginning July 1. The sum is estimated as sufficient to provide jobs for more than 3,000,000 on the basis of present costs of relief.

With a $2,375,000,000 deficiency relief bill awaiting only President Roosevelt's signature before the new program is thrown into high gear, legislative steps also are being taken to study long range relief problems.

Jobless Study Urged

After legislative action was completed yesterday on the big appropriation measure, the senate passed and sent to the house a resolution calling for a national commission to recommend future policies on unemployment.

Senator Murray (D.), Montana, the author declared unemployment and relief "now appear to be long term charges against the national government."

The $1,425,000,000 item in the deficiency bill for the works progress administration is expected to furnish pay envelopes for 2,00,0000 persons in the next year. This money will be spent under the direction of the president, as provided in the bill, instead of by Harry L. Hopkins, administrator. A notable change in this bill was the omission of provisions for the Florida ship canal.

The $300,000,000 fund for Secretary Ickes, public works administration is expected to finance a half billion dollars worth of non-federal public works projects. The exact amount is dependent upon the number of cities which accept Ickes' suggestion that they take grants of only 45 per cent and themselves put up the rest instead of borrowing from PWA.

CCC Included

During the year also $246,000,000 will be spent for the 318,505 members of the civilian conservation corps, and about $300,000,000 for reclamation and other heavy engineering projects expected to put 100,000 to work.

Another 400,000 can be employed with the $1,000,000,000 in relief cash which remains unspent from the previous appropriation.

Hopkins made no immediate statement regarding passage of the relief-efficiency measure, which officials said WPA would continue along present lines. One point which must be decided however, is a possible change in the rule that no one who was not on relief prior to November 1, 1935, can get a work relief job.

This date apparently was set with th iedea that relief was an emergency problem. The resolution of Senator Murray described the problem as having "passed the emergency phase."

CLANTON STORE ROBBED LAST SATURDAY NIGHT

Uncle Joe Baker's store in East Clanton was broken into Saturday night and robbed of goods valued at $25.00. The merchandise stolen was composed mostly of sugar, cakes, candy, tobacco and cigarettes.

Authorities were notified, and part of the goods recovered on Sunday. Four arrests have been made in connection with the burglary. Those arrested were Huey Willis, J. W. Driver Jr., Roland Morrison, Grady Maudlin, all of whom were placed in jail, pending preliminary hearing.

INSTALLED NEW OPTICAL OUTFIT AT UPCHURCH'S

Dr. E. E. Upchurch announces that he has recently installed a brand new modern up-to-date outfit for examining eyes and fitting glasses. Dr. Upchurch has been fitting glasses for thirty-five years, and he always keeps up with the most modern and improved methods of handling the work. He will be glad to figure with you on your next job of fitting glasses.

J. C. ATCHISON THANKS VOTERS

To the Voters of Chilton County:

I wish to thank you from the depths of my heart for the votes which you cast for me in the last primary election. Although I am not the nominee, I am not any the less a Republican, but I intend doing everything I can to help elect our entire ticket in the General Election.

I wish also to thank you for the term you have given me the privilege of serving as Commissioner of the Third District. There have been many obstacles which we have had to overcome during the perilous depression, but Chilton County has been able to stay on a cash basis and when my term is over, I will be able to turn over my work to my successor with the County still paying its debts with 100 cents in the dollar, and money in the treasury.

To those who did not see fit to vote for me, I assure you that there is no ill feeling. You exercised your Constitutional right and that was your privilege.

I will miss the contact with the friends I have made in public life, but if I can serve to help any person as a private citizen, I hope you will call on me.—Sincerely yours, J. C. Atchison.

Brick And Hollow Tile Are The Only Materials That Are Really Fireproof

Because the elements that make them, cannot destroy them.

Proof of this fact, are lower fire insurance rates than apply on houses built of combustible materials.

FIRESTONE ANNOUNCES NEW TIRE TO THE PUBLIC

After months of testing and factory preparation, Firestone announced this week its new Standard Tire, introduced to the public as the Thrift Tire of 1936. It is a tire of first line quality, embodying all of the exclusive Firestone patented construction features, and at the same time offered at a price that marks a new era in economy for car owners.

For nearly a year, Firestone engineers, research and production men have been developing this new tire. In its construction they used only first grade materials and they designed a tread with more and tougher rubber in contact with the road to give long, even wear and anti-skid traction.

The famous gum dipping process is used in the construction of this new tire. This method, which is exclusive with Firestone, adds eight extra pounds of rubber to every one hundred pounds of cotton cords, and not only provides greater strength but gives greater blow out protection. Another Firestone patented feature embodied in this new tire is two extra layers of gum dipped cords under the tread, assuring greater cushioning and uniting the body and tread in one inseparable bond.

The new low prices at which this tire is sold, combined with its first-line quality make the new standard the greatest value ever offered. Volume production, most efficient factory methods and equipment in the industry, and a distribution system, which has reached a new peak in economy, made possible the savings which have been passed on to car owners.

The new standard tire can be obtained in all sizes for passenger cars, trucks and buses.

UNIVERSITY NEWS

University, Ala.—The inauguration this summer, by the University of Alabama, of an Institute of Public Administration in cooperation with he second annual Insitute of State and local affairs is announced by Dr. Lee Bidgood, Dean of the school of Commerce and Business Administration. The dates of this Institute will be June 25 to July 30.

It will be under the direction of Dr. Bidgood with Mr. Thad Holt, Assistant administrator, Works Progress Administration, Washington, D. C., as advisory director.

Dr. Bidgood stated that the program will include systematic courses in the major fields of public administration and a series of lectures and conferences concerned with the discussion of the principal administrative functions and problems.

"The development of the program is prompted by a recognition of the fact that public administration is beoming increasingly technical and that specialized training is a matter of necessity for the administrator," Dean Bidgood added.

The purpose of the training program is to develop a greater insight into the duties, obligations, and means of achieving efficiency in the various fields of public service. The porgram is made available to persons already engaged in public administration in some capacity and also to those anticipating entrance into the field as well as interested and public spirited citizens of the state.

REVIEW: JESUS MEETING HUMAN NEEDS

GOLDEN TEXT—Jesus of Nazareth . . . went about doing good.—Acts 10:38.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Our Best Friend.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Because He Lives.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Jesus Meeting My Needs.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC — Jesus Meeting the World's Needs.

The lessons of the quarter center in the supreme person and have one transcendent theme, Jesus Christ the world's Savior. The best method of review for senior and adult classes will be to refresh the mind with the principal facts and leading teachings of each lesson. The following suggestions are offered:

Lesson for April 5.
The great supper represents God's gracious provision of salvation for mankind. The urgent invitation is extended to all to accept Jesus Christ as Savior. The making of excuses illustrates the sin and folly of men in rejecting God's free grace.

Lesson for April 12.
The resurrection of Jesus Christ is the supreme proof of the deity of Jesus Christ. The empty tomb is the divine guarantee that Christ was what he claimed to be, and that his offering on Calvary's cross was accepted by God.

Lesson for April 19.
The center of interest in this parable is not the prodigal son or his brother, but a certain man who had two sons. He who fails to see the heart of our Father God will miss the purpose of the parable. The whole of revelation as it pertains to a sinning race and a pardoning God is swept before us in this narrative.

Lesson for April 26.
The story of the rich man and Lazarus gives us a look into two worlds. In this world the rich man lived in luxury while Lazarus begged at his door. In the other world, their positions are reversed. Death is coming to rich and poor. Worldly condition is not a test of man's relationship to God. The rich man did not go to hell because he was rich, neither did Lazarus go to heaven because he was poor.

Lesson for May 3.
Forgiveness is a Christian obligation. Humility is a Christian quality. Gratitude is an uncommon grace. The nine lepers who were healed failed to express gratitude to the healer.

Lesson for May 10.
Prayer is an obligation on the part of the believer. Spiritual growth is absolutely impossible without it. Men should pray under all circumstances.

Lesson for May 17.
Zacchaeus brushed aside all difficulties in order to see Jesus. He proved the reality of his conversion by making restitution. He was saved instantly upon receiving Jesus Christ. Salvation is a present reality to those who believe on Jesus Christ.

Lesson for May 24.
Jesus warned against the scribes. They claimed to be loyal to the Word of God yet showed their lack of the saving grace of God. In connection with his teaching in the temple, Jesus prophesied of his return and warned against unpreparedness as to his coming.

Lesson for May 31.
The last meal that Jesus ate with his disciples was the passover, the memorial of the national deliverance which pointed to the supreme deliverance to be effected by Christ on the cross of Calvary. In connection with the passover, the feast of the new covenant was instituted. This feast has a double import, looking backward to the great deliverance wrought through Christ's atoning death and forward to the even greater deliverance which he shall accomplish at his second coming.

Lesson for June 7.
Jesus' indescribable agony in the garden shows what it cost the sinless Son of God to identify himself with the sinning race, when in anguish he sweat as it were great drops of blood.

Lesson for June 14.
The crucifixion of Jesus Christ was the greatest tragedy of all history. May the fact of the sinless Son of God suffering for a sinning race, move all sinners to accept salvation at his hand.

Lesson for June 21.
Jesus, having given the disciples the parting message to evangelize the world, ascended into heaven. May these last words of our Lord be received by us as our supreme obligation to take the gospel to every creature.

The lessons of the entire quarter have been rich in teaching material. A faithful presentation of the Bible messages given should mean conversion for some and growth in grace for many.

Pray Continually

Accustom yourself gradually to carry prayer into all your daily occupations. Speak, move, work, in peace, as if you were in prayer, as indeed you ought to be. Do everything without excitement, by the spirit of grace.—Fenelon.

Great Designs

Great designs are not accomplished without enthusiasm of some sort. It is the inspiration of everything great. Without it no man is to be feared, and with it none despised.—Bovee.

Ralph Jones, of Birmingham, visited his mother here Sunday.

PLEASANT HILL

Last Sunday and Sunday night were our regular preaching services. Our pastor, Rev. W. E. Robinson, always brings us a wonderful message.

Our Sunday school is going pretty good, but there are still some who could help.

Our B. Y. P. U. is doing better but we need to improve lots yet. Several from here attended the singing at Collins Chapel Sunday afternoon.

Miss Odell Ellison spent Saturday night with Misses Dotha and Jesse Cleckler.

Mr. Leon Cost of Siluria spent Saturday night with Mr. Hobson Cost and attended the singing at Collins Chappel.

Mr. and Mrs. Zedard Bolton of Mt. Zion spent Saturday night with her grandmother, Mrs. Mary Littleton and her aunt, Mrs. J. E. Padget.

Misses Dotha and Jesse Cleckler, Miss odell Ellison spent a while Saturday night with Miss Central Cost.

Misses Odell Ellison, Minnie Bolton, Willie Mae Davis and Central Cost were the Sunday dinner guests of Misses Dotha and Jesse Cleckler.

Mrs. Eurell Dobbs and little daughter, of Clanton, are spending a few days with her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Sammons and family.

Mrs. Howard Robinson and little son, of Clanton, are spending a few days with her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Cleckler and family.

Next Sunday, June 28th, Rev. Paul Oden will preach for us. Our Sunday school will begin at 9:00 o'clock. Preaching services, by Brother Oden, will follow. He will show some new pictures Sunday night. Mr. Boswell will teach a singing school here beginning about the 10th of July.

Our revival will begin on the first Sunday in August.

Remember Sunday school next Sunday at 9 o'clock and the preaching.

We are planning to attend the all day singing at Center Hill next Sunday.—Reporter.

LAY DAM SWAMPED BOOTHTON TEAM LAST SUNDAY 22 to 10

The Boothton Mines baseball team came to Lay Dam last Sunday and lost a slugging match to the Kilowatts 22 to 10. It was a wild and woolly affair throughout.

The Boothton team gathered 14 hits good for 25 bases, while the Lay Dam club got 27 hits, good for 46 bases; 46 men went to bat for Boothton, and 55 for Lay Dam. Every man on the Lay Dam cub hit safey at least once. Each team made four errors.

Sherrod, Boothors7oinggall Moffic led with the bat for his team with three singles, while four of his mates got a pair each. C. Dement hit a home run forBothton in the first inning, with none on base.

For Lay Dam, Cobb led with 5 out of 6, two of them triples. He was paced closely by Greene , Foshee and Warren with four each. Cecil Jones and Dock Baker got three each. One of Jones' hits was a homer in the fourth inning and the other was a triple. Tatum got a couple of doubles and Marcus and Golson hit safely on one occasion each.

Two wild scoring sprees were divided between the teams. In the fourth, Boothton sent 10 men to bat, while Lay Dam sent 13 to bat in the seventh when they hit safely 8 times for 8 runs.

The Killowatts drove Sherrod off the mound in the fifth, but Warren coasted through for Lay Dam; Warren gathered two doubles and two singles to help his cause.

BY ALL MEANS USE Genuine PYROIL IN YOUR CAR

IN NEW CAR OR OLD

Pyroil Safeguards — Increases Powor and Performance

Pyroil is not a substitute for regular lubricants. You add it by mere ounces, to your favorite oil, grease and gasoline. It then establishes on bearings, gears, pistons, cylinder walls, and valves, a glossy, slippery sheath which reduces friction in great degree and upon which, tremendous heat has no effect.

This Pyroil surface becomes virtually a part of the metal itself—smoothing and safeguarding the machined surfaces of new cars, filling pores and abrasions to friction-defeating smoothness in old cars. Frees valves. Banishes hard carbon. Seals rings. Increases power.

STRICTLY O. K. For ALLOY BEARINGS Contains No Harmful Oils or Acids

Genuine Pyroil will not injure any type of bearing babbitt, silver alloy, bronze or lead-bronze nor will it injure special plated pistons. Will aid the break-in or wear-in process.

Ask your service station, garage or other dealer about Pyroil.

Think of the extra dollar value in one great Chevrolet feature alone—NEW PERFECTED HYDRAULIC BRAKES! These are the safest and smoothest brakes ever developed—always equalized—always dependable.

There is also plenty of extra value in Chevrolet's SOLID STEEL one-piece TURRET TOP. It puts the safety of solid, seamless steel over your head—is smarter looking—and keeps passengers cooler in summer.

Another feature that will be worth a great deal to you is Chevrolet's IMPROVED KNEE-ACTION GLIDING RIDE*. It smooths away bumps and holes—assures perfect comfort for both front and back seat passengers—is recognized everywhere as the world's smoothest, safest ride.

Also extremely valuable, also exclusive to this one low-priced car, is GENUINE FISHER NO DRAFT VENTILATION. It enables you to scoop in refreshing breezes on hot days—eliminate drafts—prevent clouding of the windshield in bad weather.

The extra value in Chevrolet cars mounts still higher when you consider the advantages of SHOCK-PROOF STEERING*. It eliminates steering wheel vibration, protects your hands and arms from constant shock, makes driving easier than ever before.

And, finally, there is Chevrolet's HIGH-COMPRESSION VALVE-IN-HEAD ENGINE. Not only does this engine give the finest all-round performance, but it will also save you many dollars a year in gas, oil and maintenance. County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by J. W. Fant, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County

EARLY MOLTING HENS EXPENSIVE, SAYS IVEY

Auburn, Alabama.—Hens which begin to drop feathers in June and July are not worth keeping in good poultry flocks, advises John E. Ivey. extension poultryman, who states that these birds should be removed in order to save feed and expense.

Early molting hens do not lay as many eggs as late molters, and the eggs they do lay are produced at a time when eggs are plentiful and prices are low.

ALABAMA GROWERS SENT $2,783,793 IN PAYMENTS

Auburn, Ala.—Cotton producers have received $2,783,793.97 in cotton price adjustment payments within the past few weeks, announces Dr. L. N. Duncan, director of State Extension Service, who reports that adjustment checks are being mailed at the rate of about 2,800 each day.

Statistics received from Washington show that total adjustment payments to growers in 18 states amount to more than $20,000,000.

MILK CONTROL LAW IS HELD CONSTITUTIONAL

Auburn, Ala.—The Alabama Supreme Court has held the State milk control act, passed by the State legislature in 1935, to be constitutional.

SMALL COTTON FARMERS MAY INCREASE DIVERSION

Auburn, Ala.—Secretary Wallace has approved changes in the Agricultural Conservation program to allow small producers and others to be paid for additional cotton base acreage planted to soil conserving crops or devoted to soil-building practices.

Heretofore, the maximum of diversion for which full payment could be paid was 35 per cent of an individual producer's cotton acerage. The change allows small producers with a base of five acres or less to receive full payment for diverting up to 2 acres.

The provision for payments for a county as a whole could not exceed 25 per cent of the county quota was changed to allow individual producers to be paid for diverting the full 35 per cent. Under this ruling, any producer may receive full payment for diverting 35 per cent even if diversion for the county exceeds the previous 25 per cent maximum by a figure ranging up to 10 per cent.

The modifications enable small producers and other cotton farmers who have been hit by the drouth to take full advantage of the crop insurance provision of the Agricultural Conservation program.

FARM CONDITIONS GREATLY IMPROVED

Auburn, Ala.—"By every test, agriculture definitely is coming back," says Gov. W. I. Myers, of the Farm Credit Administration.

"The index price for farm products has more than doubled since February 1933—an all time low. Gross farm income has increased nearly $3,000,000,000 since 1932. The farm real estate market has been increasingly active, with advancing prices, over the past three years until now the natinoal average value of farms is 82 per cent of what it was in the immediate prewar years, 1912-14."

COTTON CARRYOVER WILL BE SMALLER

Auburn, Ala.—A sharp reduction in the world carryover of cotton this season is expected by the bureau of Agricultural Economics.

With consumption establishing a high record, the Bureau suggests that the world cotton carryover on August 1 may be about 12,500,000 bales, compared with 13,624,000 in August, 1935; 16,100,000 in 1934; 16,000,000 in 1933; and with 17,000,000 bales in 1932. The 1923-32 ten-year average was about 10,155,000 bales.

Of the toal the carryover of American cotton will be about 7,300,000 bales, compared with 9,000,000 bales a year ago, and a ten-year period of about 6,000,000 bales.

CHILEAN NITRATE CONTEST ON JEMISON-COLLINS CHAPEL ROAD

Last week's issue of this paper carried an article about a Chilean Nitrate demonstration being conducted on the highway 31 two miles north of Jemison. The Jemison Chapter of the F. F A. is also sponsoring a Chilean Nitrate demonstration on the Jemison-Collins Chapel road at Walter Allen's farm, Jesse Allen, his son having this 2½ acres of corn in his supervised practice program. It is being financed by the Chilean Nitrate Educational Bureau and supervised by H. H. Denson, Vocational Agriculture teacher at Jemison High school. One half acre in the center of the plot will be used as a check plot and no nitrate will be used. On each side of the check plot will be one acre on which 200 pounds of Chilean Nitrate will be used per acre as side dressing when corn is 45 days old. Signs will be erected to indicate the different plots so that those passing may tell where they are located. A guessing contest will be held at the demonstration in August, at which lemonade will be served and the man, woman or child guessing nearest the actual yield of these plots will be awarded a prize of $2.00. Everybody in invited to attend this guessing contest and will be notified in this paper just when it is to be.

STATES USING COTTON IN ROAD CONSTRUCTION

Auburn, Ala.—A total of 32 states have filed requests with the Agricultural Adjustment Administration for 6,167,000 square yards of cotton fabric and 89,500 cotton mats to be used in tests of new uses of cotton in highway construction. Alabama has requested 1,260,094 spuare yards for use in constructing 119.33 miles of roads in the State.

4-H PROJECTS HELP FARM BOYS AND GIRLS

Auburn, Ala.—The farm boy or girl who has a definite project to look after will gain a great deal of valuable experience, take a greater interest in farm life, an ddevelop finer traits of character, says Dr. L. N. Duncan, Director of the State Extension Service, in advocating that boys and girls conduct 4-H club projects during the year.

FAIRVIEW HOME DEMONSTRATION CLUB MET

The Home Demonstration Club of Fairview community met at the school house on Tuesday, June 16, at 2:00 o'clock. An interesting and helpful demonstration was given by the leaders on "picture study" and the correct way to hang pictures.

One new member, who we are glad to have, was added to our club.

The next club meeting will be on "food preservation" and will be held at the home of Mrs. J. D. Williams, on July 21, at 2:00 o'clock. All members make a special effort to be present. We especially invite visitors.—Reporter.

BACK TO THE FARM MAY SOLVE UNEMLOYMENT

Montgomery, Ala. June 17.—A general "back to the farm" movement was urged today as a partial solution to Alabama's unemployment problem by Robert R. Moore, State Commissioner of Labor.

"Alabama is primarily an agricultural state," he declared, "and I believe one of the most logical methods of relieveing unemployment in urban centers would be a concerted back to the farm movement."

"Many industrial workers have small farms or can get them. If those who have such opportunities would return to the farm, for just the present season, it would lessen the conjested labor surplus in our cities, now growing worse as the summer slump comes on. Industry would then have a chance to take up the slack with the start of fall business."

He made public a preliminary survey of farm labor in Alabama, showing that nearly 50,000 workers have left Alabama farms during the past twelve months. An even greater decrease was shown in "family labor" which was reduced 87,505.

The encouraging fact about the survey was that the number of hired workers increased 43,000, indicating that many of the farmers were using increased income to hire more of their work done, releasing children so they could attend school and open[i]... jobs. ... some o... lation is ...

The su... interesting ... help in Alab... er is receiving ... pared to $11.00 ...

The state still has far to go before wages return to levels of the late 20's. In 1927, the average farm worker received $20.50 with board. In 1929, the peak year, he received $30.00 a month without board.

Over the nation as a whole, the average farm worker received $19.77 in 1932; $14.77 in 1933; $15.74 in 1934; ond $18.54 in 1936.

Mr. Moore drew the conclusion that farm wages are definitely on the increase in the state, but are still lagging behind national averages.

Game and Fish News

Florence, Ala.—The periodical phenonema of the Sinking Pond has the fishermen of the Muscle Shoals area both aglow and agog again.

The peculiar caperings of this strange body of water were brought to public attention once more last week when agents of the State Conservation Department and sportsmen of this district rescued a total of 230,000 fish just before the last traces of the pond vanished into the earth.

It had been three years since the pond, which at times becomes a lake covering several hundred acres, staged its famous disappearing act. The last time only 165,000 fish were reclaimed before the water seeped into the ground.

Game Warden W. M. George openly admits that the Sinking Pond is responsible for much of the silver in his hair. For it is his duty to keep an eye on this mystic pool and sound the alarm to the "rescue crews" the second it begins to sink. That may be at high noon or at midnight,

The strange antics of the pond has the experts in a deep state of perplexity but most of them subscribe to the theory that it ... ... days and it ... from these that the fish are rescued and transplanted in the Tennessee River and its tributaries between Wheeler and Wilson dams.

When the water begins to recede Warden George notifies Conservation Commissioner I. T. Quinn in Montgomery and men, trucks and fish cans are rushed from the State Fish Hatchery at Eastaboga to Florence. Here they are joined by local sportsmen equipped with trucks and containers donated by Florence business houses and the reclamation of the fish gets underway.

Eighteen boys, with a fondness for wading, assisted the game authorities in rescuing the fish this year. The catch included 175,000 crappie; 40,000 bream and 15,000 bass, ranging from one inch in length to three lbs. in weight.

You will note that for some precincts there are more than two names. All but two will be eliminated as soon as the actual vote cast can be ascertained. This will be done at this meeting; but all whose names appear are urged to attend this meeting called for June 27th.

Remember, the hour is 1 o'clock, and do not be late, as the meeting must be held and finished with before time for Mr. Vardaman to speak.

$8,000,000,000 TAX MEASURE BECOMES LAW OF NATION

Washington, June 23.—The $800,000,000 tax bill, whch last week was holding up adjournment of Congress, became law today when it was signed by President Roosevelt.

Incorporating some entirely new tax prnciples, the act, which is a compromise between House and Senate theories, goes far toward carrying out Mr. Roosevelt's suggestons for stiff levies on corporation income withheld for stockholders.

Opponents of the new law argued it would injure corporations which need surpluses for "rainy day" and other uses, while its advocates contend it will force undistributed corporate profits into the hands of stockholders, subject to individual income taxes.

In addition to the tax bill, the President signed 28 other measures including the $114,000,000 interior department appropriation bill and also cleared his desk of major legislation passed by the congress which adjourned early Sunday morning.

Among the resolutions signed were those providing for arrangements for the presidential inauguration ceremonies and the opening of the new Congress next January.

Baptist Institute Here June 30th

June 30th, July 1st and 2nd, has been selected by the W. M. U. of the Unity and Chilton Association, as the dates most suitable for our Mission Institute. This article is written to remind you that you and your whole family are urged to be present. Many preparations are being made for your pleasure, instruction and inspiration. Dr. L. O. Dawson, Howard College, preacher and philosopher without peer, is to bring the inspirational address each day. Miss Juliette Weeks, who gave chalk talks so interestingly last year, will conduct the devotionals. Dr. Fred Barnes is to speak each day. Miss Essie Fuller, recently returned Missionary from Brazil, and Rev. J. F. Plainfield, wso was converted in Brazil by a Missionary, and worked there for seven and a helf years will make South America interesting and very real to every class and age. Miss Hallie Lee Stoudemire from India will tell us of that strange far-away land. A fine song leader and good teachers for every age groups have been secured.

Now! What Are You Going To Do?

1. Please draw a circle on the calendar around these three days and let no member of the family plan for anything else at that time.

2. Talk about these meetings to all your friends and invite them.

3. See that the Institute and dates are announced in your church SOON.

4. You men. Begin to plan at once, at Sunday school, for busses, trucks, or cars sufficient to bring your membership. Take up a collection to pay for the gasoline if necessary.

5. You women. Plan your lunch early. Talk it over with your lunch chairman, if she doesn't do anything, plan it anyway. That's your part of the meeting. Clanton cares for the speakers and teachers, furinshes the drinks, serves the lunch and entertoins all who will spend the nights. If each church will plan to feed about fifty, one day only, of the meeting we will all come out with flying colors.

6. Plan to attend all three days, regardless of your age or sex. If you wish any information write Mrs. W. E. Cobern, Maplesville, for Unity, Mrs. J. Lee Grant, Verbena Rte. 2 for Chilton or Mrs. S. J. Ezell, Clanton. The programs with detailed lunch plans will be mailed to pastors, superintendents of Sunday school and W. M. S. presidents soon.

7. Pray that our people may take advantage of this wonderful opportunity and that the speakers may bring us the messages that we so greatly need.

I am going to be looking for you to meet me at Clanton Baptist church, June 30, July 1 and 2.—Mrs. S. J. Ezell, Director.

EILAND REUNION

The children, grand children and great grand children of Mrs. S. A. Eiland met at Cedar Grove church on June 21, for the annual family reunion. She has 12 children, and all were present except Mrs. A. Riggins of Pensacola, Fla.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Felix Eiland of Thorsby, Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Eiland and family of Dogwood, Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Littlejohn of Thorsby, Mrs. Rebecca Riggins of Thorsby, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Eiland and family of Clanton, Mrs. Frances Riggins of Birmingham, Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Riggins and family of Birmingham, Charlie Eiland of Clanton, Mrs. C. C. Hayes of Ensley, Mrs. Callie Price and James of Clanton, Mr. and Mrs. T. V. Eiland, and family of Thorsby.

The grand children were Arthur Eiland and children, Trion Eiland and family, Mrs. Pink Lawley and children of Dogwood, Mr. and Mrs. John Rollins and Jewel, Mr. and Mrs. Herschel Maddox and Audrey Gene, Mr. and Mrs. Alpheus Littlejohn and Nina Faye of Thorsby, Mrs. Pauline Owen and son of Clanton, Mr. and Mrs. Bryan Riggins and daughters, Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Cotton and daughters of Birmingham, Mrs. Tipton Eiland and son of Clanton, Mrs. Kermit Lowery and children of Clanton, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Melton of Siluria, Mr. L. V. Riggins and Miss Myrtice Parr of Birmingham, Miss Hazel Hayes and Mr. Street of Ensley.

Among those present were Rev. and Mrs. Freeman, Mrs. Alpha Hayes, Mrs. Mary Price, Rev. and Mrs. Enfinger, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Mastin and Billie, Mrs. Hubert Devaughn and son, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Smith, Miss Mattie Payton, and others, all of whom we were glad to have.

Rev. Enfinger made a good talk in the afternoon, which was enjoyed by all. Several songs were sung during the day. A bountiful dinner was served at the noon hour. We hope that grandmother and the family will enjoy many more reunions in the years to come.—Two grand daughters, Bonnie and Myrtle.

SINGING SCHOOL AT MT. CARMEL

A singing school at Mt. Carmel church will be taught, beginning Monday, July 13th. It will run for a term of twenty days (6 days per week). The teacher will be Prof. A. O. Boswell, of Coopers.

The teacher, as well as those of the community who are sponsoring the school, invite the support and co-operation of Mt. Carmel and all surrounding communities. Regular tuition prices will prevail.

Prof. Boswell is a deservinb young man and a good music teacher. He has had much experience in teaching in various communities of the county. Any community is fortunate in getting him to teach their singing school.

Mrs. O. M. Webb and children visited in Jasper last week. They were accompanied home by Mrs. Webb's niece, Miss Louise McCoy. The latter will spend a week here.

DEVAUGHN TO TEACH SINGING SCHOOLS, CONCORD AND COLLINS CHAPEL

Prof. W. M. Devaughn announces that he will teach singing schools at Concord schoolhouse and Collins Chapel schoolhouse, beginning Monday, July 6th. The one at Concord will be taught in the mornings from 8 to 12, and at Collins Chapel from 2 to 6 in the afternoons.

Prof. Devaughn needs no introduction to the people of these communities. He has taught at both places before, and everybody knows his ability to get the most good out of singing schools. If you are interested, you should get in touch either with Prof. Devaugh nor some of the leaders of these two communities.

The Sylacauga School

For the past two weeks Prof. Devaughn and Prof. Eugene H. Whitt have been teaching a school at Sylacauga, and they have met with gratifying success. The school over there has been extended for two more weeks, and will probably run even longer than that.

GRANT TO TEACH SINGING SCHOOL AT PATES CHAPEL

Prof. L. T. Grant will teach a singing school at Pates Chapel church beginning Monday, August 3rd, and continuing for three weeks. Already about 60 pupils have signed up for attendance, and many more are expected.

The playing for the school will be done by Mrs. Birdie Johnson, who will also give piano lessons to any who may desire such training.

Prof. Grant had a very successful school last year at this same place, taught at night. This year it will be in the daytime, and indications are that it will be a fine school. Anyone interested should get in touch with Prof. Grant at an early date.

LAY DAM SUNDAY BASEBALL SCHEDULE

The Lay Dam baseball club announces its Sunday games to be played at home as follows:

June 28.—Selma Mills.

July 12.—Selma CCC.

These games are expected to be good games. Come out and see them. Grandstand accommodations.

CHICAGO ZEP PASSENGER MAKES TRAVEL RECORD

Map of Dr. Scholl's record breaking itinerary.

Dr. Scholl boarding plane for return to Chicago.

PASSAGE REDUCED 80% IN COST IN SIX YEARS.

LAKEHURST, N. J. A new commercial travel record involving a trans-Atlantic crossing and visits to eleven cities in nine different European countries is being established at this writing by Dr. William M. Scholl, Chicago millionaire foot specialist and manufacturer of foot comfort devices.

Dr. Scholl left Chicago by plane on May 10th, visited his New York office and later flew to Lakehurst where he boarded the Hindenburg on her first trip from America to Frankfort, Germany. Using regular air lines and without engaging any special travel service, he is visiting branch offices of the Scholl Manufacturing Company at Frankfort, Berlin, Copenhagen, Stockholm, Zurich, Basle, Milan, Madrid, Barcelona, Paris and London.

This is believed to be the longest and fastest commercial service that has ever been made. His total traveling time will average more than 190 miles an hour.

"In 1929, when I crossed on the first trip of the Graf-Zeppelin," said Dr. Scholl, "the passage cost $2,000. The fare aboard the Hindenburg was $400, a reduction of 80% in five years.

"Travel experts have told me that in all transportation history there has never been a similar ratio of reduction in travel costs, this leads me to believe quite readily that within the next few years giant airships will be common carriers across the Atlantic and will operate at rates that will induce many manufacturers and commercial houses to extend the activities of their traveling men to many foreign lands."

Upon his departure aboard the Hindenburg Dr. Scholl said that he would not make any effort to establish a new commercial travel record but had timed his trip so that by using regular air services he would complete his itinerary in the shortest time possible.

"Business of today demands high speed," said Dr. Scholl. "Our organization has factories or regional offices in almost every country in the world. Fast air transportation has made it possible for me to keep in closer personal contact with these branches by making frequent trips abroad."

MEAT POSTER WINS FIRST IN ALABAMA NATIONAL CONTEST

Above is Miss Kathryn Boyd of Sheffield who has just been announced as state champion in a national meat poster contest for high school students sponsored by the National Livestosk and Meat Board. Miss Boyd won this high honor in a filed of contestants from 520 high schools in 44 states.

With her poster Miss Boyd submitted an essay on the subject, "Why We Need Meat." In this essay she brings out that meat supplies the body with elements essential for proper nutrition, among which are protein, minerals, vitamins and calories. The minerals include phosphorus, iron and copper all recognized as being valuable in keeping health up to par. In short Miss Boyd credits meat as being indispensable in the well balanced diet.

Friends of Mrs. Roland Taylor will be glad to know that she is doing nicely, since her return from Montgomery, where she underwent an operation recently.

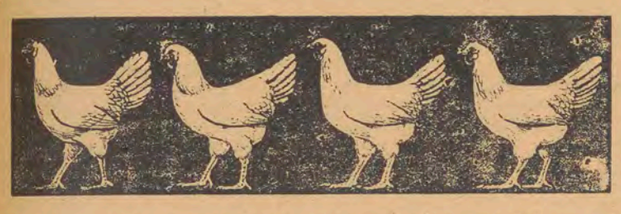
Poultry Expert Tells How to Get Early Fall Layers



"The quicker chicks make the jump from the seventh week of age to the laying house, providing they are fully grown and fully developed, the sooner they'll start making money in the nests," says C. S. Johnson, manager of the Purina Poultry Department. "To do this job of growing large type, well developed birds in the shortest possible time requires as close attention to their care and feeding during the growing period as during the first six weeks of their lives.

"Letting chicks shift for themselves after the sixth week by feeding grain and occasional table scraps happens all too frequently, and that's the reason for the oft-proved statement that the poultryman either makes or breaks himself by the way he cares for his pullets from the sixth to the twentieth week. The sorry part is that the poultry raiser doesn't realize the mistake until it's too late—when he finds himself without eggs in the fall, when prices are at their highest.

Coasters are Costly

"The cost of letting up in the care of young pullets as compared to good management and feeding to keep them coming as fast as possible has been made a matter of special study at the Purina Research Farm. It may seem cheaper after giving chicks a good start, to turn them out and let them rustle for their food, but when they "coast" right on through those fall months of high egg prices and don't develop enough to come into production until after the first of the year, the owner loses that good egg money he should be getting."

To Get Extra Egg Money

"The average egg produced from September to January is worth two eggs produced during the other seven months," according to Johnson. "The poultry raiser who hits this period of high egg prices—September through January—with big pullets at 50 per cent production or better has by March 1st paid the feed cost for the entire laying year, paid a profit above all costs, and has his birds making money for the remainder of the year, almost regardless of egg prices."

$43.66 Extra Profit Per 100 Birds

Building pullets that are ready for early laying is a job for feed because pullets are made of feed. They must be supplied with the materials that will develop body frames, tissues, muscles and egg producing organs. It takes a balanced growing feed to do this. According to Purina Experiment Farm records, pullets raised on a balanced growing ration produced $43.66 extra profit per hundred birds over pullets on grain alone.

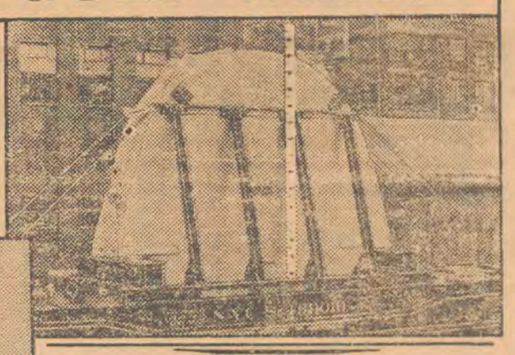
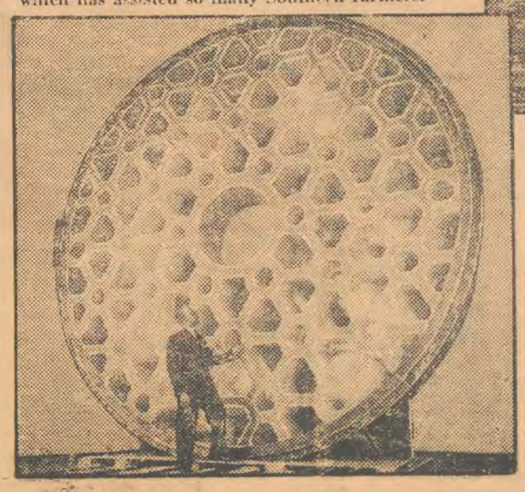
GIANT EYE GOES WEST!

Uncharted regions of the sky over a billion light years away will become visible to man when the giant disc shown below is finally installed as the world's largest "telescopic eye." Largest single piece of glass in the world, the 200-inch, 20-ton disc represents a triumph of the American glass industry. For its successful manufacture, the scientists in charge selected only the best materials, one of which was American nitrate of soda, the identical product which has assisted so many Southern farmers.





Safely loaded on a specially-made flat car, the "giant eye" recently started the long journey from the glass works at Corning, N. Y., to Los Angeles, Calif. Two years have already been spent on this great undertaking, and at least two more years will pass before the "eye" is ground and polished and installed in the Observatory at Mt. Palomar, Calif. Truly so valuable that its worth cannot be measured in dollars, the disc was transported in a special train which ran only during the daylight hours.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert

In spite of the assertions made from administrative sources that we have passed the peak of the depression and are now on the high road to prosperity, and despite the stock exchange figures, and the prices of commodities, often quoted to show how much "better off" we are than in 1933, the grim fact remains that the total of those who are unemployed and who are depending on public relief for support, do not indicate that we are in any way near back to normalcy.

Money for relief and other relief activities is still being spent with a lavish hand, and there is no definite indication now that there will be any cessation of this expenditure, during the next few months at least. The question is no longer entirely one of how we are spending the money, but where are we going to get the money to continue the present program of spending our way into prosperity. That there is a serious division of opinion is indicated by the slow and painful course of the Administration tax bill through Congress. This bill has been changed so extensively and so frequently that there is danger now that its own authors will not recognize it.

And yet the fact remains that we must have more money, money not only to continue the expenditure but to pay the bills which have already been contracted but not liquidated by paying the debt. Many states and communities have "followed the leader". The total annual cost of all government activity, in the federal government, the states and the communities, is now placed at something like fifteen billion dollars a year. The First National Bank of Boston, in its current New England Letter, points out the fact that this total bill—and the money to pay it must be raised by the taxpayers—is much greater than the nation's average food bill, and is more than twice the amount spent annually by all of our people for all of their clothing. Before the World War our government, nation, state and local, spent approximately $3,000,000,000 a year, and with our horse and buggy ideas about finance, we thought that was a lot of money. Yet the bill annually in this modern era is five times as great, and some folks are demanding even greater expenditures. And the bills are not being paid. In 1913, before war started in Europe, our total per capita federal debt was $12.26, while now it is $246 and is still going up.

Isn't it about time to do some figuring as to where we are going to get this money? The fight in Congress over the tax bill is not only one little indication of what we have before us. Even if the bill were enacted into law as originally written and brought in all the money its authors claim it to bring in, then it would not be nearly enough to balance our budget, let alone starting to prepare for paying the debts that have already been contracted.

Sooner or later, if American credit is going to be maintained, the huge debts now being piled up will have to be paid. The government cannot go on borrowing forever, any more than an individual may, no matter how strongly entrenched financially he may seem to be. The cry of the demagogue will go up, of course, that we must take this money off the rich. Well and good, if it can be done. But the rich have not enough to pay it. If all the income of every person having an income of over $5,000 a year were taken from him through taxation, the amount so raised would still be only half enough to pay the federal government's running expenses for this fiscal year. Yet how about the states and local governments? And it is not to be forgotten that the poor consumer pays most of it, after all, either in direct taxes or higher costs of living. Perhaps while we are worrying about how we are going to get more taxes, we ought to spend a little time figuring out a way to reduce public expenditures.

VOTERS, REGISTER JULY 6-11

We wish to call the attention of the readers of this paper to the meeting of the Chilton county Board of Registrars which will be held at the courthouse on Monday, July 6th, and continue for five days. They will register all voters who have become 21 years, but have not heretofore registered, and all others eligible to register.

This will more than likely be the last chance to register before the general election in November; so see to it that all the young citizens are registered at this time. Take the time to look about around you, and if there are those who are eligible, have them meet the Board and get prepared to vote in the coming elections. This matter is important, and you Republicans out over the county should make it a point to get in after the matter.

LET'S HAVE ABSENTEE BALLOT REFORM

If one reads the papers much one will see nowadays considerable news items as well as editorial comments regarding absentee ballot corruption and methods of reform for this voting law, intended for a good purpose but which through abuse has become a menace to clean elections in Alabama. The Union-Banner has been condemning the law for a long time. Its corruption came to light in Shelby County a decade or more ago, and two years ago the corruptness of it was revealed in a Democratic election in Montgomery County. Since that time The Alabama Journal has been a severe critic of the statute. Only a few months ago the Montgomery County Grand Jury recommended repeal of the law by the Legislature. A few weeks ago a Grand Jury in Madison County made investigations of a Democratic primary and recommended that the absentee ballots be thrown out, charging all sorts of corruption.

The latest developments are that Decatur is taking note of the Madison county sector of the racket, and The Decatur Daily quotes from The Atlanta Journal and adds: "It is our judgment that while Madison county has made this thing public to the world, other counties are not so lily white; they just haven't been brought into the limelight."

The Alabama Journal also states editorially in their issue of June 16: "The possibility for dishonesty and the temptation to influence elections corruptly is so great under the absentee ballot law as it stands that any county is likely for a duplication of the Madison county situation at any time. The only remedy is reform of the law. The accommodation of a few citizens in Washington who cannot get home to vote is not sufficient cause to preserve so deplorable a law upon the statute books as that now authorizing absentee voting."

Chilton county, one of the few counties of the State where there are any Republicans to speak of has had some absentee ballot experience too. We did not know anything about its corruption until two years ago in the general election. There was a contest based principally on the absentee ballot box, but technicalities prevented getting very far with it. The contest was dropped, and although everyone knows in reason that it was filled with filthy abuse and corruption, the affair was closed for all time to come.

And the absentee ballot abuse crept into the Republican primary in this county on May 5th, according to the belief of many observers. The absentee ballots did not change the standing of any of the candidates, and would not have if they had been thrown out and not counted; but it may have had some effect upon some of the Republican candidates who went into the run-off primary on June 9th. Somebody has made the statement (and we believe very wisely too) that if he ever runs for office he is going to canvass not to get any absentee ballots. Such votes may do a fellow more harm than good.

ALABAMA SCHOOL FACTS

Our school terms are among the shortest in the nation. The Alabama teacher gets less than half as much salary as the average. Our system is among the most economically organized in the nation.—Alabama Congress of Parents and Teachers.

Alabama taxpayers spend 2.76 per cent of their income on education. In the nation 3.64 per cent of the income goes to support education. Action is needed before next year. Are YOU going to demand it?—Alabama Congress of Parents and Teachers.

School boards have grown 10 per cent since 1930, but $1,000,000 less is asked for schools. Alabama spends $17,000,000 per year for tobacco and $15,000,000 for schools. Education asked 15c per child per day last year, compared to a national average of 51c.—Alabama Congress of Parents and Teachers.

MAN IN THE MOON

THE BROWN BOMBER

I am a great believer in sports, and although I am not so wild over the fight and wrestling racket as I am baseball, football, and a few other games, yet when a fight of the magnitude of the Schmeling-Joe Lewis affair comes off, I can generally be found at home by my radio, listening to the whole thing, blow by blow.

Accordingly, I took in the big fight last Friday night, and to say that I enjoyed it, and was most pleasantly surprised, is putting it mild. The winner of that fight is to get a chance at the heavy-weight crown now held by Braddock, and I was glad to see the hard luck Schmeling get that chance.

I fully expected, along with about 99 per cent of all other fans in this country, that Lewis would put him away before the fifth round. But that was before the scrap started. It was not long under way until it was quite plain that it was not the old slugging Schmeling that was in the ring, but an entirely new man, a tactical fighter who knew his way around.

Perhaps that was one thing that helped the German—the betting odds. The dopesters had been betting all the way from 5 to 1 up to 15 to 1 that Lewis would win, and found no takers to speak of. The most of the betting was on just which round Lewis would win in, and on how many rounds Schmeling could stay with "the brown bomber." Louis has always been just a bit cocky, and since he has been praised pretty highly for the last few months, it went to his head, and the betting odds didn't help this any.

So, Louis went into the ring over-confident—one of the worst things that could happen in any kind of contest. Perhaps if he had taken his opponent more seriously he would have won, but anyone can be a good second-guesser. However, second guessing is no good while the contest is under way. Schmeling knew he had a real fight and prepared for it. Louis was led to believe that it was just another set-up for him in his rise to fame in the ring, and treated it as such. Saturday he was a much wiser and disillusioned young negro man. Joe Lewis is a former Alabama negro, and a good scrapper, but he can still learn—he knows that now, however.

TIT FOR TAT

I think the newspapers of the South are overlooking a great chance to rib northern sheets, in regard to the Black Legion scandal which has broken out up there.

Now, I am no defender of the Ku Klux Klan and in fact never have had any use for it nor any of its members, as klansmen, but when the klan was going so fast down here, the whole Southland came in for a terrible drubbing from those northern papers. To read some of them one would have been led to believe that when night fell, every man south of the Mason-Dixon Line drew on his white robe an went in search of someone to lay the lash to.

Of course, we who live here know that such an idea was ridiculous, but it was so pictured by our northern brethren. Now it is our time to laugh and gouge them about their Black Legion. Perhaps it is this very knowledge that we were misjudged which keeps our own editors from taking advantage of the opportunity.

As stated before, I don't think the Klan was ever anything to brag about, but at its worst it was a credit to the Black Legion. The Klan was never anything more than a group of over-zealous people with a mystery complex mind, and who wanted to go out and "attend to cases that the law couln't handle," to use their own words. The Black Legion has gone in for much more sinister work. Stark murder dots its activities on numerous occasions.

Aroused public opinion helped to kill down the Klan, and the fact that unprincipled men got into its high positions, and the whole thing became enmeshed in politics, finally finished killing the Klan. But it seems such is not the case with the Black Legion. Conditions have been unearthed which have brought Federal agents and G-men on the job. And you can lay your bet on the G-men—they do a good job on every occasion. They have rid the country of a great number of "public enemies," and bid fair to get the others. I wouldn't be surprised to see a few members of the Black Legion fry in the hot chair, or swing on the end of the rope. This country doesn't need night-riding marauders to carry out its laws, no matter what color their hoods, and the sooner we are rid of them, the better.

BULL-SHOOTING JIM

Bull-shooting Jim Farley, the ace jass-ack of the Democratic fold, has gone on the war path again. Many, many times Farley has embarassed the big Democrats with his wild speeches, and many times the big Democrats have wished that they could keep him off the radio, for they know, better than anyone else that he COULD go too far with his rash statements. In fact they believe he HAS gone too far on a number of occasions. Accordingly, his latest outburst against Gov. Alfred M. Landon, the Republican presidential nominee, has brought scathing denunciation from high Democratic officials, and from many of the Democratic newspapers of the country.

Last Friday The Birmingham News took Farley to task about this late lack of tact. Farley referred to Landon as a "synthetic candidate" and Kansas as a "typical prairie state." In this article The News quoted The Montgomery Advertiser at length, and then goes on to add its own condemnation.

The Advertiser says: "Every time Farley makes a speech or issues a statement he does the party more harm than good . . . . . Mr. Farley is a political organizer and manipulator . . . . but is not a political philosopher nor a famous patriot. Recently Farley ridiculed Mr. Landon as a 'synthetic candidate'. Mr. Landon is nothing of the sort. There is nothing phoney or cheap about Landon. His reference to Kansas as a 'typical prairie state, has incensed the west. The fewer public utterances he can make in the campaign the better Mr. Roosevelt will fare in November."

The News goes further and says: "There are many Democrats who feel that way about Farley. It would help the Democratic cause if he should be restricted to his role as a political organizer, and stay off the stump. He has already made several blunders, and if he continues to speak it is likely that he will make more."

From the above it may be seen that the "solid" Democrats realize that their party is in for a real scrap, and they are taking no chances on losing anything on account of the over-zealous "Baldy Jim Farley." As the ship captain told his petty officer, the Democrats "want nothing from Farley but silence, and darned little of that".

THE BOOM TOWN

Washington, D. C., newspapers are taking pardonable pride in the estimates of the United States Census Bureau as to the population of our Capital City for the year 1935. According to the bureau's estimates, the population of Washington rose from 486,869 to 594,000 between the years 1930 and the beginning of 1936. This is an increase of 22 per cent and there is every indication that in this twelve month which is not yet completed there will be another sizeable gain.

Anyone who visits Washington now-a-days cannot but be impressed with the way the city has grown during the past five years. Apartment buildings are crowded and rents have gone sky high. Department stores are filled with prospective customers and the street cars and busses are crowded most of the time. When the Government departments close for the day the crowds in the downtown shopping streets resemble those which are seen at 45th Street and 5th Avenue in New York or at State and Madison in Chicago at the busiest hour.

In fact Washington has taken on a new prosperity which promises to surpass that of war times, if it has not done that already. All available building space down town has been occupied by Government bureaus and there is even talk of moving a part of the capital to Baltimore.

There has been some objection to this latter idea owing to the fact that the Maryland metropolis is 40 miles distant and many "experts" think that asking some of the government employes to go back and forth, as they would have to do, is demanding too much. This has led one Washington wag to suggest that, since the standard mile contains 5,280 feet, the Brain Trust ought to write a law for Congress to pass, raising the length of the mile to 21,120 feet or four times as many. Then it would be only 10 miles to Baltimore instead of forty. It is argued that to do this would be no more difficult than to cut the value of the dollar by status from 100 to 59 cents.

This bringing back to Washington the prosperity of World War days is due, of course, to the establishment of so many new Federal activities which have their headquarters in Washington. All of these new bureaus require bureaucrats and each bureaucrat must have some sub-bureaucrats, clerks, stenographers, investigators, agents, publicity men and office boys to help him out. Hence the great increase in the population in Washington.

But here is the rub. While Washington has been gaining 22 per cent in population, the country as a whole, it is estimated, has grown less than 4 per cent. So what is Washington's gain, certainly does not provide population for the rest of the country.

While thousands of New Deal "workers" have been pouring into Washhington to get a nice government job, the taxayers out in the country have been settling the bill, not only the workers' salaries, which wouldn't amount to so much, but the millions and billions which the bureaucrats at Washington are spending.

Visitors to Washington tell us that a stroll down F Street between 4:30 and 5 o'clock any week-day afternoon would almost convince one that there is enough newly arrived "workers" in Washington to have taken up the unemployment slack of the entire country. But visitors to other cities will tell you differently.

A VULNERABLE SPOT

The record of recovery which Secretary Roper cited before the Chamber of Commerce of the United States was a most impressive one.

"Industrial production has increased 42 per cent; factory employment has gained 41 per cent; factory pay rolls have risen 95 per cent; cash incomes from farm marketings, exclusive of benefit payments has increased 45 per cent; department store sales has risen 38 per cent; freight car loadings have increased 25 per cent; stock prices (421 companies) have risen 129 per cent; the total value of foreign trade has increased 104 per cent; construction contracts awarded had increased 236 per cent," said Mr. Roper.

But why is it, in the face of all this progress, that the costs of relief have climbed steadily upward? Why did the federal government spend 40 per cent more for relief during the first nine months of the present fiscal year than it did for the same period two years ago? Why must relief necessitate the expenditure of an estimated $3,100,000,000 in the next fiscal year, a figure which comes very close to equalling the depression high?

The figures presented by the Secretary of Commerce indict the whole relief system. They thrust at one of the most vulnerable spots in the administration's armor: its utter inability to control relief costs over a long period of economic improvement.—Minneaplis Tribune.

PROMISE AND PERFORMANCE

It seems that I started a few tongues wagging last week when I announced that I intended to put the complete New Deal case before our people as to promise against performance. It is reported that some of our good Democratic friends have stated that I would make a bunch of wild statements, give unsupported figures, and make unreliable quotations in this series.

I don't know where these statements came from, but I do know that only a few weeks ago The Chilton County News stated that The Union-Banner "would have its readers BELIEVE the Roosevelt administration is playing the dickens." Perhaps these latter statements came from there, too, although I am not laying them at the door of The News, as I have no proof of it.

Inasmuch as I intend to start on this series in next week's issue, I want to tell you about it, so that there may be no doubt in the mind of ANYONE, not even the editor of The News, that the statements, figures and quotations to be given will be authoritative.

In this series, I intend to give quotations from the Democratic platform of 1932. That is authoritative, I believe. I shall give quotations from the leaders of the Democratic set-up—from President Roosevelt, from members of the brain trust, from members of his bona fide cabinet, and from ranking members of the top-heavy Democratic Congress. Are these not authoritative? Moreover, I shall give you the dates and places at which these quotations were made, so that any who doubts may find for himself if they are true quotations. Isn't this fair enough? Can The News cast doubt on them when this has been done?

And then I shall give you figures, taken directly from various reports of the Department of Commerce, from the Congressional Record, from the American Federation of Labor, Federal Reserve Bulletins, the U. S. Department of Labor, U. S. Civil Service Commission, from reports of various department heads, such as Harry Hopkins, and others whose figures and statements any doubter will be forced to believe and respect.

No, you can rest assured. This series will be based on "gold bond" facts, and will be no report from a session of the bull-shooters convention.—Man in the Moon.

SUPPLY AND DEMAND

Even the Brain Trust cannot get around the law of supply and demand. The trusters admit that the law has something to do with prices. Secretary of Agriculture Wallace has in some of the speeches blamed the high cost of living on to the drouth; the attendant scarcity, so he maintains, greatly raised the prices. This is a good alibi when directed toward the people of the city, who do not like high grocery and meat bills, as it does not mention the artificial scarcity due to wholesale pig slaughter and acreage curtailment. In the country districts, of course, the argument can be changed to suit other conditions.

The theory behind the new agricultural law and its hiring the farmers to take millions of acres out of cultivation is, of course, that the scarcity of supplies so caused will increase prices. Here is where the old law of supply and demand will get in its work.

The trouble is, however, that when the Brain Trusters figure on decreasing the supply they failed to take in any part of the world but the United States. When the supply in our own country is curtailed and nothing is done about curtailing it in other agricultural nations, then the American farmer and the American consumer are made the figurative goats of the operation. Because when agriculturists in other nations hear that we have reduced our acreage, they increase their own in order to take advantage of our foolish economic procedure. This has been done before and it will be done again.

For example: In 1932 we exported about 60,000,000 bushels of wheat in grain and flour, while in 1935 in the Wallace A.A.A. era, our exports were about 5,000,000 bushels. On the other hand, in 1932 we imported about 56,000 bushels of wheat, while in 1935 the alien farmers sent us nearly 28,000,000 bushels. The same situation was true of corn, butter, meats and other farm commodities. The cause of this was the shortage of crops in the United States which our farmers permitted the A.A.A. to put over on them. In short, the Brain Trust professors succeeded in curtailing production in the United States at great expense to the taxpayer and consumer, but they forgot to induce the farmers to curtail production, at the same time, in Canada, Argentine and Australia.

The laws of supply and demand are inexorable. So when production is curtailed in the United States the price will go up—unless we are dealing with a commodity the production of which is world-wide. If this is the case then to cut production at home and stimulate production abroad we are only playing ourselves suckers.

DON'T WANT TO GO BACK

One of the favorite answers of the New Dealers to those who have the temerity to criticise some of the extravagance and regimentation which has been in vogue during the past three years is: "Do you want our farmers to go back to 30-cent wheat, 12-cent corn and $4 hogs?"

The answer is obvious. Of course no one wants farmers to go back to commodity prices which were extant at the depth of the depression. But this stock question is no answer to charges of regimentation and extravagance. The cheap prices of 1932 were not due to the Hoover Administration. They were part of the world-wide depression which involved every nation and caused revolution and change of government in a great many of them.

And the present increase in price is not due to the Brain Trust, but to natural and world-wide conditions. Prices are not only better in the United States, they have improved all over the world. It is a favorite argument of the free traders, for example, that the price of what the farmers raise is fixed in the world markets. Yet now there are a great many economists, allied with the free trader, who seek to tell us that the higher prices are due to something that has happened in Washington. Farm conditions have improved in Argentine and in some other countries in a greater degree than in the United States. This is because the alien farmers have benefitted more than our own tillers of the soil from the increase in world prices.

But there is more to do than this. The foreign agriculturists have had more to sell than have our own growers berause they have not been regimented and restricted by the government. As a result they have been able to supply not only themselves but the world market, and this market now includes the United States. If you do not believe this to be true, just examine the statistics on imports of agriculutral commodities during the past few years.

A.A.A. scarcity has brought something more than high prices; it has ushered in a flood of imports the like of which has not been known in the United States. And American farmers well realize that they have no greater income selling wheat at 90 cents a bushel than they do selling three times the amount at 30 cents a bushel. What we want is a good crop at a fair price.

Of course, we do not want to go back to 3-cent wheat and 3-cent hogs. But whether we go back or not doesn't depend on the Brain Trust. The laws of supply and demand have a great deal to do with it, not only supply and demand in our own country, but all over the world. The price of commodities will follow these laws, and all of the square-hatted professors in the world cannot change this fact.

The trouble with war is that the fellows who have been running the propoganda machines never get close enough to smell the enemy's powder.

SHIRLEY PLAYS MOST ADORABLE PICTURE ROLE

She's Lovely Little Lady of Lighthouse In "Captain January"

Playing a little sea-sprite, darling plays her way through her new 20th Century picture, "Captain January." This is at the new Wadesonian Theatre on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. This is her greatest role ever.

A genuinely heart-tugging dramatic story underlies the song, dance and comedy delights of this new story, in which Shirley plays the darling of two grizzled old sea-salts.

Guy Kibbe, in the principal supporting role, plays the keeper of the lighthouse, the man who rescued Shirley from the sea years before, and now jealously fears that some one will take his darling from him.

Due to the efforts of Sara Haden, as a vixenish truant officer, the dreaded thing almost does happen, but in the conclusion, Slim Sumerville, Buddy Ebsen and June Lang conspire to make Shirley and her foster daddy happy.

"The right somebody to love" is the hit song of the new picture, composed of Jack Yellen and Lew Pollack. There are, however, two other delightful tunes sung by Shirley, as well as a fascinating series of new tap steps, many of which are danced in company with Buddy Ebsen, hoofing star of the Ziegfield Follies.

Jane Darwell, whose romance with Guy Kibbee bring many additional laughs, is prominent in the supporting cast of "Captain January," which was produced under the supervision of B. G. DeSylva, and directed by David Butler.

Mr. Clarence Parrish of Birmingham was in Clanton Tuesday visiting his brother, Mr. Evan Parrish.

SCIENCE UNCOVERS NEEDED VITAMIN A TO RAISE PULLET.

New Ingredient Helps Poultrymen Move Up Laying Time By Three Months.

Mother Nature never intends for a pullet to lay eggs when she is five months old. Nature's plan is for a chick to be hatched in late spring or early summer, then after a long fall surely growing period be ready to lay the next spring. Nature's way, the pullet's food consists of weed seeds, bugs, green stuff and a little grain that she picks up here and there.

"Under Nature's plan, a pullet will lay but 60 to 80 eggs a year," says J. H. Burrell of the Poultry Department of the Purina Mill's. "These eggs are laid in the spring of the year when eggs are plentiful and prices are low. With today's conditions, however, a poultryman can't afford to let nature take its course. He must have eggs in September and October, when egg prices are the highest of the year. Every egg in the fall is worth two eggs in the spring."

Burrell goes on to point out that in order to build a strong healthy bird, the pullet must go into the laying period with a good reserve of vitamin A stored up in its body. "It draws on this reserve as it goes through the laying period.

Growing Feeds Need Vitamin A

"In the past, poultry raisers have had to depend on alfalfa leaf meal, corn meal and fish oils to supply the vitamin A needs of the growing pullet. Both alfalfa leaf meal and corn meal are bulky feeds and it is impossible to include enough of each in the growing ration to build up a large reserve of vitamin A. The vitamin A fish oil deteriorates rapidly when mixed in feeds.

"The new vitamin A concentrate, Pur-a-tene, supplies in concentrated form, an aboundance of vitamin A. It is derived from carotene, a yellow-colored substance called 'pro-vitamin A.' When Pur-a-tene goes through the liver of an animal it becomes colorless vitamin A, the same as is found in cod liver oil. Yellow-colored pro-vitamin A as found in Pur-a-tene is very stable when mixed in feed."

Pullet on Range Need It

Even pullets on range need an abundance of vitamin A in their ration, according to Burrell. "Green stuff is rich in vitamin A in the spring when chicks are small," he says, "but as the pullet grows older and its vitamin A needs increase, the hot summer sun burns up the green stuff and reduces its vitamin A content greatly. Science has put Pur-a-tene in the growing ration to overcome this and give pullets the vitamin A they really need."

FARM NOTES!

The average chick starts off life weighing about one and a quarter ounces. Experiments at the Purina Research Farm bring out that on only two pounds of feed containing Puratene, the chick can be made to weigh 16 to 20 ounces in six weeks.

Losses from hen mortality have increased at an alarming rate the last few years. In some parts of the country, hen mortality runs as high as 50 per cent. No poultry raiser can profitably stay in the chicken business very long with losses such as that.

Experimental work carried on at the Purina Research Farm show that the place to start remedying this unprofitable situation is in the growing of the pullets. They must be given that "built-in" vitality to "stand the gaff" when they start laying. In adding Puratene to the growing ration for growing chicks, the research farm finds that the extra vitamin A it gives the chicks, steps up their vitality and reinforces them against disease.

PROTECTING CHICK LIFE

Disease is often spread from chick to chick through dirty watering and feeding equipment and contaminated drinking water, warns Grafton Lothrop, manager of the Sanitation Products Department of Purina Mills. For easy economical protection against such infection Lothrop recommends the disinfecting of drinking fountains and feeding troughs at least once a week with a solution of 2 teaspoonfuls of Chlorena Powder to three gallons of water. Drinking water should be changed every day, according to Lothrop, and one spoonful of Chlorena Powder dissolved in each five gallons of water to help prevent the spread of infection from that source.

Chlorena Powder may be obtained wherever checkerboard feeds are sold.

CARING FOR THE DOG

Many words have been spoken on the care of the dog, but none wiser or easier to put into practice than those from A. H. Leonard, head of the dog department of the Purina Mills. He says, "Keep things about your dog clean, see that he gets regular exercise, treat him kindly, give him a balanced food, and you'll go a long ways toward keeping his tail waggin, and his eyes glistening."

Mrs. H. D. Crow and little daughter, Joan, of Atlanta, Ga., are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Popwell.

BIRTHDAY AND HOME-COMING

Last Sunday was a happy day with Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Gilliland, when their children, grand children and relatives gathered to celebrate Mrs. Gilliland's 54th birthday. A host of her friends were present, also.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. A. McKinley Gilliland and children of Birmingham, Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Gilliland and children of Talladega, Mr. and Mrs. Newton Gilliland and Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Gilliland of Sylacauga, Mr. and Mrs. Artice Hill and children of Vida, and Mr. Raymond Gilliland of Birmingham, Mrs. Gilliland's mother, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Bowles, Mr. and Mrs. Willie Gray and children, Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Watt and children, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Gilliland and children, and many other relatives. Mr. and Mrs. Gilliland received many nice presents, which were greatly appreciated.

We had with us three preachers—Rev. Chastain of Anniston, Rev. Gilliland from Sylacauga, and Rev. Campbell from Montgomery. The morning was spent in hand shaking and greetings.

A feast was enjoyed at the noon hour, at a bountiful table under the shade of the trees. There were about 75 who enjoyed the dinner.

In the afternoon, Mr. Joe Painter, Mr. Albert Hicks, Mr. Newton Gilliland, and Mr. Poarch Blackmon, who make up the Avondale Quartet from Sylacauga, spent about 30 minutes in real singing, and then went to Collins Chapel to spend the rest of the day.

Following the singing came the preaching hour. The service was opened by Rev. Leslie Gilliland, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Gilliland. After some good singing, Rev. Chastain made a good talk, followed by Rev. Campbell. The service was turned over then to the young minister, Rev. Leslie Gilliland. He delivered a wonderful message. Before the meeting closed there was some real shouting and hand-shaking and praising the Lord.

Brethren, we need more of the old time religion, and put aside so much prejudice and serve the Lord in the old time way, for some time we shall be called upon to meet the judgment day. If we have not made peace with God, He will then say: "Depart from me, for I know ye not".

We hope to be in the number when the time comes to go marching in.

We hope to join in many more happy gatehrings of this kind, and all meet in a better world some day.

May God bless you all is our prayer.

ALABAMA MILLS TO PLAY MAPLESVILLE SATURDAY

The Alabama Mills baseball team will play Maplesville on the local field next Saturday afternoon, with the affair beginning promptly at 3:00 p.m.

The Millers have a good team, and have won the last eight games played. The game on Saturday is expected to be a good one. The Millers defeated Maplesville last Sunday 4 to 0; the Maplesville club will be out for revenge. Don't miss this one.

Mrs. Durwood Foshee and children, D. O., J. R., and Jeanine, and Mrs. Julius Foshee have returned to their home in Jacksonville, Fla., after spending a week with B. G. Foshee and other relatives. Misses Lois and Catherine Foshee returned with them.

Primitive Skeleton Found Near Foley

Atlanta, Ga.—First scientific records affirming the presence of aboriginal Indians on the gulf coast of Alabama during the medieval period are contained in a field report just submitted to the National Park Service's district offices here by Dr. Walter B. Jones, director of Alabama museum of Natural history.

A woman's flexed skeleton, of primitive burial, was uncovered during archeological excatations carried out at Gulf State Park, south of Foley, under he direcion of Dr. Jones and Ted Johansen, assistant curator. Labor was applied to 20 civilian Conservation Corps enrolees assigned to the park camp.

"There have been many rumors of skeletons from various parts of the Gulf Coast," said Dr. Jones' preliminary report, "but so far as I am aware no burial has been recorded previously by a scientific party."

The Alabama scientists' investigations concerned sites along the shore and on an island of Big Lake, large fresh water basin in the park. The Woman's skeleton was found, "in a fair stite of preservation," buried about eighteen inches underground near the south shore. Large quantities of Indian potsherds also were uncovered by the excavations on the shore and island.

Mr. Earl C. Johnson has recently returned to his home in Verbena after having spent an enjoyable trip to Detroit, and various interesting points in Canada. He was accompanied on the trip by a brother, Sam A. Johnson of Detroit.

LETTER FROM DR. BOB JONES

Cleveland, Tenn.
June 17, 1936.

Dear Friends:

The Bob Jones College at Cleveland, Tennessee, has as high educational standards as any similar college in the United States. It stands without apology for the old time religion and the absolute authority of the Bible. The Bob Jones College is engaged in training great orthodox Christian leaders — doctors, lawyers, teachers, preachers, busines men, business women, etc. The Bob Jones College gives piano, pipe organ, violin, speech, and voice without additional cost.

Going to college is serious business. A young person's entire future life depends largely upon the contacts made off at college. In the Bob Jones College students make safe contacts.

If you wish literature, write Bob Jone College, Cleveland, Tennessee.

Sincerely yours,
BOB JONES.

PROGRAM TO PROVIDE NEEDS FOR EDUCATION OUTLINED

Montgomery, June 25.—A three point program including government-al economy, earmarked funds for edu-cation, and enough revenue to pro-vide for minimum needs, was outlined by Mrs. James Fitts Hill, President of the Alabama Congress of Parents and Teachers, in a state-wide radio hookup yesterday afternoon.

While declaring that the P.-T. A. insists upon the cutting off of useless pobholders, Mrs. Hill claimed thta such economies could provdie only a small part of the $4,000,000 needed for edu-cation in Alabama.

That economies in education are already in operation was stressed The school system was described as one of the most economical in the nation, with the State Department spending less than half as much as it used to. The colleges, although fac-ing ruin, managed to stay open last year on less than one-faurth as much as they spent in 1929-30, and the pub-lic schools are asking a million less than they spent last year.

Expenditures for edrucation in the state amount to about fifteen millions. Alabama tax payers at the same time spent forty millions for gasoline and seventeen millions for tobacco.

Mrs. Hill stated that honesty pre-vents the P.-T. A. from joining those who cry "There is enough tax maney now for the schools if it were not wasted." She charged that in spite of numerous victories by economy advo-cates, especially during the Miller ad-ministration, there has not been enough for five years to run the schools without federal aid.

If tax money is to be levied for schools, stated Mrs. Hill, tax payers have a right to some guarantee that the money will go for schools. The only practical way to give such guar-antee is to earmark all school money and pay all school expenses from this fund.

The minimum program providing for a seven-month term in all schools was defended by the P.-T. A., and it was urged that sufficient revenue be raised to carry out this program.

BOB JONES

COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

In the third verse of the twenty-third chapter of Matthew Jesus in speaking to the multitude, and the disciples concerning the Pharisees, said, "for they say and do not." The Pharisees did a great deal of talk-ing an parading, but they did not de-liver spiritually. They had a form of godliness but they did not have the power of godliness. There are many churches in America where they sing hymns and preach about how to live, "but they say and do not." The reli-gions of the world tell men to do. Christianity tells men to live. God knows that real life means activity. Death means inactivity. Men who are alive spiritually will do. We do not need so much instruction in do-ing. We need to come in contact with the Life-giver. When divine life goes through human souls, activity begins. Faith without works is dead. Faith is the root from which work springs. Recently the writer saw a dead wo-man. The undertaker made her look like she was alive. He had given col-or to her cheeks and the woman was beautiful. She looked like a lovely maid sleeping, but she was dead. Je-sus Christ came that men might have life and that they might have it more abundantly. Jesus told the Pharisees that they were "whited sepulchres full of dead men's bones." The tomb some-times is beautiful. In fact, it may be so beautiful it is hard to realize that in the tomb there are skeletons. It is hard to realize when you pass some lovely churches with the pipe organs lovely chairs, beautiful stained glass windows and cultured pastors that the few peopde who are inside these churches are dead spiritually.

In the same twenty-third chapter of Matthew, Jesus said that the Phari-sees and hypocrits paid their tithes, but neglected the weightier matters of law, judgement, mercy and faith. Je-sus said that they should pay their tithes. He did not discount that. The Pharisees were all right as far as they went. They just did not go far enough. They were good in public. Jesus wanted them to be good in pri-vate, too. Jesus never told men not to be good in public. He said, "Let your light so shine before men that they may see your good works and glorify your Father which is in Heav-en." The Pharisees were good in pub-lic not because they desired to glori-fy God, but because they desired to exhalt themselves. They liked to be called Rabbi and to be recognized on the street and considered good men. If you could catch them off their guard they were very human, but call on them to pray and they would always get a preacher's voice and pray in sepulchural tones. They were unre-generated men and therefore all their piety was unnatural, Man has to have religion to be religious. Men must have Christ to be Christians. To assume a Godly role with no divine life in the heart makes men unnatural. After Samson's hair was cut off he shook homself, but he shook no one else. The writer heard a preacher one time who used to have great pow-er. He tried to use the old voice and the old methods, but the power was not there. Someone who reads these lines may have lost his power. He may be trying to play the Christian role on the stage of life but he is a poor actor. He has lost the divine genius. He needs something inside of him which he once had but has lost. The spark of genius has died down. Most of us Christians need to ask God to kindle the fire again.

Rid Yourself of Kidney Poisons

DO you suffer burning, scanty or too frequent urination; backache, headache, dizziness, loss of energy, leg pains, swellings and puffiness under the eyes? Are you tired, nerv-ous—feel all unstrung and don't know what is wrong?

Then give some thought to your kidneys. Be sure they function prop-erly for functional kidney disorder per-mits excess waste to stay in the blood, and to poison and upset the whole system.

Use Doan's Pills. Doan's are for the kidneys only. They are recommended the world over. You can get the gen-uine, time-tested Doan's at any drug store.

Let's all remember prayer meeting every Wednesday night at 7:30. Everyone is cordially invited to come and be with us.—Reporter.

LEADERSHIP SCHOOL

On Thursday, June 18, the home demonstration club leader for 15 communities attended a food preservation leadership school at the home economics department in Clanton.

Miss Gladys Kimbrough, food preservation specialist, educational department, Ball Brothers Co., gave the demonstration. Miss Kimbrough's experience in foods, and her practical way of giving a demonstration made the lesson very useful.

The term "home canning" may suggest a lot of hot, hard work to some people, but those who saw Miss Kimbrough converting raw material into beautiful delicious jars of tempting food realize that it is one of the fine domestic arts. Miss Kimbrough does not believe that canning is an inspired art. She holds that good material, plus proper equipment, simple recipes and sound instruction should always get results. Her demonstrations supported this theory.

The same demonstration will be given in the home demonstration clubs during the month of July by the club leaders, assisted by the home demonstration agent, Miss Pardue.

SCHOOL BOOK ORDER PLACED

Orders for free text books to be distributed to second grade pupils of Alabama's public schools will be placed immediately, according to announcement by Dr. J. A. Keller, state superintendent of education.

FT. DEPOSIT SLAYER KILLED AT KILBY PRISON LAST FRIDAY

Elmer N. Arant, diminutive power company official of Ft. Deposit, who shot and killed his neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. John E. Norman, last August because he suspected Norman of improper relations with his wife, paid the full penalty of the law last Friday morning in the Kilby Prison electric chair.

Before a group of newspaper men and relatives of his victims, Arant was ushered into the death chamber with an inaudible prayer on his lips which continued without interruption until the switch was thrown, sending 2,200 volts of electricity through his pale, frail body. He was pronounced dead less than 10 minutes later he was seated in the crude yellow death chair.

The execution of Arant marked the end of a desperate fighht for clemency by his attorney, Calvin Poole, of Greenville, and his sister, Mrs. Lena Arant Rose, of Greenville, N. C.

RAILROADS FILE PETITION

J. E. Tilford, acting in behalf of all railroads in Alabama, last week filed a petition with the public service commission for authority to continue the "emergency" rates on all intrastate freight until December 31, 1936. The present schedule expires June 30.

The petition, set for hearing at Montgomery Tuesday, pointed out the interstate commerce commission already had approved continuance of the higher "emergency" rates for an additional six months on interstate freight.

Railway experts at Montgomery estimated the "emergency" rates were five to seven per cent higher than those in effect before their adoption.

Republican Rally Saturday Was Above All Fond Expectations

Jammed Courtroom To Hear C. O. Vardaman and J. O. Middleton Discuss National Political Issues of The Day

Last Saturday was really a banner day for the Republcans of Chilton County. To those citizens—men and women, young and old Republicans—who have been wanting to hear some real good old American doctrine preached by dependable Republican orators, the day must have been one to be long remembered. Their fondest hopes and desires must have been gratified.

The meeting was called to order at 2:00 o'clock by T. E. Wyatt, County chairman of the Young Republican Federation, who after a few remarks, introduced Judge J. Osmond Middleton. Judge Middleton spoke briefly and introduced Hon. T. J. Kennamer, our Republican National Committeeman, of Birmingham. Mr. Kennamer made a few very inspiring remarks which were enjoyed and appreciated by the large audience.

Judge Middleton then introduced the main speaker of the day, Hon. C. O. Vardaman, of Birmingham. The Chilton County citizens were expecting a great speech form Mr. Vardaman, and no one was disappointed. His speech which lasted about forty or fifty minutes, was very critical of the Democratic New Deal, and at several points, praiseworthy mention was made of the Republican party and their choice for president, Gov. Alf M. Landon, of Kansas. Mr. Vradaman stated that this campaign this year is more than a fight between Democrats and Republicans—it is a fight for the preservation or destruction of American ideals of government. Mr. Vardaman's speech really rounded up the political situation of the times, did it up in an attractive manner, handed it out to the eager listeners, who in turn drank it in with the greatest pleasure and satisfacton.

At the close of Mr. Vardaman's speech, Mr. Middleton again took the floor and held the crowd at rapt attention with a rather detailed discussion of the New Deal convention in Philadelphia. The best the writer remembers, Judge Middleton referred to the negro question in connection with the Democratic convention, and also brought in the names of Tom Heflin and Jim Farlye. Mr. Moddleton fixed this up in grand style.

It was at this point of the program that probably the highest point of enthusiasm and feeling was reached. The most dramatic scene in the political annals of Chilton County history was reached when Judge Middleton, after a series of choice words in praise of the layolty of some aged Chilton county citizens, called out the names of three—J. S Jones, Riley Robinson and M. F. Lett—and asked them to stand that all might see them. Judge Middleton held these veteran Republicans up as a sublime example to the young citizens of Chlton county, pointing out their loyalty to principle and their life-long fidelity to the party which has made America great. Many attendants had to restrain the flow of tears while this dramatic scene was displayed to them.

Then, after paying a flowing tribute to the fine womanhood of Chilton county, Judge Middleton introduced Mrs. Pearl Wates, of Birmingham, National Committeewoman from Alabamo. Mrs. Wates spoke briefly to the gathering on the work of organizing the Republican women of the county. The speech of Mrs. Wates brought the meeting to a close.

The courthouse auditorium was filled to capacity, most of the standing room in the rear being taken. Two loudspeakers, one in a front window and one in a side window, enabled everyone within a block of the courthouse t ohea revery word of the speakers. The crowd inside and outside of the courthouse would easily reach two and a half or three thousand people.

Carolina Group Walks Out on Negro Question

'Cotton Ed' Smith, Already Irked Over Credentials, Quits As Black Prays

Philadelphia, June 24.—An assertion that he was "through" with the Democratic national convention and "sick of the whole damn thing" was voiced angrily tonight by Senator Ellison D. Smith of South Carolina after he had walked out of the political conclave in protest against the presence of negroes.

While a negro minister—the Rev. Marshall Sheppard, pastor of Philadelphia's Mt. Olive church—was opening the afternoon session with prayer Senator Smith, followed by a few other South Carolina delegates, left the convention hall.

Officials said that was the first time prayer had been offered at a Democratic convention by a negro. It was followed immedaitely by the playing of "Dixie".

Explaining that he had departed because of the presence of the negro clergyman and of about 30 negro delegates, Smith asserted he was "going home" and would "do some talking."

Disagreement with Smith's attitude was expressed promptly by Claud Sapp, chairman of the state delegation.

"I don't care who prays for me," he asserted. "I am willing for anyone to pray for me who wants to."

He atributed Smith's walkout to "a chip on the shoulder."

GONE TO DOZIER TO TEACH

Messrs. W. Lee Higgins and Floy Devaughn went to Dozier, in South Alabama, the first of this week and began a singing school. They will be there for about three weeks, after which Mr. Devaughn will go on down in Florida, where he has teaching to engage him for several weeks.

NEW STORE TO OPEN

Authentic announcement is made that there will be a new dry goods store to open in Clanton in the near future. It will be located in the old Hugh Jones stand, next to Sartor building, and will be in the charge of Mr. Will Kemp, one of the broadest experienced mercantile men in this section of Alabama. The business will not open for a few weeks yet. Further announcement will be made in the near future.

SINGING SCHOOL AT FRIENDSHIP

Prof. Emmett Wilson will teach a singing school at Friendship church beginning on Monday, July 6th, and continuing for three weeks.

Prof. Wilson has taught several schools at Friendship, and seems to have given universal satisfaction. He has built up a good class over there.

GEORGE ANDERSON AT SINGING

George Anderson, the blind singer-musician was a conspicuous figure at the Center Hill singing last Sunday. Those present say that he was especially conspicuous along about dinner time, and we do not doubt that a bit, because George is really one of the big boys when it comes to eating.

And George likes singing too. There are not many who really get any more genuine enjoyment out of good singing than George Anderson. He is engaged in teaching music up somewhere in that section of the country.

MULE RAN AWAY AND INJURED MAN AND WIFE

Last Saturday about noon the mule belonging to Mr. Alfred Baker and drawing a wagon in which Mr. Baker and his wife were riding ran away, overturned the wagon, and severely injured both occupants. The accident occurred just off the east end of the bridge at Dake's old mill place, three miles east of Clanton.

Mr. Baker suffered four broken ribs and bruises about the head. Mrs. Baker sustained a severely bruised scalp. Both were carried to the hospital, where they are said to be slowly improving.

JOHN McSWAIN NEW MANAGER OF CHILTON COUNTY EXCHANGE

Mr. J. M. (John) McSwain has taken charge of the Chilton County Exchange store in Clanton. Mr. McSwain comes from Montgomery, where he has been connected with the Alabama Cotton Co-operative. He is also a liscened cotton grader, and will do this work when cotton begins to come in.

Mr. McSwain originally come from Crenshaw County. He finished school at Marion and later took an A. B. degree at the University of Alabama in 1924.

Together with his wife and 3-year old son, Mr. McSwain will move to Clanton about the middle of July. They will reside in the Wright house adjoining the residenc of Dr. W. J. Gragg.

REV. A. L. FOSHEE BURIED AT LIBERTY HILL WEDNESDAY

Rev. Albert L. Foshee, age 72, died at his home in Liberty Hill community Tuesday night just before midnight. The remains were laid to rest at Liberty Hill at 3:00 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, Rev. J. S. Holland officiating; Spigener directing.

Besides his wife, he is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Ethel B. Turner, of Birmingham. He was a life-long resident of Chilton County, and was for several years a Baptist minister

G. O. P. TO MAKE FIGHT IN SOUTH

Atlanta.—A fast starting Republican campaign, which is expected to be carried down the Eastern Seaboard into the deep South was reported under way Saturday night by Wilson Willams, Secretary of the Republican State Central Committee of Georgia.

Williams returned from New York to Atlanta, where he attended the dinner given John Hamilton, Gov. Landon's campaign manager.

Hamilton, Williams said, will come to Georgia about August 15, to carry Landon's campaign into this state. For the first time, the Southeastern states will be made a part of the Republican party's important eastern campaign division, he said.

Virginia, North and Souh Carolina and other Southern states will be in this division, while campaigns in the other Southern States will be conducted out of the party's Chicago headquarters.

"Hamilton intends to make an aggressive campaign in the South all right," Williams said. The Republican party's tactics will not be those of former years, when the fight was concentrated on states above the Mason-Dixon Line."

BOARD OF REGISTRARS MEET JULY 6—FIVE DAYS

The Board of Registrars of Chilton county will be in session at the courthouse on Monday, July 6th, and continue in session for five days. The Board will regirter all voters who are eligible under the law during these five days. The Board consists of J. Monroe Parrish, W. W. Wingard, and Jno. T. Thompson.

MISS DOROTHY WAITE ATTAINED HONOR ROLL

Blue Mountain, Miss., June 27.—Miss Dorothy Waite of Clanton, Alabama, attained the honor roll of Blue Mountain College for the second semester of 1935-36, according to information from Dr. George Truett Buckley, Dean of the College.

Republican Women Form Organization

First Club In Alabama Organized Here by National Officers Saturday

The first Republican Woman's Club in Alabama was organized in Clanton, at the courthouse last Saturday afternoon, by Mrs. Pearl Wates, of Birmingham, National Committeewoman. In approaching the business of organizing, Mrs. Wates urged the women to "fight for the restoration of sane American government—those principles of freedon for which the American women have prayed and fought. These principles have been and are now jeopardized by Roosevelt and the New Deal. We women mush answer the challenge."

As chairman of the Chilton County club, Mrs. Inga Howard was elected. Her home is at Thorsby. Mrs. Gertrude P. Calloway, of Clanton, was elected vice-chairman; Mrs. Mottie Lou Crew, of Clanton Route 2, was chosen as secretary-terasurer. Mrs. Jean Wyatt, of Clanton, was selected as program chairman

Mrs. James Clary, also of Birmingham, who is vice chairman of the Young Republicans of Alabama, was present and assisted in the organization of the Chilton County women.

REV. PAUL ODEN TO PREACH AT CHESTNUT

Rev. Paul Oden will preach at Chestnut Creek, Coopers, next Sunday at 11:00 o'clock and Sunday evening at 7:45, in the absence of the pastor, Rev. J. W. Jones. Rev. Jones will be away conducting a revival. There will be no preaching Saturday, Rev. Jones announces.

THINGS YOU HAVE NOT READ

[AN EDITORIAL]

Last Saturday night came to a close the so-called Democratic convention in Philadelphia, but which could be better described by calling it the New Deal circus. You no doubt heard radio broadcasts of it, and have read press reports of the proceedings; but there are some facts about that circus that you did not read about or hear over the radio.

You did not hear that more than 60 per cent of the delegates to that convention were government job-holders, directly or indirectly. That the platform was written for them in the White House and approved there well in advance of the Philadelphia gathering, and that the convention merely rubber-stamped its signature to the document.

You did not hear that loud-speaker broadcasts were sent out from the convention hall urging people to come in and fill up the galleries so that the convention would look crowded, and that oftentimes they were an hour late about starting on account of the absence of so many delegates and the general scarcity of attendants.

Neither did you hear over the radio nor read in the Democratic papers that the tickets which they were selling for the wind-up affair at the football arena of the University of Pennsylvania could not be sold at one dollar each as was hoped, but that these tickets were given away to anyone that would have them.

REPUBLICAN NOMINEE REDUCED OWN SALARY

It is really news when a public official reduces his own salary, but such was the case of Alfred M. Landon while he was still in the beginning of his term as Governor of Kansas. The State Legislature declined to cut the Governor's $5,000 salary, so Mr Landon just returned 25 per cent of his check to the treasury every month. The Governor told his people: "We know that we must reduce expenditures, just as the farmer knows he must tighten his belt against short crops and uncertain markets. Retrenchment must begin at home—in the executive mansion." There he is said to have cut the coal bill from $700 to $100 a year.

He consolidated bureaus and eliminated unnecessary jobholders, and wiped out a highway deficit of $2,800,000. The cost of operating State institutions was cut 20 per cent.

When the Kansas Coolidge ran for re-election as Governor of Kansas he was returned by a majority of over 60,000, and was the only Republican governor to win re-election during the New Deal landslide of 1932. He has erased red ink from all over the State account books.

Would not such methods and accomplishments as these be welcome in the nation at this time?

MR. REX TUGWELL AND RESETTLEMENT

Most certainly one of the most colossal failures of the present Democratic Administration, is the Resettlement Administration, under the stewardship of Rexford Tugwell. A former adviser in the Resettlement Admnistration in Texas has this to say to Mr. Tugwell through the columns of the Denver Post on May 20th:

"Your policies the last year have left in their wake a grossly misdirected agricultural reconstruction program, hundreds of thousands of disillusioned farmers, general administrative incompetence, with a resultant reckless squandering of public funds. You have surrounded yourself with a group of Utopian scientists and temporizing philosophers, utterly lacking in common sense and any practical ideas or plans to effectuate a sound farm program.

"You have placed a premium on persons with doctor's degrees, with the result that the organization in Washington and in the regions has been overloaded with academic men and 'theocrats,' despite the fact that this is a practical farm program, or is supposed to be. You have purposely developed a lot of shallow sentimentalism on which to justify the program emphasizing human distress in such a way as to exploit public interest.

Mr. Bray further charges Tugwell with "Planting Communistic ideas in the RA" and unrolling of enough "red tape to harness the stars in the Pleiades and to confound Einstein."

REPUBLICAN EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE ELECTED OFFICERS SATURDAY

T. E. Wyatt Chosen As Chairman And C. C. Conway, of Jemison, Elected Secretary

The Republican Executive Committee of Chilton County was called into session last Saturday afternoon at 1 o'clock, and officers elected for the coming four years. Nominations were made from the floor and the voting was done by secret ballot. The results declared that T. E. Wyatt was elected chairman and C. C. Conway, of Jemison, was elected secretary.

After the election, Mr. Wyatt was called in before the committee, and the duties of the office were relinquished by the outgoing chairman, and turned over into the hands of the newly elected official. Mr. Wyatt made a few remarks of acceptance to the committee, and some business matters needing attention were taken up.

A vacancy on the committee was declared in one of the places in Beat 11, caused by the death of the man who was elected out there. This place was filled by the naming of Mr. J. L. Miner.

It was decided that the matter of declaring the winners as committeemen from the Beats where more than two were voted on in the last primary be left to the committeemen of those Beats. This occurred in Beats 2, 10, 12 and 13. These gentlemen are to notify the chairman at an early date as to who will serve as their committeemen. Beats 2 and 13 have already reported, and 10 and 12 are yet to report.

The matter of filling in some vacancies on the county ticket was taken up, but was deferred over to some future date. The committee will be called for that purpose at some time soon.

The attendance of the committee was the best recorded in a number of years, there being all present with the exception of two members. This speaks exceptionally well for the committeemen, and only goes to show that they have a profound interest in the affairs of their party.

SEVEN INDICTED IN VOTE FRAUD

Huntsville, June 29.—Seven persons, including two physicians were under bond for perjury by a special Madison County grand jury which investigated recent election frauds here today.

The seven, indicted by the same grand jury which recommenedd impeachment of Sheriff Frank G. Hereford and Probate Judge W. E. Butler, are Doctors T. L. Mostin, C. H. Russell, Calvin Ballew, Ora Wilburn, Jim W. Nash, Connie Allison, and John Medin.

Some 15 indictments remain to be served. All of them are believed to charge perjury, alleged to have been committed in the filing of disability exempton certificates.

Probate Judge Butler today had declared he had acted in accordance with his interpretation of the laws, and that he enticipated "absolute and complete vindication."

Sheriff Hereford, assailed by the grand jury for reportedly granting protection to liquor dealers, had previously made blanket denial to these charges.

A COTTON BOLL

A cotton boll, the size of a large partridge egg, was bronght in to The Union-Banner office last Saturday by Mr. Wm. E. Patterson, of Stanton Route 1. Mr. Patterson said that he had plenty of blooms on June 14.

PROF. GRANT'S SINGING SCHOOL WILL BE AT BAKER SCHOOLHOUSE

Prof. L. T. Grant wishes to announce that his singing school for Liberty Hill community will be taught at Baker schoolhouse, beginning Monday morning, July 6th. The classes will meet only in the mornings, from about 7:30 until 11:30. There will be no classes in the afternoons.

Prof. Grant states that his daughter, Mrs. Birdie Johnson, will play for the school and will give piano lessons where desired. There will be arrangements made for conveyance for those who have no way to get to the school. Get in touch with Prof. Grant, or confer with Mr. Wilbur Ward or Zack Lowery.

H. L. MIMS BARN BURNED

A barn belonging to Mr. H. L. Mims, 2 miles south of Thorsby, burned at 1 o'clock Friday a.m. He lost 150 bushels of corn, 1,000 bundles of fodder, 45 bales of hay, 40 or 50 dozen bundles of oats and a quantity of syrup and other feed. All of his livestock were saved.

STUDYING TOMATO BUSINESS

Messrs. J. D. Deramus, L. E. Diefenderfer, Royal Roper and J. N. Dennis left Tuesday of this week for Milan, Tennessee, where they will engage in a detailed study of the growing and handling of green tomatoes. This reseach work s being conducted for the Clanton Berry Growers Association.

These gentlemen will be met in Milan by Mr. Haden, the L. & N. Railroad Company's agricultural agent, who will assist them in the study.

REVIVAL AT THORSBY BAPTIST

The regular summer revival at Thorsby Baptist church will begin on Sunday, July 26th, and run through the following week. The preaching will be done by the Rev. E. Floyd Olive, of Central Park Baptist church, Birmingham, in conjunction with the pastor, Rev. J. W. Jones.

Trains One & Four Now Stopping Here

Mayor Jones Urges People To Show Appreciation By Using Trains More

Perhaps, for the first time Clanton saw fast trains Nos. 1 and 4 of the L. & N. railroad stop here and give passenger service to this section. An added service to Clanton was inaugurated when this change was made effeitive last Sunday by the railroad company.

The work of eliminating a grade at the station in Clanton has been completed, and the company has announced that these trains are now making stops in Clanton for passenger service to Birmingham and to Montgomery, and return. This means that the service is straight through to these cities and points beyond, and not local service at stations between.

The Louisville and Nashville Railroad Company is receiving the congratulations and praise of the citizens of Clanton and the entire county on this achievement. Last Sunday, when the trains made their first stops, something over a dozen passengers were picked up at Canton, and almost as many on the return trip.

Mayor Makes Statement

Elated over the splendid co-operation rendered by the railroad officials and citizens of the city, Mayor C. Fenn Jones made the following statement for publication:

MAYOR C. FENN JONES

Editor Union-Banner:

Extending over a period of many years, the officials of our city and various civic organizations have endeavored to influence the L. & N. Railroad Company to give Clanton the service of trains 1 and 4, but until now all our efforts have failed. On March 27th, 1936, I addressed a letter to Hon. J. B. Hill, president of the company, setting out facts why these fast trains should stop here. After considerable correspondence, which resulted in a conference in the Mayor's office on May 20th with Mr. T. E. Brooks, vice president, and Mr. J. A. Morrison, superintendent, in company with Mr. L. F. Gerald, local attorney, an agreement was reached which went into effect on June 28th, as shown by letter enclosed, from Mr. Morrison.

I think the people of Clanton and the entire county should feel proud of the train service afforded us now by the L. & N. Railroad Company, and we should express our appreciation by using the trains in future more than we have done in the past, together with their freight facilities.

If you will count the cost and consider the hazard, you will find to travel by rail is cheaper and safer. There is another feature that should appeal to a fair-minded public, and no doubt will after attention is called to it. The Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company paid to Chilton county last year $23,623.19, and to the City of Clanton $138.82, taxes.

So you see, my friends, to destroy or damage the railroad, we share in the loss and damage ourselves. We need the railroads; let's play the game fair with them and insist, if necessary, that they do fair by us.

I understand that twelve or fifteen

MR. TOM M. TAYLOR GONE TO TUCSON, ARIZ., FOR HEALTH

Mr. T. M. Taylor, proprietor of Taylor Wholesale Grocery Company, left last Thursday for Tucson, Arizona, where he will remain for several weeks in an attempt to improve his health.

Just before leaving Mr. Taylor asked The Union-Banner to convey this message to his friends that: "I appreciate the many past favors of my friends, and especially the merchants who have done business with me. While I am away for my health, I want to ask you to continue patronizing Taylor Wholesale Grocery Company, where you will continue to be given the same efficient service as in the past. While I am away the business will be in active charge of Mr. Jimmie Taylor, and anyone wishing to transact business with the firm can do so through him."

The many friends of Mr. Taylor wish for him a most pleasant outing in Arizona and hope that he will return soon much restored in health.

FISHING RODEO DATES ARE SET FOR JULY 16 - 17

Governor Graves To Give Boat Prize; Member Drive To Be Made

Foley, Ala., June 17.—Baldwin County Fishing Rodeo dates have been scheduled for July 16-17, according to announcement today by the local Izaak Walton League which each year has sponsored this event of state-wide interest.

The Baldwin Rodeo has always offered a more diversified type of fishing because of the numerous fresh water lakes and streams near Foley, in addition to deep sea fishing along the entire Alabama Gulf coast.

Gov. Bibb Graves, who has always taken a personal interest and attended each of the Baldwin Fishing Rodeos, has again headed the list of prize donors, and will give a special boat prize of $10, based on the point system for various types of fish caught.

As a new attraction Lions club secretaries throughout the state are to be offered free fishing entries.

Sponsors of the Rodeo also announce that a permanent rodeo association will be formed and a membership drive will be launched immediately. Lloyd A. Magney, local attorney, has been asked to draft the charter for the organization and in addition to the annual rodeo it is planned to open and maintain an information bureau at Foley for the convenience of fishing parties, visitors and tourists.

A U. S. Post guard cutetr will patrol the waters in the vicinity of hardt's Landing, rodeo headquarters, during the two-day event.

University News

University, Ala., June.—Declaring that in America today there are eight billion dollars worth of farm mortgages, two million farm tenants, and here is threatened peasantry for American farmers, Dr. Howard W. Odum of the University of North Carolina, said that the American states can let this condition continue if they are willing but that it will be an America unlike any that was ever dreamed of by the fathers of the republic. This address was the final lecture before the Institute of State and Local Affairs in session at the University of Alabama.

"There is no demonstrable way of remedying this situation," Dr. Odum said, "without the combined research and counsel of those who plan together for the better ordering of our commonwealth, even as did the earlier settlers.

"The planning of a richer farm life and aggrarian agriculture through the improving of lands, the increase of value, the diversification of crops and opportunities, the economic profitableness of country life are all inseparably related to the wise distribution of population and the enrichment of their culture.

Throughout the world today, as well as in this country, the question of the effective distribution of populaion in relation to land and resources constitutes one of the most vital problems of civilization. This problem is now a different problem from what it was in earlier days and must needs be worked out in realistic and practical relation to the whole state and community."

Discussing regional planning for the South, Dr. Odum said that it is everywhere apparent that cotton in the future will play an increasingly smaller role in the total economy, thus necessitating a fundamental reconstruction of agriculture in the whole region. The worst thing that could happen to the South, the speaker said, would be to plunge it back into an orgy of cotton production.

BOB JONES

COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

We read in the second verse of the third chapter of James these words, "If any man offend not in one word the same is a perfect man and able to bridle the whole body." In other words, the hardest thing a man has to do is to control his tongue. A large part of the evil of the world has been caused by the tongue. Some men dip their tongue in the slime of slandor and speak a death warrant to the reputation of good people Hearts have been broken, homes wrecked, murders committed, reputations destroyed because people do not control their tongues. We tell our boys and girls in the Bob Jones College, "Never say anything against onyone unless your motive for doing so is good." If a man asks me if I can recommend somebody that it is neceeary for me to protect a good cause by refusing to recommend the party, then it becomes my Christian duty to say to the man that I cannot recommend him. I have no right to let a good cause suffer to protect a man. I have no right to injure a man simply because of the cruelty of my own heart.

"Oh, for a thousand tongues to sing my great Redeemer's praise." We sing that sometimes. But if we had a thousand tongues very few of us would ever use them to praise the Lord. We talk just for the pleasure of talking, or we talk just because we want to make some money or to put over a proposition. There are great possibilities for good in the proper use of the tongue. We can use it to tell a lost world that God loves them and that Jesus Christ died for them. We can use the tongue to say kind words to those who need kindness. We can use our tongues to soothe the broken heart of a neighbor or friend. What wonderful possibilities we have to do good if we use our tongues right. It has been argued that every word a man speaks sets into vibration waves in the air and in years to come I may stand on some far off world and hear the words I am now dictating to the secretary. It will be a terrible thng for many people at God's judgment when all the words they ever uttered come home to them on the wings of the wind and the folding pages of the tempests.

LOCAL SUPPORT OF PUBLIC EDUCATION IN ALABAMA

Montgomery, Ala., June 26.—The recent suggestions in the public press that the several counties of the state should bear a larger proportinon of the school tax load brings to the front the present status of local support of public education in Alabama. To date 54 of the 67 counties of Alabama now levy 4 mills of county- wide tax for public schools, the maximum levy permitted under the Constitution. The last county to vote the maximum 4th mill is Montgomery, the levy being approved by a substantial majority on June 16th.

Through special constitutinnal amendments, three counties now levy a county-wide tax for schools in excess of the 4 mill constitutional limit: Baldwin, which levies six mills; Jefferson, which levies 4½ mills; and Mobile, which levies six. The ten remaining counties which to date levy only 3 mills county-wide tax are Barbour, Chilton, Greene, Henry, Lowndes, Macon, Madison, Russel, Sumter, and Wilcox. It is noted that a majority of these are black belt counties. The voters of Macon and Sumter recently rejected the proposal to change the county tax from 3 to 4 mills. Elections are scheduled to be held in Greene and Wilcox within the next 30 days.

According to estimates compiled by superintendents of the counties concerned the total amount of additional revenue that could be secured for schools if the fourth mill were levied in the 10 counties levying a three mill tax is approximately $64,000. The amounts of this potential revenue range from $4,300 in Greene to $17,500 in Madison.

MARVIN MARTIN WRITES

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me a small space in your paper for a few words.

Now since almost everything of importance for the time being has been done, two very quiet Republican primaries have come and gone, and a very large and loud, but harmonous National Republican Convention has been held, we should be proud of the Republican ticket that is before us.

After the way things have gone in our county, state and national government, under the present administraion, I don't see how anyone could even think of voting a Democratic ticket again in November, as everyone knows we have had to fight like everything to keep our country from becoming a distatorship, appointed by our would-be dictator Governor and his legislative henchmen, and have only partially succeeded. In our efforts to save our state government, we have accomplished practically nothing. In our national government there was nothing we could do. So. I say agoin, how can anyone think of voting a Democratic ticket this fall, especially in the South.

This vote buying, called relief, should be very clear to everyone. On May 7th, a report of W. P. A. funds shows very clearly that it was not relief, but vote buying as its object. The average monthly wages for the States was $50.03, and for the Southern, or Democratic states, being $26.43 per month. Alabama's average was $28.95, as compared with $72.23 for New York State. Now the reason for this should be plain to everyone. There is no use in spending money in the South because it is already Democratic.

Now we have a very pecular kind of vote buying in this part of the county. We have a man who, up until the first primary this year, has claimed to be a Republican. Now this man is out promising folks a job on the road if they will vote the Democratic ticket. He has tried every way to get a job, himself, but has failed. The Road Supervisor told me that he had nothing for this man to do. I ask you, if this man can't get himself a job, how can he get you one? If anyone offers you a job for your vote, think about him. He might not have the authority to hire you.

Now, let's all get together and elect the whole Republican ticket and stop this kind of thing. I am sure that you did not get every man you voted for. I didn't, but we should not have any regrets, for we have a comnetent ticket to vote for. So, let's all get behind the ticket and give he Democras what Max Schmeling gave Joe Louis.—Yours for a Great Republican vistory in November,—Marvin Martin.

G-MEN'S CHIEF ASKS CLUBS TO FIGHT CRIME

Washington, June 24.—Kiwanis and other civic clubs throughout the land were asked today to help rid their localities of crime, rocketeers and crooked politicians.

The appeal was made by chief G-Man, J. Edgar Hoover, before the convention here of the Kiwanis International.

"The protection of your community is not one which requires more laws or different laws or new laws," he said. "It demands only unceasing vigilance and pertinacious and continuous inquiry by men and women directly concerned with making their community one that is free from crime."

He explained that if the clubs appointed committees on crime and law enforcement they could check the activities and improve the efficiency of the local police departments, the crooked politicians, any laxity of the courts and any underhanded work within the Pardon Board.

Hoover said he was not condemning the nation's police departments adding:

"I compliment them for their efforts to proceed against crime in the face of almost insurmountable objects in the form of political control, easy and unjust criticism and public apathy. Figures such as Dillinger, "Pretty Boy" Floyd, "Baby Face" Nelson and others of their vermin-like rank, were nothing more than thugs, cheap hoodlums, super-inflated rats, who existed not because of personal bravery, but through purchased or bargained political protection.

"Remember, before the sun sets tonight, 35 people will have been murdered; that every 20 seconds a major crime is being committed; that ceaslessly hour after hour and day after day and month after month, 1,500,000 major crimes a year are being rolled up into a horrible total of plunder and pillage."

DEVAUGHN TO TEACH SINGING SCHOOLS, CONCORD AND COLLINS CHAPEL

Prof. W. M. Devaughn announces that he will teach singing schools at Concord schoolhouse and Collins Chapel schoolhouse, beginning Monday, July 6th. The one at Concord will be taught in the mornings from 8 to 12, and at Collins Chapel from 2 to 6 in the afternoons.

Prof. Devaughn needs no introduction to the people of these communities. He has taught at both places before, and everybody knows his ability to get the most good out of singing schools. If you are interested, you should get in touch either with Prof. Devaugh nor some of the leaders of these two communities.

Prof. Devaughn is very anxious for the patrons of the school to meet with him on the opening day of these schools.

SINGING SCHOOL AT MT. CARMEL

Prof. A. O. Boswell will teach a 20-day singing school at Mt. Carmel, beginning July 13. Regular price for tuition. If interested, see Prof. Boswell at once.

LETTER FROM DR. BOB JONES

Cleveland, Tenn.
June 17, 1936.

Dear Friends:

The Bob Jones College at Cleveland, Tennessee, has as high educational standards as any similar college in the United States. It stands without apology for the old time religion and the absolute authority of the Bible. The Bob Jones College is engaged in training great orthodox Christian leaders — doctors, lawyers, teachers, preachers, business men, business women, etc. The Bob Jones College gives piano, pipe organ, violin, speech, and voice without additional cost.

Going to college is serious business. A young person's entire future life depends largely upon the contacts made off at college. In the Bob Jones College students make safe contacts.

If you wish literature, write Bob Jones College, Cleveland, Tennessee.

Sincerely yours,
BOB JONES.

Be sure and come, bring your dinner and help make it a day of singing praises to God from whom all blessings flow. Bring your new books.—W. J. Northcutt.

We are asking all who are interested to meet here next Friday morning, July 3rd, for the purpose of cleaning off the cemetery at this place, also to clean up the church yards. Bring plent yof tools.—Reporter.

WISHES EXPLANATION OF "EARMARKING"

Montgomery.—"Why all the secrecy about this 'earmarking' campaign being sponsored by the Alabama Educational Association, the P.-T. A. and education department lobby?" questioned B. C. Apperson, executive secretary of the Consumer's Anti-Sales Tax Association of Alabama, in a statemen he issued here this week in which he made public a group of questions he submitted to Mrs. James Fitts Hill, president of the Alabama Congress of Parents and teachers, and which Mrs. Hill has so far refused to answer.

"They tell us they are going to 'educate' us taxpayers on earmarking—yet when we try to learn something about it they refuse toanswer," he said.

"Could it be that their 'educational campaign' is going to consist of 'canned figures' and camaflauged statements like several have already sent ont to the newspapers of the state?" he questioned.

Here are the questions Apperson submitted to Mrs. Hill on June 22:

1.—Should "earmarking" of educational figures be adoptd, are there now sufficient funs being collected for school purposes to operate the schools on a full-time basis and to pay the teachers?

2.—How much is the total amount of revenue for educatioal purposes?

3.—Would "earmarking" all the funds for educational purposes, now supposed to go toward education, solve the school problem?

4.—If not, how much additional revenue will be needed?

5.—Should all funds for educational purposes be "earmarked" what would be the percentage received by the elementary and high schools in comparison to Auburn, University and other state institutions of higher learning?

6.—What was the amount received by the state in 1935 from funds voted for educational purposes?

Alabama taxpayers will not be 'educated' to "earmarking" or any other tax raising scheme until these questions have been truthfully answered to their satisfaction and proven from an actual unbiased audit of the educational department and the truth of the state's financial situaion made known, Apperson said.

"The Consumers Anti-Sales Tax Association of Alabama favored a charity amendment so that the schools would share equally with other state departments," the executive secretary said.

Mrs. Hill, if she associates long enough with the educational lobby at Montgomery, will soon learn that the same methods are being used now that have been used in the past—to keep the taxpayers in the dark.

"But a new day has dawned in Alabama—the taxpayers demand the facts and will not act until they are convinced they have the facts," he concluded.

Mrs. Grady Heflin and children are visitiing Mrs. Heflin's sister in Birmingham this week.

Lesson for July 5

THE COMING OF THE HOLY SPIRIT IN POWER

LESSON TEXT—Acts 1:6-9; 2:1-11, 38.

GOLDEN TEXT—But ye shall receive power, after that the Holy Ghost is come upon you: and ye shall be witnesses unto me both in Jerusalem, and in all Judea, and in Samaria, and unto the uttermost part of the earth.—Acts 1:8.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Keeps His Promise.

JUNIOR TOPIC—A Promise Made and Kept.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—New Power Through the Holy Spirit.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Empowered for the World Task

I. The Missionary Program (1:6-8).

The work incumbent upon the Church is witnessing to Christ's gracious salvation to all the nations. After this is done, there will follow the preaching of the gospel of the kingdom by converted Israelites (Acts 15:14-17; Cf. Matt. 24:14). This was not clear to the disciples, therefore they put the question, "Wilt thou at this time restore the kingdom to Israel?" The Davidic kingdom shall be established, but not until after the gospel of the grace of God is preached and the body of Christ is completed.

1. In Jerusalem (v. 8). This was done by the twelve immediately following Pentecost.

2. In Judea and Samaria (v. 8). This was done by the disciples after the hands of the persecutors were laid on them. Not only the twelve but many others took part in this.

3. Unto the uttermost part of the earth (v. 8). Beginning with the first foreign missionary enterprise, this work has been carried on till the present time.

II. The Coming of the Spirit (Acts 2:1-11).

The power of the early Church was the Holy Spirit. The watchword of God's mightiest men throughout the centuries has been "not by might, nor by power, but by my spirit, saith the Lord of hosts" (Zech. 4:6).

1. The time (v. 1). It was on the day of Pentecost. By "day of Pentecost" is meant the feast which was held fifty days after the wave sheaf was offered (Lev. 23:15, 16). It was observed by presenting two loaves made of the new meal (Lev. 23:17). These loaves were baked with leaven, while leaven was rigidly excluded from the passover feast (Lev. 23:6).

2. Upon whom the Spirit came (v. 1). Cf. 1:13-15. The twelve and others to the number of 120. The coming of the Spirit was not merely for the twelve but for all believers, all the members of the body of Christ. They were in one place with one accord waiting for the fulfillment of the Father's promise (Luke 24:49). If the church would be with one accord in one place, wonderful blessings might still be expected.

3. The marks of the Spirit (vv. 2-4). These marks were external and internal.

a. External. (1) The sign of a mighty wind. There was no wind, only the sound thereof, suggesting the all-pervasive, life-giving influence of the Holy Spirit. (2) Tongues of flame. Each of the 120 was crowned with such a tongue. The tongues show the practical purpose of the Spirit's gifts and the fire indicates his purifying energy, purging away the dross and making fit His witnesses. (3) Speaking in foreign tongues. For these humble Galileans thus to speak caused great amazement.

b. Internal. This is seen in the transformation wrought in the disciples. They now have great courage and self-possession. Peter, who a little while before was cowering before a Jewish maid, now with lion-boldness stood befo e the thousands of Jerusalem, and a little later before the chief rulers of the city, and declared that they had murdered their King.

III. The Converting Power of the Holy Spirit (Acts 2:37-42).

Many people were convicted of their sins—about 3,000 repented and were baptized. This revival was real because

1. They continued steadfast in the apostles' teaching (v. 42). They did not grow cold or run after every new teacher that came along.

2. They continued in fellowship with the apostles (v. 42). The surest way to grow is to keep in fellowship with Christians. Spiritual indifference is sure to follow the neglect of the fellowship of the brethren in Christ.

3. They continued in the use of the means of grace (v. 42). They broke bread together.

4. In prayer. The apostolic church was a praying church. The Christian life cannot be lived without prayer.

Works of True Merit

Works of true merit are seldom very popular in their own day; for knowledge is on the march and men of genius are the videttes that are far in advance of their comrades. They are not with them, but before them; not in the camp, but beyond it.—Colton.

Great Things

Between the great things that we cannot do and the small things we will not do, the danger is that we shall do nothing.

Mr. Floyd Smith spent the week end in Prattville with his home folks.

ALABAMA STATE NEWS

Montgomery.—Elaborate plans are being made by officials of the State Highway Department and civic clubs and associations in more than a score of Alabama towns and cities for formal celebration of the freeing of the State's 15 toll bridges.

Action of the Alabama Supreme Court last week in affirming the decision of Judge Walter B. Jones, in Montgomery Circuit Court, authorizing a refunding plan whereby the highway department may, in effect, assume the $3,800,000 bonded indebtednesss, removed the last barrier in the deeply involved two-year old financial legal transaction.

Selection of 1,200 Alabama boys between 17 and 25 years of age to fill vacancies in the State's Civilian Conservation Corp quota of 6,300 will begin July 3rd, according to Dr. A. H. Collins, commissioner of State Department he issued here this week in which will be concentrated at recruiting stations in Mobile, Montgomery, Birmingham, Decatur and Anniston.

POULTRY AND EGGS ARE INCREASING

Auburn, Ala.—Sharp increases in poultry and egg proudction are revealed in a report by the bureau of Agricultural Economics.

There were 12 per cent more chicks and young chickens of this year's hatch in farm flocks on June 1 than there were on that date a year ago; and the producation of eggs shows a 5 per cent increase.

IN MEMORY OF LUM KEENER

I wish to take this opportunity to express my thanks and appreciation to the neighbors and many friends who were so thoughtful of me and my sorrows during the recent illness and death of my dear husband. May the richest blessings of God rest on each of you. I can never forget your thoughtfulness and the words of comfort spoken at this time.

I especially appreciate the help of each and everyone for the help in the crop during his sickness and later.

I realize that my dear husband cannot come back to me, but may I live a life to meet him in a land where there is no more death and sad partings. I feel that all was done that loving hands could do, but God saw fit to call him. I feel that my loss is heaven's gain—Mrs. L. M. Keener.

CANE CREEK

Last Sunday was our annual singing, and we were glad to have the visiting singers. Directors for the day were Virgil Robinson, Floyd Little, Rennie Robinson, Audie Brown, Leonard Edwards. Revived Art of Designing Back in Homes Everywhere

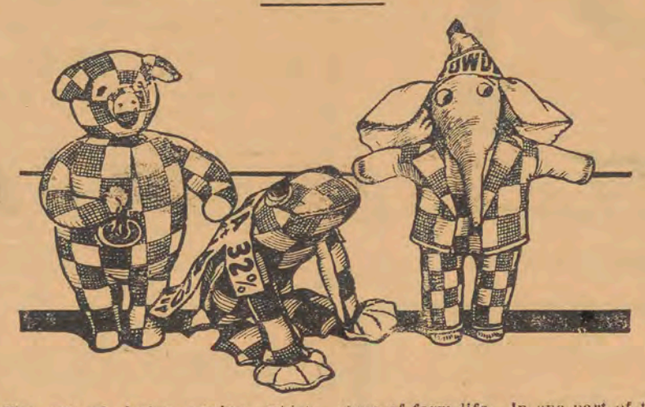
Creation of Fascinating Animal Designs Adds a Refreshing Touch of Color and Originality to Homes.



The art of design sewing, which gradually vanished from the American home a few years ago, is now making its way back. With the revival of this once widely practiced art is coming many creations in novelty designs. Among them is the unique and artistic creations of gaily colored stuffed animals.

The material used is from cotton checkerboard feed bags. Designs are stenciled on the reverse side of the cotton material, cut out, stuffed and stitched. Little trimmings are added here and there to give the unique animal creations a radiant note of cheer and a colorful touch of individuality. Some of the picturesque combinations are reproduced here.

The sudden resurrection of needle and thread art work seems to have sprung from a scene in the motion picture, "Hidden Harvest," a romantic story of farm life. In one part of the picture, the girl of the farm hits upon the idea of designing these attractive and unique stuffed animal novelties from the feed bags around the place. The distinctive printed design of the checkerboard on the bags lent itself to the most unusual creations. They attracted attention and before long the girl found a satisfying income from the sale of these odd but charming and colorful animal creations.

Like the tune of a catchy song that spreads over the country, this revived art of cutout and designing has spread to homes, schools, clubs and church organizations of the land. Some of the creations are most unusual and are stirring widespread comment and admiration. There seems to be no end to the variety of designs and they can be found in almost every type of home, reflecting the spirit of originality and spreading a note of good cheer.

UNCLE JACK GLASSCOCK DIED ON THURSDAY, JUNE 11

Andrew Jackson Glasscock, age 84 years, died at his home in Oak Hill community, on Thursday, June 11th, 1936. The remains were laid to rest in Oak Hill cemetery the following day, Rev. G. W. Elliott conducting the funeral, assisted by the pastor.

Survivors are his wife, one brother and one sister. There are three sons —M. W., and J. H., of Calera Route 1, and W. E. of Jemison Route 2; five daughters—Mrs. Willis Martin, Mrs. W. T. Thomas, Mrs. C. L. Ellison, all of Jemison Route 2; Mrs. Minnie Bean of Siluria; and Mrs. Nora Whitener of Shelby, Ala.

Mr. Glasscock was a devoted Christian, a member of Oak Hill Methodist Protestant church. He spent his entire life in Oak Hill community. He was true to his church and his family and always took a profound interest in the advancemeent of his community and county. He was one of the pioneer Republicans in Chilton County, having been instrumental in its early establishment. He always contended for what he thought to be for the best inerest of the common people.

V-8 SEDAN AND 90 GALLONS CAUGHT WEDNESDAY NIGHT

County officers captured a Ford sedan and 90 gallons of bottled-in-bond liquor Wednesday night, after a hectic race which lasted from near Coopers to a little north of Calera.

The road was barricaded and the liquor car stopped near Coopers. As a deputy came up beside the driver, he suddenly lurched down an embankment, regained the highway, and sped north. Officers gave chase, but the liquor car pulled to the middle of the road when they attempted to pass. When the officers reached Calera, they stopped for a minute to take on other officers, and when they rounded the corner at the overhead bridge north of Calera, the liquor car was standing on the highway, but the driver was nowhere to be found.

The driver left his car key and his hat, but a thorough search failed to reveal him. It was found that the heavy load, and the high speed at which the car had been traveling had been too much for it, and it locked. When officers started back to Clanton with it, they had trouble with it overheating four times on the way in.

The Ford V-8 was especially equipped for transport, being equipped with overload springs. When officers took possession of it they found 90 gallons of various brands of bonded liquors, from the cheapest to the highest priced. The liquor cargo's value is estimated at $500, wholesale price. Sheriff Hardy is holding both liquor and car.

CENTER HILL SINGING

The singing was opened promptly at 10:00 o'clock by the president, Mr. B. L. Cobb. Prayer was offered by Rev. J. T. Martin, of Brent.

Directors for the morning were: Mr. Chester Maddox, W. J. Northcutt, Coburn Cofer, Miss Benny Dean Cobb, Mrs. Wilma Scott, Lester Northcutt, John W. Collum, Marion Cofer, D. T. Melton, E. M. Wilson, L. T. Grant, Houston Melton, Audie Brown, Eual Jones Latham Wilson and J. C. Scott.

A special was arranged by the Oak Grove Quartet during the morning.

At noon a bountiful dinner was spread for all.

The afternoon session was opened at 1:15 o'clock by the president. Directors for the afternoon were: Marvin Champion, O. L. Devaughn, E. L. Glasscock, Jesse C. Jones, A. H. Glasscock, P. M. Clckler, T. E. Wyatt, Mrs. Carrie Shaw, Mr. Velpo Mims, Dick Martin, Lum Scott and Sam Collins.

A quartet arranged by Mr. Jesse C. Jones, consisting of A. H. Glasscock, Dick Martin, O. L. Devaughn, rendered two numbers. Another arrangement, by Mr. A. H. Glascock, consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Gore and O. L. Devaughn, gave one number. The Oak Grove boys rendered another number in th aftrnoon.

Organists for the day were: Mrs. Howard Roper, who played for 20 direcors besides some specials, Mrs. Hays, Mrs. B. L. Cobb, Miss Rubye Smith, Mrs. Rena Mims, Mrs. Aubrey Gore and Mrs. R. B. Johnson.

Let's always give our organists the due praise for they have to work as hard as the singers.

The closing song was sung by Mr. T. E. Wyatt and we were dismissed with prayer by Mr. W. J. Northcutt.

We especially thank Mr. A. H. Glasscock and Mr. Audie Brown for their books and apreciate the cooperation of al who helped in any way, even with your presence.—Reporter.

THORSBY SECTION

(Mrs. S. E. Norton, Manager)

Primm-Taff Wedding—

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Primm in Thorsby occurred a very pretty wedding on the evening of June 27 at 8:30 o'clock. This was the marriage of their daughter, Lois Lavalle, to George B. Taff of Birmingham. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Lawrence L. Stanley of the Congregational church of Thorsby, of which Miss Lois is a member. The Lohengrin wedding march was played by Mrs. V. H. Sutlive as the bride and groom entered the living room thru the hall from the dining room, and stood beneath an arch of green in the north end of the living room where the ceremony was pefrormed. The bride looked beautiful in a dress of white cellophane chiffon and carrying an arm bouquet of white, pink and yellow snapdragons and ferns. Miss Primm is well known in Thorsby and community, educated in the Thorsby grade school and a graduate in the Thorsby Institute, a student at the University of Alabama, also a teacher for several years at Collins Chapel, and the past year principal of the school at Lay Dam.

Mr. Taff is a native of Alabama, whose home has been near Birmingham. He is now a young business man of Birmingham. They will make their home for the present at Homewood.

The home for the wedding was decorated in blue and white, illuminated with red and blue candles. The table in center of the dining room was festooned from ceiling to corner of table with blue and white streamers, the bride's cake occupying the center of the table with lighted tapers on either side. Fruit punch and cake were served, the bride, as of ancient custom, cutting the cake.

The few friends and relatives present were as follows: Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Primm, Miss Ruth Primm, Miss Addie Primm, Don Primm, Rev. and Mrs. Lawrence Stanley, Mrs. V. H. Sutlive, Rev. and Mrs. E. W. Butler, Mrs. Sereno E. Norton, Mr. and Mrs. Grady Tapscott, Mr. Arne Helland, Miss Anna Nelson, Miss Willie Littlejohn, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Lesley, Mrs. Inga Anderson and grand daughter, Miss Louise Horn of Birminghaf, Mr. Clifford Bailey and Miss Elsie Bailey, nephew and niece of the groom, from Birmingham, also Mr. Frank Brown, a friend of the groom, from Birmingham.

POLK-PARR WEDDING

The marriage of Miss Mary Corinne Polk and Geo. Franklin Parr was impressively solemnized on Wednesday evening, June 24, at 8:00 o'clock at the First Methodist church in the presence of a large assemblage, with the Rev. E. A. Childs, of Marianna, Fla., officiating.

A setting of beauty and dignity marked the ceremony. The vows were spoken before the altar, banked with Southern smilax, palms and ferns. On either side were floor baskets of Easter lilies and white gladioli, alternating with branched candelabra and burning cathedral candles.

The musical prelude was presented by Mr. Jas. McClendon, organist, and Dr. C. O. Lawrence, soloist. Miss Alice Polk, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore blue organza over blue taffeta. Her arm bouquet was of pink roses and gysophila. Four bridesmaids were gowned in pastel shades of knotted net, and wore braided ribbon tiaras. They carried arm bouquets of gladioli and double larkspur. Miss Ernestine Childs wore pearh color. Miss Edith Hand was attired in yellow. Miss Jane Roberts wore blue. Miss Mary Robinson wore pale green. The four flower girls wore miniature models of the bridesmaids. They were Julia Nell Parrish, Anne Maddox, Ina Saxon McCraney, and Janet Ross. They carried colonial bouquets of mixed flowers in pastel colors.

Ushers were Joe A. Ikerman and Ramsey McKinney, who lighted the altar candles, John Parr and William Arthur Willis, Jr.

The bride entered upon the arm of her father, by whom she was given in marriage. They were met at the altar by the groom and his brother, James Christopher Parr, Jr., who served as best man.

The bride was a lovely picture in her wedding gown of white wedding ring satin, fashioned on lines of extreme simplicity. Her veil of illusion and lace was caught to her hair with dainty sprays of orange blossoms and extended the full length of her sweeping train. She carried a shower bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley.

As Mary Corinne Polk, the bride has enjoyed universal popularity. She is the oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George C. Polk. She received her education at Thorsby Institute and Athens College, where she won many honors.

Mr. Parr is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Christopher Parr, Sr., of Greensboro, Ala. He attended schools at Greensboro, and was graduated from the University of Alabama.

After the ceremony, the bride's parents entertained at their home with an informal reception. The bride and groom left immediately for a trip to points in south Alabama and Florida.

G. C. Armstrong New Manager At Bean & Taylor's

Mr. G. C. Armstrong is pleased to announce to his friends that he is back in the grocery business in Clanton. He recently became mnaager of the Bean and Taylor Grocery Company, and extends a cordial invitation to his friends to visit him at his new location.

Cleveland Armstrong is a salesman of broad experience, and if he is better at one business than any other, it must be in handling groceries. He seems to be more at home in a grocery store. Any firm is fortunate in having a man of Mr. Armstrong's ability, integrity and character connected with it.

An attractive feaure of Mr. Armstrong's present connection in the grocery business of this secion is that he has access not only to the retail phase of the business but wholesale as well. If you are interested in quantity lots of various items, he is able to make you the most attractive prices.

Call around to Bean & Taylor's store, says Mr. Armstrony, if you are in the market for groceries, he will be glad to wait on you. It will afford him the greatest peasure to help you solve your grocery problems.

J. MELL MARTIN RE-ELECTED

Mr. Martin reported that a good number were in attendance, that a good program was rendered, and that this convention was one of the most interesting he has ever attended.

Joseph F. Gayland, president of the national association, and principal speaker at the convention, visited Mr. Martin on his return to his home at Philadelphia.

FUNNY-LOOKING WOOD FOUND 35 FEET DEEP IN CITY WELL

Mr. W. M. Poole brought in to The Union-Banner office last week a piece of black wood which had been dug out of the new city well about 35 feet deep. The substance resembles wood, coal and rock; it is very brickly and is heavy. Mr. Poole said that there was quite a bit of the stuff at this point in the well.

When the city was digging the other well, some peculiar substance was found away down below the surface of the ground. Some say that there once must have been a river there and it has become filled up, inundating logs, stumps, etc.

SINGING AT ENTERPRISE CALLED OFF NEXT SUNDAY

There will be no singing at this place on the first Sunday afternoon in July (next Sunday), on account of some all day singings near enough to conflict. The singing is not permanently called in, but just for this time. Watch the papers for announcements later.

ROBBERY REPORTED AT GEORGE FREEMAN'S

Investigation was made Saturday of an alleged robbery at George Freeman's filling station a few miles north of Jemison on Friday night.

Sheriff Hardy is holding three persons in jail in connection with the alleged robbery who have given their names as Jack Dillon of Ft. Wayne, Ind., Grace Mewborn and Annie Ruth DeShazo of Birmingham. They will be given preliminary hearing in the near future.

At the investigation, George Freeman stated that the three people came to his place last Friday night and wanted to go in swimming in his pool. He sent them to the pool, and went back for kerosene to make better lights. That the three followed him, relieved him of his watch, money and a gun. Then they got in their Essex car and started south, wrecking the car about 200 yards south of the station.

Dillon and the Newborn woman denied any robbery, while the DeShazo woman stated that Dillon did rob Freeman, and then forced her, at the point of a gun, threatening her. She stated that she didn't want to take Freeman's money, and purposely drove the car into a guard rail to wreck it so that they could not get away with the robbery. Highway patrolmen and county officers made arrests, bringing the three to Clanton, where they are lodged in jail. Officers stated that all three had been drinking.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert

With Governor Alf. M. Landon nominated for President of the United States in one of the most harmonious conventions in the history of the Republican party, a great many politicians who have watched the rapid growth of Landon sentiment all over the U. S. are disposed to ask "How did it happen?" All of which recalls to mind the remark of Will H. Hays, in Republican politics a number of years ago, that in politics things do not happen, they are brought about.

Never was the truth of this remark more abundantly demonstrated. Of course, to begin with, Governor Landon was a colorful figure and a man of fine character whose executive ability was abundantly demonstrated in his official record in Kansas. But these facts, which were well known in the Sunflower State, had to be put before the people, and it was necessary to bring the fortunes of the Kansas Governor through preconvention primaries and conventions, and the big national meeting itself.

That it was successfully done is best indicated by the results. Not in a great many years, perhaps never, did a Republican National Convention close with less bitterness and a feeling of greater satisfaction, presaging national co-operation, than did the one which was held in Cleveland in this year of grace, 1936.

Credit for the results must be given in large measure to John D. M. Hamilton, the dynamic young Topekan who resigned several months ago his official position on the Republican National Committee to become manager of the forces which were seeking to nominate Gov. Landon for the presidency. It was Mr. Hamilton who led the way, and who put the Kansas statesman so far out in front that he could never be headed off. It was natural, therefore, that Gov. Landon express the wish that Mr. Hamilton become the Chairman of the Republican National Committee and that the Committee itself should unanimously elect him.

Mr. Hamilton is well fitted for the chairmanship at this time, both by temperament and training. Kansas is an intensely political state. The boys and girls learn politics in the Sunflower Commonwealth long before they are old enough to vote. It was in the days of his minority that Mr. Hamilton became interested in politics, first as an admirer of Theodore Roosevelt, whose colofrul personality appealed to the youth all over the land. Graduating from school and entering the political arena, Mr. Hamilton turned aside to enlist in the cause of his country in the World War. Then he returned to his native state to enter the practice of law and to engage in politics. Although starting as a progressive Republican, he won the friendship of that stalwart old guardsman, David Mulvane, who had a national reputation as a keen Republican politician. Later he became the friend of Alf Landon after the two men had been on opposite sides of the Republican camp. From the time that he succeeded Mr. Mulvane as National Committeeman from Kansas, following the latter's death, his rise in politics has been meteoric.

This particular campaign requires a fighter at the head of the Republican national campaign, and Mr. Hamilton is a scrapper. In the words of the prize ring, he can take punishment and come back with something a little more devastating than he received. Besides, he has the energy and enthusiasm of the young man in politics, and his record so far indicates that he understands organization and publicity. Mr. Hamilton is very likely the answer to the Elephant's prayer.

POLITICAL CONDITIONS HAVE CHANGED

The unreliability of presidential polls and straw votes taken before the Republican National Convention is now becoming demonstrated. Before the hosts of the G. O. P. met at Cleveland there was no way of telling just who the candidates on the Republican ticket would be, nor in what shape the battles of the convention would leave the G. O. P. organization. Many Republicans were feeling low in spirits, because they had no leaders around whom they might rally, no set of written principles for which they could argue as compared with the planks of the New Deal.

Now this is all changed, just as many wise political observers predicted that it would change. The Cleveland convention is a matter of history, and it has given the Republicans a candidate around whom they show every confidence of rallying enthusiastically.

One of the most significant features of the convention, especially after Landon and Knox had been nominated, according to old political students, was the marked unanimity of sentiment, and the disposition toward harmony. As soon as Landon "went over" faction lines seemed to disappear. There was plenty of cheering, but the delegates and visitors seemed to settle back with a grim determination to get ready to go out and fight for their ticket in November. Whatever defeatism there had been around Cleveland vanished as though by magic. It was a happy and contented crowd. Yet there was no wild or raucous celebration. The old convention tune, "Hail, hail, the gang's all here" was not used on this occasion. It was more like the beginning of a crusade than an ordinary political campaign. The music most in notice included "Onward, Christian Soldiers" and the "Battle Hymn of the Republic."

The election is still four months away and almost anything may happen. Doubtless a great many things will happen. And yet it can be said with all assurance that the work of the Cleveland convention has greatly strengthened the harmony within the Republican Party and strengthened also its determination to fight as valiantly as possible for victory.

This selection is no 'push over' and it is not "in the bag." In the straw votes previously taken the choice was between Roosevelt and an unknown Republican, not yet selected. Now the choice will be between Roosevelt and Landon. It will be interesting to note what, if any, change there will be in the straw voting of the immediate future.

"TEMPORARIES"

When the emergency or "alphabet agencies" of the New Deal were organized, they were with few exceptions thrown open to the political spoilsmen by legislative provisions that the employees could be selected without regard to the Civil Service laws.

However, from the standpoint of permanence and security, it is a big advantage to a government employe to have competitive Civil Service status. Therefore, it has been freely predicted that some excuse would be found before election to give many political favorites full competitive Civil Service without competitive examination.

A group of these employes presented the question directly to President Roosevelt last summer but he apparently thought at the time and still thinks it is undesirable for him to take personal responsibility for making of the entire federal Civil Service a "spoils system."

At the other end of the Avenue, Senator Logan of Kentucky, and Congressman Ramspeck of Georgia, have introduced bills that would exactly fit the needs of the so-called "temporary" political appointees, and the bills have been enthusiastically indorsed by them. They provide for putting all present non-civil service positions under Civil Service, and also that the occupants of those positions shall be granted full competitive Civil Service status through non-competitive examinations.

The real object of the bills is not so much to stabilize the positions of the political appointees, in the emergency agencies where they are now, as to give them eligibility for direct transfer without taking real Civil Service examinations to the more permanent positions in the older departments, most of which have been under Civil Service for a generation or more.

If these bills are passed, for years to come, every time a vacancy occurs in any of the older Civil Service departments, some emergency employe, or former employe, will not only be ready to demand it on the stength of his political endorsements, but will have as good a legal right to it as any of the class who merely stand highest on the competitive Civil Service eligible lists.

What has the bona fide Civil Service employes (especially those who have served the government well for years, often at great sacrafice and hard work), especially worried is the practical certainty that Civil Service vacancies will not occur fast enough to suit the politicians. No Civil Sevice employe without a "New Deal" political pull will be secure against arbitrary dismissal on trumped-up charges, to make a vacancy. It goes without saying that this could be a serious matter for thousands of Civil Service employes who secure their positions by passing stiff competitive examinations from 10 to 30 years ago and have made them their life-work ever since.

Europe is now determined to follow the good neighbor policy with Uncle Sam, which means that they are willing to borrow all the money we will lend them.

If all those pigs which were slaughtered by the A.A.A. three years ago had been permitted to grow, maybe now we could have two slices of ham in our sandwich.

MAN IN THE MOON

PROMISE AND PERFORMANCE

PART I—PREFACE

In beginning this series of articles on the promises and performances of the Democrats during the present administration, there are a few introductory remarks which I wish to make.

I am not at all particular in desiring that all my readers of this series be Republicans. On the other hand, I wish that I could be sure that a majority of them could be Democrats — open minded, unprejudiced Democrats, men and women who attach more importance to the welfare of themselves and their country, and who harbor a more profound and sincere respect for fair dealing, honesty of purpose, and fidelity of promises, both expressed and implied, than they do for anyone's party symbol.

I am not bitter against Mr. Roosevelt. I believe he is just what he says he is—"A friend to the common people". I want to pay my respects to him as one who has the good of Americans at heart. I sincerely believe that. I can forgive him natural errors and do appreciate his efforts to relieve the suffering of our people. He is a man with a big heart, ready and willing to go the limit at all times.

And when I read the Democratic platform of 1932, I knew that if that platform could be carried out, America would prosper. It remembered all Americans, and if it had been carried out to the letter, no doubt would have taken its rightful place in America's hall of fame, along wih our Declaration of Independence and such like documents.

But in this series I shall prove beyond doubt, that in trying to carry out his desires, the president has over-stepped his authority on numerous occasions, has let his "neighborliness" get the best of him to such degree that he has allowed some of the nation's worst enemies help shape its destiny, and finally has allowed these alien influences to steer him away from that admirable platform which he swore to uphold, and in which America's people put such implicit confidence when they elected him to carry it out.

Here is where I think the president has slipped up, and this is the reason I believe his administration a failure, and should be changed.

It is needless and worthless to try to point out all that the Democratic plaform of 1932 promised — it promised everything. I repeat, if it could have been carried out, America would have prospered. I do not say that it COULD NOT have been carried out. But I do say, most emphatically, that it WAS NOT carried out. Indeed, it has been scarcely touched at all.

I believe that Mr. Roosevelt intended to make good on that platform when he promised he would do so. It was a sad day for America and for American ideals when this "brain trust" was formed. When it came in, good honest proved American methods left out the back way. Call it what you will—call it liberalism, a change in the times, a need for new methods in emergency — anything—yet it does not give the president the right to usurp the powers of a monarch, in a free land, nor to depart from a proved system, already mapped out for him in his platform, and veer off on an uncharted economic road, when the welfare of America's millions depended on his decisions. For their sake, if for no other he should have allowed experience and common sense to guide him.

Instead of doing so he allowed himself to be advised by people who had no care nor respect for the masses of Americans. Members of the brain trust knew not the problems of the every-day American. Not one of them ever plowed a furrow—I doubt if some of them ever even set foot in a plowed field. Not one of them ever worked a day in a steel mill. Not one of them had ever done any of the thousand and one things that Americans have to do every day to earn a living. But they had IDEAS—made up in their own highly college trained minds. but with a yawning lack of good old sound experience to draw upon. They are the ones who played havoc with the 1932 platform, with Mr. Roosevelt, and with the American people.

But Mr. Roosevelt was not blind when he took these men in. He knew that they were Socialists and Communists, sworn to make the most of every opportunity to further the cause of Communism and overthrow every government like ours. They stated it openly. They were quite honest about it all, and yet he took them—TO ADVISE HIM. Just about as much reason as there would be to hire a bunch of thieves to guard a jewel case.

This is the reason I lay the blame at the foot of Mr. Roosevelt. He was not forced to take in Socialists to advise him. He had a wealth of tried and true Democrats—men who scrape more sense from under their nails every day than the "brain trust" can boast of being in their heads—to guide him. Why did he not employ them? I don't know. I have not seen anyone else who had an idea, and I doubt very seriously if the president himself could tell just WHY he picked the college professors and their theories and ideas, and left off the experienced men and women of his own party.

That these "reds" DID have a strong influence over him is proved in the policies he put into effect. NOT ONCE has he adhered to any of the planks of the Democratic platform, and NOT ONCE has he failed to carry out or attempt to carry out the platform pledges of the Socialist party. Every move was closely patterned after the Russian method of doing things, and adhered as closely to these Russian methods as the "brain trust" believed the freedom-loving American people would submit to.

The Democratic platform of 1932 is a scrap of paper—by performance. By the time you read this, it is very likely that the 1936 Democratic platform will be out, that all may read it. I do no know what it will contain, nor am I interested in knowing. Since the experience of 1932 teaches us that a Democratic platform is nothing more than a campaign pledge, soon to be forgotten, is it reasonable for us to believe that the new one will be adhered to?

It has been openly admitted that the business of nominating a president would be nothing more than a formality. It has further been admitted, although not so openly, that no matter what kind of platform the convention might draw up, the ideas of the president and his brain trust would be carried on if he is re-elected—another formality—the drawing up of the platform. Then why meet at all? Why not wire in and nominate Mr. Roosevelt and give him free rein to draw up his own platform as he goes along? It is all mere formality! Has the Democratic party allowed its affairs to drift down until its people have no voice? If so, then God help the Democrats—and the American people if they re-elect Roosevelt!

The late adopted Republican platform has been condemned by the Democratic press as a document of "glittering generalities". The Democrats say that this platform is not specific enough—that it does not say what Republicans will do, but only what they will do IF IT CAN BE DONE.

Part of the condemnation is true. The Republican platform does not set oue any specific dates when it will drag good times around the corner. It does not set any certain day when the cloud will break away and the silver lining begin to show. But it DOES promise a return to safe and sane methods of doing hings. It DOES promise a return to economic management, and stoppage of the ever-increasing national debt.

The Republican platform is easy to read and understand. It does not promise every person all heaven and earth, because it could not be fulfilled if it did. But it DOES set forth just what the Republicans will endeavor to do, using tried and true methods. It promises things that there is at least a reassonable chance to be done.

Finally, the Republicans bring to the nation a platform that is reasonable, practical and capable. The party's presidential nominee possesses these same qualities in full degree. His life is admitted proof that he is a man of strong reason, with practical ideas gained from experience, and his record as Governor of the state of Kansas proves his capability beyond any shadow of doubt.

Such a combination should arouse confidence. It is the old American method—a mixture of reliability and experience. It should renew the hope of America to such degree that Landon will "Land on Roosevelt" in November.—Man in the Moon.

"THREE LONG YEARS"

Another of President Roosevelt's early statements is returning to plague him. In a message to Congress in 1933 the President used these words:

"For three long years the federal government has been on the road toward bankruptcy. * * * Thus we have piled up an accumulated deficit of $5,000,000,000."

Senator Steiwer, in his keynote address to the Republican Convention, pointed out that the same Roosevelt who was worrying about a five billion dollar deficit which the Republicans might pile up in four years has piled up a world record for deficits as follows:

"For the fiscal year ended June 30, 1934, the deficit was about four billion dollars. For the fiscal year of June 30, 1935, it was in excess of three and one half billion dollars. For the fiscal year ending June 30, 1936, and eliminating any requirement for the payment of soldier's bonuses, the deficit is between three and one-half and four billion dollars. For three long years the deficits have exceeded those which the President denounced. For three long years we have continued on the road toward bankruptcy. Instead of an accumulated deficit of five billion dollars in four years, we have a deficit equivalent to eleven billion dollars in three years—but they are three very long years."

In 1933 the New Deal spent approximately five billion dollars, in 1934 seven billion dollars, in 1935 seven billion four hundred million dollars. This year the amount is seven billion six million dollars, and the estimate for the next fiscal year is more than eight and a quarter billion dollars.

The same analysis would apply in many other lines. For three long years the President has failed to keep his other promises of good government.

They have indeed been long years, and it is hardly likely that the American people who re-elected one Democratic President because "he kept us out of war," will re-elect another one because he snatched us away from "the road toward bankruptcy."—Boliva, Mo., Free Press.

A NEW TICKET PLAN

Charbes A. Halleck, the lone Republican Congressman from Indiana, and an aggresive young man, seems to have stirred up a real storm in political circles with his charges that fourth class postmasters, who are supposedly under Civil Service and immune from political activities, are being "mobilized" by the Democratic national organization in an effort to build up another Democratic campaign machine for the coming national contest. Mr. Halleck is a member of the House Committee on Civil Service.

Mr. Halleck has made public a copy of a form letter which he says he has received from a fourth class postmaster. The letter asks the postmasters to sell tickets at a dollar apiece for local meetngs to be held to hear the President's acceptance speech by radio. The form letter is purported to be signed by Democratic National Foreman, Farley, who is also Postmaster General, and by W. Forbes Morgan, secretary of the Democratic National Committee.

It is stated that the form letter, after urging the receipient to sell these tickets, contains the following paragraph:

"The result of your national effort will be acknowledged and appreciated by the National Committee."

According to newspaper dispatches, the receipt of a form letter also has raised quite a storm in the effete city of Boston. In its news story of the incident the Boston Transcript says that "rebellion seethed throughout the federal buildings when Postmaster General Farley cracked a whip over the shoulders of the personnel of the various departments and gave them thousands of tickets at $1 each to further the Roosevelt campaign of re-election. This action is regarded as in defiance of a regulation supposed to bar any federal employe from taking part in politics."

The Boston paper reproduces a copy of the form letter alleged to have been sent to Boston and the wording is practically the same, if not the same, as the one displayed by Congressman Halleck. In Boston, however, the letter, it is said, was sent not, of course, to fourth class postmasters, but to clerks of courts and department heads, many of whom are not political appointees. Some of hte federal employes are said to have received the tickets in lots of 200.

No matter what the outcome of this "strategic" move may be, and Mr. Farley says he knew nothing about it, the charges of Mr. Halleck in Washington and the reverberations in Boston indicate that the campaign is well under way.

Of course the New Dealers are confident they will carry every state in the Union next November, but just the same they would be pleased to have Governor Lehman run for office in New York again.

The advice of the oracles is a bit mixed. Voliva says the world is flat. Farley says it is in the shape of an oyster and belongs to Roosevelt.—San Francisco Chronicle.

If living in a Prairie State disqualifies a man for President, look what is would have done to Abrahma Lincoln.

INFALLIBLE JOE

When Senator Hastings taunted Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the Democratic leader with having quoted "Al" Smith with approval, he replied: "The Senator from Delaware quotes from what I said about Smith when Smith was right, but he doesn't quote what I said when Smith was wrong."

Senator Robinson would not quote this: 'I am for a government frugal and simple, applying all of the possible savings of the public revenue to the discharge of the national debt; and not for the multiplication of officers and salaries merely to make partisans.'

Thomas Jefferson said that, and Senator Robinson would not quote Jefferson when he was wrong.

Senator Robinson knows that Thomas Jefferson was always wrong. Whatever Senator Robinson says is right. He is heaven-sent to correct the errors of Thomas Jefferson.—Charleston, S. C., News and Courier.

"Nobody thanks you much for reliable advice," sand Uncle Eben. "But you kin git unlimited expressions of temporary gratitude fo' any kind of a hoss race tip you wants to think up."—Washington, D. C., Star.

CREAM STANDARDS TO BE CONSIDERED

Montgomery, Ala. — Establishments of grades and standards for cream sold in Alabama will be given consideration, when the State Board of Agriculture meets on July 21.

Announcement of this was made by R. J. Goode, state commissioner of agriculture, following a state-wide meeting of producers, creamery station operators, and butter manufacturers on June 24, at which time the advisability of establishing such grades and standards for the improvement of the creamery and butter industry in the State was thoroughly discussed.

It was the concensus of those attending the state-wide meeting that everything possible should be done to improve the cream and butter produced in the state.

GROWERS GET 61,000 CO-OP POULTRY SALES

Mongomery, Ala.—Alabama farmers this year sold 375,169 pounds of live poultry cooperatively for $60,961-17, reports A. N. Culver, secretary-treasurer o fthe Farmers Marketing & Exchange Association.

"I feel", he said "that one of the outstanding things connected with our poultry shipments this spring was the price we secured on these shipments, which, in many cases, was several cents higher than local prices quoted, and practically all our runs are well patronized because our prices were satisfactory to the producers."

The poultry was loaded on 31 cars and shipped to eastern points.

4,705 CLUB BOYS TO VISIT SHOALS

Auburn, Ala.—A total of 4,705 Alabama 4-H club members have made arrangements to visit Wilson and Wheeler Dams at Muscle Shoals, July 24-25, announces T. A. Simms, state boy's 4-H club leader.

County Farm Agents and 4-H club agents will accompany the boys on the two-day trps, during which they will inspect dams, the phosphate plant, and review the activities taking place at Muscles Shoals.

SEVEN FARMERS WILL DIRECT COTTON CO-OP

Montgomery, Ala.—Seven successful Alabama cotton producers have been elected to direct the affairs of the Alabama Cotton Cooperative Association during the ensuing year. They are: J. L. Edwards, Selma; B. H. Lightfoot, Troy; W. L. Rasberry, Fayette; S. A. Burns, Talladega; W. G. Feebles, Monroeville; J. S. Hyatt, Cullman; and J. T. Gresham, Prattville.

These farmers were elected directors of the State Association at the annual meeting of members in Montgomery.

Following their election they met in executive session and re-named Mr. Edwards as President, J. A. Beaty as vice-president and manager, and Mr. Burns as second vice-president.

TIME FOR BREEDING HEIFERS STRESSED

Auburn, Ala. — Heifers should be bred to freshen at from 24 to 30 months of age, depending on growth and development, advises W. H. Eaton, of the Dairy department of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

LAY DAM SUNDAY BASEBALL SCHEDULE

The Lay Dam baseball club announces its Sunday games to be played at home as follows:

July 12.—Selma CCC.

These games are expected to be good games. Come out and see them. Grandstand accommodations.

SINGING AT MT. CARMEL THE FOURTH SUNDAY IN JULY

There will be an all-day singing at Mt. Carmel, the new church, 6 miles southwest of Thorsby, Sunday, July 26th. The new books will be used. Everybody invited to come and bring dinner. All singers especially invited.

ANNUAL SINGING AT OAK GROVE

There will be annual singing at this place the first Sunday in July, 5th. Everybody come and bring your late books and dinner and spend the day in singing—W. J. Northcutt.

CHILDREN AND ADULTS NEED PLENTY OF MILK

Auburn, Ala.—Each child in the family should have a quart of milk per day together with all the cream and butter desired, and adults should have at least a pint of milk per day, advise officials of the Dairy department of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

"The use of more dairy products on the farm provides excellent food-reducing, both grocery bills and the amount of dairy products put on the market," they state.

HOG INDUSTRY IS SHOWING INCREASE

Auburn, Ala.—Expansion of the hog industry this year may result in a total of nearly 50 million hogs on farms next January 1, reports the Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

On January 1 this year there were about 43,000,000 hogs on farms, as compared to 39,000,000 at the beginning of 1935, the smallest number in more than 50 years. The peak in hog production was 69,000,000 in 1923.

FFA ANNUAL MEETING IS SET FOR JULY 16-18

Auburn, Ala.—Plans are being made for approximately 900 young farmers and vocational teachers to attend the sixth anual convention of the Alabama Assoeiation of future Farmers of America to be held here July 16-18.

During the three-day meeting the delegatse will receive special training in farm leadership which is to be the keynote of this year's convention, says A. C. Allen, Jr., Holtville, State FFA president, who will preside. In addition, they will visit the State Experiment Station here to study the latest developments in scientific agriculture and research.

R. J. Goode, commissioner of agriculture, and Dr. J. B. Hobdy, director of vocational educational, will be two of the principal speakers.

MEETING HELD AT SHILOH WAS A GRAND SUCCESS

A large crowd attended the Republican meeting at Shiloh schoolhouse last Friday night. The house was called to order by the chairman, Mr. C. M. Billingsley. Prayer was offered by Rev. T. W. Billingsley.

First, we had a speech by Mr. T. E. Wyatt. Then Mr. Clifford Manning made a good talk. Hon. Percy M. Pitts made a wide-awake talk, followed by Mr. J. Z. Mims Between these good talks, we had some fine music by Mr. Lloyd Howard, of Thorsby, which everyone enjoyed very much.

We enrolled several new members. We certainly appreciate the good attendance of both young and old. I don't think that you regret coming.

We are planning on having another meeting at Enterprise school house soon. We want to arrange some quartets and we also invite Mr. Howard to be with us. We don't know just when this meeting will be held. Watch the paper for announcement. It will be published.

Just a few words about the speaking at Clanton last Saturday afternoon. It sure was fine. The poor Democrats sure did catch it. They had to take it because it was the truth..

Best wishes to the Republican party. —C. M. Billingsley, chairman; S. B. Williams, secretary.

THE MADE IN AMERICA CLUB

The Made in America movement, which was launched in this country a few months ago by a group of prominent American citizens well-known in their respective fields, is a patriotic and welfare endeavor. It is distinctly non-partisan and non-profit as the officers are devoting their time and energy without expense to the treasury of the organization.

The aims and purposes are primarily to educate the American public and the American consumer to give greater preference to merchandise manufactured by American labor and products that are grown and produced on American farms.

Last year we imported more than eight million dollars worth of food products alone. It is not merely through foreign imports. Imports of foreign merchandise increased 24 per cent last year, whereas, exports of our own products showed a scant increase of 7 per cent. Large quantities of hams, bacon, sausage, butter and dozens of other products of the farm are being imported.

The idea that we can sell more of our own products abroad if we buy more foreign goods is not working out that way. Look at the deficit in our own trade for the first four months of this year.

PLEASANT HILL

We had a large crowd out for Sunday school Sunday. Some came expecting preaching but were disappointed, as Brother Paul Oden, by some cause could not be with us on Sunday, but showed pictures of Home Mission Work Sunday night.

Thorsby Baptist church, beginning July 26, continuing through the following Sunday, with the Rev. E. Floyd Olive, of Birmingham assisting.

Chestnut Creek, Cooper, beginning August 2, and continuing through the week, with the Rev. T. E. Steeley, of Roanoke, assisting.

CLANTON NEGOES WIN TWO. LOSE ONE TO GREENVILLE

In a three-game set with a negro team from Greenville last week, the Clanton negroes won the first one by the score of 8 to 7, the second 13 to 12, and lost the third, a five inning affair, 6 to 4.

A single game was played on Thursday, with a double header on Friday.

First Game

This 8 to 7 game was won by Clanton in the nineth frame, as the locals went int otheir half of the final inning trailing on the short end of a seven to five count. With one away, Stone was safe on an error at first; Boland booted Wood's hot grounder and Stone counted, but Wood was out on third; Collins singled, followed by two long singles by Shepard and Jones, and the winning run was brought in by Shepard.

Canady led the Greenvile hitters with three safeties, while three of his mates got a couple each.

Both teams gathered 11 hits each, good for 13 bases. Clanton had 5 errors and Greenville 3.

Second Game

This game was an extr ianning affair, and was won by Clanton in the 10 h inning, 13 to 12.

Greenville had scored 7 runs in the first frame on five hits. Clanton scored two in the first, two in the third, four in the fifth, four in the sixth and went into the tenth at twelve-all. Crawford was safe on Cook's error, Jones grounded it first Crawford taking second. Draper and Shepard went safe on booted grounders and Crawford crossed the plate with the winning run.

Marbury led his team in this game with three hits, while shepard and Draper tied with three each. Bohannon lined one over the right field fence in the fifth, with two men adoard.

Third Game

This was a five inning affair, by agreement, and was won by Greenville 6 to 4. Clemens allowed the Clanton batters only three hits, while Stone gave up five. The Clanton team made five errors and Greenville bobbled three times.

All these games were well attended by both white and black, as Marbury, the negro player who created such a sensation here last year was manager of the Greenville team. Marbury seemed to have slowed down some, however, since last year.

REVIVAL AT LIBERTY HILL BEGINS SECOND SUN. JULY

CLANTON ON HONOR ROLL OF AMERICAN CITIES

New York, June 26.—Clanton was named as being on the honor roll of American cities which have helped roll up the impressive total of $2,139.998 in pledges to the American Joint Distribution Committee campaign in 1936 for reconstruction and emergency aid to Jews in Central and Eastern Europe. Felix M. Wargurg, national Campaign Chairman announced today.

The campaign of the Joint Distribution Committee which is seeking $3,500,000 this year, will run until December 31. The sum already pledged is three times as much as the Joint Distribution Committee had its pledges at the same time last year. In this effort 642 communities throughout the United States and Canada have taken part to date.

Two Men Drowned At Lay Dam Sunday

Birmingham Men Taken Under By Rough Waters From Turbines

Thomas A. McLane, 32, of 7925 Seventh Court, South and Allen P. Hodges, 32, of 7123 Underwood Avenue, Birmingham, drowned early Sunday morning at Lay Dam, formerly Lock 12, out from Clanton on the Coosa River.

According to J. Mell Martin, coroner of Chilton County, who investigated the Lay Dam accident, about six fishing boats, occupied by about eight persons, capsized directly below the dam when an automatic switch started the huge turbines of the Alabama Power Company's plant into action and a large volume of water gushed into the boats, overturning them and spilling their occupants into the river.

Coroner Martin said a large net was thrown in to the swimmers and that all of them escaped the temporary maelstrom except McLane and Hodges. It was reported that McLane lost his life after successfully helping a woman in the party to safety. His body was recovered a few hours later.

The body of Hodges was recovered late Sunday night, after much dragging, at a point near the dam, right where the boat went down.

Surviving McLane are his mother, Mrs. Bulah McLane; five brothers, B. A., H. L., J. W., G. W., and J. L. McLane, all of Birmingham, and three sisters, Mrs. J. M. Gibson, Mrs. A. G. Maynard, and Mrs. H. H. Box of Birmingham. He was an employee of T. C. I. at Westfield, operating a filling station and was a part time coal operator.

Hodges, Jr.; his father, D. J. Hodges, Mrs. Ruth Hodges, two children, Price Hodges, Jr.; and James Daniel; two brothers — Neal Hodges, and D. J. Hodges, Jr.; his father, D. J Hodges, Sr., and four sisters, Mrs. Frances Bass, Mrs. Louise O'Conner, Mrs. Orget Higgenbotham, and Miss Erin Hodges.

REVIVAL AT SAMARIA

The annual revival services will be held at Samaria Baptist church, beginning Sunday morning, July 19, and continuing through the week following, with Rev. J. O. Colley doing the preaching. The public is cordially invited to attend these services.

NO CITY ARRESTS ON FOURTH

Clanton must have entered into the nation-wide idea of a safe and sane Fourth of July. Generally, some misguided people take the idea that the way to really "enjoy" the Fourth is to get drunk and paint the town red. But on this Independence Day the Clanton officers did not make one single arrest.

According to "Major" Simpson, one of the city's police force:

"We had a bunch of ladies and gentlemen in our city on last Saturday. Instead of the usual scattering of drunks that may be seen each year on this day. It was one of the quietest Fourths I have ever seen in my several years in Clanton."

One arrest was made on last Friday, for public drunkenness. This was continued by Mayor Jones, pending further investigation and consideration.

MAZER'S STORE IS MAKING A CLEANING OF SUMMER GOODS

Mr. I. S. Levine, manager of Mazer's store, Clanton, is this week advertising some speeial bargains in ladies summer wearing apparel. Mr. Levine says that he must make room for new seasonable goods and the things that are now on the shelfes must seek new quarters. In order to make these summer goods move, the price tags have been marked down, or thrown away, and a price put there that will amaze you.

Turn to Mazer's large adv. in this paper, and see what we are trying to tell you about.

MASONIC CONFERENCE TO BE AT CLANTON

The Chilton County Masonic Conference will be held with Clanton Masonic Lodge on Wednesday and Thursday, July 15 and 16. All Masonic lodges in the Conference are requested to have representatives at the Conference. It is deesired that all officers of the various lodges attend. All Masons are invited and urged to attend.—H. A. Harris, Secretary.

One of the crack salesmen of the Hayes Chevrolet Co., of Clanton, Mr. Luther Foshee, was awarded a new 1936 Master Chevrolet sedan Tuesday morning in Birmingham by the Chevrolet Motor Co. This award came at the close of a ten-day contest among Chevrolet salesmen. Mr. Foshee also recently become a member of the "100 Car Club" for his outstanding sales activities. He was awarded the automobile at a meeting of Chevrolet officials in Birmingham.

VISITOR HERE FROM BIBB COUNTY, ALA.

The Union-Banner was pleased Monday to have a prominent citizen from our neighboring county, Bibb, call on us. This man was Mr. H. C. Cleveland, who is the Democratic nominee for Commissioner from the Third District in Bibb county. That, in Bibb county, means that Mr. Cleveland will be the next Commissioner from that district.

Mr. Cleveland was introduced to The Union-Banner man by Mr. Charlie Giles, a fine citizen of Beat 3, Chilton County.

Health Warning Is Sounded To Parents

Many Infantile Paralysis Cases Reported From Counties In North Alabama

Montgomery, Ala., July 4.—The outbreak of infantile paralysis in northern Alabama, with 42 cases, is the most serious in the history of the State. This warning came from Dr. D. G. Gill of the State Health Department, who fears an increase in July and August, since infantile paralysis is a warm weather disease.

The average number of cases reported in Alabama each year is between 50 and 60, but 31 cases have been reported since June 1st, according to Dr. Gill.

Most of the new cases are in Morgan Colbert, Franklin, Lauderdale, Winston, Madison and Lawrence counties. Most of them are rural white children under nine years of age.

To prevent further spread of the disease Dr. Gill has urged county health officers to warn against children's gatherings in that section. Morgan county has cancelled its typhoid clinics, where children would have congregated.

So far no fatalities have been reported among the stricken children, but many of them may never walk again, said Dr. Gill.

THE LYNCHING RECORD FOR THE FIRST SIX MONTHS OF 1936

The following information has been released concerning lynchings for the first six months of this year. According to the records compiled at Tuskegee Institute in the Department of Records and Research, the first six months of 1936 there were four lynchings.

This is the same number as for rthe first six months of 1935, and two less than the number 6 for the first six months of 1934.

All of the persons lynched were negroes. The offenses charged were: rape, 2; attempted rape, 1; murder 1.

The states in which lynchings occurred and the number in each state are as follows: Arkansas, 1; Georgia, 3.

THE SPEECH OF GREAT OMISSIONS

[AN EDITORIAL]

The Communist party in its convention held in New York City recently was chiefly concerned in how to stop Landon for President of the United States. These enemies of the American government manifested no concern over President Roosevelt's candidacy or re-election.

Is this the attitude of the Red party—the party of revolution—towards Governor Landon? What a compliment to the Republican candidate for President of the United States! What an implication on President Franklin D. Roosevelt, the candidate masquerading under the name of the Democratic party, the honored name of the party which he and his New Dealers have appropriated to their present use, to cloak with respectability their brazen designs against the American form of government!

After the army of federal employees and government papsuckers had spent a week of grotesque boondoggling to Jim Farley's piping at Philadelphia, the mighty Franklin D. Roosevelt made his dramatic appearance to deliver the latest dispensation from the great smearer, Michealson.

This so-called speech of acceptance deserves to live in the history of politics and government as the "Speech of Great Omissions".

There was an omission of the name of the Democratic party, no doubt through fear of giving offense to the Communist Brain Trusters.

There was an omission of all reference to the promises contained in the party platform of four years ago.

There was an omission of any mention of the mountainous national debt being augmented by leaps and bounds daily by the present regime.

There was an omission of the burdensome load of taxes being heaped on every living citizen, and on generations yet to come.

There was an omission of the slimy octopus of graft, waste and corruption which, like creeping paralysis, is laying its blighting tentacles on every function of government in this land.

There was an omission of any expression of disapproval of the activities of the President's man Friday, Jim Farley, whose job is to bludgeon American business men and government civil service employees into furnishing Farley with a huge campaign fund to be used to perpetuate the New Deal and insidiously undermine the government for which our fathers suffered and died.

The speech contained the usual rantings of soap-box orators to array the needy against their more fortunate brothers, tactics held reprehensible in the late Huey Long, but infinitely more despicable in a man seeking the high office of President of the United States.

Who believes that all this prating by Mr. Roosevelt about "The Forgotten Man" and "The Underprivileged" is anything but cheap political demagoguery? He was born in wealth and has lived in luxury on his ancestral estate. He has never worked at a calling, managed a business, or succeeded in a trade, except politics in its most Tammanyized form. Who believes such a man is more concerned about the poor of this nation than the millions of American citizens who have by great labor, patience and thrift, accumulated something for themselves and, as they hoped until this dark hour, something for the children they will leave behind at the great divide?

With this smiling, scatter-as-you-go President in the White House and his rubber-stamp followers in Congress obsequiously jumping through his hoops, is it any wonder that the spirit of thrift, economy, ambitions and enterprise is fading from the American scene? Is it any wonder that every honest business faces each new day with fear and trembling, as the radio chants the New Deal catch phrases designed to array the poor, the unfortunate and those who through their own improvidence are down and out, against every legitimate business, toiler and worker? Such political demagoguery as has been for four years, is now, and will continue to be practiced by Mr. Roosevelt, is seriously menacing the peace, order and stability of the American government and the economic and social well being of all its people.

Let the people of the United States face the facts. Franklin D. Roosevelt is the captain general in this play of demagoguery which has been misleading and captivating so many of our people. We should quit being fooled by that mask of a smile and the apologies of his milder critics that "he means well".

It is time for the mask to be stripped from his face and the build-up to be torn from under him, and invite the people who love the country and its institutions: "Behold the real Roosevelt! Here he is—the Roosevelt of vaulting ambition, void of all sincerity, the most dangerous demagogue that has appeared in our national life. A Roosevelt who would undermine and destroy all we hold near and dear in this country in order to insure his own re-election to the Presidency".

PERRY LITTLEJOHN NOW AT FAIRVIEW FILLING STATION

Perry Littlejohn is now in charge of the Fairview Filling Station, about two mies north of Canton on the Birmingham highway.

Perry is well known around Clanton, having operated the Perry Body Shop here some time ago, after which he was connected with Clanton Motors for a while. He built the Fairview Station some time ago, but leased it out.

But he is back with it again now, making some needed improvements in and around the place.

The Fairview Station is one of the prettiest on the road between Montgomery and Birmingham, and after a bit of touching up, Perry expects to make it one of the most popular.

Besides the usual filling station service, Perry will serve barbecue and other kinds of sandwiches and cold drinks. Perry is a likable fellow, and you'll like his place. Stop with him.

SINGING AT CHELSEA, ALA.

The annual singing at Chelsea, Ala., will be held on the second Sunday in July. We expect a great day, and extend a cordial invitation to all Chilton County singers.—P. B. Shaw.

REVIVAL AT WHITE CITY

The revival at White City will begin Sunday, July 12th, and continue for the following week. Preaching will be done by Rev. Ben Dykes. The pastor, Rev. Wm. E. Robinson invites everybody to attend the meetings.

VISITORS FROM HAVANA, FLA.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Robinson, of Havana, Fla., spent a few days here with relatives recently. They were accompanied by Mrs. Robinson's sister, Miss Mary Shelfer, and James Robinson.

Mr. Robinson reports that crops in Florida are better than the average around here; they have had a splendid season up to now in that state—plenty of rain, and the crops are reflecting it too.

But there is one rather undesirable feature of the country around Havana that Mr. Robinson relates about. They have a large crop of big rattle snakes down there too. Several people have been bitten, and they nearly always prove fatal. One man was bitten by a rattler eight feet long a few weeks ago, and died the next day after being bitten. One man was bitten last Christmas day and died.

Mr. Robinson stated that the State of Florida would likely institute a plan to help exterminate the reptiles though in the near future.

ANOTHER NEGRO BALL GAME NEXT SATURDAY AFTERNOON

Local baseball fans will have another opportunity to see another negro ball game Friday afternoon, July 10, at 3:00 p.m. at the Clanton park.

In this team the local Clanton team will tie into the Lookouts, negro team from Chattanooga, Tennessee. The Lookout team is a highly rated combination, and the Clanton team will have to step some to come out on the long end of Friday's game.

REGISTRARS WILL NOT BE IN SESSION NEXT SATURDAY

The Board of Registrars of Chilton County are in session at the courthouse this week, but they will not be here Saturday, as has been announced. Friday, July 10, will be the last day in session.

Everybody please take notice of this and be governed accordingly. Do not wait until Saturday—that will be too late. If you are eligible to register by having become 21 years of age, or by moving into the county, or if you know of a neighbor who is eligible to register, attend to this important matter this week.

The Country Doctor At New Wadesonian

Famous Dionne Quintuplets To Be Featured In Popular Production

In the picture that is the entertainment scoop of the year, Darryl F. Zanuck makes movie stars of the first rank of the world's front page darlings, as he presents the Dionne Quintuplets in their first full length feature, "The Country Doctor" which comes to the Wadesonian Theatre on next Sunday and Monday, July 12-13.

Adapted from an original story by Charles E. Blake, Chicago newspaper man, "The Country Doctor" finds its drama in the life-and-death conflict that a physician eternally wages in the Canadian wilds in his unselfish work. It is warm with romance, brightly alive with delightful humorous touches, fresh with the antics, the crooning and the play of the world's most famous babies.

Jean Hersholt, beloved character star, is the doctor of the picture, a heroic, self-sacrificing physician who fights pain and ill in a Canadian furtrading post with inadequate equipment.

Because his nephew, Michael Whalen, persists in his love for June Lang, daughter of the post's manager, and because Hersholt himself tactlessly attempts to get a hospital and needed supplies for his people, he incurs the displeasure of the company powers. Without regard for his record or heroism, the post manager ousts him from his position.

He is broken and dispirited when he gets a call to attend John Qualen's wife and goes to her, never suspecting the phenomenon he is going to witness. In a sequence that is the high spot of a picture for drama and comedy, the five tiny mites are brought to the world, and the doctor begins the fight to keep them alive

As the film nears its close, we witness the fame and rewards that are heaped on the happy doctor as his little charges prosper and grow. And, at the height of his happiness, the post manager relents and gives his consent to the romance of Whalen and Miss Lang.

The screen story of the picture, which was directed by Henry King, was written by Sonya Levien. And Slim Sommerville, Dorothy Peterson, and Robert Barratt, as members of the all-star cast, occupy prominent roles.

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Harrison, of Lomax, died on July 6th, and was buried at New Harmony Tuesday of this week.

Sen. Borah Pledges Loyalty To Landon

Veteran Republican Promises To Support Platform And Party

Boise, Idaho, July 6.—Senator William E. Borah pledged allegiance today to the Republican ticket and platform.

"I have no intention of bolting the ticket," said the veteran Republican, adding:

"I am supporting the platform and I have been supporting the platform from the beginning".

Thus, in a long-awaited clarification Borah removed the expressed doubts of many leaders from Boise to Washington regarding his stand in the campaign.

At Topeka, Kan., Republican presidential nominee, Gov. Alf M. Landon, said: "I am happy to have the cooperation of Sen. Borah in this campaign".

Borah still withheld definite announcement of his intentions regarding seeking a sixth term—but he did not deny a friend's flat statement he will run again.

The friend, W. Scott Hall, of Malad, Idaho, said after a conference:

"I am convinced Sen. Borah will be a candidate for re-election".

The expectation of some friends is that the 71-year-old statesman will come out deffinitely within the next few days. July 11 is the deadline for filing nomination petitions in Idaho.

REV. A. L. FOSHEE DIES

"Know ye not that there is a great man fallen this day in Isreal." II Kings 3:38. These are the words spoken by King David upon being told that Abner had been slain. Truly these words express our feelings along with our grief in the death of a great soldier of the Cross, who is frequently spoken of as the father of the new Liberty Hill church, where his body was laid to rest on last Wednesday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock.

Throngs of people came to pay tributes of respect and love to the memory of a man in whom there was no guile, for it was he who prayed for, and helper of his pastor at all times. his friends. He also was a great pillar and helper of his pastor at all times.

Brother Foshee preached over this country for years when he was enjoying good health and was able to get around. He was a good pastor, a tireless worker for his Lord, and a man who always regarded his ministry as a most solemn and sacred trust. This work he filled with a most beautiful devotion. I think it may be truly said of his pastorates that his people loved him and had the utmost confidence in what he did.

His sympathy was boundless, as was his love for the people he served. The writer believes that he was at his best and in the most glorious hours on earth, when he helped and comforted those who were bereaved on account of the loss of a loved one. His words and spirit seemed to breathe the breath of heaven as he spoke to console his troubled friends and few they were who did not weep at his tenderness and rejoice at his beautiful and divinely tempered endowment.

His faith was securely, triumphantly and gloriously anchored in a risen and victorious Lord. Most men said, "BrotherG Foshee" when they were privileged to greet him, whether that was at home or on the streets of any of our towns. We believe firmly that his spirit was, and is at rest in a betterforld than this, as soon as breath left the body.

The floral tribute and the devotion of his friends speak their message of affection for Rev. A. L. Foshee more beautifully than the lines of even the greatest poet. Let his memory live forever. His wife, Mrs. Rosa Mims Foshee, a daughter, Ethel, and three grandchildren, Lottie, Mary and William Scarborough are left to mourn his loss together with a host of devoted friends.—One who preached with and loved him.

HOME COMING AT POPLAR SPRINGS, COOSA

Editor Union-Banner:

You and all former Coosians now living in Chilton County, and there are many and especially those who once lived at or near Poplar Springs Baptist Church, or whose parents did are cordially invited to attend the fifteenth celebration the 12th day of July, the second Sunday this year.

This church is located about six miles north of Rockford.

There will be singing lessons conducted in the class choir, the Christian Harmony and in the new song books during the day.

There will be a memorial address at ten o'clock that morning, followed by a march to the cemetery and there graves decorated. Those who have relatives or friends buried there should bring some flowers for the decoration.

At eleven o'clock the sermon of the day will be delivered by Rev. T. E. Steeley, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Roanoke, Alabama, and a grand son of Rev. John R. Steeley, who was pastor of Poplar Springs more than sixty years ago.

Short talks will be made by a number of people in the afternoon both by those who lived in that community years ago, or their people did, and by many in the county.

I will appreciate it very much if you will carry this notice in your paper for the infomation of the people in your county, for which I thank you in advance.

From all indications now there will be the largest crowd at Poplar Springs July 12th that ever assembled at this historic church, now nearing one hundred years old.—John R. Darden.

LAY DAM 5—CLANTON 3

Lay Dam added another victory to its long line for the season by beating Clanton on the Lay Dam field 5 to 3. This was one of the best games that has been played around Clanton all season.

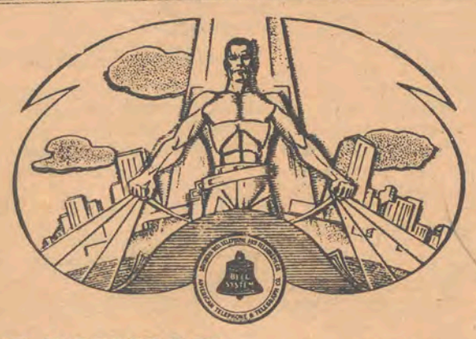
For the losers, Langston, Amos and Nivens led at the bat with two hits each, while Hayes Baker and Cecil Jones led the Killowatts with a pair each. Greene hit one over the dump in left center for a home run with the bases empty in the sixth frame.

Golson gave up eight hits, bunt was especially stingy with runners in scoring position. Clanton's only earned run came in the third, when Thompson singled and Amos doubled. Golson was finding the plate with his pitches too, giving up only one base on balls, although he struck out only one man.

Grant hurling for Clanton, received airtight support until the eigh h inning ,when Nivens fumbled Tatum's slow roller. The Clanton pitcher gave up nine hits, struck out seven, and gave up four bases on balls. The Killowatts won two of their three runs scored in the fourth when Hayes singled, Jones doubled and Tatum doubled: they made another on Greene's homer, and another in the seventh when Baker, Hayes and Cobb singled in succession.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to express greatly my thanks to the men who assisted in the cleaning of my crop after the death of my husband, Chester McGraw. Speaking for the family, thanks and appreciation is extended to eveyone who rendered services of any nature during his illnss and death.—Ella Mae McGraw.



GROWING ... to serve the growing South

More than $38,200,000 was spent by the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company in 1935 in taxes, wages and plant additions, improvements and replacements to meet the demands for high grade telephone service in the section it serves.

Most of the thirty-eight million dollars found its way back into the avenues of trade in the South.

To care for the 55,950 new telephones added and the eight per cent increase in the volume of traffic, the Company increased its personnel, expanded its plant and made a substantial improvement in the quality of its service.

Over 1,200 people were added to the payroll, making a total of seventeen thousand now employed by the Company. These additional people are all residents of towns and cities in this section. The annual payroll was nineteen million dollars, an increase of almost seven per cent over the previous year.

Taxes paid to federal, state, county and municipal agencies totalled over six and one-half million dollars, or about one-eighth of the total revenues received from telephone users.

Having maintained the service and met every responsibility cheerfully during the depression, telephone men and women are continuing their efforts to provide more and better service at the lowest possible cost during 1936.

Lesson for July 12

WITNESSING UNDER PERSECUTION

LESSON TEXT—Acts 3:1-4:31.
GOLDEN TEXT—We ought to obey God rather than men.—Acts 5:29.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Brave Peter and John.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Two Brave Preachers.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Two Brave Witnesses.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC — Courageous Witnessing for Christ.

In I Corinthians 1:21-25, Paul sets forth the attitude of the world toward Christ and his gospel. The one who preaches Christ crucified must expect opposition, and even violent persecution. This attitude of the world, instead of being a deterrent, should be a spur to activity.

I. Peter Healing the Lame Man (Acts 3:1-11).

The place (vv. 1, 2). It was at the beautiful gate which leads from the outer to the inner court of the temple This helpless man had been placed at the entrance of the place of worship where he might receive the sympathetic attention of worshipers.

2. The man (v. 2). This beggar was infirm from his birth. He was not more than forty years old (Acts 4:22) When he saw Peter and John, he asked alms.

3. The method (vv. 3-8).

a Gaining the man's attention (v. 4). Peter and John commanded him to look on them. He asked for money and got healing.

b. Peter commanded him in the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth to rise and walk (v. 6). This was the very thing he had been unable to do all his life, but with the command went the ability to do.

c. Peter took him by the right hand (v. 7), gave impetus to his faith, not strength to his ankles.

4. The man's response (v. 8) Strength at once came to him. He stood, walked, leaped, and shouted praises to God.

5. The effect (vv. 9-11). The people were so filled with wonder that they ran together to behold this thing There could be no question as to the genuineness of the miracle for the man had been a familiar figure for many years.

a. This helpless man had to be carried to the temple. Men and women out of Christ are so helpless that they need to be brought where the life of God can be applied to them.

b. Peter, taking the man by the hand, shows the manner of helping the lost. Christian witnesses should bring them to Jesus.

II. Peter Witnessing Before the Multitude (Acts 3:12-26).

Though this miracle directed the attention of the people to Peter and John, Peter seized the opportunity to present Christ to the people.

III. Peter in Prison for Christ's Sake (Acts 4:1-4).

1. The leaders. Both priests and Sadducees joined in this persecution (vv. 1, 2).

The priests were intolerant because these new teachers were encroaching upon their functions. The Sadducees did not believe in the resurrection. which was a vital part of the apostolic preaching.

2. The result (vv. 3, 4). Though they were held in bondage by chains. Christ continued to work. The number of believers greatly increased.

IV. Peter Witnessing Before the Sanhedrin (Acts 4:5-21).

1. The inquiry (vv. 5-7). The inquirers admitted the reality of the miracle but they wanted to know what it signified.

2. Peter's answer (vv. 8-12). With stinging sarcasm he showed them that they were not on trial as evildoers, but for doing good in the name of Christ to the helpless and needy man

3. The impression upon the Sanhedrin (vv. 13-21).

a. They marveled (v. 13). They were made conscious that they were on trial instead of sitting as judges.

b. They took knowledge that Peter and John had been with Jesus (v.13).

c. They forbade them to speak in Christ's name (v. 18). They could not deny the miracle or gainsay the accusation brought against them, so they attempted intimidation.

d. Peter and John's reply (vv. 19, 20). They expressed their determination to obey God rather than men.

e. Their release (v. 21). Seeing that the people were on the side of the apostles, the rulers were helpless.

V. The Church at Prayer (vv. 23-31)

As soon as Peter and John were set free, they hastened to their fellow disciples and told their experiences. They praised God for deliverance and prayed for boldness to speak the Word of God.

Pulling Together

If the money getters would line up behind the knowledge getters, and all pull together in a definite well-organized plan, we'd raise the standards of human life higher than the most fantastic imagination ever dreamed they could be raised.

Loving Others

One whom I knew intimately and whose memory I revere, once in my hearing remarked that, "unless we love people we cannot understand them." This was a new light to me.—Rossetti.

Mr. Harry Jacobs, Jr., of Tennessee, was the week end guest of Miss Myrtle Farley last week end.

BOB JONES COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

"Come unto me all ye that labor and are heavy laden and I will give you rest. Take my yoke upon you and learn of me for I am meek and lowly of spirit and you shall find rest unto your souls". That marvelous invitation was given by our Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ.

Men need rest. The world is filled with weary people — weary bodies, weary minds, weary hearts.

A yoke is not intended to add to human burdens. It is intended to make burdens light. Burdens that are too heavy to be born may be carried when the ox has a yoke. It is not the will of Jesus to add to our burdens. It is His will to make burdens lighter, so in His infinite love and compassion He offers to "fix" us so we can carry the burdens of life. I am not surprised that men turn on the gas, jump in the river, blow out their brains, or take poison when they are trying to carry the burdens of life in their own strengths. I have learned a better way when the load gets heavy I cast it on the Lord. His shoulders are able to carry all this universe, so my little burden does not matter to Him.

MT. CARMEL NEWS

Our Sunday school and B. Y. P. U. attendance are gradually getting better. We are very thankful for this and urge everyone to come to our services.

ALABAMA MILLS LOSES TWO

The Alabama Mills team lost a holiday double bill to the Liberty National Life Insurance team from Birmingham last Saturday afternoon. The locals were swamped 2 to 4 in the first game and lost the second 7 to 2.

First Game

The visitors rapped out 20 hits, good for 31 bases and 20 runs in this game, aided by six errors by the Mill team. Gaiely, lead-off man for the visitors, led off a homer to open this game. Ellison, starting Miller pitcher, was shelled for six hits and as many runs in the fifth, and Smith took up the pitching, faring well until the 8th, when the visitors fell on him for six hits and eight runs.

Second Game

The two teams gathered seven hits each in this vame, but Liberty connected theirs with walks to pile up a safe margin. Rutherford lifted one of Burnett's fast ones over the distant left field fence in Liberty's half of the 5th, and W. Armstrong duplicated the feat in the Miller's half of the same inning.

Liberty bobbled twice in this game, and the Millers once.

CHESTER McGRAW

Chester Lloyd McGraw, 23, died at his father's home in Jemison on June 29th.

After the funeral, directed by Rev. Maurice Hodgens, the remains were laid to rest in the Pine Hill cemetery on June 30th.

McGraw was born and reared in Jemison. He was united in marriage on August 8th, 1931 to Miss Ella Mae Reliford. After the death of his wife's parents he acted as guardian of his wife's small brother and sisters.

Chester was born and reared in Baptist church of Jemison since boyhood.

Surviving him are his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Will McGraw, his widow, Ella Mae, one brother, Doyle; four sisters, Mrs. Leona Whitley, Mrs. Claudie Scott, Misses Dorothy and Alma McGraw; one daughter Peggy Sue and the Reliford children, all of Jemison.

After suffering for five weeks with an abscess of the lung, he was called to eternity.

HOME COMING AT ARCHERS CHAPEL

The annual home coming for this place is set for the second Sunday in July. Everyone has a cordial invitation to attend and bring a well filled basket. The revival also starts on the second Saturday night and will be conducted by Revs. Payton, Davis and Mims.

Compiled by J. W. Fant, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County

FARMERS WILL VISIT EXPERIMENT STATIONS

Auburn, Ala. — Several thousand farmers are making plans to visit the Wiregrass experiment station at Headland and the experimental fields in South and Central Alabama during July.

Plans have been made for some 1,200 Montgomery, Autauga, Dallas and Lowndes Counties to visit the experimental field at Prattville on July 13. On the next day, July 14, farmers of Elmore and Chilton Counties will visit the same field.

On Wednesday, July 15, some 1200 farmers of Montgomery, Conecuh, Butler, Clark, Escambia, Wilcox and Washington Counties will make a tour of the experimental field at Monroeville. On Friday, July 17, about 1000 farmers of Pickens, Tuscaloosa, Green, Hale and Sumter Counties will visit the Aliceville field.

Farmers of 10 Southeast Alabama Counties will visit the Wiregrass experiment station at Headland, July 21-24. Henry, Barbour and Bullock County producers will visit the station on Tuesday, July 21; Coffee and Dale growers, Wednesday, July 22; Houston and Geneva farmers, Thursday, July 23; Covington, Crenshaw and Pike producers, Friday, July 24.

AID ASKED FOR STATE DROUTH-AREA FARMERS

Auburn, Ala.—Federal aid for farmers in drouth-stricken areas of Alabama is being requested by Dr. L. N. Duncan, president of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute and director of the State Extension Service, and R. J. Goode, State Commissioner of Agriculture.

In order to present official figures on the drouth damages in the state of Washington,, State officials, the State agricultural leaders are this week making an extensive survey of the amount of loss incurred by destruction of and damage of crops resulting from prolonged drouths and high temperatures.

County farm and home demonstration agents throughout the State are cooperating in the efforts to obtain aid for drouth-ridden farmers. Meetings were held in Gadsden, Monday; Athens, Tuesday; and Jasper, Thursday; and others are being planned to study the conditions and report to state and national farm leaders.

Commissioner Goode and his associates in Montgomery have sent questionnaires to 2,600 farmers throughout the State asking for detailed information about damages to gardens, pastures, corn, cotton, vegetables, fruits and other crops. This information is expected to be complete by July 10th.

ALABAMA PRODUCERS PLANT BETTER COTTON

Auburn, Ala.—A total of 38,469 bushels of pure cotton seed directly from breeders were used in Alabama in some 30 counties to promote more cotton in 1936, according to preliminary reports from some 30 counties to J. C. Lowery, extension agronomist.

"In addition these same counties used 75,749 bushels of good seed that have been saved at special gin days or otherwise cared for in ginning to prevent mixing but were one or more years from the breeder, he reports.

"From all improved seed used in 1936, a supply of three fourths of a million bushels of better planting seed can be saved if proper precautions are taken in ginning the cotton produced from the seed directly from the breeder.

"The cotton improvement program in Alabama is based on the one-variety community plan or community farm organizations.

"One variety communities have been organized or are in the process of organization in Tallapoosa, Chambers, Coosa, Elmore, Chilton, Perry, Monroe, Washington, Geneva, Pickens, Lamar, Cullman, DeKalb, Etowah, Madison, Franklin and Walker counties. Community farm organizations have adopted cotton improvement as a major community project in many counties. Outstanding of these reported to date are Escambia, with 14 community organizations; Butler with 6; and Morgan with 8. A number of large producers are cooperating in the cotton improvement program, notably in Lawrence, Colbert, Madison, Jackson, Greene, Pickens, Talladega, Calhoun, Cherokee, Barbour, Pike, Autauga, Perry, Dallas, Marengo, Butler and Sumter. State demonstration farms are all growing improved varieties.

Varieties being used most extensively are Stoneville, D. P. L., Cook 144, Cook 912, and Cook 307-6.

CASH FARM INCOME IS ALMOST DOUBLED

Auburn, Ala.—Cash farm income from cotton, wheat, tobacco, corn, and hogs increased 90 per cent from 1932 to 1935, according to figures submitted in the annual report of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

The cash income from the five major commodities increased $1,365,000,000 in 1932 to $2,593,000,000 in 1935,, while the cash income from all other farm products increased from $3,012,000,000 in 1932 to $4,307,000,000 in 1935," says Dr. L. N. Duncan, director of the State Extension Service, in releasing the report.

"These figures combined show that the annual cash income from farm products increased from $4,377,000,000 in 1932 to $6,700,000,000 in 1935. Rental and benefit payments accounted for nearly 25 per cent of this increase.

Misses Ruth and Mary Giles, Marie and Grace Robinson and Lumerle Littlejohn motored to Verbena Saturday night.

TON-LITTER PIGS WILL BRING CHICAGO PRICES

Auburn, Ala.—All hogs weighing over 160 pounds on exhibit at the ton-litter show in Montgomery on September 10 will bring the producers Chicago prices, announces F. W. Burns, extension livestock specialist, who states that 4-H club boys are manifesting an unusual interest in the show and sale, as well as farmers.

A FREE STATE EMPLOYMENT SERVICE

The State Department of Labor expects to complete the organization of its division of employment service during July and will immediately thereafter be ready to offer a much needed service to Alabama manufacturers, and business establishments, and to unemployed workers.

The new division will be put into practical operation August 1, and will mark the first time in the history of the State that the facilities of all unemployment service have been offered to Alabamians without cost.

Many details of the organization must yet be worked out, however, Mr. J. G. Duncan, Jr., Director of the Service, already has started the task of setting up administrative offices over the State.

STATE CAPITOL NEWS

Montgomery, Ala. — Funds for the construction of a handsome $300,000 memorial building to house several state departments may soon be allocated by the Federal government out of public works appropriations, in the opinion of Gov. Bibb Graves.

President Roosevelt's veto of the Carmichael bill allowing "matching credit" of Federal funds for 50 per cent of the amount Alabama will spend in freeing its 15 toll bridges precludes the possibility of the State obtaining an anticipated $2,000,000 grant for road building, Gov. Graves explained.

"The veto was a great disappointment," the governor said, "because we could have built the 15 bridges with Federal aid at the time they were constructed.

Confederate pension warrants for the quarterly period beginning July 1 totalling $166,110 were mailed to all probate judges in the State lest week by State Auditor, Charles E. McCall.

Of the total, only 212 checks went to veterans of the War Between the States, as compared with the checks for 246 during the April quarter, and 278 for the first three months of 1936.

Alabama's gasoline tax receipts will be increased by $20,000 a year as the result of the judicial opinion of the State's Supreme Court and an act of Congress signed by the President on June 16.

Alabama's new 1937 automobile license tags—purple on white background—are now being shipped to the probate judges of the state.

Wage increases of $4 to $5 a month for WPA workers in 23 Alabama counties have been announced by Col. W. G. Henderson, district WPA director.

The new schedules not only raise the minimum wages, but simultaneously decrease the number of working hours among many of the classifications.

Game and Fish News

Recent regulation of the States Conservation Board have clarified and strengthened statutes defining the method of taking fish from the Alabama waters.

One of the most confushing statutes to the fishermen has been the law controlling the use of minnow seines. Taking the regulation of the board in connection with the statute, it is quite plain that minnow seines are prohibited in all public waters impounded by the construction of dams, Locks or dykes, and that the use of the minnow seine is prohibited in these waters for a distance of one mile below such a lock, dam or dyke.

Minnow seines may be used in all othr waters for the purpose only of takng minnows only to be used for fish bait, provided that where lands are posted any perrson desiring to use a fishing device for the matter must obtain the consent of the dandowner or his agent.

Rev. E. J. Orange will preach at the home of W. S. Adams, Beat 16, Sunday afternoon, July 12, at 2:30. Everybody invited.

BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION

July 4th was a great day at the home of John Kelley, 2 miles south of Coopers. The gathering was to celebrate John's 34th birthday.

Together with his family those present were: Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Moates, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Moates and baby, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Kelley and two children, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Mitchell and four children and Harlem Moates.

We sure did enjoy the day. John did all he could to bring about enjoyment. There was a pile of watermelons under the shade tree, and John said "eat 'em boys, if that is not enough, I have more in the patch". We sat to them. Also, there was some time spent on the creek, fishing.

We had ice cream and lemonade all during the day and at dinner we had a great time. There was a long table filled with good things to eat. We all enjoyed that very much.

Before leaving in the afternoon, we had some fun with our Model T's pulling up a bluff.

We hope for John many more happy birthdays. May God's richest blessings rest on him and his family. —Jesse Mitchell.

FLOY DEVAUGHN IN SOUTH ALABAMA TEACHING MUSIC

The Union-Banner is in receipt of the following letter from Mr. Floy Devaughn, now at Dozier, Alabama, with Prof. W. Lee Higgins, engaged in teaching a singing school:

"Thought I would write you and let you know of one of the best schools that is being taught in the South. Prof. W. Lee Higgins and I have 145 pupils on roll and are looking for more tomorrow. Prof. Higgins is teaching harmony, piano, sight singing and ear training. I am teaching voice, theory, directing and am training several quartets that will make good, I think. The interest is great and we plan to have one of the best school concerts that has ever been in this section. Give the Chilton County folks my regards."

DEVAUGHN REPORTS TWO GOOD SCHOOLS AT CHAPEL & CONCORD

Prof. W. M. Devaughn reports an enrollment of 47 pupils at Collins Chapel in his singing school, and 43 at Concord. He is teaching at Concord in the morning and at Collins Chapel in the afternoons. Prof. evaughn says that new pupils are enrolling each day.

Come to see us when you want a permanent. Our price is right and our equipment is new. — Helene Curtis Beauty Shop, Mrs. Mims, Mgr.

Mission Institute Was Best Ever

Chilton and Unity Associations came together in great numbers last week to participate in the greatest mission institute we have ever held. The cooperation of the lunch committees was so perfect that each day bountiful luncheons were served to about 400. Many were there for each of the three days, which means that they benefitted greatly from the study of the books and the entire series of lectures.

We had an enrollment of 620, with 61 churches represented. We are certain that not all registered, but even so, we made a good showing.

The speakers were superb. Dr. L. O. Dawson brought three great sermons. Miss Hallie Lee Stoudenmire, home on furlough from India, brought many curios, demonstrated many costumes, and told us of the advance of Christ's kingdom in that far away land. She brought the missionary address on Tuesday. On Wednesday, Dr. F. F. Plainfield, one time missionary to Brazil, now working with foreigners in Tampa, Fla., told a thrilling story of God's providences in his life. Thursday, Miss Essie Fuller, recently home from Brazil, made us know and love that country as we never had before. Giving to missions will be a privilege instead of a duty to many who heard and studied in this school of missions.

Dr. Fred M. Barnes, State Secretary, brought two great messages on "Missions in the Bible". Dr. Ezell on Thursday completed the study of that book.

We had a splendid corps of teachers. Miss Eunice Long, Haleyville, taught Y. W. A. Miss Juliette Weeks not only taught Intermediate G. A. very efficiently, but gave beautiful and inspiring chalk talks for devotionals each morning. In teaching she was assisted by Miss Mary Nell Jones, Clanton. Miss Lois Thompson, Clanton, assisted by Miss Marie Jackson, Thorsby, gave the Junior girls a most intresting study course. John Ezell devoted practically all his time to more than 40 Junior boys. The small children were delightfully taught and entertained by Mrs. Milton Smith, Mrs. L. C. Ross, Miss Tina Hyman, Miss Mary Armstrong, Miss Mildred Gore, and others. Mr. Clarence Eiland, Luverne, assisted by Mr. Fulmer Neighbors, Clanton, taught the Intermediate boys very effectively.

Mr. Lafayette Walker led in the best singing we have ever had at an institute. Miss Mary Armstrong and Miss Grace Ezell contributed to this by always doing their part faithfully at the pianos. The special music rendered by Miss Lois Thompson, Mr. Paul Oden, Mr. Walker, and his sisters, Miss Helen Gilbert and others, was greatly enjoyed.

The secret of a great meeting was the fact that we were all of one accord, together, in one place, and the Lord was with us.

Watch it bubble up, then drink it. You will be amazed at the almost instant relief.

It is called Alka-Seltzer because it makes a sparkling alkaline drink, and as it contains an analgesic (Acetyl-Salicylate) it first relieves the pain of everyday ailments and then by restoring the alkaline balance corrects the cause when due to excess acid.

After trying many brands of medicines—so-called relief for gas, and all of them a failure, I gave up hopes. By chance I tried Alka-Seltzer—I am more than satisfied. Geo. Bennett, New York, N. Y.

MITCHELL BELITTLES MENTALITY OF CERTAIN DEMOCRATS

To the Editor of The Union-Banner:

Arthur W. Mitchell, Democratic Congressman from Illinois, had the following to say about United States Senator Smith from South Carolina: "I fear the Senator is ignorant and steeped in prejudice. He belongs probably to the Ku Klux Klan, at least in mentality. I have no confidence in his statesmanship and the sooner we get rid of his type the better. He is a disgrace to his state and to his party."

This comparison of Senator Smith's mentality with that of the Ku Kluxers was made, as the paper stated, shortly after the Congressman had left the Alabama delegation, where he had conferred with Graves, Black and Heflin. The Congressman is a former Alabamian himself, and having lived in Alabama during the day of Klanism, he must have known who some of the more prominent members were. It strikes me as a bit odd that the Congressman should have the Ku Klux on his mind just after he had conferred with Graves, Black and Heflin. Also the severe condemnation he could make of Senator Smith was to compare his mentality with that of Ku Kluxers.

Our distinguished former Alabamian stated further in his arraignment of Senator Smith that, "the sooner we get rid of his type the better." Could it be that the association with the ex-Senator from Alabama inspired the Congressman's statement about getting rid of Senator Smith's type?

It seems to me that the Congressman, out of respect to his friends in Alabama, should have refrained from mentioning the mentality of Ku Kluxers, and Senator Smith's type. The impression on some people might be that his respect for the mentality of Ku Kluxers was fresh on his mind even before Senator Smith left the convention hall.

I do hope the Congressman will be more thoughtful in the future.—A Reader.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert

In the noise and hurrah accompanying the national convention of the New Deal party at Philadelphia, comparatively little attention was given by the public to the report submitted to Congress by the Secretary of Agriculture, on the eve of the adjournment of that august body setting forth the names of those who had received benefit checks from the A.A.A. in excess of $10,000 for the curtailment of production. The information was somewhat slow in coming, following charges made by Senator Vandenberg on the floor of the Senate, but when it came it disclosed the fact that out of $1,171,069,967 paid out by the A.A.A., over 1,000 beneficiaries received more than $10,000 apiece. A record benefit payment was that of $1,022,037 paid to the Hawaiian Commercial and Sugar Company. Another salient feature of the report is disclosed by the fact that a considerable sum of the money raised by taxation from the consumers to help the "poor farmers" went to New York banks and life insurance companies, and that a part of it went to four state penitentiaries.

The report shows that the Equitable Life Assurance Society, one of the biggest companies of its kind in the world drew 2,158 corn-hog checks, while the Metropolitan Life, another big insurance company, was receiving checks on 3,112 corn-hog agreements, 1,141 cotton reduction agreements and 332 tobacco contracts. Among the banks in the "big money" which Secretary Wallace was distributing, the National City Bank of New York received about three-quarters of a million dollars for not raising so much sugar, while the Bank of Nova Scotia got something like a half million. Other banks shared in the easy money because of contracts made on farms which they had taken over in foreclosure suits.

The British-owned Delta Pine and Land Co. of Mississippi received more than $300,000 for sot raising so much cotton, just as Senator Vandenberg charged that it had. Oscar Johnson, manager of this company, is still manager of the A.A.A. cotton production pool. But perhaps no corporation fared better than those raising sugar. The report shows that nine of the sugar companies received all the way from a half million dollars to a million dollars for not producing so much sugar, while dozens of them in the United States, Hawaii and Puerto Rico received all the way from $100,000 to $500,000. The money, it is to be remembered came from the processing taxes which were placed on the things the housewife brought home in her market basket every Saturday night. And to the farmer in the "prairie states" who received a few dollars for cutting his production of a few bushels of corn or a few hogs, some of these sums must seem a trifle "bountiful", to say the least.

In his keynote speech in Philadelphia, Senator Barkeley referred in ironic terms to the tears of the Old Dealers in their weeping over the slaughtering of a "few little pigs." The real grief of the Old Dealers, he said, "comes from the slaughter of the fat hogs of privilege and plunder which they have fed on the people's sustenance." No mention is made of the names of any "fat hogs of privilege and plunder" which have been slaughtered by the New Dealers, over which the proponents of the old order were weeping. It seems to be evident, however, that these, if any, did not include any plump sugar companies or cotton producing corporations. Judging from the report of Secretary Wallace, there seems to be no special need for the tories to worry or weep over them. They have been taken care of.

PROFLIGATE GOVERNMENT

Here's a comparison that will give you something to think about:

From the time of President Washington (1789) to the time of President Woodrow Wilson (1913) the successive Federal Congresses appropriated a total of $24,000,000,000. That sum paid all the central government's expenses for the 124 years, including the cost of a number of wars, such as the Civil War, War of 1812, and Spanish-American War.

During the last four years, two Congresses have appropriated about $32,500,000,000—eight billion more than was appropriated from the inception of the American government up to the first administration of Wilson.

Late model politicians have shown a very shameful disregard for the people's money. Nor has the spending trend been confined to the last few years — ever since the World War, the government has shown an accelerating tendency to fatten the budget. Nor can the politicians be blamed to the exclusion of everyone else—a supine and indifferent attitude on the part of the people has given them a free hand with the public's hard- earned dollars.

Today taxation saps the wealth of the nation to a menacing extent. At least 20 per cent of the people's total earnings are taken by the tax-gatherers, and the percentage would be much greater if it were not for the fact that a large part of the spending is being charged against the future, in the form of a public debt. A thousand industries have discovered the meaning of "profitless prosperity"—their output and sales are soaring, but their profits are not, because of the tax bill.

This all means that employment opportunities are constantly lessened for men and women—that industrial expansion and spending are stopped —that investors are frightened and refuse to place their savings in ventures that would create new sources of wealth and employment.

Taxation is an intensively personal problem — it menaces everyone's source of income, whether that income stems from a job or an investment. We cannot have real and permanent prosperity so long as we permit the government to disburse our dollars with profligate hands.

NEW NAMES FOR OLD THINGS

New names are constantly being applied to old things, and the significance of many terms change as history unfolds, according to J. F. Gaskill, writing in the current issue of the National Republic under the title "New Names and Old Things." To the old Greeks a "demagogue" was merely a leader of the people, while a "tyrant" was one who ruled with constitutional authority. But modern usage gives quite a different meaning to the two terms. Continuing, Mr. Gaskill says:

"Those men today who are continually advocating more and more government in our lives call themselves liberals, while those who oppose them are stigmatized by the name of tory, bourbon, or reactionary. Our forefathers fought the tories and bourbons to get government out of our lives in the name of liberalism, and their success and intention is everlastingly written into the Constitution of this country.

Today, in the name of liberalism, men are trying to put us back into the thing our forefathers fought to free us. If they are liberals, then George Washington, Benj. Franklin, Thomas Jefferson and James Madison were tories. Once again credulous careless trusting human beings have been confused by names. Blindly following a banner, they do not see that the army is counter-marching.

"These things would be humorous if they were not serious. Libelarism disappeared after Athens for 2,000 years. Today the frontiers are very close. No large nation exists in the world today which operates under a liberal form of government, save England, the United States and France, and in all of these countries the basic doctrine is being attacked, nibbled at and destroyed piece-meal by the reactionary minds who call themselves liberals.

"It should be evident by this time that names in themselves mean nothing. It is certain that if we do not wish to be misled, we must find some way of getting behind the plausible, pleasant titles which disguise the realities. If the captain we have appointed should change the course of the ship while we are asleep, we must know our stars or our destiny will be thwarted on a reef.

"Asia is littered with the wreckage of peoples who built their cities and disappeared. The genius which created, the courage which dared, the brains which planned and the energy which executed are gone. In the desolate silence of deserts we dig down to the ruins of their dreams and marvel that so much could have come to nothing. Where are the sons of men who did these things? Do you think they live among the poverty-stricken human beings who starve and die by pestilence and flood in these countries? If they do they do not create, they do not dare, they do not plan, nor are they energetic."

In Philadelphia a man hit by an automobile was found a week later wandering in a daze. A lot of people have been going around that way ever since the depression started and no one paid any attention to them.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The government has lifted its ban on the killing of reindeer in Alaska, but it maintains its air of confidence that the majority of voters will not wish to kill Santa Claus.—Williamsport Sun.

France and England insist that Uncle Sam should revise his war debt figures and scale them down to a reasonable basis of settlement. What would they say about paying back the postage on bills sent out up to this time?—Charlotte, N. C., Observer.

MAN IN THE MOON

PROMISE AND PERFORMANCE

PART II—SETTING THE STAGE

In the Democratic platform of 1932, one of the plainest statements, and one that was pointed to on numerous occasions during the campaign, read as follows:

" We believe that a party platform is a covenant with the people to be faithfully kept by the party entrusted with power, and that the people are entitled to know in plain words the terms of the contract to which they are asked to subscribe."

In his acceptance speech on July 2, 1932, Franklin D. Roosevelt spoke as follows:

"That admirable document, the platform, which you have adopted, is clear. I accept it 100 per cent."

Again, in a telegram to Leon McCord, Democratic National Committeeman from Alabama, on July 8, 1933, (just before the "brain trust" began its work), President Roosevelt stated:

"Finally, I have made it clear, ever since my nomination a year ago, that I subscribe to the Democratic platform one hundred per cent."

In a speech at Butte, Montana, on Sept. 19, 1932, Franklin D. Roosevelt said:

"But remember well, that ATTITUDE AND METHOD—THE WAY WE DO THINGS, IS NEARLY ALWAYS THE MEASURE OF OUR SINCERITY."

From the above passages it may be seen that the national Democratic party fully intended that its "admirable platform" should be faithfully kept, that it was considered a covenant—something sacred. These passages further go to prove that the presidential candidate considered party promises in a like manner, and fully pledged himself to carry them out and that he believed that only the fulfillment of these pledges could be construed as sincerity on the part of himself and his party. In other words it seems he wished to leave the impression that any official who might be elected on any certain platform must be considered insincere if he failed to carry out the platform to which he had subscribed so whole-heartedly. Now, in the following paragraphs, let us compare, and see just how closely these platform promises were kept, and just how "sincere" were the officials in their fulfillment.

Relief and Unemployment

In his Baltimore speech on Oct. 25, 1932, Roosevelt said:

"It is no time for delay when eleven million of honest, industrious and willing men and women are tramping the streets and roads of our country looking for work . . . and we of the Democratic party will not wait."

Again, in a statement made on June 14, 1933, President Roosevelt said:

"It is a primary purpose of my administration to cooperate with the states and with industry, to secure work opportunities for as many of the unemployed as possible, by which they will find employment by normal channels."

By the above statements, Mr. Roosevelt set out his promise to cut down on unemployment —to manage the affairs of the government in such manner that business, in conjunction with the federal government, would provide work for every person who wanted work, insofar as possible, and in this manner place the people on a self-supporting basis, at which time the business of governmental aid would be lessened and perhaps done away with entirely.

By his own statement in the Baltimore speech, the number of unemployed was set by Mr. Roosevelt at 11,000,000. Yet, according to the figures given out by the American Federation of Labor in March, 1936, the number of unemployed people, on relief, was set at 12,-184,000. Further, according to the Congressional Record of the hearings on the first deficiency bill in the House of Representatives, Federal Relief Administrator, Harry L. Hopkins stated:

"As of January, 1936, at least 19,000,000 people were receiving relief benefits."

In his message to Congress on January 4, 1935, the President said:

"The federal government MUST and SHALL quit this business of relief. I am not willing that the vitality of our people be further sapped by the giving of cash, or market baskets, or a few hours of weekly work, cutting grass, raking leaves, or picking up papers in the public parks."

In contrast to the above statement, let's consider the following figures, taken from the Federal Relief Administration reports:

The table given out in these Relief Administration reports, shows clearly the growth in the number of relief "cases". A "case" may be an individual or a whole family. In July, 1933, the number of cases was 3,908,-068; in July, 1934, it had grown to 4,355,493 cases; in June, 1935, it had grown to 4,530,832 and in March, 1936, this number had grown to 5,300,000 cases.

Remember, this growth in the number of relief cases had been allowed, despite the fact that President Roosevelt had stated that it MUST STOP.

As to the cost, President Roosevelt stated on Jan. 3, 1934, in his budget message:

"If we maintain the course I have outlined, we can confidently look forward to cumulative beneficial forces represented by increased volume of business, more general profit, greater employment, and a diminution of relief expenses."

Again, in his budget message of Jan. 3, 1936, the President said:

"We can look forward today toward a continued reduction in deficits to increase tax receipts, and to declining expenditures for the needy unemployd."

Despite the fact that these two statements were made exactly two years apart, and that the President seemingly intended to leave the impression that there was a "reduction of deficits", the reports from the U. S. Treasury Department are as follows, showing a growth rather than a reduction in expenditures:

"Relief expenditures for the year ended on June 30, 1934, were $1,361,800,000. For the year ended June 30, 1935, $2,341,300,000. For the year ended June 30, 1936, $3,118,700,000."

Does this look like expenditures were being reduced as the president had boasted of?

Again, on November 15, 1933, the president stated:

"This $400,000,000 for CWA isn't going to cost the federal government any more money, because we are taking it out of the large public works appropriation of $3,300,000,000. It is using a portion of that fund in a very practical way."

Yet, in his message to Congress on Jan. 29, 1934, despite the fact that a year ago he had blithely promised his Congress that the CWA "isn't going to cost any more money", we find him speaking as follows:

"I HAVE THE HONOR TO REQUEST AN ADDITIONAL $950,000,000 for the purpose of the Federal Emergency Relief Act of 1933, and for CONTINUING THE CIVIL WORKS PROGRAM."

Can the above be construed as a "sincere" attempt to fulfill the "promises" of the chief executive? When he completely reversed a solemn promise involving almost a billion dollars of the tax money within the short period of one year, could the people be expected to put confidence in his "promises" for long?

As to political activities in connection with relief and unemployment, let us consider a few items of "promise" and "performance".

The Democratic platform of 1932 stated:

"We condemn the improper and excessive use of money for political activities."

In his remarks to the State Directors of the National Emergency Council, on Feb. 2, 1934, President Roosevelt said:

"We want you to be absolutely hard-boiled, if you find any local person within your own states who is trying to get political advantage out of the relief of human needs, and you will have the backing of this administration one hundred per cent, even if you hit the biggest political boss on the head in carrying out this general program."

Yet, in a letter written by the State Administrator of Relief in West Virginia, to a county supervisor (which letter was read in the Senate by Sen. Holt, of West Virginia) this order was given:

"I hand you herewith a list of doctors in Ohio County. Kindly separate the Democrats and Republicans and list them in their order of priority, so we may notify our safety foremen and compensation men as to who is eligible to participate in case of injury."

Again, in a letter signed by Chas. McDonald, Democratic leader of the 14th ward in Philadelphia on March 14, 1936, ten days before the Pennsylvania Primary registrations, to a cammitteeman, the following order was given:

Dear Committeeman: Contact all houses in your division and get the names of all men on relief, also of those holding WPA jobs. Urge them to register Democratic on March 26, or else lose their jobs.—Charles McDonald."

And just to show how the big-shots in the administration "passed the buck", when Harry L. Hopkins was called on the carpet in a Senatorial investigation of alleged relief irregularities on March 5th, 1936, he stated as follows:

" I am sure you know that I cannot be held responsible for the acts of dumb politicians."

The above excerpts—facts and figures as indisputable as the fact that day follows night, anyone, no matter how prejudiced, may readily see that the promises made in that "admirable document, the platform" were almost entirely disregarded in the matter of unemployment and relief, which is only one part of the many-sided New Deal program.

Study all the above. See if you can find any comparison between the platform of 1932 which so stressed "sincerity" of officials who were selected to carry it out, and actual performance of these officials.—Man in the Moon.

THEY TAKE A WALK

Regardless of all official attempts to make light of it, there can be no doubt that the bolt from the New Deal party by Gov. Al Smith, Senator James E. Reed, Joseph B. Ely, Bainbridge Colby and Judge Daniel F. Cohalan, remains one of the outstanding events of the early part of the campaign of 1936.

It is quite true as the New Dealers at once announced, that the statement of the five dissatisfied leaders would have no effect on the delegates at the Philadelphia convention. These delegates were organization men, handpicked to re-nominate President Roosevelt, with as much enthusiasm as possible. They could not have swayed from the duty for which they were chosen by any kind of pronunciamento.

Humorists at the Philadelphia convention referred to the five statesmen, as the "quintuplets." At first thought this may sound flippant and really humorous. But the trouble is that there is more that mere quintuplets in the picture. In addition to those who signed the warning of the Philadelphia delegates one might mention Lew Douglas, former director of the budget, Senator Royland S. Copeland of New York, and many others, about whom more may be heard in the future. Then it would not do to forget picturesque governor Alfalfa Bill Murray of Oklahoma. By no stretch of the imagination could Alfalfa Bill be envisioned as an agent or tool of the hated Liberty League. Yet in turning thumbs down on the New Deal administration Gov. Murray gave vent to some very wise and patriotic words which might well be pondered over by every American citizen who likes to do his own thinking.

One of the worst things the country has had to face, according to the former Oklahoma Governor, is the fact that so many people seem to think that the government should support them and he added, we must restore our self confidence if we are to go forward as a nation.

Gov. Murray did not hesitate to say that he was in disagreement with what he termed "the Administration's trend away from the American system of government, nor the economy of scarcity when there are so many mouths to be fed. And he added: "It takes genius to be a dictator. But the dictatorship form of government is not wanted by our people. That is not what we need in a democracy".

True it is that Alfalfa Bill was governor of a "prairie state," but his criticism of the New Deal indicates that all the leaders who are "taking a walk" by no means represent the Duponts and the Raskobs as many New Deal sustainers would have us believe.

BIGGER AND BETTER DEFICITS

All peace-time records in the financial structure of the nation were broken Wednesday when the gross national debt, the current operating deficit and expenditures for the fiscal year were recorded in the Treasury statement, according to the Associated Press.

The gross national debt has reached $34,-331,000,000, an all-time record; the year's expenditures have soared to $8,492,000,000, and the deficit has amounted to $4,684,000,000.

Here is the result of three years of New Deal folly, waste and extravagance. Here is the result of the economic nonsense of the classroom theorists. Here is the result of listening to balmy social and economic philosophy and cheap political demagoguery.

The United States, once the "biggest and best" in nearly everything worthwhile, has now outstripped even itself in bigger and better deficits, debts and profligacy. And just as the new records are published, Congress passes the deficiency and relief bill, giving Mr. Roosevelt unrestricted use of another blank check for $1,425,000,000.

25 YEARS AGO

News Items as Published in The Union and in The Banner, Issues of July 6, 1911

Mr. H. M. Mahan was married to Miss Lula Arrendale in Bristow, Oklahoma, on June 29th.

Mrs. Dora Maddox, wife of Mr. Joe Maddox, died in Clnaton last Friday morning.

A singing was held in Clanton last Sunday. W. O. Rich presided. Other singers were: W. G. Culp, R. A. Smith, J. L. Harris, J. W. Lowery, J. A. Blankenship. Organists were: Misses Climmie Driver, Genie Collins, Maudie Childress and Belle Mims.

The Clanton Commercial Club met last Friday night and discussed betterment of the Clanton cemetery.

The Sylacauga power plant on Hatchet Creek in Coosa County has suspended operation pending repairs.

Married this week—R. E. Blackmon and Miss Mamie Payton, M. S. Deason and Miss Alice Billingsley, Albert Erby Garner and Miss Mattie Adams Debardelaben.

THE IMPORT SURPLUS

The report of the Department of Commerce shows that for the second consecutive month imports to the United States have been greater than exports offers a significant commentary on New Deal policy. Exports have increased, but imports have increased at a more rapid rate.

Take for instance, the case of wheat. Wheat no longer is on an export basis, due to the New Deal trade and farm policies. In 1932 we exported about 60,000,000 bushels of wheat in grain and flour. In 1935 our exports were less than 5,000,000 bushels. In 1932 we imported 56,000 bushels of wheat. In 1935 we imported 27,138,870 bushels.

The same is true of several other basic farm commodities. In 1932 we imported 344,-000 bushels of corn; in 1935, 42,200,000 bushels. In 1934 we imported 1,210,000 pounds of butter; in 1935 the total reached 22,000,000 pounds. From one of the leading exporting countries we have been transformed into a nation of importers in many of our basic commodities. This gives point to the criticism that the New Deal has saved the farmer—but not the American farmer.—Manchester, N. H., Union.

LEAGUE CONFUSION

One may confess to considerable surprise that the League of Nations Council refused to bow to the orders of Mussolini to the extent of unseating the Ehiopian delegate without, at the same time, feeling any necessity of admitting the probability that this defiance will amount to anything.

Where the performances of the League and its member nations create a lot of confusion in the minds of the world's people is in the fact that the League is one thing and the nations are something very different. It is one thing for the League's delegates to say to the delegate from Italy, "No, we will not take the position that Ethiopia no longer exists; instead we will assume that she does exist; sorry if you don't like it, and please close the door as you go out." But it is quite another for Great Britian of France or any of the other nations represented by those delegates, or all of them put together, to do anything to support Ethiopia itself.

A delegae at Geneva can be wafted in or out with a few words. An Italian army in Abyssinia or an Italian fleet in the Mediterranean or the Red Sea cannot be voted out. It would have to be put out.—Marchester Evening Herald.

British climbers are now seeking to ascend Mt. Everett again. If they get to the top, they might turn out to be just the people to handle our national debt if they want another job.

GET OFF THE TRACK

Senator Vandenberg in his radio interview the other night expressed succinctly the one greatest need of America when he demanded that the New Deal government get off the track and give legitimate business a chance to make jobs for the unemployed.

It should be evident to all thoughtful observers of recovery that the Roosevelt administration is blocking the track to full industrial activity, to re-employment, of effective relief of the needy, to reduced taxation, and to a clearer realization of the boundless spiritual and material riches available under the American Constitution.

It is true, as Senator Vandenberg says, that this nation needs "a dose of confidence and a release from political terrorism." It follows as inevitably as night follows day that if the voters of America between now and November can muster sufficient confidence to throw off political terrorism and stand on their own feet they can, with complete thoroughness, remove the New Deal's corrupting obstructiveness from the track of American progress. —Philadelphia Inquirer.

June 21 was celebrated as Father's Day. But father really has four days in the year, the 15th of March, June, September and December. You're right. Those are the days on which he has to pay his income tax.

Democratic leaders from the first expressed confidence that Al Smith's message would not sway the delegates. Of course not. They knew who picked the delegates.

GRANT TO TEACH SINGING SCHOOL AT PATES CHAPEL

Prof. L. T. Grant will teach a singing school at Pates Chapel church beginning Monday, August 3rd, and continuing for three weeks. Already about 60 pupils have signed up for attendance, and many more are expected.

The playing for the school will be done by Mrs. Birdie Johnson, who will also give piano lessons to any who may desire such training.

Prof. Grant had a very successful school last year at this same place, taught at night. This year it will be in the daytime, and indications are that it will be a fine school. Anyone interested should get in touch with Prof. Grant at an early date.

ALABAMA SCHOOL NEWS

Do you know some states pay their teachers average salaries of $2,000 per year?

Do you know the average provided by the Alabama minimum program is only $75 per month, or $325 for a 7-month term?

Only five counties — Bullock, Jefferson, Lowndes. Dallas, and Montgomery, pay more than $100 a month.

Higher education received $718,000 from the state last year compared to $3,372,361.64 in 1929-30.

Do you know the colleges are not asking as much from the state as they got in 1929, in spite of heavy increases in students?

VISITED FROM BIRMINGHAM

Mrs. Annie Armstrong had as visitors from Birmingham for the Fourth her sisters, Mrs. Janie Mims and Mrs. Ellen Blalock, also the latter's husband, Mr. George Blalock. They were accompanied by a grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Blalock, John W. Brown.

VEGETABLES FARMERS MAY PLANT IN JULY

Many vegetables may be planted by Alabama farmers during July, advises Prof. L. M. Ware, head of the horticulture and fortstry department of the Alabama Polyechnic Institute.

Irish potatoes, collards, cabbage, beets, carrots, tomatoes, beans, lima beans, okra, corn, peas, kale, mustard, and turnips are some of those listed by prof. are in stressing the importance of planting these crops this year because of the serious damage done earlier vegetables by the drouth this spring. Full information on how to succeed with each of these crops this summer may be obtained from county farm and home demonstration agents.

A few general suggestions on the sites, fertilizers, and planting of these crops are given by Prof. Ware as follows:

1. Select if possible a moist but well-drained productive bottom land.

2. The land must be free of weed and grass; however, deep preparation must be avoided if undue drying of the soil is to be escaped. Therefore planting should be done with the least possible disturbing if the soil is free of weeds.

3. Double quantities of most seed should be planted in summer as in spring, and seed should be planted deeper. The soil should be firmly packed about the seed and little loose soil left above the packed soil to prevent xecessive loss of moisture and crusting.

4. Seed planted during the summer months should be planted on flat beds or in shallow furrows rather than on high beds.

5. A very good fertilizer for most vegetables consists of 800 pounds per acre of a 6-8-4 grade or 800 pounds per acre of a 4-8-4 with 150 pounds per acre side dress application of nitrate. Fertilizers should be put in a furrow under the seed and well mixed with the soil. Seeds should never come in direct contact with fertilizers.

6. Garden insects are very likely to seriously damage summer vegetables. The plants may be injured while little to such an extent as to destroy the stand. It will be advisable to have on hand at all times a supply of a Derris-sulphur mixtures — (1 part of Derris to 7 parts of sulphur).—L. O. Brackeen.

SINGING AT PROCTOR CREEK

There will be an all day singing at Proctor Creek, Coosa County, next Sunday, July 12th. The new books will be used, and all singers have a cordial invitation to attend.

A large number from Mars Hill attended the singing at Oak Grove Sunday and reported an anjoyable day.

Mr. Howard Roper is attending school in Montevallo and shall continue to go for six weeks.

FARM CROPS FARMERS MAY PLANT IN JULY

Emergency feed crops which farmers in the drouth stricken areas of Alabama may still plant are listed by J. C. Lowery, extension agronomist, and members of the Alabama Experiment Station staff, as follows:

1. Cowpeas. — Cowpeas may be planted in most sections of the state throughout July with reasonable expectation for fair yields if planted on good land. Plant 25 pounds or more seed per acre in rows wide enough to permit one or two cultivations. Sow broadcast on good rich, moist bottom at rate of not less than one bushel per acre.

2. Soybeans. — Soybeans, the Otootan and Laredo varieties, may be planted first part of July in upper half of state and later in lower half of state. Plant in rows wide enough to permit one or two light cultivations. Use 30 pounds of seed per acre. However, if seed are scarce, a lower rate of 15 to 20 pounds per acre of the small seed kinds may be used successfully.

3. Sudan Grass. — Broadcast 25 pounds of sudan grass per acre on moist fertile land. Sudan offers excellent possibilities on good land for farmers to produce sufficient hay for the farm. It produces a hay crop in a short time. It also is an excellent crop for temporary grazing.

Sorghum. — Sorghum is an old standby for hay and for cutting green and feeding, throughout Alabama. It is a crop that can be grown easily and should be used generally this season as an emergency crop. It may be broadcast alone at rate of 25 pounds or more per acre, or if seed are available broadcast with one bushel of cowpeas.

5. Millet. — German millet is adapted for planting in July in practically every section of the state for cutting for hay. On good moist land it gives good yields in a short time. Broadcast millet at rate of 25 pounds of seed per acre.

Fertilizers. — If fertilizers are used apply 400 to 600 pounds of basic slag or 300 to 400 pounds of superphosphate per acre for legumes, such as cowpeas or soybeans. For crops such as sudan, sorghum, and millet, top dress with 150 to 200 pounds of nitrate as soon as growth starts. In many instances these crops will likely be planted on lands previously fertilized for other crops which were destroyed by drouth.

Farmers are especially urged to make fullest possible use of all moist, fertile creek and branch bottoms by planting them to feed crops.

LETTER FROM DR. BOB JONES

Cleveland, Tenn.
July 9, 1936.

Dear Friends:

How time flies! September will soon be here. Young people will be saying goodbye to mother and dad and going off to school. That is a serious day in the life of a boy or a girl.. The Bob Jones College, located in Cleveland, Tennessee, an institution which stands without apology for the old-time religion and for the absolute authority of the Bible and an institution which has as high educational standards as any other college in the United States, tries to take the place of mother and father in the life of every young person who attends the institution. If you wish to attend an institution which puts first things first and an institution which teaches young people how to live as well as how to make a living, write for literature to the Bob Jones College, Cleveland, Tennessee.

If you wish literature, write Bob Jone College, Cleveland, Tennessee.

Sincerely yours,
Adv. BOB JONES.

FAMILY REUNION

The family of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Wells met at the home of their daughter, Clarice, on July 4. The crowd began to gather at 9:00 o'clock and by 11:00 all were there. The day was spent in talking of old days.

At noon a bountiful luncheon was spread under the oak trees in tse yard, and was enjoyed by all.

After noon, swimming was enjoyed by young and old, but the youngest swimmer was Ruth Lois, two and one-half year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Smith. She attracted the attention of all by going into the deep water and saying: "Watch me swim". After the swimmisg, all came back to the house and made ice cream, which was enjoyed by all.

A large crowd was in attendance. Everyone went home hoping to meet again this time next year.—Johnnie Ruth Cobern.

WHEN you are suffering, you want relief—not tomorrow—not next week—but right away. DR. MILES ANTI-PAIN PILLS relieve in just a few minutes—less than half the time required for many other pain-relieving medicines to act.

Next time you have a Headache, or Neuralgia, or Muscular, Sciatic, Rheumatic, or Periodic Pains, just take an Anti-Pain Pill. Learn for yourself how prompt and effective these little pain relievers are. You will never again want to use slower, less effective, less palatable medicines, after you have used Dr. Miles Anti-Pain Pills.

I am much pleased with your Anti-Pain Pills. They sure are wonderful for a headache and for functional pains. I have tried every kind of pills for headache, but none satisfied me as your Anti-Pain Pills have.

Pall bearers were: Reese Baker, W. G. Easterling, Clement Easterling, Oliver Headley, Lester Powell, Monroe Powell.

MRS. M. P. PRICE

Mrs. M. P. Price, age 29, died at the Central Alabama Hospital at 6:40 A. M., Tuesday, after a short illness. Funeral services were held Wednesday at 10:00 A. M., at Mt. Pisgah, with Rev. Jake Parker officiating. Burial was in the cemetery at that place, with Spigener directing.

She is survived by: her husband, M. P. Price; two daughters Bertaleen, age 5, and Bettie Nell, age 6 weeks, parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Cleckley of Clanton route; three brothers Jackson Cleckley, Auklee Cleckley, and Clifton Cleckley, all of Clanton Route; two sisters, Mrs. Bessie Wright and Mrs. Minnie Murray, both of Clanton Route.

There will be an all-day singing at Mt. Carmel, the new church, 6 miles southwest of Thorsby, Sunday, July 26th. The new books will be used. Everybody invited to come and bring dinner. All singers especially invited.

MRS. MARTHA BRADBURY HAD BIRTHDAY ON JULY 1

Montgomery, Ala. July 1, 1936.

This may not be of much general news interest, but probably is something that many of the Wyatt and DuPree families have not thought of.

I am 60 years young today, the first born to John L. and Dorinda DuPree; the oldest grand child of James Curtis and Augusta Haynes DuPree and of G. F. M. and Jane Popwell Wyatt.

My aunt, Mrs. Cora Robinson, wife of Rev. W. W. Robinson, was 60 years old on June 22nd.

I wish the best of luck and prosperity to our many friends in Clanton and Chilton county.

MRS. MARTHA BRADBURY.

STATE TEACHER'S EXAMINATION

The annual state examination for teachers will be held at the Chilton County High School, Clanton, on July 20 and 21. No applicant shall be permitted to write the examination in any county unless engaged in school work in such county, except the county of his residence, without the written approval of the State Superintendent of Education. Any request for such approval should be endorsed by the Superintendent of Education of the county in which the person making the request is living, teaching, or attending school.

Satisfactory evidence is required of every person before being admitted to the examination, of good moral character, of legal age of seventeen years, and of accredited senior high school graduation or its equivalent; provided this academic requirement shall not operate to exclude any person who has held a regular Alabama Teacher's certificate. A uniform fee of $2.00 is resuired of every person admitted to the examination.

No second grade examination is offered, but applicants for first grade failing to meet minimum requirements for a first grade certificate, making as high as 40 per cent on every subject and a general average of at least 65 pr cent may receive a second grade certificate.

No certificate of lower rank than a second grade certificate will be issued hereafter on examination. No second grade certificate may be substituted hereafter as part of the requirement for obtaining a first grade certificate.

Each applicant for a life certificate shall submit to the examiner satisfactory evidence of having had four years of successful teaching experience in the schools of Alabama while holding a first grade certificate or one of equal or higher rank. The old certificate should be inclosed with the examination papers.

All applicants should be present at 9:00 o'clock Monday morning, July 20.

County Superintenent of Education.

PILOT CLUB DOING SPLENDID WORK

The Clanton Pilot Club, a club for business and professional women, is doing much good toward the building of our city. The object of the club being to encourage a more thorough understanding among all business and professional women and to urge an unsurpassed civic pride, as well as an active interest in any move that will tend to improve the moral, civic, industrial or commercial welfare of the community. Mrs. Zora Guy Smith, the newly elected president is one of the charter members of the club and has held every official position of the organization.

Recently the Year Book Committee together with the Objective Committee, worked out the following objectives for the year:

1.—One hour session.
2.—Sponsor Girl Scout work.
3.—Business Scholadship fund.
4.—Sponsor Flower Show.
5.—Pay for six children's lunches at the Grammar School.
6.—Pay expenses of delegates to the Convention.
7.—Give music lessons to a worthy child.
8.—Provide transportation for rural women to attend one day of Farmers Week at Auburn.

These are only a few of the things that the Club is planning to do and we are certainly proud of such fine organization in the City of Clanton. The dances that they have been sponsoring have been nice ones, and the proceeds have gone to worthy causes.—Gertie Fnquette, Secretary and Reporter.

Messrs. Julius and Durwood Foshee, of Jacksonville, Fla., spent the Fourth in Clanton with relatives; they are sons of Mr. and Mrs. B. G. Foshee of Temple road.

STATE NEWS PARAGRAPHED

A Resume Of The More Important Events Of Interest Condensed To An Epitomized Form

Work will soon begin on a $20,000 building which will be used to house the Strand Theater at Greensboro.

The new state highway being constructed between Moulton and Courtland is rapidly nearing completion.

The State Highway Department has asked bids for four new highway projects in North Alabama, to cost approximately $238,000.

Birmingham and Jefferson County will continue to contribute $12,000 a month during July and August to the Department of Public Welfare.

The Alabama Supreme Court, which has adjourned for its summer recess, announced that it would meet again July 13 for a special session of court.

"Anybody who obeys the Laws of Alabama will be protected—mob rule will never prevail while I am governor of Alabama," says Gov. Bibb Graves.

Final rites were held for State Senator Shelby Sidney Fletcher, 61, lawmaker and leading Huntsville business man, who died June 27 of a heart attack.

Building improvements in the Birmingham downtown district just started or soon to get under way represent an aggregate outlay of from $75,000 to $100,000.

By action of its shareholders, the Woodlawn Building & Loan Assn. has been converted on a full basis to the Woodlawn Federal Savings & Loan Assn. of Birmingham.

The Alabama Motorists Association will play a leading role in the expanded safety, civic and service program embarked upon by motor clubs in the southeastern states.

The Alabama Public Service Commission has ordered that emergency freight rate increases in Alabama—due to expire July 7, should be continued until Dec. 31, 1936.

W. W. Ramsey, associate state tax commissioner, announced that the commission is framing reciprocal motor vehicle agreements to be submitted to every state in the Union.

The Association of County Commissioners of Alabama will hold its annual convention in Birmingham July 15-17 with particular attention to be paid matters of a legislative nature.

Breaking through the dark cloud of illiteracy that hovers over thousands of Alabamians, educational forces of the state are working side by side with the WPA in removing this handicap.

The Cherokee County Board of Education, with federal aid, has erected a new high school building at Gaylesville, at a cost of $34,451. The building has 12 rooms and an auditorium.

Pay for young people on the works projects of the National Youth Administration will be placed on the prevailing hourly rate of pay established by Works Progress Administration for the state.

Members of Decatur City Council hope refinancing of the city's bonded indebtedness can begin in the next 60 days following a meeting of aldermen with members of the bondholders' committee.

Montgomery's upward swing in building reached a new high and building records for many years were shattered during June, the monthly report of James M. Garrett, city engineer, showed.

T. A. Sims, state 4-H Club leader for boys, announced that plans had been completed for 4,705 "future farmers" in 29 counties to visit the Muscle Shoals district between July 10 and July 25.

H. S. Geismer, state director of the Public Works Administration, announced that $8,000,000 in Alabama projects tentatively had been approved for the new PWA program which began July 1.

Gov. Bibb Graves said that President Roosevelt's veto of the Carmichael bill would have no effect on the state's plans to free its 15 toll bridges as soon as the Supreme Court has made its final ruling on the validity of the plan to lift the tolls.

Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Prince and son, and Miss Helen Diefenderfer spent Sunday in Alexander City.

Republican Leaders Call On Mr. Landon

Farm Policies Discussed By Lowden of Illinois and other Chieftains

Topeka, Kansas, July 9th,—A veteran Republican farm spokesman, Frank Lowden of Illinois, came to Kansas today to discuss farm policies in the 1936 campaign with Gov. Alf Landon.

The day was set aside for this conference on the agricultural question. It presented to observers new evidence that the Republican presidential nominee plans to re-emphasize the farm issue when he accepts the nomination July 23.

Lowden, a former governor of Illinois, was accompained by Ottis Glenn, former Senator from that state. Also invited to sit around Landon's desk were Senator Arthur Capper of Kansas; Representative Clifford R. Hope, of Kansas, ranking Republican member of the House agricultural committee, and R. J. Laubengayer, Salina, Kans., publisher, who has been active in working for farm legislation.

In the legislative halls of the state capitol, business of a special session of the legislature rapidly drew near a close. Supported by Landon's Republican majority amendemnts of the state Constitution designed to insure full Kansas participation in federal social security laws had been adopted by the Senate and brought to the point of formal ballots in the house.

A band of Democratic Senators with frequent references to Landon's presidential candidacy had fought to force consideration of the prohibition and civil service questions but the Republican majority in a 25 to 10 vote, clamped down a rule limiting the session's business to the social security amendments.

REV. BAILEY INJURED IN AUTOMOBILE MISHAP

Rev. J. G. W. Bailey was slightly injured in an automobile mishap last Frdiay night up near Macedonia in Beat 11. Mr. Bailey seems to have gotten out of his car, a model T Ford, to push it up a hill, while his wife was guiding it. Somehow, the car got out of their control and ran backward into Rev. Bailey, breaking four or five ribs. Passersby brought the injured man to Clanton and a doctor bandaged him up. Mrs. Bailey was not injured more than that she fainted during the ordeal.

GROWN COTTON BOLL BROUGHT IN LAST SATURDAY MORNING

A cotton boll, about fully developed, was brought in to The Union-Banner office last Saturday morning by Julius Ware, colored boy of Clanton. He is the son of William Ware, on Mr. Reese Mullins' place. The boll came from a stalk that had about six forms on it. The stalk and boll were left with The Union-Banner.

SINGING AT PROCTOR CREEK

There will be an all day singing at Proctor Creek, Coosa County, next Sunday, July 19th. The new books will be used, and all singers have a cordial invitation to attend.

Proctor Creek is located five miles east of Knight's Ferry, or Mitchell Dam.

DEVAUGHN WILL TEACH MUSIC SCHOOL AT CHESTNUT CREEK

Prof. W. M. Devaughn announces that he will teach a singing school at Chestnut Creek, Coopers, beginning on Monday, July 27th. The school will be taught each afternoon from 2 o'clock until 5 or 5:30. There will be school five days a week for three weeks. If anyone is interested in attending a first class school, they should get in touch with Prof. Devaughn at your earliest convenience.

THOMPSONS FLEW TO PANAMA CITY ON SUNDAY, JULY 5TH

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Thompson have reported a wonderful air trip to Panama City, Florida, on Sunday, July 5.

Mr. and Mrs. Thompson flew from Clanton into Panama City in 2 hours and 20 minutes. As they arrived there it was drizzling, and Leo stated that just after he "set her down" the bottom fell out, so to speak.

While there they attended an air meet, witnessed many stunts, (although Leo stated that he did no participate in this), and did some flying around the city themselves. Leo said that when he came within sight of the water, is looked as if it were standing on edge, and that he wondered for a while just how they managed to jack up the back side of the ocean.

After quite a bit of excitement, the Thompsons returned home, taking about 2½ hours for the trip. Leo said it was ideal flying both ways, and for most of the time his plane practically "flew herself." Pass the salt, please.

REV. W. P. LOWERY ANNOUNCES REVIVALS

Rev. W. P. Lowery of Thorsby, announces revivals at his churches, as follows: Bethsalem, beginning July 19th, Rev. Maurice Hodgens, helper. Poplar Springs, beginning July 26th, Rev. G. G. Williams, helper. Shiloh, August 2, Rev. J. L. Hand of Climax, helper. Shelby, August 9th, Rev. J. L. Hand helper.

ROAD SUPERVISOR REPORTED TO HAVE RESIGNED POSITION

The Chilton County Road Supervisor, Mr. Thos. J. Arledge, is reported to have tendered his resignation as such officer, to Governor Graves to become effective on August 1st.

Mr. Arledge could not be reached last Wednesday morning, to verify or deny the report, however. It is said it was not because of any condition in connection with the local road situation, but that he was resigning in order to take up a better position elsewhere.

Judge J. Lee Smith and some of the commissioners were questioned in regard to the matter, but declined to make any statement about it; they, too, had heard the report, but insisted that any information should come direct from Mr. Arledge, as they had no official notice that he had taken such action.

Perhaps by next week more information can be secured direct from Mr. Arledge. The report came out of a blue sky, as it was generally accepted that Mr. Arledge was going forward with his plans to perfect the county's road system.

WILLIE CROWSON BACK FROM A TRIP TO WEWOKA, OKLA.

Mr. Willie A. Crowson returned on last Wednesday night from a trip to Wewoka, Okla., where he went to attend the funeral of his grandmother, Mrs. S. A. Vaughn, who died there last Saturday morning, a victim of a heart attack. Mr. Crowson was accompanied on the trip by his mother, Mrs. D. M. Crowson, of Route 1.

In talking of farming conditions in that section of the country, Mr. Crowson stated that the farmers' chances there were "pretty slim". He said as far out as Little Rock, Ark., crops were fairly good, but at that point the "drouth region" begins, and there is nothing much beyond there.

He stated that it looked very much as it might look in the fall, with dead grass and plants along the road, and in some places the trains had set fire to this dead growth. He also said that around Oklahoma City a swarm of grasshoppers had finished the work of destruction, and from that point on westward these pests were worse.

According to Mr. Crowson, farming conditions in Chilton County compare very favorably with anything he saw west of here; in fact, the very best crops he saw were right here in Chilton County.

Mr. and Mrs. John D. Mullins and Mrs. Dubb Huddleston returned Friday night from a vacation of two weeks in Daytona Beach, Florida.

FOUR IN CITY COURT LAST WEEK

City officers made four arrests during the past week, according to Mayor C. Fenn Jones. These were as follows:

Two for disorderly conduct. In one of these cases a fine of $15 and costs was imposed. In the other a fine of $1 and costs was imposed.

Two for public drunkenness. A fine of $5 and costs was imposed in both these cases.

Probe Ordered Into Jobs Of Legislators

Alleged Irregularities To Be Aired By Montgomery County Grand Jury

Montgomery, Ala.—Solicitor W. T. Seibels said a Montgamery Circuit Court Grand Jury empaneled here Tuesday, would be asked to investigate charges of alleged irregularities in the employment of legislators by various state departments.

"I will put it to them," Solicitor Seibels said when asked if irregularities charged by M. M. Paschall, field represetative of he Consumers Anti-Sales Tax Association, would be investigated by the jurors.

Other than to add, "you never can tell what a jury will do," Seibel made no further comment.

Although made no reference to Paschall's written request for an investigation of legislators holding other state jobs, Judge Eugene Carter charged the jurors to day "no court has any authority to stop or enjoin you from conducting any investigation."

Paschall, a Perry County planter, has been invited by Solicitor Seibels to submit any information he has Tuesday concerning employment of legislators by the state between sessions.

Several weeks ago, Paschall wrote Seibels asking him to bring the matter to attention of the Grand Jupry. Six legisdators were named as having been put on the state payroll since the closing of the 1936 special session.

The Perry County man, in a letter to Seibels made public Sunday that residents of Montgomery "Should be in position to know more about the dual employment of office holders than I do."

He also told the Solicitor it was his job to delve into the alleged violations of the law, that the prosecuting attorney received a salary for such duty.

CANDIDATE LANDON VS. CANDIDATE ROOSEVELT

[AN EDITORIAL]

The tents of the two great party candidates have been pitched and the camps set up. Everything is ready for action, and there is going to be a battle royal between now and November 3rd; the issues are going to be presented to the people, and using the words of Landon, the people of America are going to be informed of the truth regarding national questions.

Some have tried to predict a landslide for one party and some for the other, but this theory was knocked sky high when the Public Opinion Institute poll was made public by The Birmingham News last Sunday. There will be no landslide for Landon, and there will be none for Roosevelt; it will not be a cinch for either candidate. In fact, the poll shows that Landon has a majority of the electoral votes, but Roosevelt has a slight majority of the popular votes. This is probably as it should be; most of the time best results do not follow landslides, but it brings better conditions in the country for the two great parties to be about equally divided, or rather for the people to be about equally divided between the two parties.

In discussing the issues, the attitudes of the two candidates toward the Constitution of the United States is very significant. Governor Landon is keenly alive to the need of reforms; the Governor terms social security as a public obligation. He urges the people to provide proper security measures. Speaking of social security in his State of Kansas, the Governor recently said to the State Legislature: "I trust that a proper amendment or amendments, will be submitted by you to the people of this great State at the November election and will receive the approval of the electorate."

In substance, Governor Landon says: "If the Constitution blocks legislation that we need, ask the people to amend the Constitution." On the other hand Mr. Roosevelt is prone to follow the customs of Hitler, Mussolini and Stalin. In substance Roosevelt says to Congress: "Go ahead and pass the law, whether it is constitutional or not." While Roosevelt seems to follow these European rulers, Landon chooses rather to tie his wagon to certain true and tried American Statesmen such as Washington, Lincoln and Cleveland.

Which of the two entertains respect for the American system of self-government, Landon or Roosevelt?

TO THINK REPUBLICAN HELPS CONDITIONS

Had you noticed how the price of cotton has jumped since the tide of the country has turned definitely Republican? And also had you noticed the decided advance in stocks and bonds? Alabama Power Company stock is now quoted at the highest figure in three and a half years!

For the country to just THINK Republican makes things hum; what will we do when Landon and Knox and a Republican congress are elected this fall?

ROOSEVELT LOSING GROUND

The Montgomery Advertiser said editorially on Tuesday, July 14: "The latest poll of the American Institute of Public Opinion indicates that President Roosevelt has lost strength since the Republican convention."

The Advertiser goes ahead at length and gives what it considers several reasons that contribute to the fact stated in the first paragraph of its editorial, all of which reasons may be true; but this Democratic paper, like numbers of others over the country, are compelled from fact and sound reasoning to admit that "Roosevelt is losing ground." There may be several reasons, and there may be just one reason—that the Republicans have hit on just the right candidate and just the right platform and at just the right time to make inroads into the already tottering and top-heavy structure thrown together by Roosevelt and the New Deal during the past three and a half years. But it matters little why; the fact is that Roosevelt is losing ground, and will more than likely continue to lose ground until November 3rd. If he continues to lose at the pace he has since the Republican national convention, then by the fall election, just where will "the Kansas Coolidge" be?

It appears to The Union-Banner that Mr. Landon and his program of budget-balancing, retrenchment and adherance to genuine American principles, has come at just the incentive time in the cycle of our national life. It appears that the people have seen about enough of extravagance, experimenting and recklessness without the accomplishment of any results, and that they want to get accomplishments from the spending of their tax money. Landon offers them what they want, and his record as Governor of Kansas makes us all believe that we can depend on him doing for America what he has done for Kansas.

PROPOSITION UNDER WAY TO PIPE GASOLINE TO BIRMINGHAM

Plans are being worked on to formulate an enterprise of considreable importance to the people of Alabama, and especially to Birmingham and that district. The plan is to build a cast-iron pipe line from Atlanta, Ga., to Birmingport, on the Warrior River. It is being worked on by two major oil companies jointly, and will be built of Birmingham-made cast iron pipe. The project will require a world of pipe, the manufacture of which will afford employment to lots of people. It is estimated that 200,000 man-days of labor will be required to make the pipe, the weight of which will be approximately 20,000 tons.

It is necessary, however, that an amendment be made to the State constitution before the plan can be put through, under the law of eminant domain. A bill was introduced in the last special session of the legislature, but could not be gotten to before the session closed. It will only be necessary to add oil and gasoline to the present existing list, bu its passage is the first step necessary.

It is said that oil in large quantities has been located in South Alabama, and thousands of acres of land is now under lease to some of the major oil companies. Pipe lines will be necessary for these fields to be developed, it is pointed out.

It is hoped that our law of eminent domain may be broadened so as to permit development of the Birmingham-Atlanta pipe-line, as well as these fields in South Alabama.

Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Edgar and Dr. C. O. Lawrence spent several days last week at Orange Beach, near Foley, fishing.

GONE TO TEXAS

A party of six young men left last Tuesday morning to visit the Texas Centennial Exposition at Dallas.

The party was composed of Clifford Manning, Orville Wright, Wesley Wright, Hollis Wright, Clyde Morris and Winford LeCroy. They left Clanton for Birmingham, where they were to secure a house trailer to make the trip.

They planned to go from Birmingham by way of Tuscaloosa to Meridian, following road 80 from there to Dallas. On the return trip they will travel by way of New Orleans, planning to take about two weeks for the whole trip.

The whole group is a bunch of happy-go-lucky young men out for two weeks of pure and adulterated pleasure. On the trip they will stop at several small towns and put on stage plays, consisting of string music, dancing, comedy of all kinds and, sorts.

A FELLOW IN NEED

No doubt you have heard of a fellow in need.—Maybe you have been in need yourself. Well, The Union-Banner's good friend, Jimmie Taylor, at Taylor Wholesale Grocery Co. is in need of some shelled corn. So, if you have some good clean, sacked shelled corn, it might pay you to get in touch with Mr. Taylor at once. Don't forget, Jimmie is needing of some shelled corn.

L. C. WARR IS SELECTED AS PRINCIPAL ETOWAH SCHOOL

Prof. L. C. Warr, has been selected as principal of the Etowah County High School at Attalla, Ala.

This is said to be one of the foremost county high schools in the State, there being 27 teachers employed there. The enrollment in the school there last year was 705, and there is a department for everything that is found in a first class high school. There are three buildings, the main one being two-story.

Prof. Warr goes to the Attalla school following W. H. McGregar, who is returning to the State Department of Education where he had been connected before going to this high school. Mr. McGregar is said to have left the Attalla school in excellent shape for his successor to take up.

Attalla, a city of nearly 6,000 population, together with two other cities, —Gadsden and Alabama City, constitute one of the best sections in the State and even in the South, and Prof. Warr is fortunate in being located in such a fine place. The school too is fortunate in getting a man of Prof. Warr's calibre and ability. A fine principal under such fine environment ought to make a real mark in the educational advancement of that thriving community in North Alabama. We hate to lose Prof. Warr, but we are proud that the educational authorities recognized his abilities and placed him in such a fine location as they did.

When the State Educational authorities took up the matter of supplying a principal for Etowah County High School, L. C. Warr was the first and only man considered for the place.

Prof. Warr, with his fine family, will move to Attalla, but they will not sell their residential property in Clanton.

JAKE COLEMAN ARRESTED LAST TUESDAY MORNING

Sheriff J. R. Hardy arrested Jake Colemn, negro, last Tuesday morning, on a charge of assault and battery, and placed him in the county jail.

According to information furnished Sheriff Hardy, Coleman had a habit of beating his wife, and that Tuesday he gave her another beating. Immediately afterward he gathered up all his clothes and prepared to leave the city. Sheriff Hardy found him on the street dressed for departure to parts unknown, and with his extra clothes packed in a travelling bag.

Miss Irene Jones is teaching summer school in Bessemer, Alabama. She spent the week end here with her mother.

ONLY THREE ARRESTS BY COUNTY OFFICERS

Sheriff J. R. Hardy's force had the slimmest report to make last Monday that they have had in many weeks. Only three arrests were made during the week. They were as follows:

One for assault with intent to murder. In jail.

One for bastardy. Released on bond of $300.

One for violating the prohibition law. In jail.

Havana Trip To Be Repeated In August

Success of The Alabama Press Tour Gives Opportunity For Second Cuba Trip

The visit to Havana by the Alabama Press Association and its friends in June was so successful in every detail and aroused so much interest in Cuba and Alabama, that the railroad and steamship officials have decided to offer the same trip at the same price to those who did not have the opportunity to go on the othre.

This trip, according to announcement by the Atlantic Coast and P&O Steamship Company, will leave Montgomery on Saturday, August 15th at 6:25 p.m., arriving in Tampa at 7:30 Sunday morning for a sight-seeing trip of Tampa, Clearwater, Clearwater Beach and St. Petersburg. The Sunday tour of West Florida is an added feature and with slight changes the remainder of the program will be exactly the same tour the Press Association took. The price will remain the same at $73.70 from Montgomery, which includes all transportation, hotel and ship accommodations, all meals from the beginning of the trip and sight-seeing and entertainment in Havana.

Four and one half days in Havana, just at this time of the year, far cooler than the United States should be attractive to anyone for a vacation coming in August.

Those desiring information are asked to write W. Roy Brown, Tour Manager, Gay-Teague Hotel, Montgomery.

TOM GLASS HAS GARAGE IN OLD SMITH MOTOR PLACE

A new garage has been started up in Clanton this week. It is located in the old Mullins Warehouse building on the highway, where H. N. Smith had his business for a while, and it is owned and operated by Mr. Tom Gass of Jemison.

Mr. Glass states that he will operate a used parts establishment for all makes of cars, and will have a repaid department in connection. Mr. Delbert Brand is in charge of the garage end of the business, and will service all makes and models of cars.

Application Okehed For Water & Paving

Mayor C. Fenn Jones Received Telegram From Bankhead Friday, July 10

Mayor C. Fenn Jones was in high spirits Monday, on receipt of a telegram from Sen. J. H. Bankhead to the effect that Clanton's application for PWA assistance in Street paving and extension of water mains had been approved.

Application for such aid was made by Mayor Jones and the City Council some time ago. The application was for a sum which would approximate 40 per cent of the total cost of the jobs. As is the case with all such projects, there was quite a bit of red tape which had to be gone through with, and which has taken time.

Meanwhile, some of the city's citizens who were taken in on the extension of the city limits are reported to be dissatisfied, because of the delay in furnishing them water service. All this has been held up, pending action of the PWA applications, and immediately upon receipt of the telegram, Mayor Jones wrote to several of the newly acquired citizens of the city, appraising them of the fact.

Sen. Bankhead's telegram read as follows:

"Washington D. C., July 10, 1936.
"Hon. C. Fenn Jones, Mayor of Clanton, Alabama.

Orville Rush advises your Clanton municipal improvements projects have been approved by all divisions of PWA. But an allotment is not possible for said project until some future date.—J. H. Bankhead."

Mayor Jones' letter in reply follows:

"Clanton, Ala., July 10, 1936.
"U. S. Senator, Washington, D. C.,
"Dear Senator:

"Please accept my thanks for your telegram advising me our application for funds to pave our streets and extend water mains has been approved.

"I regret, however, that money is not available for our project to proceed at once.

"If you can learn, or can ascertain with some certainty just when the allotment can be made, will you be kind enough to advise me?

"For your information will say that we extended the corporate limits last year, and are desirous of affording our new neighbors water at the earliest possible date. If you will assist in getting quick action on our application, I am sure the people of Clanton will certainly appreciate your interest.

"Our population is now 3,363, as shown by special census taken as of November 1, 1936, under supervision of the Census Bureau at Washington. Yours very truly, C. Fenn Jones, Mayor."

From the above it may be seen just how the situation stands. The projects have been allowed, but real allotment of the money is being held up for the time being. In the meantime, Mayor Jones assures Clanton's citizens that all will be done that can be done to afford the accommodations to the city to accommodate them as early as possible.

Mayor Jones further stated that, although he wanted to go ahead with the work of paving and extending the water mains some time ago, he feels that securing 40 per cent of the total cost by federal aid for these improvements was well worth the time waiting for them, and hopes that our citizens will bear with the City Council patiently, and consider the fact that the council is trying to save the city all the money possible while at the same time affording all accommodations possible.

EPIDEMIC OF INFANTILE PARALYSIS IS SAID TO BE SUBSIDING

Reports from health authorities say the epidemic of "Polio", which last week threatened to become alarming, is now definitely subsiding, and that much further spread is under control.

Dr. Charles Armstrong, U. S. envoy arrived in the state Tuesday morning to join Dr. J. N. Baker, state health officer, in figuring out plans to keep the dread disease under conrol. Dr. Armstrong is the man who developed a nasal spray as a preventive against infantile paralysis.

Dr. J. M. Kimmey, Chilton county health officer, advising that unnecessary congregating of children be avoided. There has been no cases reported nearer than Tuscaloosa, but precautions should be taken to prvnt an outoutbreak of this malady.

P.-T. A. BACKING SQUARE DEAL FOR EDUCATION IN ALABAMA

Montgomery, Ala.—The Alabama Congress of Parents and Teachers stands ready to join hands with any organization or group which is making an honest effort to secure a square deal for education in Alabama. Mrs. Jomes Fitts Hill, president, declared in a letter today to B. C. Apperson, secretary of the Anti-Sales Tax Association.

The letter was written in answer to a written statement from Mr. Apperson last week in which he asked six questions and complained of not receiving a reply to a letter mailed when Mrs. Hill was in the hospital. Mrs. Hill, in answering, repeated her urg for economy in state government, insisted that anyone claiming Stat onomies would provide the $4 needed by education is eith rant of the facts or deliberat ing the school system.

Second Annual Homecoming Celebration Scheduled for August 2-8

Elba, July 9.—Plans are rapidly being completed for Elba's second homecoming celebration to be held during the week of August 2-8.

The program committee, composed of Mrs. J. O. English, Mrs. Dana Perdue and Mrs. J. C. Dixon are busy perfecting programs of entertainment.

The Alabama Industrial school band, ine of the bes tin the state, will again come to Elba for the week to furnish the music.

During the afternoon of the opening day, Wednesday, August 2, band concerts, water sarnivals, twilight musical and amateur program will be features of the program.

Hill To Speak

Thursday will be left open to the negroes to present their program.

A number of special features are scheduled for Monday, including pantomimes, pageants and folk dances, using colorful costumes, under the direction of Miss Wyoline Hester, community worker with the department of public welfare; a dance revue under the direction of Miss Virginia Tisdale; a fashion show; a baby show and parade with floats. Any baby in Elba six months to three years old is eligible to compete in the show. Friday night a fiddlers convention is scheduled, which will be followed by an old-fashion square dance with the prize winning fiddlers furnishing the music.

Saturday's program will include water sports, band concerts, ball games, boxing matches and community singing with other features will be added.

Among the prominent speakers included on the program will be Congressman Lister Hill.

LETTER FROM DR. BOB JONES

Cleveland, Tenn.
July 9, 1936.

Dear Friends:

How time flies! September will soon be here. Young people will be saying goodbye to mother and dad and going off to school. That is a serious day in the life of a boy or a girl. The Bob Jones College, located in Cleveland, Tennessee, an institution which stands without apology for the old-time religion and for the absolute authority of the Bible and an institution which has as high educational standards as any other college in the United States, tries to take the place of mother and father in the life of every young person who attends the institution. If you wish to attend an institution which puts first things first and an institution which teaches young people how to live as well as how to make a living, write for literature to the Bob Jones College, Cleveland, Tennessee.

LAY DAM 22—SELMA CCC 4

The Lay Dam Killowatts held another field day last Sunday at the expense of the team from the CCC camp at Selma, taking the Selmians in tow to the tune of 22 to 4.

Turner on the mound for the Killowatts, let the CCC team down with seven hits, good for 11 bases. Trussel led his mates with two triples out of two times up. All the others were singles.

The Killowatts pounded the offerings of Redmond and Railey for 22 hits and 22 runs. Cobb, lanky first sacker, led the attack with four hits, two of which were successful homers, in the 6th and 8th innings. In the 3rd and 4th innings each the Killowatts sent 10 men to bat, Cobb gathering a single and a double in his two appearances in the 4th. Marcus got two singles; Baker two doubles and a single; Warren two singles and a double; Jones a triple and a single which Couey let get by him and went for a home run; Green got a single, a double and a home run; Golson a double and two singles; Tatum a double and two singles; Turner was the only man who failed to connect at least once, although he went safe once on a fielder's choice, and once on an error.

It seems there "ought to be a law", or something about this Lay Dam team. The Killowatts are setting up some kind of record for wins on their home ground and each game turns out to be a massacre. The popular chant right at present throughaut Central Alabama is to "stop Lay Dam." It has not been done yet, however, in their own back yard.

CLANTON NEGRO TEAM BEAT BLACK LOOKOUTS FRIDAY 5-4

The Clanton negro baseball team beat a fast cambination from Chattanooga, known as the Black Lookouts on the local field last Friday afternoon by the count of 5 to 4.

Thise game was not the usual loosely played negro game, but was a real close, fast game, and was said by spectators to be one of the best played on the local field all season.

The local negro team will play the "House of Moses" team, a Montgomery club, on the local field here next Friday afternoon at 3:15. This is expected to be a good game, as the "House of Moses" club is said to be one of the best amateur negro teams in the state.

STATE CAPITOL NEWS

Montgomery.—Protracted drouth has destroyed 69 per cent of Alabama's food crops thus far with the northeastern counties suffering the worst blight, according to an intensive survey completed by F. W. Gist, expert Agricultural statistician, of the State Department of Agriculture and Industries.

Mayor L. P. Burns, of Selma, president of the Alabama League of Municipalities, threatens to carry the gasoline tax test case to the U. S. Supreme Court, according to a statement credited to the Central City Mayor last week.

The validity of the act has laneady been sustained by the State Supreme Court and a motion, it is understood, will be made for re-hearing. Should this be denied, appeal will be made to the U. S. Supreme Court, it was stated.

Henry S. Long, chairman of the State Tax Commission, was the honor guest of more than a score of tax commission officials and employees at a dinner at the Exchange Hotel last Monday night.

Each county of the State received a check this week for $7,252.74 as its share of the June gasoline tax collections, according to an announcement by Huey S. Long, chairman of the State Tax Commission.

The collections were almost 12 per cen more than during the corresponding month last year, and 20 per cent more than for June, 1934.

On the basis of present receipts, each county is expected to receive more than $80,000 for the 12 months period, Long said.

Surrender here last Thursday of Col. Joseph H. Ward, negro regular army surgeon of Indianapolis, and former medical officer in charge of the U. S. Veteran's Hospital for Negroes at Tuskegee, revealed that he, with 13 others, had been indicted by the Fedreal Grand Jury on charges of conspiracy to defraud the government through wholesale diversion of hospital supplies. He posted bond for $3,000 and was released.

Enrollment of 1,275 CCC boys from all sections of the State having just been completed, Dr. A. H. Collins, Commissioner of the State Department of Public Welfare, has been advised that an additional quota of 225 Alabama enrollees may be selected at once from the Birmingham recruiting area.

Mayor Lucien P. Burns, of Selma, new president of the Alabama League of Municipalities has appointed standing committees to serve for one year, according to an announcement issued from League headquarters by Ed E. Reid, executive secretary.

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by J. W. Fant, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County

FARMERS CAN EARN PAYMENTS RAISING OWN LEGUME SEED

Auburn, Ala.—"By growing their own supply of summer legume seeds this year for use in 1937, farmers can qualify for payments under the Agricultural Conservation Program," Dr. L. N. Duncan, director of the Alabama Extension Service, says.

Under this program, soybeans, velvet beans, cowpeas and other summer legumes may earn class II, or soil building payments. Special provisions, which classify these legumes as soil-conserving except when produced for seed for crushing, when included in the program for the Southern Region with the idea of encouraging farmers to produce in 1936, their own supply of seed for 1937.

Planting time, Duncan says, is the time to plan for the next year's seed supply, and "every farmer in the Southern Region should grow ample quantities of legume seeds to meet his needs in 1937."

Dr. Duncan points out that producers may plant legume crops in rows now and qualify for adjustment payments and at the same time produce abundant supplies of seed for use in 1937. The supply for 1936 seems adequate if farmers use diligent care in making the seed cover as much land as possible to insure a satisfactory stand. In the past, there have been times when the lack of supply of seed has kept farmers from growing more conserving crops.

HIGHER FARM INCOME

Auburn, Ala.—New automobile registrations in Alabama totaled 39,332 in 1935 compared with only 10,357 in 1932, Dr. L. N. Duncan, director of the State Extension Service reported today in pointing out that the cash receipts from the sale of principal farm produces in the state rose from $59.066,000 in 1932 to $104,292,000 in 1935, an increase of 77 per cent.

This increase in farm income has not only helped farmers but it has greatly improved business conditions throughout the state, he said.

ALABAMA FARMERS GROWING MORE PIGS

Montgomery, Ala.—Alabama has 24 per cent more pigs than it had at this time last year, reports J. C. Garrett, State and Federal statistician, who states that 638,000 pigs are on farms of the State compared with 515,000 at the same time last year.

The present pig crop is the largest in Alabama since 1924, says the statistician. "The increase is due both to larger numbers of sows farrowing and to larger number of pigs saved per little.

"The average number of pigs saved was 5.65 per litter this spring compared with 5.36 per litter in the spring of 1935. Sows farrowing this spring are estimated at 113,000 head, or 118 per cent of the 96,000 head that farrowed in the spring of 1935."

Mr. Garrett also reports that there are 29 per cent more pigs in the United States this year than last year. The estimate is 41,884,000 head, an increase of 9,504,000.

FITTING LIVESTOCK TAKES REAL SKILL

Auburn, Ala.—Fitting and showing livestock at county and state fairs is a real art, according to F. W. Burns, extension livestock specialist, who says "It takes patience and skill to train animals so they will show at best advantage in the ring.

"Feeding, too takes real knowledge. The animals should be sleek and trim looking, but neither over-fat nor under-developed.

"No amount of work or feed will develop an inferiar dairy animal into a blue ribbon winner. Only animals that conform rather closely to their breed standards should be selected."

When to start fitting animals is hard to answer definitely, says Mr. Burns. Much depends upon the age and condition of the animal. On the average, satisfactory results may be had if two or three months are allowed for fitting.

"If the animals have been properly fed before the fitting period begins, it will not be difficult to get them into good condition. Certain fitting rations and feeding systems are used by varoaus showmen, but none can be called the best for all purposes. In general the simplest rations are the most popular, and for fitting they make liberal use of ground corn, ground or crushed oats, wheat bran. and cotton seed meal in various proportions. A satisfactory mixture is 300 pounds corn meal, 100 pounds ground oats, 100 pounds wheat bran, 100 pounds cotton seed mead.

"With proper feed and care, get the animals in good flesh to present a smooth sleek appearance. Then use a pair of clippers, a little soap and water, do a little manicuring, and the cattle will all be ready for the show ring this fall."

H. G. BRIDGEWATER WRITES TO GOVERNOR

Governor Bibb Graves' alleged failure to protect non-union Alabama Workers from intimidation and attacks by union sympathizers was bitterly arraigned today by H. G. Bridgewater, president of the Superior Lime and Hydrate Company of Pelham, Ala.

In a letter to Governor Graves, Mr. Bridgewater declared that none of the nineteen union sympathizers, who were indicted one year ago for flogging his employees and threatening his life, had yet been brought to trial despite being bound over to the Grand Jury. Mr. Bridgewater appealed for aid from the Governor. excerpts from his letter follow:

"One year ago from two to three hundred negroes and whites, mostly negroes, in mob formation led by one who represented himself to these men as a government employee, marched on my plant closing all operations completely; taking five of my employees off the job to a wooded section back of Pelham and whipped them within an inch of their lives. One negro almost lost the sight in one eye.

"This same mob of thugs, who was composed of picked shocked troops, took me out of my car, and with a pistol in my stomach, threatened my life, asking me who the hell I thought I was, Charlie Debardeleben. This I consider an honor, to be likened to Charlie Debardeleben who, like myself, all during the depression, took care of his employees without the aid of or help from the Red Cross or State, or without the aid of political slush fund.

"My dear Governor, we are confronted today with the same methods of the carpet baggers. I understand by the press that you have promised Miss Perkins, Secretary of Labor, that you would move troops into Gadsden and would see that no stone was unturned for the proper prosecution of this trouble.

"It is a deplorable situation I will admit, but in my case the mobs tried to prevent free American citizens from earning an honest livlihood. In the case of Gadsden it is reversed. The employees in the plants around Gadsden have simply taken the first step and not allowed their homes to be wrecked and the carpet baggers to sweep the business away from this field and returned to Akron, Ohio.

"If the three major industries of Gadsden are closed down, the fair little city of Gadsden, which is one of the brightest spots in Alabama in coming out of the depression better than any other place I know of, will be wrecked for a decade.

"There is lots and lots of information that you would get by taking the trouble yourself or have your secretary personally investigate troubles that are now brewing which, my dear Governor, will cause you more concern than any other Governor of Alabama has ever witnessed.—Yours very truly,

-H. G. BRIDGEWATER.

DROUTH SERIOUSLY DAMAGES FOODS, FEEDS AND PASTURES

Montgomery, Ala.—Hot dry weather has damaged feed crops and pastures 30 per cent, vegetable crops 69 per cent and has permitted farmers of the state to plant and grow only 36 per cent of their soil compliance crops, reports R. J. Goode, State Commissioner of Agriculture, after making an intensive survey of drouth damages preparatory to requesting federal aid for drouth-stricken farmers of the state.

In a somparison of July condition of corn, hay, and pasture with that of July 1st last year, thereport says:

"We find that nine counties, including Autauga, Coffee, Coosa, Dallas, Geneva, Henry, Houton, Pickens and Pike have suffered less than 10 per cent damage.

"Six counties, including Barbour, Bullock, Cherokee, Dale, Lamar, and Macon have suffered 10 to 19 per cent damage.

Thirteen counties, including Bibb, Clarke, Colbert, Covington, Crneshaw, Escambia, Fayette, Lowndes, Marengo, Marion, Montgomery, St Clair, and Washington, have suffered from 20 to 29 per cent damage.

"Twenty-one counties, including Butler, Calhoun, Chilton, Choctaw, Cleburne, Conecuh, Elmore, Etawah, Greene, Hale, Jackson, Lawrence, Lee, Madison, Randolph, Shelby, Sumter, Talladega, Wilcox and Winston, have suffered from 30 to 39 per cent damage.

"Fourteen counties, including Chambers, Clay, Cullman, Franklin, Jefferson, Lauderdale, Marshall, Mobile, Monroe, Morgan, Perry, Russell, Tallapoosa and Walker, have suffered from 40 to 49 per cent damage.

"Four counties, including Baldwin, Blount, Limestone and Tuscaloosa have suffered more than 50 per cent damage."

demonstrated before your eyes!

WE have painted up a "Scottie Car" simply to demonstrate the increased mileage of this new 1936 Ford V-8. It is not a "special" Ford car. It is a regular 1936 stock model Ford V-8 with distinctive exterior decoration and a glass gallon jug connected with a Zenith tester. No adjustments have been made to make it perform differently from any new stock car. The jug is added so that you can see a measured amount of gasoline used with your own eyes, instead of having it come from the tank at the rear.

Take a ride in a "Scottie Car." See for yourself that a Ford V-8 is just as economical on gasoline as smaller, less powerful cars. You can arrange it without cost or obligation by calling— YOUR FORD DEALER

SOCIAL SERVICE IN THE EARLY CHURCH

LESSON TEXT — Acts 4:32-35; II Corinthians 8:1-9.

GOLDEN TEXT—He said: "It is more blessed to give than to receive."—Acts 20:35.

PRIMARY TOPIC—How Jesus' Friends Shared.

JUNIOR TOPIC—When Christians See Others in Need.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Christians Sharing With Others.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Christians and Social Service.

Social service in the early Church was a by-product of the gospel and not the gospel itself. Those who are saved by the gospel will show their concern for their fellows, especially those who are fellow members of the body of Christ.

I. Characteristics of the Primitive Church (Acts 4:31-35).

1. It was a praying church (v. 31). The early Christians for every want and need betook themselves to God in prayer. Their faith caused them to go to the living God, believing that their needs would be supplied.

2. The Spirit-filled church (v. 31). When they prayed, the place was shaken wherein they were gathered together and they were all filled with the Holy Spirit.

3. It was a church which had great boldness in preaching the Word of God (v. 31). The ministers of the Spirit-filled church will not offer any apology for the Bible, but will preach it.

4. It was a united church (v. 32). They were all of one heart and soul.

5. It was a generous church (v. 32). They held nothing back from those who had need. The needs were supplied from a common fund. This was not Communism any more than when the church today helps from a common fund those who have need.

6. The ministers had a powerful testimony (v. 33).

7. It was a church whose members possessed unblemished character (v. 33). Great grace was upon them all.

II. Generous Act of Barnabas (Acts 4:36, 37).

He sold a piece of land and turned over all the proceeds to be used for those in need. It is not said that Barnabas sold all the land he had. His act, therefore, cannot in any real sense be used as a precedent for a community of goods in the church.

III. Stephen the Deacon (Acts 6:1-8).

As soon as the church had relief from external troubles, difficulties arose within. Up to this time it would seem that the problems of the church were in the hands of the apostles. A congregational meeting was called, the case placed before the church, and the church instructed to select seven men of good reputation and Spirit-filled, to administer the temporalities, giving the apostles time for prayer and the ministry of God's Word. Among the seven deacons thus chosen, Stephen had first place. While engaged in his duties as a deacon, he sprang into the light as an eloquent and powerful preacher.

IV. The Good Deeds of Dorcas (Acts 9:36-43).

Dorcas was a practical Christian woman. She was full of good works and almsdeeds which she did, not what she talked of doing. Her death was a real loss. If all professing Christian women would use their needles as Dorcas did, there would be more real testimony for Christ.

V. Christian Stewardship (II Cor. 8:1-9).

1. Examples of true Christian benevolence (vv. 1-5). The liberality of these Macedonian churches exhibits practically every principle and motive entering into Christian giving.

a. The source of true giving (v. 1). is said to be the grace of God.

b. They gave from the depths of their poverty (v. 2).

c. Their willingness surpassed their ability (v. 3).

d. They were insistent on being allowed the privilege of giving (v. 4).

e. They first gave themselves to the Lord (v. 5).

2. Emulation of Macedonian benevolence urged (vv. 6-15).

a. Not as a command (v. 8). Acceptable giving must be spontaneous.

b. As proof of the sincerity of love (v. 8). Sincere love is benevolent action toward the object loved.

c. As the completion and harmony of Christian character (v. 7).

d. The self-sacrificing example of Christ (v. 9).

e. The true principle upon which gifts are acceptable to God (vv. 10-12). The motive of the giver determines the value of the gift.

f. Every Christian should give something (vv. 13-15).

Philosophy of Bacon

"While a little philosophy leads away from religion, much philosophy leads back to it." The man who said this was not an outsider, but a philosopher of the philosophers—Francis Bacon—the one, indeed, on whose inductive philosophy all the science of our modern world is built.

Waste of Life

The true waste of life consists in the love we have not given, the service we have not rendered, the sacrifice from which we have drawn back.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert

One of the most significant facts which came out of the New Deal national convention in Philadelphia recently, does not seem to Not one of the three living former Democratic casdidates for the presidency attended the have come into the consideration of any considerable part of the American people. There has been much comment over the fact that the word "Democrat" was mentioned so few times in the oratory at the big convention, while the term "New Deal" seemed to be on nearly every tongue. Much publicity was given also to the failure of the old-line Democrats, so-called, to participate in the convention. The statement which was sent to the convention by former Governor Al Smith and his four associates was not the only evidesce of this failure. Senators Glass and Byrd did not take a place on the resolutions committee. Not one of the three living former Democratic candidates for the presidency attended the convention, and such former leaders as Lew Douglas and Newton Baker were conspicious by their absence.

All of these things, as related, are symptoms rather than a condition itself. The significant fact, and there is a significant fact, as hinted above, is that it was not really a Democratic convention in Philadelphia as we have known Democracy in the past. The overturning of the two-thirds rule is one other evidence of the "New Deal". State's rights and other Jeffersonian principles were thrown overboard. . Local self-government has always been a cardinal tenet in the Democratic confession of faith. Those who believe in more centralized power at Washington were scornfully referred to by the State's rights men as Hamiltonians. The center of this states' rights sentiment was in the South, and the evolution of the Jeffersosian party into a New Deal party must come as a real shock to some of the Democratic leaders there. Friends of the New Deal pass off the effect of this change with the rather flippant statement that the Southern States will support the New Dealers anyhow, because they always vote the ticket bearing the Democratic label. This may be true, but there is no blinking the fact that some of the staunch Jeffersonian newspapers in Dixie are now bitterly critical of the New Deal and some of the opposition papers in the North.

Mark Sullivan, one of the most discerning political commentators in the country, recently pointed out this metamorphosis of Democracy into New Dealism when he declared that the New Deal is not the Democratic party nor a mere successor to the Democratic party but "a new order of government and society." Whether we are Republicans, Democrats, Jeffersonians, Hamiltonians, New Dealers or horse-and-buggyites, we will have to come to the realization that what Mr. Sullivan says is true.

Just what the New Deal is remains to be seen. It is still in the process of development. This is of Old World origin. It is not communistic, because it does not recommend the abolition of capitalism; it is not Nazi, because it does not countenance racial or religious oppression; it is not Latin Facist, because is does not advocate national imperialism. Andw yet, like all three, it is autocratic and paternalistic rather than democratic, because it seeks to increase the power of the federal government at the expense of the states and communities. It recommends regimentation in the place of individualism. It denounces "regimentation by big business" but seeks to fasten on the people regimentation by federalism.

We don't know what the New Deal will ultimately stand for, and perhaps the New Dealers themselves do not clearly percieve the answer. But one thing is certain: in the present campaign, at least, the place of old fashioned political Democracy as one of the two major parties has been absorbed by a New Deal.

ANSWERING THEMSELVES

Much attention has been paid by critics of the New Deal to the difference between the platforms of 1932 and 1936. Some have been unkind enough to remark that there was no need for the Philadelphia conventions getting all steamed up over the platform planks anyhow because, if the example of 1932 is followed the platform will be carefully wrapped in cellophane and stored in a dark corner of the cellar, in case the New Dealers succeed in winning the election in November.

One of the most remarkable things about the oratory at the Philadelphia convention was the "conspiracy of silence" on the part of the speakers as to the 1932 platform and the charges of opposition that this platform has been neglected during the New Deal administration. The only attempt at the answer has been that conditions changed so between the ime of the Democraic convenion and Mr. Roosevelt's induction to office that bureaucracy had to be bolstered rather than curtailed, that national debt shad to be increased rather than pared, and that regimentation necessarily had to be substituted for Constitutional procedure. It will be a little diffcult, however, to convince the average man that there was enough change between July 4 and March 4 to justify the scrapping of time honored principles of the Jeffersonian party.

In his keynote speech Senator Barkley attempted to justify the unprecedented New Deal expenditures by stating that they were necessary to prime the pump of business and that much if the money "loaned out" for recovery would eventually be returned to the public treasury. He added that the Constitution frequently causes difference in opinion among Supreme Court members and that difficulties of interpretation have perplexed nearly every occupant of the White House. This, of course, hardly explains the abandonment of the principles of states' rights, and a substitution of national regimentaton. Senator Barkley, of course, is a good orator and is only fair to say that he made as good a case as could be made for the New Deal record. The best answer to him can probably be found in the following quoted paragraphs:

"The cost of Government in the United States has increased out of all proportion to the needs of the people, or to the benefits received by them.

"Shall we pay service to economy, or shall we abolish every unnecessary office, every useless commission, every redundant bureau that has been established * * and lift from the backs of the American people that intolerable and unbearable load which weighs them down today until they can scarcely look the sun in the face?

"This government of ours is the people's government. The Constitution is their Constitution.

"It is not a wholesome thing to have eight of ten million men and women unable to procure labor from which to support themselves and their families in a nation which has boasted if its supreme wealth."

Now this statement of principles did not come as an answer to Senator Barkley from Governor Landon. Chairman Hamilton, former President Hoover or Senator Moses. The implied answer to Senator Barkley, the keynoter of 1936, comes from a speech of Senator Barkley, the keynoter of 1932. New Deal orators have now come to the point where their words of four years ago can be quoted as an answer to their assertions of 1936. The Republicans have their medicine all mixed for them. All they have to do is to memorize the 1932 Democratic platform and the supporting speeches made by the New Dealers made in the campaign that year.

NEW DEALERS AND DEMOCRATS

In accepting the permanent chairmanship of the Cleveland convention, Bertrand Snell, of New York, correctly stated the views of many Republicans when he said: "The party is not contending against the Democratic party as such, but offers to lead America against all dictatorship. We shall need in executive positions and services of constitutional Democrats and Republicans alike."

The preservation of the rights of the people of the several states to rule in their own domestic affairs since the days of Thomas Jefferson has ever been a cardinal principle of the Democratic party. Under that principle, the people in the sates were to govern their own state affairs without federal interference. It was home rule for home affairs. If they wanted to experiment, the state and not the nation was the laboratory.

The New Deal, however, has disregarded and flouted this fundamental principle of the Democratic party, as evidenced by recent Supreme Court decisions, and has pursued a policy of centralization and merging of legislative power into the executive which, if unrestrained, means a dictatorship.

It proved to be the result in Germany. She has her Hitler. And the same is true in Italy; she has her Mussolini. The gradual encroachment upon the rights of the people when unchecked, has always led to the same ends. To check such encroachments and restore the rights of the people, to govern in their own affairs in the several states, will be a major issue in the coming campaign. The principle is Jeffersonian; it is democratic; and constitutional Democrats preferring home rule to the loaves and fishes from Washington may be expected to vote for its preservation and in so doing they will be but supporting the time-honored principles of their party.

The New Deal party is not the Democratic party. It donned the livery of Democracy to obtain control and then deserted it. Who ever heard of Tugwell, Hopkins and Ickes, the key administrators, as national figures in Democratic conventions, who, outside the classroom, ever heard of Felix Frankfurter, the President's close adviser, before he was called on to formulate New Deal policies? These men were not national figures in the councils of the party. They are classroom theorists, New Dealers, and yet they, more than any other group, have been formulating the policies of the present Administration.—Tulsa, Okla., News.

"Yes" said a newly wed to her maid, "I do hate to have my husband kiss me after he comes from the barber's. I do so detest the odor of brilliantine on his mustache."

"Do you realy ma'am?" replied the maid. "I rather like it."—Brown County, Kansas, World.

MAN IN THE MOON

PROMISE AND PERFORMANCE

"Boondoggling"

In his publication "On Our Uay," released in 1934, on page 87, written by President Roosevelt, we find the following, in reference to providing work for people on "made" jobs:

"To put 1,000 men to work with picks and shovels to dig up a water main on one side of the highway, and lay it again on the other side of the highway, is not only a silly project but it destroys the morale of the men who are doing the job."

Yet, on January 18, 1936, the president said: "I want o say jus one word about the usefulness of what we are doing. There is a grand word that is going around: 'booddoggle'. It is a pertty good word. If we can 'boondoggle' ourselves out of this depression, that word is going to be enshrined in the hearts of the American people fo ryears to come."

Another complete reversal of opinion. And with it went the creation of housands of worthless jobs, all the way from scaring the song birds out of Washington trees, to deepening the bottom of dry bed rivers in Arizona. And remember, this "boondoggling", which the President deplored so dismally in 1934, and praised so highly in 1936 has cost the American taxpayers billions upon billions of hard-earned dollars!

Civil Service

In a letter to the Civil Service Reform League in August, 1933, the President wrote: "The merit system in civil service is in no danger in my hands; but on the contrary, I hope that it will be extended and improved during my term as President."

In another letter, to H. Elliott Kaplan, Secretary of the National Civil Service Reform League, on September 17, 1935, he wrote: "The merit system has been and will continue to be extended during my administration."

In a radio address for the League of Women Voters, on Jan. 30, 1936, the President said: "There can be no question of broader moment than the maintenance, strengthening, and extension of the merit system, established in the competitive principles of the Civil Service Act."

Yet figures taken from the Civil Service Reports and Statistical Abstract of the United States are as follows:

"During the present administration, the number of employes in the executive branch of the Federal government (excluding the Army and Navy) INCREASED 136,244. During these same years there was a DECLINE of 11,897 in the number of employes under Civil Service. The percentage of employes under Civil Service declined from 80.1 per cent to 63.3 per cent."

A table released by this authority, sets out that there has been a gradual, but uninterupted increase in the percentage of employes working under Civil Service from the time of its beginning, under President Arthur, on up to the present administration, when the above 16.8 per cent drop was recorded.

President Roosevelt has excused this drop by stating that these workers were hired in "an emergency". Yet during the years of 1916 to 1918 when President Wilson was roganizing the nation for war, that "emergency" caused the employment of 479,703 special workers i nthe executive branch, and still the percentage of all such workers in this branch under Civil Service increased 2.2 per cent.

Compare—President Wilson in the "emergency" of war, increased the number of employes 478,703, and yet INCREASED the percentage under Civil Service 2.2 per cent, while President Roosevelt hired only 136,244 in his "emergency", but dropped the Civil Service percentage 16.8 per cent. Who can deny that this was a backward step?

The Post Office "Surplus"

On July 20, 1934, Postmaster General Farley made a report to the President on his first year's management of the Post Office Department. This report was in the form of a radio address, and the broadcast ove ra nation-wide hook-up, that all might hear it. Concerning the matter of the "surplus" in his department, which was played up by Democratic newspapers all over the country, including The Chilton County News, he had the following to say:

"When I assumed the office of Postmaster General, you (President Roosevelt) expressed the desire that the postal service be conducted so that the revenues and expenditures would approximately balance each other.

"I have the honor to inform you that preaudited figures for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1934, show, after making the USUAL ADJUSTMENTS authorized by law for certain subventions and free mailing services, that our postal receipts exceeded expenditures for the first time since 1919, the surplus being approximately $5,000,000.

"I take pride in making this favorable report and am sure that it will be most gratifying to you."

Those ADJUSTMENTS must have been quite far-reaching, for, although Mr. Farley was laying claim to a surplus of approximately $5,000,000, the Secretary of the Treasury, in his report, showed that the Post Office actually had a DEFICIT of $52,003,296. It took quite a bit of ADJUSTING to bring this about.

And in 1935, Mr. Farley claimed a surplus of $4,964,149.31, and the Secretary of the Treasury reported a DEFICIT of $53,970,405—a mere adjustment of some $68,934,554.31. It would seem that somebody up around Mr. Farley's office ought to have his adding machine looked over and cleaned—it seems to be making slight errors occasionally.

The Air Mail Contracts

Regarding the government's dip into the business of running the air mail first hand, Mr. Farley had the following to say at Wilmington, Delaware, on March 20, 1934:

"The simple fact is that from records taken from the files of the Post Office Department, from the files of air mail contrators, themselves, and from evidence produced before the Senate Investigating Committee, it was clearly shown that these contracts were given and obtained through collusion and fraud.

"If this administration was going to keep faith withe the people, these fraudulent contracts had to be wiped out."

Now, the independent Offices Appropriation Act, passed under the present administration, itself, provided that in such cases, 60 days notice must be given. Yet on February 9, without hearings in the matter, and with only 10 day's notice, Mr. Farley cancelled the air mail contracts. On the same day, Mr. Roosevelt, by executive order, commanded the U. S. Army to fly the mail. Twelve crack army fliers lost their lives in the brief period that the army was doing the work, and the cost to the government was $3,700,000, and the efficient Department of Justice, after two years of diligent search, has failed to gather evidence to secure as much as one single indictment in the collusion and fraud charged by Mr. Farley.

The Department of Justice, proved as a group of the best slueths the world affords—the same bunch who picked all the Public Enemies No. 1 from among more than 30,000,000 people, and disposed of them in short order, was unable to find this evidence which was so plain to Mr. Farley.

The army figures that it costs several thousands of dollars to train a pilot such as was sent out with the mail, and 12 of these were killed; all this besides the actual loss of $3,700,000 in cold cash—just another case where the present administration booted the ball. This incident has been hushed up, like so many other New Deal bungles.

Bureaus And Departments

At Sioux City, Iowa. os September 29, 1932, Mr. Roosevelt said:

"I accuse the present administration (Hoover) of being the greatest spending administration in peace times in all our history—ine which has piled bureau on bureau, commission on commission, and has failed to anticipate the dire needs or reduced earning power of the people. Bureaus and Bureaucrats have been retained at the expense of the taxpayers."

Before the New Deal, TEN agencies were dealing with the power industry; in 1935, under the New Deal there were TWENTY-THREE. TWO federal agencies were concerned with labor disputes in 1932; today there are TWELVE. In 1932 FOUR agencies were handling the problem; today there are FIFTEEN. Foreign trade in 1932 was handled by SIX agencies; today there are TWELVE—with no foreign trade to speak of. FOUR bodies managed farm loans in 1932; there are FIFTEEN now. And in making a Federal study of OVERLAPPING BUREAUS there are THREE DIFFERENT GOVERNMENT COMMITTEES, each entirely independent of the other, and all doing the same work, and considering the same problems.

This last committee business is about like "the blind leading the blind"—three overlapping bureaus, studying the problem of overlapping bureaus. And Roosevelt had the unmitigated gall in 1932 to tell the American people that the former administration was "wasting the tax money on overlapping bureaus."

As we go along with this series on "Promise and Performance", I want anyone who finds something in it which he does not believe, to come to our office, or to me, personally. and I will put the proof before you, in black and white—and red. Red, you know, is a sign of danger, and under the present administration, every department of the government has been and yet is " going into the red" with enormous deficits at every turn. We wonder if such will "break the depression" or break Uncle Sam. Three years of this has not broken the depression in very great degree, but it has put a sizeable hump in Uncle Sammy's back. —Man in the Moon.

A FOGGY DECLARATION

There have bees charges of straddling in political declarations of principles since the institution of the national convention was established. They have been made against the platforms of all major political parties. It seems only fair to say, however, that no example of this performance has been carried out than in the foreign affairs plank of the New Deal convention at Philadelphia.

The foreign affairs plank urges the party to the good neighbor policy, although the policy is not defined. Whether it envisages the cancellation of or the failure to collect the war debts, is not stated. The plank also opposes war, pledges neutrality in international disputes, pledges the party to work for peace and take the profits out of war, and to seek from being drawn by political commitments "into additional banking or private trading, into any war which may develop anywhere."

The platform pledges the party's servants to work for the lowering of tariff barriers by mutual agreement "but to continue as in the past to give adequate protection to our farmers and manufacurers against unfair competition or the dumping on our shores of commodities and goods produced abroad by cheap labor or subsidized by foreign governments."

During the past generation there has been a consistent effort on the part of internationalists to involve the United States in membership in the League of Nations and the World Court. Such involvement would undoubtedly entangle us by political commitment in every dispute that arose in the Old World anywhere. The New Deal administration made every effort it could to get Uncle Sam into the World Court but the Senate patriotically refused to accede to any such arrangement.

The foreign policy plank in the New Deal platform is strangely silent on the League of Nations and the World Court. If the New Dealers really wish to avoid political entanglements abroad, why not promise to keep the United States out of such Old World political entanglements? Is there as Ethiopian in the woodpile somewhere? Certainly it would be obviously impossible for us to remain strictly neutral in European dog fights if we were members of the League and the League Court. Why not say so?

One is also disposed to wonder how it will be possible to lower tariffs by mutual agreements and still protect the American worker and the American farmer from cheap foreign competition.

For the great commodities which the United States imports from abroad like coffee, tea, and rubber, but which are not in competiton with domestic products, are already on the free list. Obviously therefore, if we reduce traiffs on alien goods, it can only be on classes of commodities which are produced in the United States. Any such reduction is bound to affect the American wage and the American standard of living.

The Academy of American Poets has arranged for a $5,000 fund to encourage budding poetic genius. They don't need to put up any cash; all they need to provide is a little more spring weather, a verdant meadow flower-starred, a rippling brook, a few birds to sing and fleecy clouds overhead. With all this material at hand, if rhymsters can't produce poetry, money would not be able to prime the pump.—Schenectady, N. Y., Union Star.

PLATFORM PLEDGES

New Deal speakers who have been attempting to sound the "keynote" for the 1936 paign have on one occasion attempted to something derogatory to Governr Landon of that section of the Republican platf which indicates that any failure on the of a candidate to fulfill platform pro would be "a breach of public faith and honor." They have sought to insinuate the Republicans put this in the platform cause they wanted to "bind" Governor don to carry out his provisions.

But everybody who had studied polit history for the past three years must clea know that what the Republicans were dri was a criticism of the present administra failure to carry aut the platform pledges campaign promises of 1932. These pled including the curtailment of bureaucracy, ancing the budget, decreasing national d and expendiaures have been so often p ed to that it seems like committing a tr to mention them again.

The failure to carry out platform pled mentioned in the Cleveland resolutions reference to the record for the past years, and everyone undrstands that, those who are attempting to evade the i issue.

Far from attempting to "pin the platform Governor Landon", because of the fear of political integrity was far from the minds the delegates at Cleveland. Anyone who there is fully convinced of that. From very moment that the delegates assembled the city on the lake, indeed previous to t there was no serious doubt but that the publican voters wanted Governor Landon their standard bearer. Every attempt chcek the political tide flowing toward was in vain. He had not only the comp confidence but the support of the entire gation, including the member of the com tee on resolutions.

If the New Deal strategists can evade twist the issues in some way, they will performed a real politcial service for cause. But it is going to be pretty diffi to fool the American people on this partic subject. The record is too plain.

Luther Foshee Making Good Car Sales Record

DICK HAYES CONGRATULATING LUTHER FOSHEE ON PRIZE WON

Luther E. Foshee, local Chevrolet salesman for Hayes Chevrolet Company is receiving congratulations from his many friends in and around Clanton for winning he "400 Sales Contest" lately finished by the Birmingham zone of Chevrolet's sales organization.

Mr. Foshee is awarded a new Chevrolet Sedan for leading all Chevrolet salesmen in the Birmingham district. Below is given his letter to Mr. P. Sever, zone manager for Chevrolet Motor Company:

Clanton, Ala., July 8, 1936.

"Mr. P. Sever, Zone Manager,
Chevrolet Motor Company,
Birmingham, Alabama.

"Dear Mr. Sever:

"Let me express my thanks and appreciation for he Chevrolet Master Deluxe Sedan awarded me as winner of the "400" Sales Contest in the Birmingham zone.

"I attribute the result of my efforts mainly to the fact that the Hayes Chevrolet Company afforded 100 per cent cooperation in that the line of merchandise I was able to offer to my customers was in thoroughly good shape, conforming with the strict OK red tag requirements, and priced on a good marketable basis.

"Having these thoroughly reconditionad used cars available, which fact is attributed to the efforts of our used car Sales Manager, an enthusiasm was aroused which made me put forth extreme efforts to sell these cars to the buying public as well as my own customers and resulted in a very pleasant and profitable surprise to me.

"In view of the satisfactory results obtained in selling good clean reconditioned used cars at a fair marketable price, you can be sure we will maintain this standard in our future operations and also, you may be assured my personal efforts will be continued in high gear.

"Again thanking you, I am—Sincerely.

LUTHER E. FOSHEE

SCIENCE [illegible] NEEDED [illegible] TO RAISE PULLETS

New Ingredient Helps Poultrymen Move Up Laying Time By Three Months.

Mother Nature never intends for a pullet to lay eggs when she is five months old. Nature's plan is for a chick to be hatched in late spring or early summer, then after a long leisurely growing period be ready to lay the next spring. Nature's way, the pullet's food consists of weed seeds, bugs, green stuff and a little grain that she picks up here and there.

"Under Nature's plan, a pullet will lay but 60 to 80 eggs a year," says J. H. Burrell of the Poultry Department of the Purina Mills. "These eggs are laid in the spring of the year when eggs are plentiful and prices are low. With today's conditions, however, a poultryman can't afford to let nature take its course. He must have eggs in September and October, when egg prices are the highest of the year. Every egg in the fall is worth two eggs in the spring."

Burrell goes on to point out that in order to build a strong healthy bird, the pullet must go into the laying period with a good reserve of vitamin A stored up in its body. "It draws on this reserve as it goes through the laying period.

Growing Feeds Need Vitamin A

"In the past, poultry raisers have had to depend on alfalfa leaf meal, corn meal and fish oils to supply the vitamin A needs of the growing pullet. Both alfalfa leaf meal and corn meal are bulky feeds and it is impossible to include enough of each in the growing ration to build up a large reserve of vitamin A. The vitamin A fish oil deteriorates rapidly when mixed in feeds.

"The new vitamin A concentrate, Pur-a-tene, supplies in concentrated form, an aboundance of vitamin A. It is derived from carotene, a yellow-colored substance called 'pro-vitamin A.' When Pur-a-tene goes through the liver of an animal it becomes colorless vitamin A, the same as is found in cod liver oil. Yellow-colored pro-vitamin A as found in Pur-a-tene is very stable when mixed in feed."

Pullet on Range Need It

Even pullets on range need an abundance of vitamin A in their ration, according to Burrell. "Green stuff is rich in vitamin A in the spring when chicks are small," he says, "but as the pullet grows older and its vitamin A needs increase, the hot summer sun burns up the green stuff and reduces its vitamin A content greatly. Science has put Pur-a-tene in the growing ration to overcome this and give pullets the vitamin A they really need."

ALABAMA CRIPPLED CHILDREN SOCIETY MET FRIDAY, JULY 10

On Friday, July 10, the Alabama Society for Crippled Children held a Leadership Conference at the Jefferson Davis Hotel in Montgomery, Ala. The following people were in attendance from Chilton County: Mr. Luther E. Little representing the County Department of Education; Miss Irene Smitherman representing the Department of Public Health; Mrs. C. N. Parnell and Miss Nolan Meroney, repr seenting the Department of Public Welfare.

The meeting was presided over by Mr. W. T. Archer, President of the Alabama Society of Crippled Children. The program consisted of talks by outstanding leaders in the fields of public education, public health and public welfare; round able discussions of the problem involved in providing care and treatment for children suffering from physical handicaps; and reports from counties represented as to ways in which these problems are being met in the various counties.

Mr. E. H. Gentry, Supervisor of Rehabilitation and Crippled Chidren's Service, gave a summary of Aabama's progarm of services for crippled children. This program is a joint project of the State Department of Education, the State Department of Health and the State Department of Public Welfare. It is under the direct supervision of the Department of Education, in cooperation with the other child-caring agencies. Since the organization of the Alabama Society for Crippled children in March, 1926, to Feb. 1, 1936, according to Mr. Gentry, 1,971 crippled children have been restored at a cost of $88,618.21. Parents financially able to care for their own crippled children have been encouraged to have the work done. Through the medium of clinics, an average of about 1,600 children per year have been reached, and parents have received the advice of orthopedic surgeons for care of their children. More recently, provision for the care of crippled children was incorporated in the Federal Social Security Act. Alabama's program was the first to be given Federal approval, and Federal funds are now available to the State for matching purposes. The Alabama legislature has made an appropriation of $40,000 per year to the Crippled Children's Service, but under the State budget law only about $10,000 is actually available. This makes it necessary for counties to raise funds with which to match money made available by the Federal Government, over and above State participation, if the program is to go forward and actually meet the needs of the crippled children in the State. Through the sale of Easter seals, and in various other ways, the counties have responded and, it is hoped will continue to respond, to the plea of the crippled children to restoration.

Two very interesting features of the conference were talks by Dr. Keller State Superintendent of Education, and Dr. Baker, State Health Officer. Dr. Keller stressed the fact that not only crippled, but normal children as well, are being handicapped by the present distressing school situation. He urged a more active part of the lay public in the school child and his problems, to the end that legislators may be convinced that the people by whom they represent really want full term schools and are willing to pay for them.

Dr. Baker discussed the present infantile situation in the State, and urged that every precaution be taken to prevent the spread of this terrible disease. Mr. Baker urges abandonment of all public gatherings in affected areas and urges people not to go into the counties where the disease in now epidemic.

After the business session in the afternoon the counties represented gave reports on the results of the Easter Seal sale and other activities through which funds were raised for the care o fcrippled children. The total amount raised in Chilton County was $105.94. We feel very grateful to the Clanton Pilot Club, whise interest in the movement was responsible for the raising of a large portion of this amount.

With funds raised in Chilton County, one case has already been selected for treatment as soon as hospital facilities are available. Several other cases have been reported and are under consideration by the local committee. With the funds at hand now we will be unable to meet fully the needs of the County for the current year, but let us hope that the interest in this work will continue to grow until no child in Chilton County, whose condition can be remedied, will be permitted to grow into adulthood a helpless cripple.—Nolan Meroney, Committee delegate to the Conference.

Seven Months Term

Montgomery, Ala., July 15.—Alabama must and will support the minimum School Program guaranteeing a seven-months term for every county, Mrs. James Fitts Hill, president of the Alabama Congress of Parents and Teachers, declared in a state-wide radio address from here this afternoon.

Mrs. Hill said that the amount a state can spend on education depends upon the wealth of the state and the willingness of the citizens to spend their money for schools. Since Alabama uses a smaller percentage of her income for education than do all eastern states except Arkansas and Georgia, she can afford to spend more.

Because Alabama did not make the effort that most states did to support schools, the term in 1934-35, even with federal aid, was the shortest in the nation. Negro children in Texas, Maryland, Florida and Tennessee had longer terms than the white children in Alabama.

IN MEMORY

On July 2nd, at 6:45, the death angel came and took away our loving sister, Mrs. Cora Baker.

She leaves to mourn her loss: a husband, Mr. Alfred Baker; a father, Mr. Payton Mims; three sisters—Mrs. Floyd Bailey, Mrs. Susie Cleckler and Miss Janie Mims; two brothers— Mr. Irvin Mims and Mr. Oscar Mims, and a host of relatives and friends. She was laid to rest in the Cane Creek cemetery.

She was a good Christian woman, trusted in her God, always serving Him. Early in life she united with the church at Cane Creek, 32 years ago.

We miss her sweet smile, but we know that if we live for God as she did we will meet her in the sweet by and by, where there will be no more partings and no more sorrow and suffering.—Written by one who loved her, Mrs. Floyd Bailey.

FARM CREDITS

Judge John D. Petree, State Director of National Emergency Council, calls farmers' attention to loans now available through production Credit Associations in Alabama.

Judge Petree states that in addition to emergency loans being made by the Resettlement Administration, a n d loans being made direct by the Secretary of Agriculture (known as seed loans), funds are always available through Production Credit Associations.

Further information may be had from County Agricultural Agents, Home Demonstration Agents or teachers of Vocational Agriculture schools.

CARD OF THANKS

We take this means of expressing our gratitude to those who were so kind and helpful during the bereavement of our mother and grandmother. We especially wish to thank Mr. Cope, Dr. John Elland, and Rev. J. W. Enfinger for the words of comfort, and services rendered. May God's richest blessings abide with each and everyone of you.—Mrs. W. A. Calloway and family.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank the people for the kindness shown us during the illness and death of our loving husband, Clarence R. Mims, and infant son.

We especially thank Dr. Gragg and his nurses of Central Alabama Hospital, also Dr. N. S. Johnson and his nurse.—His loving wife, Mrs. Lucille Mims.

SACRED HARP SINGING

There will be a singing in the sacred Harp books at Zion's Rest church, three miles south of Enterprise school, next Sunday, July 19th. All singers and lovers of music are invited.—C. J. Patterson.

How are your eyes? If you are troubled with them, maybe you need Glasses. Upchurch fits glasses scientifically with latest improved equipment.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our sincere thanks to the doctor and nurses for their kindness administered to our dear sister, Mrs. Cora Baker, through her illness and death. We also wish to thank the other friends for their kindness, especially Mr. Mell Maritn. May God's richest blessings rest with them.—Mrs. Floyd Bailey and family.

PREDICAMENT IN ALABAMA

To the Editor:

Alabama has been highly praised for its splendid welfare program, but actually that program exists only on paper and in the hearts of some of Alabama's embattled social workers. Unfortunately the promise it holds must go largely unfulfilled for lack of funds by which to carry it out. Alabama's record is enviable. It runs back to a top-notch emergency relief progarm to the predepression Child Welfare Department which enjoyed a national reputation. Not so enviable was its seemingly haste to be the first state to abandon federal relief. One is driven to fear that Alabama is now coasting along on its past achievements not in the least for lack of competent leadership, but wholly because of the dearth of wherewithal with which to operate. Most of the counties have not the resources to carry out the program, edicts from Washington to the contrary notwothstanding. The State Legislatire apparently sincerely believes that it can do nothing.

Fundamentally, Alabama has never accepted wholeheartedly the necessity of public relief, except in the larger industrial areas. The rural viewpoint is that such necessity that exists should be treated by individuals, and Alabama is predominately rural. Rural public opinion could not understand the wage policy of federal relief whereby a man was paid as much for a day's work as he could earn by farm labor in a week. Equality of wage rates for whites and negroes ran counter to accepted standards. Local prejudice built up by the relief administration's ignoring or snubbing of political officials, persists.

The Department of Public Welfare appeared upon the scene rather suddenly, from the public's viewpoint, though it had been before social workers for months. It was accepted without much reckoning o fthe cost less because of any real conviction of its necessity or understanding of its scope than for purposes of political regularity with the national administration. Now that the cos is becoming apparent the politicians (who it must be remembered, reflect the sentiment of their constituents) are unwilling to levy the extra taxes necessary to foot the bill. This sentiment is not expressed openly. Old age assistance is too popular among the prospective beneficiaries for that; and few politicians have the hardihood openly to oppose aid to widows with dependent children. Meanwhile old folks wait patiently for their pensions, widows for the measure of security for which they hoped. Insecurity and uncertainty rests heavily on the shoulders of social workers. Stafffs have been cut and in many instances the salaries of those remaining have been cut.

The job immediately facing workers in Alabama is to convince the public first, of the desperate need thta can not or will not be met except through public sources, and secondly, of the value of trained and decently paid personnel to do the job. That effort is under way. Its success is a matter of conjecture.—Alfred W. Hobbs, Montgomery, Alabama.

BOB JONES COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

The writer has just returned from evangelistic campaign in Hamilton, ario. The Canadians are loyal to crown. Great Britian has great wer throughout the world. England probably the most stable governnt in the world, yet there is unrest the British Isles, in Canada, in In- and more or less unrest in all British colonies. As a matter of there never has been a time en there was such world-wide un-. There is something psychic about unrest. Unrest makes men build mes, accumulate fortunes and build ilization, yet unrest destroys the homes, wrecks the fortunes, and overthrows civilization. If the modern unrest could be harnessed by the gospel which "is the power of God unto Salvation to everyone that believeth," the whole world could be saved. The unrest of the modern world is largely directed by godles sand atheist influence. This means destruction.

Men cannot be saved en masse. Some Christian worker said, "If I have one thousand souls to save, I would save them one at a time." As a matter of fact, that is the only way you can save souls. Fundamentally, all men are alike. The looks of men may differ, but under the skin, in the soul, men are the same everywhere. Of course some are cultured and some are not. Some are educated and others are not, but all the time, everywhere, human nature is the same. Men must be dealt with individually. That was the method Jesus employed. You may feed men en masse. You can organize armies en masse. You can vote them in political campaigns en masse, but when it comes to salvation, it is "whosoever will." It is a personal matter. It is, "believe on the Lord Jesus Christ and thou shalt be saved." It is "If any man thirst, let him come unto me and drink."

The greatest benefactor the world ever saw is the soul winner. A man will pay a lawyer a thousand dollars to keep his boy off the chain gang. The soul winner keeps him out of the trouble which makes him deserve the chain gang. A person will give a surgeon all he has to operate on his daughter to save her from death. The soul winner keeps the girls from the death that is eternal.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Be Sure They Properly Cleanse the Blood

YOUR kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as nature intended—fail to remove impurities that poison the system when retained.

Then you may suffer nagging backache, dizziness, scanty or too frequent urination, getting up at night, puffiness under the eyes; feel nervous, miserable—all upset.

Don't delay? Use Doan's Pills. Doan's are especially for poorly functioning kidneys. They are recommended by grateful users the country over. Get them from any druggist.

Mr. Lande is carrying a large adv. this week, telling about the exceptional bargains he is offering. Turn to it, and you will be amazed at the specials he is offering.

Mr. and Mrs. Barnett Deramus returned Sunday from a few days vacation at Orange Beach.

LIGHTNING PICKED AROUND BUT NOBODY INJURED

During the recent electrical disurbances in the vicinity of Clanton, lightning has been playing around right promiscuously. No person has been hit as yet, but property damage has been noticeable.

Last Saturday night the home of Jim arant in Reynolds Addition was struck by lightning, and one corner of the house shivered considerably. Monday night two more houses in that part of town were struck—those of Dewey Eubanks and Mrs. Julissa Farley. Also a smal barn of Jim Parrish, two miles north of town, was set fire and burned up during the disturbance Monday night. His Main barn only a few feet away was saved.

Only a few weeks ago the home of Stewart Armstrong, in Reynolds Addition was struck by lightning and a large hole torn in the roof.

Hailstorm At Enterprise

Reports came in Tuesday morning that Enterprise community suffered a severe hailstorm about the same time lightning was playing around Clanton so much. Corn and cotton, and in fact all crops, were severely damaged on a number of farms in the vicinity of Enterprise and Bethany.

Rain was extremely heavy in the Collins Chapel community, according to reports; terraces and fields were washed badly.

Nasal Spray Preventive

The use of a specially developed nasal spray for the prevention of infantile paralysis was discussed in Montgomery Tuesday night by Dr. Charles Armstrong, who has done much experimental work with the spray. The point was emphasized that the spray has proved effective on experimental animals, and much hope was held out that it would prove equally as effective when used on the human. So far the spray has been used on quite a group of children, as well as adults, in Alabama and while it is too early to say whether or not it will prove effective in preventing the desease, it has been found to cause no ill effects on the nose or throat.

This preventive measure has been recommended by the State Health Department. The County Health Officer has made arrangements whereby the physicians of Chilton County can procure this spray and anyone wishing to take advantage of this preventive measure can go to their physician or to the county health officer. The application should be made by a physician.

Attending the lecture from Clanton were Dr. J. M. Kimmey, D. C. O. Laurence, and Miss Irene Smitherman.

New Streets Being Laid Off In Reynolds Addit'n

East Section Of City Being Built Up And Improvements Being Made

Mr. Willie Crowson, one of the leading citizens of East Clanton, reports that work in under way toward dividing up a large portion of hte Reynolds addition into city blocks by laying off and working sreets. The Franz property and some adjoining acreage is being cut up into blocks. Plans are about perfected with City and County officials to construct a street, or rather extend the main street of that section east across the branch to join with the airport property. Another street is to run south and empty into the Parrish road just west of the bridge. This extension will necessitate the building of a bridge across the ditch, or Black Snake Creek.

Another street building venture of considerable importance to that section of the city is one to run north and go into the airport road between the Gray home and E. W. Miller's place. Complete arrangement for this right of way with one property owner has not been completely worked out, but it is not anticipated that and hindrance will occur from this. The building of this street will open up a very fine stretch of residential property along both sides.

Another important feature is that mail delivery will very likely be instituted as soon as these streets are finished. Mr. Crowson says that Postmaster Downs has assured him that one of the rural carriers will be routed hrough the secion as soon as openings can be made so as to avoid any re-traces.

East Clanton bids fair to become one of the leading sections of the city. Already Mr. Crowson has a large feed crushing mill out there which does a great business for the farmers of the county, and Mr. Harlem Willis has a store to take care of the wants of the citizens. When Mayor Jones gets his water works extension through and giving them water, then Reynolds Addition will really be an attractive residential section of the best little city in Alabama.

TWO-JOB LEGISLATORS ARE CONDEMNED

Montgomery, Alabama — Governor Graves' "two-job" legislators should in all respect to the people of Alabama, resign following the report condemning such political office plundering by the Montgomery grand jury, Jeff P. Beeland, campaign manager of the Consumers Anti-Sales Tax Association, said here in commenting on the report made by the jury.

The grand jury, which investigated dual job holding charges brught to the attention by P. M. Paschall, Perry county planter and field representative of the Consumers Anti-Sales Tax organization, found no indictments against seven legislators named by Paschall, but devoted three pages of its report to scoring the idea of legislators being appointed to jobs by the executive department.

"The report of the Montgomery grand jury expresses the sentiment of the people of Alabama and these double job-holders should see the hand writing on the wall and resign," Beeland said.

FOUR ARRESTS BY CITY

City officers made four arrests during the past week, according to Mayor C. Fenn Jones. These, with their disposition, are as follows:

One for violating the prohibition law. This case was postponed to a future court.

Three for public drunkenness. One was fined $1 and costs; another was given 10 days on the streets; the third case postponed.

PLANTERSVILLE GIRL'S ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

Selma Ala.—Mr. and Mrs James Carter Friday, of Plantersville, announce the engagement of their daughter, Maybelle, to Archer Clifford Morrow, of Spartanburg, S. C. The wedding will be solemnized in August. Miss Friday graduated at the Dallas County High school at Plantersville. She attended the Alabama College at Montevallo and the State Teacher's College at Livingston. For several years she has been a teacher in the Plantersville school.

Mr. Morrow is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Archer Morrow of Section Valley. He is also a graduate of the Dallas county high school. He now makes his home at Spartanburg, where he is employed by the Southern railway.

IRA CROWE NOW AT CLANTON CASH STORE

Mr. Ira Crowe, a veteran grocery salesman, is now working at Clanton Cash Store. Mr. Crowe has been selling groceries in Clanton for the past decade, and during this time has established for himself a record of fair dealing, courteous treatment, and one of efficiency for his employees.

Mr. Crowe works well anywhere he seems to be needed. If it is cutting meat he does that, and if he is called to the vegetable corner, he is found at home there.

Mr. Crowe, and Mr. Deloach, the manager, invite you to do your trading at Clanton Cash Store, where courteous service predominates.

SOME NEW DEAL LITERATURE

The Union-Banner has in its possession a limited quantity of literature explaining some things about the New Deal's negro propensities and other administration propaganda at Washington and elsewhere, which the people of Chilton County ought to have.

When you are in Clanton, come to our office and we will be glad to let you have some of this literature to distribute among your neighbors and friends. It contains information that the public should know about but which is generally withheld from them.

MEETING HELD AT AIRPORT TO DISCUSS DEVELOPMENTS

A meeting of citizens of Clanton with State officials of WPA work, Montgomery, was held at the Clanton airport last Tuesday afternoon from 5 o'clock until 7:00. A delicious barbecue and watermelons were served to all present. Speeches were made by Judge Reynolds, Mayor Jones, J. J. B. Atkinson, W. M. Wyatt and Dr. Kimmey.

Mr. Ray Crowe, head of the WPA in Alabama, made an interesting talk, as well as Mr. Henderson and others from the State department.

The visitors and guests of honor were Ray Crowe, State director of the Works Progress Administration of Alabama, from Montgomery; H. N. Smith, of Montgomery, project supervisor engineer of planning and designing; N. B. Barton, area supervisor of the Third District; A. H. Fleming, county representative of WPA of Dallas County; A. J. Hawkins, state engineer of the WPA; W. G. Henderson, director of the Third District of the WPA. About 25 citizens of Clanton were present.

It is hoped that federal funds may be procured to further develop the airport, build a hangar, a community house and a swimming pool.

The WPA officials from Montgomery promised to co-operate to the extent of their ability, and assured Clanton people of a fine airport and numerous other improvements, if possible.

It's In The Bag Now

In fact, to the editor of The Union-Banner, the statements of Messrs. Crowe and Henderson were most positive that very soon Clanton is to have an airport four times as big as it now has, and that paved streets and highways will become so common that they will be a nuisance to us in Chilton County. They said that we would have all of these things before Mr. Landon beats the President, and to The Union-Banner this statement from these WPA officials is unequivocal. We are going to have a real airport and gobs of paved streets and highways, because their only condition will be met. Landon IS going to beat the President.

F. E. & C. U. OF A. UNION RALLY

The F. E. & C. U. of A. will have a public rally at Center Hill local, (2 miles west of Jemison) on Saturday, August 1, 1936. We have made arrangements to have with us our national President, Mr. Everson, from St. Charles, S. Dakota and our state officials. Plenty of good speaking. Everybody is invited to come and spend the day with us.—B. L. Cobb, Chm., M. E. Champion, Y. A. Marler, Spencer Brady, and S. A. Harrell.

IT'S A GIRL

Mr. and Mrs. Esby Gibbons (Sara Yarborough) of Deatsville, are being congratulated on the arrival of a daughter on July 6, 1936. They have given her the name of Dorothy Jean.

Dr. J. Toy Williams Coming Back To U.S.

Baptist Missionary Will Arrive In Seattle, Washington, August 5th

The Union-Banner is in receipt of an interesting letter from Dr. J. Toy Williams, Baptist Missionary to China. This letter was written in Shanghai, China, and dated June 27.

Dr. Williams stated that his plans were to leave Shanghai on July 21st, and that he expected to arrive at Seattle, Wash., about August 5th. He asked that his copy of the Union-Banner each week from now until August be so addressed that it would meet him in Seattle.

He did not state whether he was coming home to stay, or whether he was only off on furlough. However, his instructions as to mailing his paper are to send it to Ridgecrest, N. C., after August 1st. It is expected that he will visit his relatives and friends in Clanton soon after arriving in the states. Dr. Williams has been a missionary to China for a number of years, and on one occasion returned to Clanton for a short furlough.

VERBENA CABINET SHOP WILL HAVE BRANCH PLANT HERE

Mr. Wayne Hiten, of Verbena, announces that he will open up a cabinet shop in Clanton within the next few days. It will be a branch of the shop which he and his brother, Hollis Hiten, have been operating in Verbena for the past several years.

Mostly refinishing work will be done in the Clanton shop, which will be located in the Plier building on the highway above Clanton Motors.

THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY AND THE NEGRO

For two-thirds of a century now the Democratic party has wielded a black bludgeon with which to club into submission the white electorate of the South. In fact, the Democratic party in the South has maintained its very existence through fanning the fires of race hatred, through appeals to passion and prejudice. It has posed as the champion of racial purity, even though the practices of some of its individual members have been strangely at variance with that pose. It has proclaimed itself the defender of Anglo-Saxon rule, overlooking the fact that in the North it is the party of the alien and the radical. It has consistently used the black man as a bludgeon to coerce the voter and has sought to brand as outcasts and traitors to the blood all who have dared to oppose it. It has never to this good day hesitated to resort to an appeal to the baser passions of man, where the appeal to reason has failed.

Today, with the 1936 presidential campaign getting under way, we are being treated to a strange and startling spectacle. The old familiar bludgeon appears to have been laid aside, until after election day at least; and in its place, a caressing hand has been laid on the shoulder of the hitherto despised black brother. It appears that we may actually go through a national election in Alabama without hearing much, if anything, about the heel of the Ethiopian on the neck of the Caucasian, and all the old familiar bedtime stories hitherto used to scare the faithful into the fold.

What is the meaning of it all? Does it indicate a real outpouring of brotherly love, a Christian spirit of tolerance, of peace on earth, good will to men? Sad to say, we fear it does not. It simply signifies that the Democratic party has hopes of garnering in some black votes in the North, and is trimming its sails accordingly. The Socialistic doctrines of the New Deal have found a ready response among the radical fringe of the negro race, as of the white. Now that it scents an opportunity of utilizing the black man to further its political aims, the Democratic party suddenly discovers, or pretends to discover that it has been mistaken all along about the Black peril. It seems that the negro is a menace only so long as he is not a Democrat; let him vote "right", and he becomes, as a race, worthy of the love and affection of the Democrats. So we witness the strange spectacle of even Southern Democrats flirting openly with their former untouchables. All the proud boasts and noble fulminations about white supremacy and protecting our homes and firesides from the Ethiopian menace—all cast to the winds for the sake of some black ballots in Harlem and Chicago.

There was something pathetic in the walk-out of Senator Ed Smith from the Philadelphia convention. From that great gathering of the host of democracy, with its colored preacher praying, its colored Congressman orating amidst wild applause, its colored delegates stamping, strode forth this solitary figure from the Palmetto State, sole surviving white hope, as though symbolizing the departure of a dead tradition, a lost ideal. There were no cheers for this futile gesture; on the contrary, fellow Democrats rushed into print to condemn a course of action which they would have been first to applaud, in the days before they found it expedient to grease and swallow the Senegambian.

Even the esteemed Montgomery Advertiser, whose editor sat in that convention with his black brother Democrats, has since carried an editorial branding the discredited Carolinian as a demagogue. Said the Advertiser sarcastically, "We Southern Democrats are too low down to go through a State political campaign without making the helpless negro a scapegoat in a white man's contest."

The Advertiser should know well whereof it speaks, for it is only a few short years since its columns were opened to appeals to race hatred in the effort to defeat Hoover. Only yesterday the Advertiser sounded the old battlecry, and Democratic orators depicted the horrors to come if the black man should be allowed to get out of hand. Among these orators, applauded by the Democracy of Alabama, was the unspeakable Bilbo, who repeated in this state the base libel against Hoover, charging him with having danced with a negress. Today, the old battle flag is furled, and the Advertiser and its ally, The Birmingham News, unite to denounce Senator Smith for daring to uphold the dying traditions of a decaying Democracy.

So the Democratic Party wipes out the color line within its own ranks and stands forth to do battle on the issues of the campaign. We believe that time will show this to be a mistaken step, and that the negro votes gained in Northern States will be dearly bought. For the white people of the South are conservative at heart, and as between the radicalism of Roosevelt and the Americanism of Landon, there is no question where they belong. History will show that when the Democratic party took over the negro, it signed its own death warrant in these Southern States. For, however much we may decry the use of the black bludgeon, it was undeniably effective, and with it laid aside the Democracy of the South is left disarmed and ineffective.

Southern white men and women are coming more and more to realize that, while the radical doctrines of the New Deal are a menace in the nation as a whole, they are particularly dangerous in the South with our large illiterate colored population. Before going to the polls in November, every Southern white man should ask himself, and answer for himself: What party or group today, in 1936, is contributing most to racial unrest and bad feeling and future trouble in the South? Every Southerner who is honest with himself knows the answer.

The greatest menace to Southern institutions today lies in the twin perils of the New Deal and Communism. For three years and more, agents of the New Deal have been spreading discontent among the idle and shiftless negro element, making them believe that the world owes them a living, that they should depend on the next "draw" on relief rations rather than honest work. The New Deal emissaries have prepared a fertile field for the seed of Communism, whose stealthy agents are abroad in the South, sowing the doctrines of armed revolt and bloodshed and racial intermixture. Whether intentionally or accidentally, the "parlor pinks" of Mr. Roosevelt and the straight red disciples of Lenin and Stalin are working hand in hand in the South, a fact apparent to any observant Southerner.

As for the Republican party, it does not conceive it to be the function of government to support in idleness either lazy and shiftless negroes, or lazy and shiftless whites. In the South, as in the nation as a whole, the Republican party stands forth as the great bulwark against the encroachments of the socialist Roosevelt, who would enrich the slothful by robbing the thrifty through class legislation, and the Communist Foster, who would go just a step further and plunge us into the throes of class revolution.

GOVERNOR LANDON ON RADIO HOOK-UP TONIGHT

Governor Alf Landon, the Republ- presidential nominee, will make his acceptance speech over the radio at 8.00 o'clock tonight. It will be over a nation-wide hook-up. Don't fail to tune in and hear him. It bids fair to be the greatest speech of the times.

FAMOUS BIBLICAL LEADER TO WRITE CHURCH FEATURE

Harold L. Lundquist, dean of the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago, and one of the most widely known Biblical authorities in the country, has assumed the task of preparing the popular "Sunday School Lesson" which appears regularly in The Union-Banner.

Dean Lundquist succeeds Rev. P. B. Fitzwater, veteran writer and Biblical student, who also is a member of the Moody Bible Institute staff. Dr. Fitzwater's review and interpretation of the international Sunday school lesson has been a feature of leading newspapers for the past 23 years. It has grown in popularity through the years winning a following which has been termed "the largest Sunday school class in the world."

Dean Lundquist is particularly well oquipped to carry on the work being relinquished by Dr. Fitzwater. He is a graduate of the University of Minnesato, legally trained and a member of the bar. He attended Princeton Theological Seminary and was graduated with the first class compiting the pastors' course at Moody Institute.

To round out a life of varied experiences, he has had army training to supplement his legal and theological education. He is very popular as a speaker and as a teacher of men's Bible classes.

You will find Dean Lundquist's exposition of the Sunday School lesson extraordinary olluminating and helpful. Watch for it in this paper each week.

WPA APPROVES 64 PROJECTS FOR ALABAMA

Allocations Expected Soon, Rush Reveals; State's figure not Definite

Washington, July 16.—Alabama now has 64 projects on the Public Works Administration's approved list, with an estimated total of $11,505,591, according to Orville Rush, contact man for Gov. Bibb Graves here.

At the close of Congress a list of 5 projects amounting to $6,892,677 was announced. Since then 30 have been added at an estimated cost of $4,612,-914, and more are being added almost daily, Mr. Rush reported.

First actual allocation of funds are expected to be announced shortly.

President Roosevelt's first fund approval is expected to be between $20,-000,000 and $24,000,000 to be scattered throughout the states. Alabama will draw between $750,000 and $1,100,000 to start.

Among newly approved projects, listed by Mr. Rush since his last announcement are:

Clanton municipal improvements $71,000.

Two Huge New Deal Projects Abandoned

Ten Million dollars Has Been Thrown To The Wind By F. D. R. Experiments

Washington, D. C., July 11.—Untied will the tides of Quoddy continue to ebb and flow. Failing to persuade Congress to appropriate any more funds for the $38,733,000 tidal power project in Maine and the $138,000,000 Frorida ship canal, president Roosevelt last week decided to discontinue all work on the two ventures, on which $10,000,000 of relief money has been spent.

The decision portended that Quoddy would soon become almost a deserted village. Colonel Fleming, Army engineer in charge, announces a gradual shut down of operations, with closing of field labor camps on July 31. A force of 1,200 workers will be reduced as rapidly as possible, and abandonment of certain parts of the village now occupied by 200 families, is contemplated. Civil Service employes on the project are being transferred to the other engineering districts, but workers of the vicinity are to be returned to their homes.

In Florida it is expected that the work already done on the ship canal will not be a total loss, because a prospect that the University of Florida may be able to use some of the buildings.

MID-WEST STRAW VOTE REPORTED FOR LANDON

Chicago, July 17.—Results of a private poll in Iowa, Southeastern Nebraska and Northwest Missouri, showing 64 per cent of the ballots for Landon and Knox, were announced today by the national headquarters here.

The poll, headquarters said, was taken by radio station KFNF, and it added that President Roosevelt received 39 per cent; Congressman William Lemke, third party candidate, 3 per cent, the balance was undecided.

Dr. Kimmey motored to Pinkard for the week end. He was accompanied home by Mrs. Kimmey and the children who had been visiting there for several weeks.

Republicans Will Have Complete State Ticket

State Executive Committee Votes To Wage Intensive Campaign In State

The Alabama State Republican Executive committee met at the Tutwiler Hotel in Birmingham last Thursday at 11:00 o'clock. The meeting was held in conjunction with all the chairmans and secretaries of the various county Republican organizations in the state, who were officially notified of the meeting some weeks ago.

Hon. O. D. Street, chairman of the State campaign committee outlined some of the objectives of the Republican organization in Alabama, and pointed out the necessity of an intensive, militast campaign in the state. The State Committee voted to conduct a campaign in the State, and also to put out a complete State ticket including the presidential electors. The commitee proceeded to name the candidates for the various offices to be filled, and instructed the committee officials to have their names placed on the ballots this fall.

There were about 200 in attendance at this meeting. It was most enthusiastic and harmonious all the way through. The principal sheeches were made by Hon. O. D. Street and Hon. C. O. Vardaman, but several short addresses were made by other members of the committee from various counties, and other interested parties. Several Young Republican officials of the State were present, as well as Mrs. Pearl Wates and Mrs. Clary, National Committeewomen and chairman of the women's work, respectively. One of the two Republican editors of the State, T. E. Wyatt of Clanton, was present and made a few remarks to the gathering.

Dr. J. C. Swann, of Wedowee, presided, and Hon. T. J. Kennamer, of Birmingham filled the place of secretary. Mr. Kennamer also acted as chairman of the meeting after Dr. Swann absented himself in the latter part of the meeting.

Attending the Birmingham meeting from Chilton County were: J. N. Dennis and T. E. Wyatt of Clanton, and C. C. Conway of Jemison.

SHERIFF REPORTS 14 ARRESTS

Last Monday morning Sheriff J. R. Hardy reported that 14 arrests were made by his officers during the past week. These, with their disposition, were as follows:

Two for assault and battery. Bond for $200.

Two for public drunkenness. One is in jail. The other three were released in justice court on payment of fine and costs.

One for petit larceny. Bond for $300.

Three for driving a motor vehicle while intoxicated. Bond for $200 in one case. The other two are still in jail.

Two for violating the prohibition law. Bond for $300 in each case; the other two are in jail.

One for manufacturing whiskey and possession of a still. In jail.

CLANTON GOSPEL TABERNACLE

Rev. A. J. Dailey is preaching every night this week at the Clanton Gospel Tabernacle. Services begin at 7:30 every night.

The subject for Thursday night will be: "The woman who painted her face, tied up her head, and looked out the window."

Everybody is invited.

TILLERY-POSEY

A wedding of much interest occurred last Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Posey of West Chilton, when their daughter, Gladys, became the bride of Albert Tillery, of Birmingham.

Rev Maurice Hodgens officiated. A few friends and close relatives witnessed the ceremony.

The bride wore a custome of blue crepe with white accessories. She wore a shoulder corsage of pink roses and fern.

The happy young couple will make their home in Birmingham.

DOLLAR STORE HAVING BIG ANNIVERSARY SALE

Mr. H. Pinkerson, of the Dollar Store, is this week celebrating his three years in Clanton with an anniversary sale. Simultaneous with the anniversary event, Mr. Pinkerson is putting on a summer clearance sale, in which he offers the buying public some exceptional bargains.

Turn to Mr. Pinkerson's adv. on the back page of this paper, and read more about what he is offering, and most of all, visit his store during the next few days.

VACATION SCHOOL AT CLANTON METHODIST CHURCH

The Board of Christian Education announces that the Vacation Church School will begin at the Clanton Methodist church on next Monday and continue for two weeks. A special session will be held each week-day except Saturday from 8:30 to 11:30 a.m. Children eligible for enrollment in the school must be four and not over twelve years old. Among those who are to serve on the faculty are: Mrs. L. J. Stewart, Mrs. D. W. Waite, Miss Lois Thompson, Miss Mary Emma Dickey and Miss Guy Lois Dickey.

MT. PLEASANT BEAT 12

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me space in your paper for a report of the annual singing held at this place on last Sunday. Although the weather was threatening and somewhat disagreeable, we can say that the singing was a success, and the day was well spent.

The following were the directors for the day: W. J. Northcutt, A. H. Glasscock, Ira Grant, Mrs. Goodman, Mrs. Shaw, H. V. Northcutt, P. M. Cleckler, Norman Campbell, Mrs. Pool, E. L. Glasscock, Dock Harris, Bernie Dean Cobb, Miss Mims, and Sam Collins.

Pianists were: Mrs. Shaw, Mrs. Crim, Mrs. Martin, Mrs. Northcutt, and Miss Melba Northcutt.

The Oak Grove quartet and the Acton quartet gave several numbers. We also had a solo by Mrs. Goodman of Tarrant City, a special arranged by H. V. Northcutt and two numbers by Paul and Willie Jene Northcutt.

We want to thank each and everyone who helped in the singing. Also those who helped to prepare the good dinner which was enjoyed by all. We invite everyone to come back again, especially the third Sunday in July of each year.—Reporter.

MT. CARMEL NEWS

We are glad to see the attendance of our Sunday school and B. Y. P. U. still good. We are thankful for this and urge everyone to come and worship with us.

Rev. Billingsley preached here last Sunday morning. We enjoyed his sermon and invite him back again at any time and all times.

Prof. A. O. Boswell is teaching a singing school here now. It began on July 13 and will continue for 20 days. We already have 30 pupils enrolled and we still expect more. Everyone come and help us make up a good singing school.

We are sorry to state that Mrs. Rittie Watley is on the sick list this week. We hope she will soon be well and back with us.

Everybody remember our prayer meeting here every Wednesday night. Everyone is cordially invited to our church at all times.—Reporter.

NATIONS REUNION

On Sunday, July 19, we met at the home of Mr. and Mrs W. R. Nations for a family reunion in honor of relatives from Georgia. The morning was spent in talking, laughing and making pictures.

At the noon hour a bountiful dinner was spread in the yard. Thanks was returned by S. J. Nations. The dinner was enjoyed by everyone.

Those attending this reunion were: Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Nations, Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Nations, Mr. and Mrs. Otis Nations, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Nations and little daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Luther Nations, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Nations and little son, Mr. and Mrs. John Wingard and baby, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Littlejohn, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Cherry and family of LaFayette, Georgia.

Misses Inez Nations, Callie Nations, Sara Maud Nations, Mary Elizabeth Nations, and Mary Lois Cherry.

Messrs. Valford LeCroy, Herschel Hand, J. C. Cherry and Edward Nations.

Late in the afternoon all returned to their homes hoping to meet again sometime. The day was greatly enjoyed by everyone.

ROBINSON SPRINGS

Editor Union-Banner:

We, the people of Robinson Springs wish to announce that we have put off our protracted meeting until the 4th week in July, starting on Saturday night, on account of the meeting running at Collins Chapel. We invite everyone to come and be with us during the revival. We also have an all day singing in the old books, on the 3rd Sunday in August.—Lessie Davis, Secretary.

ALL DAY SINGING AT MT. CARMEL NEXT SUNDAY

Everybody remember the all day singing at the new Mt. Carmel church, six miles Southwest of Thorsby. Everyone remember the date and come. Bring your new song books and a well filled basket. It's next Sunday, July 26th.

PARDON NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned, John Mims, who was convicted in the Circuit Court of Chilton County in November, 1935, for violating the prohibition law and sentenced to 11 months and 4 days in the penitentiary, will make application to the Hon. State Board of Pardons for pardon or parole. (Signed)—John Mims. 7-23-2tpd.

LETTER FROM DR. BOB JONES

Cleveland, Tenn.
July 9, 1936.

Dear Friends:

How time flies! September will soon be here. Young people will be saying goodbye to mother and dad and going off to school. That is a serious day in the life of a boy or a girl. The Bob Jones College, located in Cleveland, Tennessee, an institution which stands without apology for the old-time religion and for the absolute authority of the Bible and an institution which has as high educational standards as any other college in the United States, tries to take the place of mother and father in the life of every young person who attends the institution. If you wish to attend an institution which puts first things first and an institution which teaches young people how to live as well as how to make a living, write for literature to the Bob Jones College, Cleveland, Tennessee.

If you wish literature, write Bob Jone College, Cleveland, Tennessee.

Sincerely yours,
Adv. BOB JONES.

OLD FASHION PICNIC AT NEW CEDRON BALL GROUND

There will be an old-fashioned picnic at the New Cedron baseball ground on Saturday, July 25th. There will be a game in the morning, Verbena vs New Cedron. In the afternoon Spring Creek will play New Cedron and possibly one other game after this. Ice cream and cold drinks will be sold and there will be plenty of fun for everybody. Come and enjoy the day with us. Bring a well filled lunch basket, and let's all have a grand time.

Bring along your pennies so you can be in the lucky contests. We hope to have music to keep everybody in good spirits.

Don't forget, Saturday, July 25th. Come early so you won't miss any of the fun, and bring your lunch basket full-up.

PLEASANT HILL

Our Sunday school and B. T. U. are going along nicely at this place. We had a large crowd out Sunday to hear the wonderful message Bro. Robinson brought us.

Miss Polly Crawford, Mrs. W. W. Wyatt and two sons, Hue Arthur and Johnnie, from Myrtle Wood, Ala., are here visiting relatives.

Misses Lillian Mims, Jesse Cleckler, Dotha Cleckler, Central Cost and Polly Crawford were the Sunday dinner guests of Mrs. O. L. Martin.

Miss Attis Gore and Miss Willie Mae Davis spent last Friday night with Misses Jesse and Dotha Cleckler.

Misses Ressie and Lessie Ellison spent last Thursday night with Miss Central Cost.

Misses Central Cost and Polly Crawford attended services at Robinson Springs Sunday morning.

It has been reported that the singing school at this place is one of the best ever had.

We are looking ahead for a good revival at this place, beginning on the first Sunday in August. Visitors are always welcome.—Reporter.

BOB JONES

COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

The world says "get all you can and can all you get". Christianity teaches us to get all we can honorably and legitimately and give everything we have to God. Every talent we have came from God. We have no right to capitalize the gifts of God for curselves. If we are able to sing, we should recognize our voice as God's gift. If we have personality and executive ability, we should remember that these talents came from God. Every talent is a gift from Him. We have no right to take anything from His hands unless we are ready to give back to Him what He gives to us.

"When in Rome, do as the Romans do." That is a wicked idea. When in Rome, do as a Christian should do. As a Chaistian, I am to use the world and not abuse it. If I am in Paris or London or Rome, I eat at the table, sleep in the beds, and travel on the buses of the cities, but if I am a Christian, I do not do what the people do unless they live as Christians ought to live. Daniel did not do what the Romans did when he was away from home. He lived like a servant of God ought to live. Many people leave their religion at home when they travel abroad. A real Christian is just as true away from home as he is at home.

"Times have changed." We often hear that expression. This is true a sense. We now ride in automobiles In the old days, people rode in wagons. We listen to radios and our fathers had no such privileges. The material things about us have cranged. Science has accomplished a great deal for the comfort of modern man. However, the problem of right and wrong holds. It is just as wrong to steal as it ever was. It is as wicked to take God's name in vain now as it was when Moses came from the mountains with the Commandments in his hands. the trouble is we have developed our modern world materially and we have been dazzled by our achievements that we have to a great extent lost sight of the principles of right and wrong. The buzz of the motor, the hum of machinery, the noise of the airplanes, and the voice of the radio have well nigh drowned out the voice of God. None of these things can bind up a broken hearts or blot out sin. The two big problems of the world are sin and sorrow. We must have God to solve these problems.

ISABELLA CEMETERY CLEANING

There will be a cemetery cleaning at Isabella church on Friday morning, July 24th. All who have people here or are interested in the cemetery are asked to come and help us.—C. C. Jones.

MT. SPRINGS NEWS

Rev. Stanley filled his regular appointment at this place Sunday and Sunday night. He was accompanied by Miss Davidson and a group of young people from Thorsby. These people put on an excellent C. E. program for us which was thoroughly enjoyed. In this group was a quartet composed of four Thorsby boys. They sang two songs that were very good. We appreciate the cooperation of the Thorsby church and invite them back to worship with us again.

We are glad to have Jack Higgins with us this week. He is teaching a vacation Bible school and is also interested in scouting. See him and talk with him. It will be worth while.

We extend our sympathy to the bereaved people of his community who have lost loved ones recently, especially Mr. Clyde Moates.

BIRTHDAY DINNER

On last Sunday, July 12th, the children of G. W. Wilson met at his home with fill edbaskets and enjoyed a bountiful dinner, Saturday, the eleven being his birthday.

The cake which held fifty-seven candles revealed the secret.

All the children were present except one daughter at Sylacauga. Those who enjoyed the dinner were: Mr. and Mrs. John Wilson and children, Roy, Earnest, Raymond and Lois, Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Wilson and children, Cecil and Evelyn, Mr. and Mrs. Grover Rich and daughter, Katherine, Mr. and Mrs. Reedie Patterson and daughter, Inez and Mary, Mr. and Mrs. Newbern Jones and sons, Ralph and Morris, Rev. Homer Carroll, Mrs. John Hayes and daughter, Myrtle and W. H. Wilson.

The day was much enjoyed by all and we wish him many more happy birthdays.

Mr. Tom Tiffin is in Owensborough, Kentucky this week visiting his mother who is in a hospital there.

PLEASANT GROVE

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by J. W. Fant, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County

FARMERS OF CHILTON RECEIVE LARGE RENTAL PAYMENTS

Farmers of Chilton County received a total of $557,789.04 in rental and benefit payments and profits on cotton options between the time the AAA program started in 1933 and Feb. 29 this year, reports county agent, J. W. Fant, who has been responsible for distributing the checks to farmers in this county.

Total benefit payments to farmers throughout Alabama have amounted to $39,237,230. Statistics furnished by county agent, J. W. Fant, also show that the total value of cotton and cotton seed increased from $37,402,000 in 1932 to $84,105,839 in 1935, an increase of 126 per cent.

In releasing these figures, Mr. Fant states that this increase in income has played on important part in increasing the business conditions in Chilton County and the State of Alabama.

CHILTON FARMERS RECEIVE LARGE ADJUSTMENT PAYMENT

Chilton County farmers have received $48,526.30 in cotton price adjustment payments, J. W. Fant, County Agent said today in advising the farmers who have not already filled out application to do so immediaely as July 31 is the last day on which applications will be received except on cotton in the ten cent loan.

Cotton price adjustment payments to farmers of Alabama totaled $2,858,824.49 through June 31, according to information received by J. W. Fant from Dr. L. N. Duncan, director of the state extension service, showing that over $4,000,000 will have been distributed to Alabama farmers by the end of this month.

Walter L. Randolph, administrative officer in charge of the Agricultural Conservation program in Alabama, advises that every effort is being made to distribute all cotton price adjustment checks just as soon as possible. Most of them will be issued by the end of this month, he says.

APPLICATIONS MUST BE FILED BY END OF MONTH

Auburn, Ala.—Farmers mush make application to the government for the cotton price adjustment payment by midnight July 31, announces W. H. Robertson, member of the State Agricultural Conservation Committee, who states that cotton must be sold before July 31 to be eligible for price adjustment payments, unless the cotton is in the 10 cent loan.

Farmers who sell their cotton while it is above 12 cents per pound will not be entitled to a payment on the cotton sold during the period as the price adjustment payment is 12 cents minus the average price of cotton on the 10 designated cotton markets the day the cotton is sold.

ALABAMA FARMERS PAID $38,237,230 IN 3 YEARS

Alabama County Agents have distributed $38,237,230 in cash to farmers throughout the state since the Agricultural Adjustment program started in 1933, Dr. L. N. Duncan, president of the year before the Agricultural Addirector of the extension service announced today.

Dr. Duncan also reports that the total value of the cotton and cotton seed advanced from $37,402,000 in 1932 the year befoer the Agricultural Adjustment program began, to $84,105,839 in 1935, an increase of 125 per cent. "This increase in farm income has not only helped farmers, but it has improved business conditions throughout the state," he said.

U. S. FARM TAX BILL SMALLEST IN 16 YEARS

Auburn, Ala.—The farm real estate tax bill is 1935 was $365,000,000, the smallest in sixteen years, reports the Bureau of Agricultural Economics to the Alabama Extension Service. The total compares with a peak of $567,000,000 in 1929, with $393,000,000 in 1919, and with $218,000,000 in 1913.

Farm taxes increased annually with few exceptions for nearly forty years—from 1890 through 1929, when the average tax per acre was about six times that in 1890. This long upward trend was broken during the depression. Last year the tax was about three and one half times that in 1890.

The bureau recently completed tabulations on farm real estate taxes per acre for the years 1890 to 1930 for 198 representative counties in 23 states, based on information obtained from county tax records as part of a W.P.A. project administened by the bureau.

In 1930 the tax rate per acre for the country as a whole averaged about 10 cents. By 1900 the tax was up to 12 cents an acre, by 1910 it was 18 cents, by 1920 it was 50 cents, and by 1929, it was 59 cents—an all time peak. Taxes then fell sharply, breaking the long-time up swing, and by 1934 averaged 34 cents an acre. Preliminary estimates indicate an average rate of about 37 cents in 1935 also.

LAY DAM 13—CLANTON 12

The Lay Dam Killowatts defeated Clanton last Wednesday afternoon 13 to 12. It was an old time slugging match, with each team gathering 14 hits. The Killowatt's hits were good for a total of 14 bases, while Clanton's 14 blows went for 21 bases.

Foshee led his mates with three hits. Tom Reynolds leading for Clanton with four.

The Killowatts got Grant, starting Clanton pitcher, out in the 6th frame, afer he had been the victim of several glaring errors.

In the seventh, Clanton got Foshee for 6 hits and 6 runs, and manager Crit Jones applied the hook at the beginning of the seventh, with Warren finishing the game.

Lay Dam made 7 errors, and Clanton 6. Williamson hit for the circuit for Clanton in the wild 7th, when his hit got over Green's head and was lost in the grass.

GINNERS WILL RECEIVE REFUND OF EXTRA COST

Auburn, Ala.—Forms for ginners to apply for refund of extra expenses under the Bankhead Cotton Control Act are now in the hands of County Agents, reports Walter L. Randolph, administrative officer in charge of the Agricultural Conservation program in Alabama.

Ginners may fill out the forms, file them with the county agent and collect up to 25 cents a bale on the cotton they ginned to pay for tagging the cotton, collecting certificates from farmers and makisg tax reports, provided they did not charge the farmers for this service when they ginned the cotton.

HELPS CONTROL WEEDS

Auburn, Ala.—Permanent pastures require care if they are to give best possible returns and protect the soil against erosion, according to C. O. Medlock project manager of the Soil Conservation Service at Anniston.

Dog fennel and bitter weeds are extremely troublesome in the Anniston section and other Alabama sections. These can be controlled by improving the sod and preventing the production of weed seed. The weeds cannot produce seed if mowed about twice a year, first in June and again in September.

STATE CAPITOL NEWS

Montgomery—Veteran political observers on Goat Hill are endulging themselves in unrestrained speculation over the bruited special session of the Legislature which they confidentially predict will be summoned within 60 to 90 days.

Though Governor Graves has made no definite statement that might indicate he contemplates another sitting of the lawmakers, a select few have emerged from his office with the feeling that he is burning midnight oil in the preparation of an acceptable program designed to assure full school terms and provide additional aid for public health and welfare activities.

Two major calamities—drouth and infantile paralysis epidemic—have served to focus attention of the invaluable service rendered by the latter two departments and, despite the tragic toll in human life and property, they have had the effect of moulding in the public consciousness an appreciation of the essential work of these social agents.

Several of the House members closely identified with the Administration insist the Governor's "call" will include the legalization of intoxicating beverages and a ane per cent gross receipts tax. They believe that these levies would bring $3,000,000 to $4,000,000 into the State coffers.

Operators of the few remaining river ferries were the only opponents to the Governor's plan to free the 15 State toll bridges.

On Thursday, July 16, the court denied a motion for rehearing of the case, but the die-hard ferrymen served notice they would appeal to the U. S. Supreme Court.

Fifty-five persons lost their lives in industrial accidents during 1935 and a total of $254,464 was paid in workmen compensation claims in 3,308 cases, according to a report from Frank M. Julian, state insurance commissioner.

Rapidly becoming the hub of New Deal agencies for the South, Montgomery has been designated as headquarters for the State loan certification offices of the Resettlement Administration for Alabama, South Carolina, Georgia and Florida, according to announcement of Rexford G. Tugwell, Federal RA administrator.

Simultaneously, it was learned that an allocation of $75,000 had been released for Alabama's drouth stricken farmers to be disbursed in the form of outright grants.

Paving In Shelby

Purchase of $125,000 in bituminous paving materials to be used in resurfacing and smoothing out sections of the Montgomery-Birmingham highway through Shelby County, was announced by Gaston Scott, president of the State Highway Commission.

Paving will begin immediately, Scott said. WPA workers have already spent several weeks widening the shoulders of the 22 mile stretch and repairing and replacing guard rails on curves, fills and culverts. The construction work will be done by State maintenance forces, together with convict labor. Several convict camps will be established along the roadway during the next week, it was learned.

Low bidders on road construction to cost more than $200,000 including nine miles of cotton fabric re-enforced paving were announced last week by the Highway Department, following the opening and tabulation of all bids received on four projects i nJackson, Houston, Walker and Bibb Counties.

The Alabama Bridge Commission last week received the $1,000,000 Dauphin Island bridge project for re-submitting the application for federal loans and grants to the Public Works Administration.

The original application was made by the county of Mobile but it was explained that the County was unable to go through with the required obligations because of legal restrictions.

$9,000,000 A YEAR

sounds too big to mean much, doesn't it?

$750,000 A MONTH

is still a vague sort of sum to most of us;

$173,077 A WEEK

stays a trifle on the dreamy side;

$24,657 A DAY

We're getting warm now; we can almost understand it:

$1,027 AN HOUR

and THAT'S a lot of money in anybody's language especially when that much money is going out

EVERY HOUR!

To Alabamians for Alabama

THREE quarters of a million dollars a month—paid out in wages, spent with merchants, manufacturers and dealers, paid in taxes—is one of the Alabama Power Company's principal contributions to Alabama's business activity, her prosperity and her social advancement.

This sum averages $173,077 a week, $24,657 a day, $1,027 an hour, EVERY HOUR—24 hours a day, seven days a week, 52 weeks a year—pouring out into Alabama channels of trade, giving jobs to Alabama people, sending men and women and children into Alabama stores with money to spend, making more jobs possible, creating a bigger market in Alabama for Alabama products, increasing opportunities for Alabamians in Alabama.

This money builds highways, it educates children, it supports churches. It touches the life of every county in the state—not only the counties we do business in, but all the other counties as well. It benefits every Alabamian — including yourself!

The $9,000,000 being spent by the Company in 1936—in payrolls, purchases and taxes alone—includes $3,750,000 in salaries and wages to over 2,000 employees, and every one of them lives in Alabama. It includes $3,000,000 worth of materials and supplies bought from Alabama firms or from firms represented in Alabama and employing Alabama people. It includes over $2,250,000 in taxes paid to the state, the counties, the towns and the school districts of Alabama.

Your monthly electric bill buys for you electric service that ranks with the best and cheapest anywhere. But it does much more than that, for your payments, joined with those of 110,000 other Alabama homes, offices, stores and factories, are playing a big part in Alabama's prosperity and progress. That money, in the hands of a Company whose interests are all wrapped up with Alabama's interests, is much like the music in the song—"It goes in here . . . and comes out here!" Mighty little of it remains in the hands of the Company. Mighty little of it goes outside the state. Most of it is paid out as fast as it comes in—to Alabamians for Alabama!

MAYOR JONES GETS REPLY ABOUT PWA APPLICATION

Following is a letter which Mayor C. Fenn Jones received recently concerning the PWA application for aid in paving the streets of Clanton and extending the water mains.

Jasper, Ala., July 20, 1936.

Hon. C. Fenn Jones, Mayor,
Clanton, Alabama.

Dear Mr. Jones.

Your letter of the 10th to Senator Bankhead has been forwarded here from Washington and has been received by me in the Senator's absence.

I have made some further inquiry about the application to the PWA for the Clanton project, and am informed that it is expected that the President will approve $50,000,000 PWA projects sometime this week. Alabama's share of this amount will be a little less than $1,000,000. If the Clanton project is not on the list of allotments which will likely be announced soon, I feel reasonably sure that we will be able to get this project on the list that is expected will be announced in about a month when the second allotment will be made by the President.

You may rest assured that we will keep right in behind these projects.—Sincerely Yours, CHAS. B. CROW, Secretary to Senator Bankhead.

IMPROVING BOTH LOCAL ROADS AND LOCAL ROAD ADMINISTRATION

(By T. J. Arledge)

Federal aid for secondary roads is no longer a subject simply to be debated but is actually with us at the present time. But, to justify the use of Federal money for secondary roads through county units we must, of course, assume that the county-unit plan for handling secondary roads is desirable. Although there is some difference of opinino on this subject, it would seem that the experience of several states offers sufficient proof that with the proper organization the county-unit plan is very satisfactory and could be improved to proper standards of efficiency.

Wherever the county units are operating efficiently, there seems to be no question about continued county control of secondary roads. Nearly all the questions raised in opposition to the county control is in those states where a great many of the counties are not properly organized and there is a decided contrast between state and county efficiency. This means that something should be done to improve the counties that are not operating efficiently. There are various ways of bringing about the improvement. Some new state legislation will be required. In the case of Chilton County the last session of the state legislature enacted a law providing a road supervisor to direct and develop a plan of procedure for a permanent county road unit for the purpose of bringing the road system up to a proper standard of efficiency, to so improve cosditions that we may be able to continue county control of the secondary roads. The important question at this time is whether the county officials themselves will see the necessity of making these improvements. In states where the state highway deparment is aperating efficiently and the counties are not, it is perfectly natural that there should be some tendency to turn all the work over to the state.

Federal aid to the states has been just about 100 per cent successfully in raising the general average of state work. In the beginning, federal supervision may have irritated some of the officials in backward states, but no one can truthfully say that the results did not save money and give the public better service. Similar results may be expected in the county work. Chilton County wants her portion of these federal funds but we do not propose to turn over to the state highway department the natural control of our county road system, and something should be done to provide a fair plan to guarentee and protect the allotments to the ciunties.

The county is the logical existing agency of local govement, exercising most of the related local governmental function of which local road administratian is one. The conclusion is not invalidated by charges of inefficency and local policies on the part of county government. Requirements of uniform accounting, establishment of sound minimum standards, functional and physical classifications of local road system, unified road adminstration within the county, and adequate planing, of the road system, both of itself and in relation to comprehensive county planning can place county road administraton on a basis of effciency and sound operation.

If this does not remove local pilitics from local road adminnstration the remaining politics will be far less sinister than the politics possible under centralization of all local road administration in the state. Again if counties are not logically territorial units—and there are generally not—the answer is not to tear out of county administration the functions of government that can be performed satisfactorially by no other governmental agency. Chilton County will continue control of her road system because we are building a road organization to equal the efficient operations of any county unit in the state.—Yiur road supervisor.

CULLMAN ELECTRIC PROJECT OPPOSED

Cullman, Ala., July 18.—A petition for an injunction to restrain the Cullman County Electric Membership Corporation from competition with the Alabama Power Company, was filed in Circuit Court here today by the utility.

Judge W. W. Callahan set the case for hearing at Decatur Friday.

In the bill, the Alabama Power Co. said the defendant, a cooperative association, proposed to obtain power from the Tennessee Valley Authority, and sell it to rural subscribers.

The suit set out the rural electrification program of the Alabama Power Company, providing for 3,000 miles of rural power lines in 1936-37 and 38, and asked that the Cullman corporation be restrained from interference with the program.

The petition alleged the Cullman corporation, through it sagents, was engaging in unfair competition with the Alabama Power Company, because it paid no taxes, had not complied with the laws of the State pertaining to utilities, and because the utility had been granted franchises to supply electric power in the area in which the concern proposed to operate.

A statement issued in Birmingham by Thomas W. Martin, president of the Alabama Power Company, set out that his firm had conceded certain areas about Muscle Shoals to the TVA, but that Cullman County was outside the area.

The Thorsby Tennis Club has chosen for its name, "Raquetiers." Its members have accomplished a great deal during the last few days. Through a kindness of some of their friends, including some of the merchants, Thorsby Institute, the Eastern Star, and others, they have been able to raise enough money to buy their wire for backstops for the two courts and also two nets. They hope to add to the remaining fund enough to buy raquets and balls. The boys of the club have put up the backstops, and made one court ready for use. The other court will soon be ready. The club is using the two courts on the Thorsby Institute campus. The membership fee for this club is ten cents.

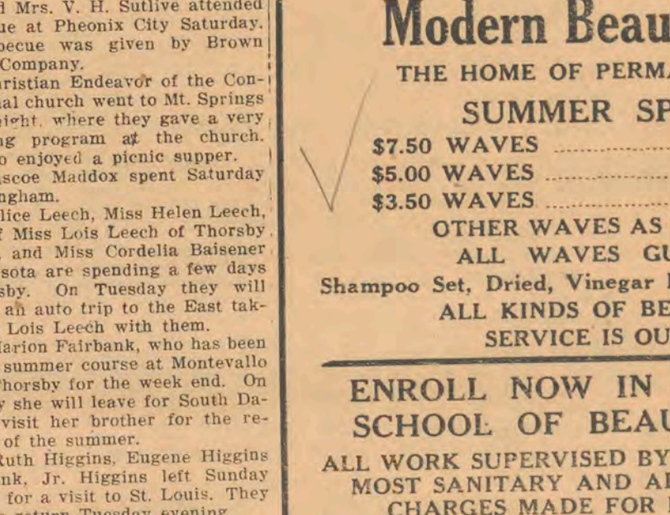
Hints On How To Make Your Climate To Order



Temperature extremes! Last winter in Illinois as compared with this summer on the ocean beaches.

MAN, with the aid of clothing, artificial heat and shelter, can stand natural temperatures pretty well. These have been observed to run as low as 80 degrees below zero at Little America and as high as 136 in Northern Africa, though he doesn't do very well in either. But his own ingenuity has immensely extended that range; he has created 459° below zero, and he uses heats of 6,000° in his electric furnaces. Yet his own existence really flourishes between 20° and 100°,—only 1/80th of the range which he can command.

Temperatures do interesting things. Water, for example, at atmospheric pressure can exist as water only over an extent of 180°, since at 32° it becomes ice and at 212° it becomes steam. "Dry ice", much used for packing nowadays, is 109° below zero. In climates, the United States can show an average January temperature, in North Dakota, of 8° and an average January in Southern Florida, of 70°. In summer, July averages 63° in Washington State and 90° in Arizona.

In Panama, 2½ inches of rain once fell in 3 minutes; and in Washington, D. C., 25 inches of snow in 24 hours. Mt. Washington, N. H., holds the national high wind championship,—231 miles an hour.

In Bloomfield, N. J., are two unique rooms in the world,—known as Climate Chambers. Used to study the proper control of indoor climates at the General Electric Air Conditioning Institute, their temperatures can be changed from 40 to 140 degrees, and their humidity from almost zero to 100%. It does not, incidentally, necessarily rain at 100% humidity. Artificial winds can be made to blow from any direction outside the rooms, and electric sunlight can be flooded upon them from any angle. Both inside and out, any desirable climate can be reproduced. They are producing much practical knowledge of how to get and keep, in our dwellings, the climate best conditioned for human health and comfort.

Did you know that the earth is 6,000,000 miles nearer the sun in winter than in summer? The rays are actually hotter; but the days are short, and the earth is turned at a slant so that the rays don't strike directly.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litachert

One of the principal handicaps of the Republican party, up until the Cleveland convention, was that the G. O. P. was suffering from the defeatest complex. A year ago, most any Republican you met would tell you if you asqed him, there was simply no use to get hopeful, as it was impossible to defeat the New Deal. They quated the remark credited to one Middle Western Democratic machine politician, that it was impossible to beat five billion dollars. They pointed to the number on relief and said that the aid being bistributed made it too difficult for the Republicans to win. This state of mind continued up until the Cleveland convention.

Then, almost as if by magic, the situation changed. The Republicans rubbed their eyes as though they were awakening from a long sleep and begin to thrust their chests into old time fashion. Old and experienced politicians had expected this change. For example, former Republican National Chairman, C. H. Huston told the writer last spring that the Republicans were apparently floundering around because they were without a candidate and need a leader to point the way out of the political wilderness. After the Republicans had chosen a presidential ticket, he predicted, things would change. And things did. The Republicans were fortunate enough not only to get a leader, but a popular leader, one who seemed to command more support than all of the other potential Republican candidates combined.

The Cleveland convention turned out to be more than a rally; it was an old fashioned revival meeting. Since the delegates and visitors went home they have rallied around Landon because they feel that at last, after four long years, they have a real standard bearer again. They have gained added courage, also, from the way in which John D. M. Hamilton, the New Republican National Chairman, has taken hold of things, for he immediately proved himself able to match verbal swords with the best blade wielders of the opposition.

As a matter of fact, there is no reason why the Republicans should carry a defeatest or an inferiority complex. For three quarters of a century, they had for the most part undisputed central of the federal policies of the United States. During that time there have been olng periods of prosperity and a few short periods of depression. During that three quarters of a century the United States has made an economic progress which has been long periods of prosperity and a few world. The Republicans, therefore, have no real reason to apologize. They took a severe drubbing in 1912 and came back after the opposition had read a political burial service for them. There is no reason why the party cannot come back again.

One thing disheartening to the Republicans is that they are used to winning and not bearing defeat. The Democratic party, which is usually in the minority, has no such faintheartedness because it is used to getting licked. The Republicans should learn a lesson here from their political adversaries. And if the G. O. P. should ask for advice—which it will not—then we would respectfully suggest that it forget about the political heartache of 1932 and 1934, and remember what it has done to the opposition so many times since 1860. Then the old courage will come back. There are a great many political prophets who say that it is already back.

Young Attorney—And if it please the court, if I am wrong in this, I have another point that is equally conclusive.—Toronto Globe.

HE WILL BE REGULAR

Regardless of the question of whether one agrees in the entirety or in the majority with the political principles and convictions of Senator Bora hof Idaho, the Republican organization which is seeking the election of Landon and Knox has cause to feel pleased over the announcement from Senator the from Idaho that he will support the G. O. P. ticket in the coming campaign.

"I am supporting the platform and I have been supporting the platform from the beginning" Senator Borah is quoted as stating as he met his friends on his return to Boise.

Anyone who has followed the long career of Senator Borah from his beginning in public life must have expected this sort of a statement. No matter how much insurging the Lion from Idaho may do in off years, he has always lined up with his party in presidential elections. Even the insurgent year of 1912, which brought forth the progressive party, manned by so many of his close friends, had no effect on the party regularity of Senator Borah. He remained a Republican that year in spite of party irregularity.

The fact that Senator Borah endorses the Republican platform is certainly one thing that might have been expected. Those who were on the inside of the Cleveland convention will tell you that Senator Borah had a big share in building that platform, especially the plank on foreign relations, with its turning thumbs down on the American membership in the League of nations and the World Court.

Furthermore, Senator Borah comes from a great Northwestern state and, believe it or not, these Northwestern states do not like Secretary Hull's reciprocal tariff treaty with Canada. They cannot see Mr. Hull's logic in helping the American farmer by making it possible for cattle, dairy products and lumber to pour across our border.

Senator Borah agrees with this view of the Idaho farmers on the Canadian tariff treaty and in a recent statement emphasized the importance of preserving for the American farmer the American market.

On having read the recent statement accredited to Senator Borah that "I have no intention of bolting the ticket," Governor Landon is repored to have remarked:

"I am happy to have the cooperation of Senator Borah in this campaign."

We don't blame him. If Senator Borah campaigns actively in the Progressive West for the Republican ticket, voluntarily and without the application of pressure in an attempt to line him up, the gain of the Republican cause will be much greater than that achieved by the New Deal in prevailing on Governor Lehman to run again in New York. The circumstances are different.

COUNTING THE COST

When a wise man purchases a piece of machinery or real estate, after a year or two of operation, he begins to figure out for himself whether or not the investment has been worth the cost.

In this campaign year of 1936, after we have had three and one half years of the New Deal, it is fitting that the average American voter do the same thing.

Some of the figures made public at the end of the fiscal year 1936, which closed on June 30, are enlightening, to say the least. These figures disclose that three and one half years of the New Deal have accumulated the terrific deficit of thirteen and a half billion dollars. The sum is so great that it staggers the human imagination.

During the fiscal year of 1936, Uncle Sam's expenditures amounted to approximately eight and three-quarter billion dollars, and while the Brain Trust was putting out this staggering sum, the government collected in the way of taxes, four billion and eight hundred million dollars. This means that every dallor taken in by the government, more than two dollars were expended.

The deficit for the year 1936, therefore, was nearly four and three-quarter billion dollars. For the fiscal year 1935 the deficit was $3,575,000,000 and for hte fiscal year 1934 it was $3,989,000,000.

The New Deal book keepers admit that the public debt figures are around 34 billion dollars. There is no dispute on that point. But some of the critics of the Brain Trust say with some pretty good argument on their side, that the real public debt is something like $38,600,000,000. The difference is accounted for by the fact that there are more than $4,600,000,000 in guaranteed government bonds outstanding: home owners loan corporation bonds, Federal Farm Mortgage bonds and R. F. C. Finance Corporation bonds. The optomistic of the New Dealers believe that these bonds will all be liquidated without cost to the government. Some of the realists are of the opinion, however, that Uncle Sam, who is "on the note", will have to make a lot of these bonds good himself. But at any rate, there is no question that the national debt is almost 34 billions.

Now with the public debt increased from around 20 billions to 34 billions, with two dollars going out for every one coming in, we may well ask the question whether the New Deal has been worth all it cost.

It is true that business has improved in many industries and trades. But it is also true that business has increased in Great Britian, Canada, South America and other countries where budgest have been balanced, and without any such tremendous expenditures.

It would seem that the Brain Trust would have to do a lot of figuring to show that it has been worth its cost. Especially when there are more than 10 million unemployed, and the expenditures for 1937 promise to be a billion dollars above the swollen figure of 1936.

DO YOU WANT ROOSEVELT?

"If you have a candidate you don't need a platform." That was the final decision in the White House, and the weary Philadelphia delegates were glad to take the result and like it.

The document that was handed to the convention after so much hesitation and recasting of phraseology is not really a platform at all. It is really a good, fighting pep talk for the faithful, so intended and so executed, a first-rate job of its kind.

"Do you want four more years of me?" That is its sum and substance. Of this candor the country can be appreciative, and from this point of view the platform repdesents an improvement over that of 1932. Then sincere Democrats, genuinely representing the best elements in the party, wrote a brief and clear statement of their policies. They nailed down most of their important issues so clearly that no one could misunderstand them. The party was pledged to economy, a balanced budget, sound money and the fostering of trade.—New York Herald Tribune.

MAN IN THE MOON

PROMISE AND PERFORMANCE

Extravagance and the AAA

The Democratic platform of 1932 contained this passage:

"We condemn the extravagance of the (Hoover) farm board."

Speaking in Sacramento, Calif., on Sept. 22, 1932, Mr. Roosevelt said:

"I have called for a reorganization of the Department of Agriculture to the end that it may serve the people better and cost the people less."

Speaking in Atlanta, Ga., on October 24, 1932, Mr. Roosevelt said:

"We are certainly paying enough for the Department of Agriculture to get something more useful than we are now getting. I have already proposed its reorganization. I am going to insist that we get more service for less money."

The Federal Farm Board under Hoover had a revolving fund of $500,000,000 to work with of which it spent $325,000,000, leaving a balance of $175,000,000. The Democratic platform "condemned this extravagance." Mr. Roosevelt proposed to re organize, and to "serve the people more and cost the people less." He reorganized oil right, and according to figures furnished by AAA reports, themselves, up to March 31, 1936, his "reorganized, Set-up had spent ONE BILLION, FIVE HUNDRED EIGHTEEN MILLION, NINETEEN THOUSAND DOLLARS!

On top of this, from 1932 to 1936, there have been employed in the offices of the Department of Agriculture 20,804 more employes who would not know the difference between a cotton boll and a cockle-bur, to whom was paid an increase of $117,118,324 over the former period. This money never even STARTED to go to farmers, but was for supervision of farmers.

And in addition to all the above, "Cousin" Rex Tugwell's Resettlecent Administration for rural purposes has cost the American taxpayer the nifty sum of $74,100,000, and Mr. Tugwell was quoted only a few days ago, while at Birmingham, as follows: "I will admit that the plan has not worked out according to schedule." Think of it! Pure experiments, with John Taxpayer paying the bill. All the above figures were taken from the Budget Message of Jan. 3, 1936, U. S. Civil Service Reports—they are authentic.

Markets

The 1932 Democratic platform stated:

"We favor effective control of crop surpluses so that our farmers may have the benefit of the domestic market.

"We condemn the unsound policy of restricting agricultural products to the demands of domestic markets."

In answer to these promises, agricultural policie sof the New Deal, according to figures given out by the U. S. Department of Commerce, have resulted in an INCREASE IN INMORTS of crude foodstuffs to the tune of 41 per cent, and in manufactured foodstuffs 49 per cent. I want our readers to take a look at the table given below, and see for yourself just how the reciprocal trade has affected the American farmer. While Americans were cutting their acreage in order to increase price, America imported the following amounts in comparison, for the years 1932 (that awful Hoover year) and 1935 (the year the administration points to with so much pride.)

The first figure is for 1932 and the second is for 1935.

Wheat, 3,000 bushels, 27,439,000 bushels; corn, 344,000 bushels, 43,242,000 bushels; oats, 59,000 bushels, 10,107,000 bushles; barley, none, 4,840,000 bushels; rye, none, 9,643,000 bushels; rice, 19,074,000 pounds, 53,457,000 pounds; barley malt, 52,533,000 pounds, 320,623,000 pounds; hay, 13,858 tons, 67,171 tons.

The above figures show very clearly how we increased our imports, buying from foreign farmers, while our American farmers and their farms stoo didle. Our farmers were sacrificing in order to raise prices, and foreign farmers were laughing at us for the fools we were making of ourselves, and at the same time selling us their products at the high prices our farmers had sacrificed to bring about.

At the same time our exports fell as follows: Cotton, 33 per cent; tobacco, 4 per cent; wheat, 99 per cent; flour, 42 per cent; meat products, 19 per cent; lard 82 per cent.

Once known as one of the greatest exporting nations on earth, we "fell from grace" in this line, according to the figures given above, under the "tender graces" of the grandiloquent and experimental New Deal. And just to show the shallowness of the whole New Deal set-up regarding the prices of farm products, the New Dealers gave all credit to the AAA for any rise in prices of raw products of farms, but laid all blame for shortages, and increases of costs of finished food products to the drouth, "and other causes over which the AAA had no control." They were attempting to eat their candy and keep it too. That can't be done.

And another thing—while they were trying to make you believe that you were receiving a grand bounty when you received those few paltry dollars for reduction of crops, they said nothing whatever about those big checks for thousands of dollars at a clip which were being paid to corporations and big land-holding companies. They prated of what they were doing for the "little man," but they said nothing of the big hand outs going to the "big man."

Furthermore, when Mr. Wallace was FORCED to show the record of payments for reduction of acreage, it showed that a great number of state prisons, and other like institutions had received vast sums. Now, when this money is to be paid back, you will pay your share (as taxes) and will pay the sum that went to those prison stoo, for the prisons pay no taxes. As usual, the "little man" has come out on the short end of the bargain again.

The Chilton County News has had much to say during these "three long years" about the "rich bounty that is flowing into Chilton County," but since the disclosure of the big fat checks that went to banks, corporations, and other land-holding concerns, the News has been as quiet as a mouse on the subject. They found out all about the "rich bounty" in our county, consisting of $50 and $100 checks, but they failed to hear about the big boys who got their checks written out in the thousands or more. But we are not surprised. To have mentioned this, The News would have been forced to admit that the New Dealers were "off" a bit—and to The News "The king can do no wrong." What about it, Mr. News Editor?

Crop Restriction

Again I quote the 1932 Democratic platform:

"We condemn the unsound policy of restricting agricultural products to the demands of domestic markets."

Franklin D. Roosevelt, at Topeka, Kansas, on Sept. 14, 1932, said:

"When the futility of maintaining prices of wheat and cotton through so-called stabilization became apparent, the President's Farm Board (under Hoover), of which his Secretary of Agriculture was a member, invented the CRUEL JOKE of advising farmers to allow 20 per cent of their wheat lands to lie idle, to plow up every third row of cotton, and to shoot every tenth dairy cow."

But the same Mr. Roosevelt about-faced on his ideas of what CRUEL JOKES were when he became president. In the summer of 1933 his Secretary of Agriculture asked farmers to plow up 25 per cent of their cotton, allowing them a small pittance for so doing, although the majority of them had already spent more for fertilizer for these plow-up rows than they received for plowing them up.

But that was only a beginning. The Bankhead Act of 1934 FORCED a limit of 10,000,000 bales of cotton, with a strong penalty for all raised over that. No need to explain that to our farmers, however, you know all about that, better than anyone can tell you.

In the fall of 1933, the AAA destroyed 6,200,000 pigs, and slaughtered 220,000 prospective mother sows, the total live weight of which was nearly 444 million pounds.

All in all, the AAA retired approximately 10 per cent of all the land in cultivation in the whole country. And then the New Dealers come before us with brass enough on their faces to tell us that "the drouth, and other causes over which the AAA had no control" are the reasons for excessive costs of living.

The record of the New Deal in its farm dealings is just one more series of juggling, experimenting, bungling trials to make over our part of the universe, and to make a better job of it than the Almighty did in the beginning. To our way of thinking, this same Almighty God had a fairly good idea of what our people would need for us to live on, long before Roosevelt, Tugwell or Wallace was born.—Man in the Moon.

HENRY THE ECONOMIST

Secretary of Agriculture, Wallace, whose knowledge of the tariff may have been curtailed along with pigs and wheat and cotton, has issued another enlightening statement. This time he charges the Republicans in their Cleveland platform with "selling out the farmers of the West to the rock-ribbed protectionists" of the East.

Mr. Wallace is quoted as saying that "for the rock-ribbed protectionists of the East, they (the Republican statements) contain the plain implication that agriculture is again to be used as their tariff cat's paw."

In answer to Mr. Wallace's somewhat inconsistent reasoning, it may be as well to quote from Senator Borah of Idaho, who said in Chicago, on the same day, that Mr. Wallace's opinions were being made public, that "the Republican farm plank adopted at Cleveland stated the true doctrine."

Senator Borah expressed the opinion that "it is my judgement that the reciprocal trade agreements, especially as they affect farm products, are going to be a potent factor in this campaign, and I, myself, do not see the wisdom of foreign farm products coming into this country when we are struggling to meet a farm problem based on producing more than we can sell. The true philasaphy is that retary of Agriculture could read that in the American farmer to the full extent of his ability to supply. I think the Republican platform on that subject states the true doctrine."

Now certainly Mr. Wallace and his New Deal friends will not maintain that Senator Borah is in sympathy with the tariff barons of the East. It is doubtful whether the Secretary of Agriculture could read that in the stars with his most powerful telescope. And the statement that he Aemrican farmer ought to have first call on the American market is so palpably true that the only way the free traders can answer it will be to attempt to calumniate its sponsors with the charge that they have some ulterior motive which seeks advantage for the manufacturers of the East.

Continuing, Mr. Wallace declared that "the return of an unreasonable tariff would certainly mean destruction of the Western and Southern agriculture which depend upon exports and upon domestic buying power which is so closely related to international trade."

If Mr. Wallace believes his statement is true, how does he account for his curtailment program which robbed the American farmer of his foreign market by fixing him up so that he had nothing to export; which in addition lowered tariffs until the American farmer lost his domestic market, too—a fact that is eloquently testified to by international trade figures to the Department of Commerce?

In his Sana Claus policies on foreign trade, Mr. Wallace is doing Governor Landon more good throughout the West in the latter's presidential aspirations than a half dozen Republican text books possibly could.

OTHER PEOPLE'S MONEY

In an address of acceptance President Roosevelt described "the savings of the average family, the capital of the small business man, the investments set aside for old age" as the tools with which the "economic royalists" sought to dig themselves in. It was with other people'sc money that these barons sought, according to Mr. Roosevelt, to "regiment the people.'

This zeal for the defense of the small investor against the rapacity of stock speculators is commendable, but what many in the classes mentioned by the president want to hear more about is the use of "other people's money" by the government in extravagant enterprises. It may be that the government is obligated to protect the small investor who wants to risk his funds in the stock market, but surely there is an equal obligation to protect the taxpayer and the small insurance policy holder against the consquences of continued unnecessary spending. The small investor is not compelled to venture into the stock market, but the income taxpayer is compelled to invest in the government whether or not he approves record navies or boondoggling. The tax money spent on Quoddy is just as much "other people's money" as money unwisely spent by private financiers.

The "economic royalists" may be lying in wait for the return of the good pickings of 1929 an dMr. Rosoevelt is wise in preparing for them. But he will command still greater confidence when it becomes more apparent that he is equally vigilant for he "other people's money" which has been collected for the operation of the government and continued waste of which leads to consquences just as drostic a sthose from too much exuberance in stock-market trading.—Baltimore Sun.

We are rapidly coming to the conclusion that a Hory is man who refuses to believe that the government owes everybody a living.

MRS. J. B. TIFFIN IN HOSPITAL FOLLOWING AUTO WRECK ON 13

Mrs. J. B. Tiffin is in an Owensboro, Ky., hospital, suffering from injuries of the spine, which she sustained in an auto wreck near that city on Monday, July 13.

Mr. and Mrs. Tiffin were on a vacation trip to Chicago. A few miles south of Owensboro, the car in which they were riding came to a series of holes and began bounding and swaying, finally sliding intoloos gravel. It turned over twice, seriously injuring Mrs. Tiffin's spine, and she was removed to a hospital. Mr. Tiffin was not injured seriously, and after being assurd that Mrs. Tiffin's injuries were not as serious as was thought at first, continued to Csicago for a business cnference, and returned to Clanton last Friday night.

Tom Tiffin left Saturday night for Owensboro to be with his mother. He informed other members of the family by telephone Monday that Mrs. Tiffin was improving rapidly and that he expected to sart home with her within a few days.

The car, a new Ford sedan, was badly smashed in the wreck.

FROM J. A. HEADLEY

Well, I would like to speak a few words to the laboring class of people of America. The time has arrived that if we are to receive our portion of the things that pertain to the very existence and happiness that God has placed in this old world for us, we have got to do our own thinking and thrust out in front with the bunch that has America at heart and help fight the battle of life.

We can't lie down and sleep any more and just let the other fellow do our thinking, or, as we use to say, "What ever old uncle or grandfather says or the way he votes is all right I will vote that way too."

Nowadays, the men of the age 60 and up are trying to get us to throw down and to vote against our President, Franklin D. Roosevelt, and all the balance of the Administration to put them out because they are spending too much money on us and it will bankrupt the world.

They want us to, and are begging us to, vote for another Hoover bunch, or worse, the Landon and Knox ticket, or give our vote with them for old Townsend so that they can get $200 a month. How far do they think that would go towards spending the nation into bankruptcy? But that is all right if it is all coming their way and we will hit the ceiling or will go lacking if it does bankrupt the nation.

Can't you see that it is time to open your eyes look and be ready to vote in November to keep every member of the Administration that we have already? I feel that the laboring class is already up on the promises that the Landon and Knox ticket make.

If they are elected, they are going to see to it that the government turns us aloose back into the old turn plow days to "root Hog, or die."

Poor people, the way is clear. Which road are we going to travel in November and on through the next four years It won't be long now until these hired and paid speakers will be blowing the hot air on every corner. If we don't keep cool, that hot air will melt some weak spot in us and cause us to vote wrong. Then it will be too late.

But I don't think that the good old farmers and laboring class will get to hot. They are use to the heat anyway. They know President Roosevelt picked them up out of the worst depressions that they have ever experinced, and they are not going skidding back into another one if they can help it.

So let's begin rolling our old Hoover wagon and Roosvvellt buggies, grease them up and get them ready fo the ride in November. I wan't to see the prade next day after the election, just to see which wagon the good old farmers and laboring people are riding on.

I understand in Governor Landon's recently statement that he declares that eighty-five per cent of the farmer are his personial friends. Now I doubt if fifty farmers in the world had ever heard of Landon until he became the Republican presidential nominee. I venture to say that all the farmers and members of the laboring class all over the United States that vote for him in November can be loaded into one box car. Now if anyone feels like drinking a cocoa, let's go. — J. A. Headley Clanton, Route 4

IN MEMORY

On July 8th, at 4 o'clock, the death angel came and took away our loving father, Mr. J. C. Terrell.

He leaves to mourn his loss a wife, Mrs. Hattie Terrell, and nine children, Mrs. Wallace Jones, Mrs. Robert Roberson, George, Bernard, Lorene, J. C., Mavis, Bill and Doris. A mother and two sisters, Mrs. J. J. Deloach and Mrs. J. W. Bowman; awo brothers—Mr. G. C. Terrell of Deatsville, Ala and Mr. Wess Terrell of Bowling Green, Florida, and a host of relatives and friends.

He was laid to rest in the Bethany cemetery, with Rev. Charlie Moates officiating. He is gone but not forgotten. We miss him on every side. He was kind to everybody whom he met. We hope to meet him in that beautiful land where there will be no more parting and sorrow. We hated to give him up but God knew best.

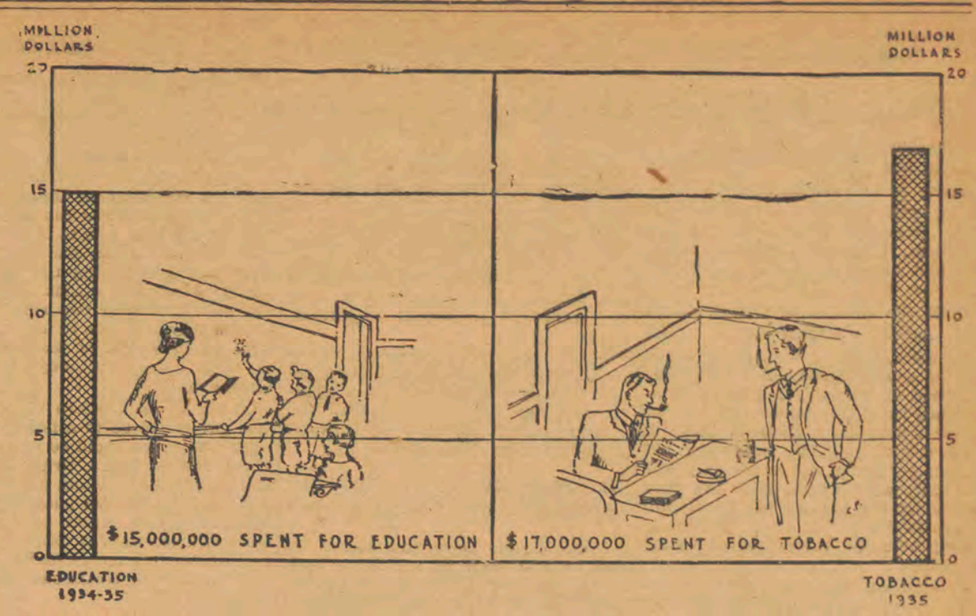
He was 50 years old, born in Coosa County, and had moved here in 1918, where he had lived ever since. He was sick only three days before he left us.

We want to thank the people for their kindness shown us during our troubles. May God's richest blessings abide with each and everyone of you. —Mrs. J. C. Terrell and children.

GOOD GAME HERE SATURDAY

One of the best games of the season so far was played here Saturday afternoon between the Cane Creek club and a pick-up team made up of members of the Alabama Mills and Clanton teams. The Clanton team won, 3 to 1.

For five innings the game was a 1-1 deadlock. Watkins, on the mound for Cane Creek, struck out 14 batters.



Montgomery, Ala., June 20.—For the school year of 1934-35, Alabama spent $15,000,000 on her elementary and high schools. During that same year Alabama citizens spent $17,000,000 on tobacco, as shown by tobacco tax receipts for the fiscal year of 1934-35.

More than one million spent on school in 1934-35 came from the federal government, so Alabama tax payers really contributed less than $14,000,000.

Ability of a state to finance its public schools can be determined by expenditures for other purposes, and by the effort made in comparison to other states. Alabama citizens spend 2.76 per cent of our income on schools and 6.64 per cent on local and state taxes. The national average is 3.64 per cent for schools and 8.72 per cent in local and state taxes.

CLANTON CIRCUIT TO HOLD 3RD QUARTERLY CONFERENCE

The third quarterly conference of the Methodist church, Clanton circuit, will convene with Cedar Grove church, two miles south of Thorsby, on Saturday before the fourth Sunday in July; this day, Saturday, July 25, will also be the closing day of the revival which is being conducted at Cedar Grove at present.

This will be an all day affair, and all church officials an dmembers are urged to be present; also, any visitors are cordially invited. Lunch will be spread. Come and spend the day with us.—J. W. Enfinger, pastor.

MACEDONIA, BEAT 11

The annual home coming will be held at this place on the first Sunday in August. Services will begin at 10 o'clock. Everybody bring new song books and dinner.

Rev. E. L. Smith will preach at 11 o'clock. Miss Lois Thompson will sing.—V. G. Smith.

REVIVAL AT TEMPLE CHURCH

A revival meeting is to begin at Temple church next Sunday, July 26. It is to be conducted by Rev. Arthur Bell. His family is also to be with him. One of his sons, Rev Samuel Bell will also do some preaching.

They come from Illinois where Rev. Bell is superintendent of the General Council of churches in that State.

The Service that adds Comfort to Your Home

During these hot summer days, the time you save with a telephone to aid in settling daily problems may be the difference between a day that worries your nerves into a frazzle, and a day that includes the time you need for relaxation.

There are so many details in running a household. An extra loaf of bread from the grocer—a six o'clock order of ice cream from the drugstore—and so on. And with a telephone to run your errands, many concerns of the day are easily disposed of.

Of course, most everyone is familiar with the value of telephone service, but if you are trying to get along without a telephone you may be surprised, and pleased, to know how little it costs to have a telephone in your home.

All you need to do is to ask any telephone employe, or get in touch with the telephone Business Office. Order your telephone today, and add comfort and protection to your home.

CLANTON

4-H JERSEY CATTLE CLUB ORGANIZED IN CHILTON CO.

Members of the 4-H Jersey Cattle Club of Chilton County met at the Vocationa building at the High School in Clanton last Saturday, July 19, for the purpose of reorganizing.

New officers were elected as follows: President, George Moore; Vice president, Delphine Popwell; Secretary and Treasurer, Leonard Popwell; Reporter, Howard Martin.

After the election of officers, B. N. Ivey, Assistant County Agent in 4-H Club work, took up several points on how to select a good dairy cow. The selection of the dairy cow is very important, as it determines whether the owner will make a profit or loss. A poor dairy cow (one producing 290 gallons per year) will return only $250 per year, while a good dairy cow (one producing 698 gallons per year) will return $760 per year, above feed costs. This proves the importance of a good dairy cow.

A letter will be sent to all the members announcing the next meeting. We are expecting all of the old members back and anyone else who wishes to join, we will be glad to have them also. With all members cooperating, we are planning to have a good show in September.

LAY DAM TO PLAY HOMEWOOD NEXT SUNDAY AFTERNOON

Next Sunday afternoon, July 26th, the Lay Dam Kilowatts will play the Homewood team, from near Birmingham.

This Homewood team is rated as one of the best amateur aggregations in the state, excepting none. The Kilowatts, of Lay Dam, have proved that they are a formidable team, themselves; they field flawlessly, their pitching staff boasts Warren, Golson and Foshee, three first raters, and the team has a surplus of hitting power.

These two teams have stand-out records for the season, and the game next Sunday afternoon will be a thriller. If you like good baseball, be there at 3:00 P. M., when his majesty, the umps, says "Play Ball."

SINGING SCHOOLS AT ISABELLA AND COOPER BEGIN NEXT MONDAY

Prof. W. M. Devaughn announces that he will open up singing schools at Isabella and Cooper next Monday, July 27th. The school at Isabella will be taught from 8 to 11 each morning; and at Cooper, in the afternoons from 2 to 5 or 5:30.

Anyone interested in studying music is invited. If interested, get in touch with Prof. Devaughn at once.

LEE MIMS BURIED AT MACEDONIA SATURDAY

Lee Mims, age 31 years, died Friday, July 17, at an infirmary in Sylacauga, as a reult of complications caused by a fall several months ago.

About the last of March of this year, he stepped on a broken plank in the floor of the home of George Adams, in Coosa County, and the plank snapped off, allowing him to fall. Lee was carrying a child in his arms at the time, and in shielding the child from injury in the fall, struck a timber in the floor, breaking two ribs. He did not pay any attention to his injury, but kept up hi swork of making a crop all this spring, although suffering quite a bit.

About a week before his death he was advised to go to a hospital where expert attention could be provided. An X-ray showed that a large quantity of pus had formed around his heart and left, lung, which had pushed his heart over near the center of his chest. Doctors tried to draw off the pus, but in his weakened condition he could not rally after the treatment, and death resulted.

He was a son of the late William (River Bill) Mims, who died a few years ago. He is survived by his wife —Arrie Belle Lewis Mims; two children—Kathleen and George; one brother—Irvin Mims, of Georgia; five sisters—Mrs Lula Mims of Clanton Route 1, Mrs. Ira Shaw, of Montgomery, Mrs. Ada Durham of Clanton Rte. 5, Mrs. Lanie Cleckler of Clanton Rte. 1, and Mrs. Viola Bradley, of Fayetteville, Alabama.

Funeral services were held at Macedonia, Beat 11, at 2:00 p.m., Saturday, with Rev. Lindsey Smith officiating. Burial was in the cemetery at that place. At the time of his death, he was living in Coosa County on a farm owned by a man named Blackmon.

J. M. GIASS

J. M. Glass, age 75, died Thursday afternoon at the home of his son, A. L. Glass, of Clanton Route 4, after an illness of one week.

Survivors include: Jap N. Glass, of Jemison Rte. 1, J. O., of Jemison Rte. 1, George, of Jemison Route 2, A. L., of Clanton Route 4, Perry of Slyvania Route 1, and W. G. Glas sof Clanton; one daughter, Mrs. Leila Beasley of Jemison Route 2; two brothers—Lowery Glass of Deatsville, and W. H. Glass, whose home is in Georgia; three sisters—Mrs. Nancy Ray of Jemison, Mrs. Zelphia Martin of Jemison, and Mrs. Georgia Ann Martin of Walker County.

Funeral services were held at Center Hill at 10 a.m., with Rev. Green officiating. Burial in the adjoining cemetery with Spigener directing.

Dr. and Mrs. A. E. Middlebrooks and daughters, Christine and Kathryn have returned from Florida. They were accompanied home by Mrs. Middlebrooks' sister, Miss Ada Mildred Clark, who will visit in Clanton for several days.

IT'S A BOY

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Simpson are the proud parents of a son, Charles Norvell, who arrived Sunday night, July 19th. The young fellow weighed 10 pounds on arrival.

So, if you notice policeman Hugh Simpson limping around with a walking stick, or if Charlie seems to have a few new wrinkles in his brow, don't be surprised, it's only natural.

Congratulations to the new arrival, his parents and grandparents.

IN LOVING MEMORY

On Sunday morning, July 5th, the death angel took away our loving husband and father, Clarence R. Mims.

God needed another angel so he called Clarence to dwell with him in the land where there will be no more partings.

Clarence was a lovable person, had a pleasing disposition, and will be missed by everyone.

Weep not, little Lucille, Clarence is asleep, not as you and I sleep, but he is asleep on the arms of Jesus.—A Friend.

A FELLOW IN NEED

No doubt you have heard of a fellow in need.—Maybe you have been in need yourself. Well, The Union-Banner's good friend, Jimmie Taylor, at Taylor Wholesale Grocery Co. is in need of some shelled corn. So, if you have some good clean, sacked shelled corn, it might pay you to get in touch with Mr. Taylor at once. Don't forget, Jimmie is needing of some shelled corn.

REV. J. W. JONES ANNOUNCES HIS SCHEDULE — SUMMER REVIVALS

Rev. J. W. Jones of Thorsby announces his schedule of revivals for the coming summer months as follows:

Thorsby Baptist church, beginning July 26, continuing through the following Sunday, with the Rev. E. Floyd Olive, of Birmingham assisting.

Chestnut Creek, Cooper, beginning August 2, and continuing through the week, with the Rev. T. E. Steeley, of Roanoke, assisting.

COMING REVIVALS

Highland

Beginning the fourth Sunday in July and run the following week, with Rev. E. A. Norris of near Mitchell Dam doing the preaching.

Liberty (Autauga Co.)

Beginning the first Sunday in August, and run the following week, with Rev. L. T. Merchant of Centreville doing the preaching.

The pastor invites the public to bear these dates in mind and attend the services.—M. Lockhart, Pastor.

REV HOLLAND ANNOUNCES MEETINGS AT MULBERRY AND STANTON

Rev. J. S. Holland announces that the summer revival at Mulberry Baptist church will begin on Sunday, July 26th. Also the meeting at Stanton will begin the first Sunday in August, and Rev. B. F. Dykes, of Tarrant City, will assist the pastor in both meetings. The public is cordially invited to attend these meetings.

Game and Fish News

Montgomery, Ala.—Those who may violate Alabama's "gobbler" law take notice—because the turkey hens might do something about it themselves.

This is the story as it was related by Colonel E. F. Allison of Bellamy, at the recent meeting of the State Forestry Commission:

One of his turkey sleft the Bellamy Mill for the forest—probably the richest game forests in the United States. When it returned one half an hour later, the Colonel knew something was amiss, so he made inquiry.

Some of the mill hands told him that the truck's driver had proceeded but a short distance from the forest when he encountered a turkey hen crossing the road with her brood.

To his consternation the hen took a running start and flew straight into the windshield of the truck in a vicious attack on the intruder. The windshield was shattered and a piece of the flying glass cut an artery in the driver's arm.

The cut was so severe that the driver was forced to turn back to Bellamy for treatment, while the hen—unscratched—strutted off into the forest with her brood, a proud conqueror of man and the machine age.

Warden Claude Harwell and Madison County sportsmen are spending these hot summer days rescuing fish as the result of Limestone Creek, Flint River and Hurricane Creek in that county are richer by approximately 64,000 fish.

Included in the 63,500 fish they have transplanted in these streams were 21,000 bass, 19,500 bream, 4,500 crappie, 3,500 pike and 15,000 non-game fish.

These fish were taken from the waters that were fast disappearing as a result of dry weather and summer heat.

SCHOOL AT MT. NEBO BEGINS MONDAY, JULY 27TH, BY BROWN

Prof. Audie Brown will teach a singing school at Mt. Nebo, beginning next Monday, July 27th, and continuing for a term of 20 days. Mr. Brown expects this to be a very fine school, as the enrollment already is most satisfactory.

Prof. Brown is a young teacher, but he has met with success before in his teaching; and he is recognized as an authority on subjects relative to teaching all phases of sacred music.

REUNION OF CAGLE FAMILY WAS HELD LAST SUNDAY

A reunion of the Cagle family was held last Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jeffie Traywick, of Shiloh community. Mrs. Traywick is the only sister of the family.

Besides Mr. and Mrs. Traywick and their children at home, the following were present for the day:

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Cagle and family, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Cagle and family, Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Cagle and family, Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Cagle, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Cagle, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Owens and family, Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Traywick, Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Traywick, Mrs. L. F. Clackler and children, Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Popwell and children, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Baker and family, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Traywick and family, Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Jones, Mrs. Dora Devaughn and children, Mrs. Jean Wyatt and daughter, Inez, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Wright and family, Mrs. W. M. Durbin and Miss Ruby Eiland.

MRS. MARY RHODES MOATES

On July 18, at early dawn, the death angel called at the home of Mr. Clyde Moates and carried away the spirit of his beloved wife to that home of peace and rest. The statements she left behind best speaks of her readiness to meet her God. She was most loving, kind and sympathetic. She always had plenty of time to visit the sick and suffering.

Mrs. Mary Rhodes Moates was 47 years old. She became a Christian in early girlhood.

Her mother and father preceded her to the grave several years. She leaves three sisters—Marhta Rhodes of Mt. Springs community, Mrs. Rbelia Davis of Deatsville, and Mrs. Rebecca Haggans of Autauga County.

She also leaves many friends and relatives besides her husband, Mr. Clyde Moates.

Funeral services were held Sunday morning at Mt. Springs. Burial was in the churchyard cemetery, with Rev. E. J. Orange and Rev. M. Lockhart officiating.

Pall bearers were: Jim Giles, Jadie Connell, R. N. Connell, Cornelius Miner, Jim Mims and C. D. Duke.—Written by request of the husband.

Lesson for July 26

CHRISTIANITY SPREAD BY PERSECUTION

LESSON TEXT—Acts 7:59-8:4; I Peter 4:12-19.

GOLDEN TEXT—Be thou faithful unto death, and I will give thee a crown of life.—Revelation 2:10.

PRIMARY TOPIC—A Man Who Was Not Afraid.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Stephen the Unafraid.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Persecution, Then and Now.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Modern Forms of Persecution.

Leaders of contemporary thought and observers of modern life decry the evident decadence of old-fashioned virtues. Our times are too materialistic, encouraging young people to strive for worldly success rather than high and noble character.

In a time when expediency is the ruling principle, it is well for Christians to emphasize the fact that following Christ has through all the years called for that loyalty to convictions which has caused some who bear his name to be willing to die for him, yea, even to live and to suffer for him, for sometimes it may be harder to do the latter than the former. True followers of our Lord are willing.

I. To Die for the Faith (7:54-8:1).

Stephen, one of the first seven chosen as deacons of the church, "a man full of faith and of the Holy Spirit" (6:5), having been called before the Sanhedrin to answer false charges (6:8-15), faithfully stands for the truth. His indictment of Israel cuts to the heart. In anger his hearers stone him to death. He becomes the first martyr of the Church, that holy succession which has representatives in the young manhood and womanhood of today, ready, like John and Betty Stam, to die rather than to deny Christ.

Note that in this hour Stephen was given a vision of his risen and ascended Lord (v. 55), standing at the right hand of God to welcome his faithful servant. He prayed for those who took his life (v. 60). How gloriously that prayer was answered in the subsequent life of the young man Saul, who was "consenting unto his death."

Not to all who follow Christ comes the need to face death for him, but all should be determined.

II. To Live for the Faith (8:2-4).

The early Church found that living for Christ entailed bitter persecution. Not even the sanctity of their homes was inviolate. Their persons and property felt the hard hand of havoc-making Saul, yet we find no intimation of complaint. Soon they were driven from home and scattered abroad, but the result was the establishing of gospel centers wherever they went. Living for Christ calls for daily witness, for more than steadily bearing the responsibility of life. Not to preachers and Bible teachers alone is this sacred duty given, to be discharged only in a church service or Bible school. No, "they that were scattered abroad"—all of them went "everywhere." They were not merely reforming or devoting their lives to social service, good as these might have been, but "preaching the word" (v. 4).

Are we who are now "scattered abroad" going "everywhere," and are we "preaching the word"?

III. To Suffer for the Faith (I Pet. 4:12-19).

1. We are not to be surprised by suffering (v. 12), not even by fiery trials, for blessings will follow. The Lord proves his children, even as the refiner tests gold to cleanse it, to prove its worth, and not to destroy it. God's testings are to prove us worthy.

2. We are so to live as not to suffer for our misdeeds (vv. 15, 16). Many are they who would have the world believe they suffer for Christ's sake when they are but meeting the just recompense for their evil deeds. It is a shame to suffer as an evildoer, but an honor and privilege to suffer for Jesus' sake.

3. Believers are to make their sufferings a testimony (vv. 17-19). If we as Christians must needs be purged in order to be fitted for God's service and the glory that is to come, what will be the end of those who "know not God and obey not the gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ" (II Thess. 1:7, 8)? Peter refrains from even mentioning what their ultimate end will be, but the writer to the Thessalonians goes on to say that they shall be "punished with everlasting destruction from the presence of the Lord and from the glory of his power." Solemn words are these. Have we, and those to whom we minister, heeded their warning?

Real Character of Man

It is the relaxation of security it is in the expansion of prosperity, it is in the hour of dilation of the heart, and of its softening into festivity and pleasure, that the real character of men is discerned.—Burke.

ALABAMA TOWN NEVER HAS HAD ANY RELIEF

The existence of an Alabama town in which there are no unemployed, no relief or work program, no indebtedness and where ad velorem taxes have been refunded to the citizens for the past several years was disclosed yestration, in moking known results of tor of the Works Progress Administration, in makink nnown results of a poll of Alabama Mayors and probate judges on whether the unemployed preferred work on the dole.

Gainesville, Alabama, in Sumter County, which had a population of 329 in the 1930 census is the town which bears the distinction unique, perhaps in the United States.

Mayor P. M. Norwood answered the questionaire as follows:

1. Do the unemployed want work or the dole? We have neither unemployed nor dole!

"2. Are we doing useful work under the WPA program? No projects.

"3. Is there useful work yet to be done under a continued WPA program? No."

And then by way of explanation:

"We have never had relief projects, dole or the like and we are better off than most of the municipalities. We have given the citizens their ad velorem taxes for the past seven years. We don't owe any money, current or bonded. We have substantial balance in cash on hand."

The polls were conducted by Secretary Ed Reid, of the Alabama League of Municipalities and Secretary James Heustess of the Alabama Association of County Commissioners upon request of the Works Progress Administratiin. Replies were received from 38 of the probate judges and presidents of the boards of revenue and from 25 of the more than 200 Mayors to whom the questionairne was sent.

PERCY PITTS HERE

(Clipping From Alabama Journal)

Percy Pitts, former member of the legislature from Chilton county, is the kind of republican that democrats would like to have on their side, but he is a loyal party man and refuses to bolt.

"How is republicanism in Chilton now that the democrats have got all the offices?" he was asked by newsmen while at the capitol. But he couldn't be kidded.

"Republicanism" Mr. Pitts said, "is coming back. You Democrats nicked us some in the last election, I'll admit, but that was because of differences within our own ranks. We'll just show you next November, when the various factions of our party prove they are pulling together again."

Missed In House

Mr. Pitts who served two terms in the house before being succeeded in the Graves legislature by Democrat Charlie Cox, is missed by his former colleagues for more than one reason.

Not only was he a progressive legislator, a good speaker and a general mixer, but he could sing. The last night of the session always is a festive occasion, and Pitts, who used to sing in Tom Garner's Glee club when he and Henry Long were at the University of Alabama, contributed much to the occasion.

LANDON POINTS TO THE REAL ISSUES

Alf. M. Landon will speak "to the point" on at least six public questions in an address directed to the "average American" when he accepts nomination as the Republican presidential candidate Thursday night, his advisers said today.

The questions, the governor's advisers indicated, would be relief and social security, econimy, centralization in our government, monetary problems, the Constitution, and of agriculture. In each subject, they said, Governor Landon's stand will be stated definitely.

"The speech will be devoted to a comprehensive treatment of the important problems and questions of today," one of his advisers said, "Governor Landon has approached his speech from the viewpoint that American people are entitled to know what he will do if elected."

Topeka, a quiet town of 60,000 persons, prepared to welcome, entertain, feed and house an expected 100,000 visitors Thursday.

WARFARE CHARGE IS HURLED BY HAMILTON

Prividence, R. I., July 17.—In a searing attack on "New Deal" policies, John D. M. Hamilton, Republican National chairman, last night charged president Roosevelt with fomenting class warfare in the United States.

At the same time Hamilton characterized the "economic royalists" referred to by the President in his acceptance speech at Philadelphia as "straw men." Hamilton said:

"President Roosevelt has declared war among the American people. His every speech is filled with warlike phrases. But who is the enemy in this war?

"Why does he not identify these 'economic royalists' of his?"

The New Deal, Hamilton charged, had compiled a record of steadily increasing taxes, and he pictured the present administration on the verge of panic.

PETROLEUM COMMITTEE TO ORGANIZE FRIDAY NIGHT, 24TH

Oil men and others whose principal business is in connection with supplying the motorist and truck owner with his motoring needs will meet in Clanton on the evening of Friday, July 24, for the purpose of organizing the Chiltin County Petroleum Industries Committee. Chilton is the 23rd of the 67 counties to be organized.

The purposes of the organization are to work for a uniform gasoline tax rate, reasonable liscense and taxes, application of gasoline and motor vehicle revenues to hightway purposes only and reduction of unreasonable restrictions on motor vehicles; and to upon the motor vehicle operators and petroleum products, unreasonable restrictions on motor vehicles, and opposition to gasoline or motor oil bootlegging, tax evasion or adulteration.

Similar county committees are to be organized in every county in Alabama to cooperate with the Alabama and American Petroleum Industries Committee for the purpose of securing uniformity and reductions in the excessive and destructive taxes now levied upno hte motor vehicle operators and upon the petroleum and allied industries.

All persons whose principal business is in connection with supplying the motorist with all his motoring needs are urged to attend.

Mr. Earle M. Hearne, Secretary of the Alabama Petroleum Industries Committee, with which State Committee the County Cammittee will cooperate, will be present to assist with the organization work. He advises that similar organizations are either organized, or are being organized, in every one of the United States.

All persons, other than those actually engaged in the oil business in the county, who are desirious of holding down further gas taxes, and who wish to help in the fight to lower existing gas taxes, are urged to attend also.

HOBSON FORMS GROUP TO DEFEND DEMOCRACY

Alexandria Bay, N. Y. July 1p. — Rear Admiral Richmond P. Hobson, retired, who sank the famous gunboat Merrimac in Santiago harbor, Cuba, announced today the organization of a nation-wide movement which he said was intended to defend constitutional democracy against all assailants.

The movement, Hobson said, was taking the form of a "clearing house" intended to group together many citizens and organization in support of "national defence and Americanism." Back of the plan, he said, is the belief of its sponsors that a "well financed" campaign is being directed against the American system of government and that eventualy there will be a world-wide challenge "from communist autocracy to constitutional democracy.

RA OFFICES MOVED TO MONTGOMERY

Montgomery, Ala. July 17. — Concentration of the Resettlement Admis. fices, accounting and auditing department for four states in Montgomery, will begin today, Robert W. Hudgens, regonal director, announced.

The consolidation of these offices will be "permanent," it was said, and was being made for the purpose of economy and increased efficiency.

The departments are for the states of Alabama, South Carolina, Georgia and Florida.

The change will increase the departments' employe ranks at Montgomery by about 100, and will be an addition to the city's population of between 400 and 500 persons. Offices of the departments will be located on the third floor of the Bell Building, and in the Exchange and Gay-Teague Hotels.

Gov. Landon Made Acceptance Speech

Simplicity Crowning Feature Of Republican Standard Bearer For 1936

Topeka, July 23.—A pledge "to restore our government to an efficient as well as constitutional basis" was given the country by Alf M. Landon Thursday night in a solemn acceptance of the Republican presidential nomination before massed thousands on the State capitol lawn.

"The time has come to stop this fumbling with recovery," the Kansas governor said. "The time has come to unshackle initiative and free the spirit of American enterprise."

In earnest tone as he looked into the faces of the shirt-sleeved and summer dressed throng blanketing the 16-acre capitol square, Landon shouldered the Republican candidacy and in broad strokes outlined his appeal to the voters to repudiate New Deal rules.

Landon spoke from a platform on the south steps of the Grecian columned state capitol.

In terse paragraphs he proposed a farm plan with cash benifit payments, promised to put "our financial house in order," pledged federal relief to the needy and promised "to maintain the constitutional balance of power between the states and the federal government."

A few minutes earlier Landon steped through the flag-draped portals to take his place on the platform surrounded by Rebublican committeemen, members of the notification commitee and party leaders.

Carnival Spirited

A carnival spirited throng spread across the grounds of the Kansas capital Thursday night for Governor Landon's first thurst in the Republican fight to whip the New Deal at November's polls—his formal acceptance of the party's Presidental nomination.

Thousands assembled on the south lawn of the 16 acre plot on which the buff native stone statehouse stands.

It was notification night for Landon, the traditional ceremony of accepting the convention's mendate. But for Kansas it was a political celebration on vivid pageantry unsurpassed in the Sunflower State history.

The capitol's illuminated green dome lifted high above the surrounding trees that shade its grounds and obscure most of its five high-ceilinged stories.

Before the Grecian columned of the south facade of the capitol was a vast speakers' rostrum, with seats for 1,000 distinguished guests.

TO BUILD NEW PAN-AM STATION ON HIGHWAY NORTH

The old McSwain house on the highway in the north edge of the city has been razed, preparatory to the building of a new Pan-Am gas station. It promises to be a mighty nice place when it is finished and put into operation.

MRS SALLIE BARNETT GULLEDGE

Verbena, Ala., July 29.—Mrs. Sallie Barnett Gulledge, 60, wife of Joel H. Gulledge, died in a Montgomery hospital Monday at 12:40 p.m. The funeral was held on Wednesday at 10:00 a.m. from the Verbena Methodist church, with burial in Greenwood cemetery at Montgomery. J. Mell Martin of Clanton was in charge. Mrs. Gulledge was the daughter of Thomas M. and Lily Mitchell Barnett, both now dead. Surviving are her husband; a brother, Dr. T. M. Barnett, of Atlanta; a neice, Lily Mitchell Barnett, also of Atlanta; and two nephews, Thomas C. and M. Barnett, Jr., of Washington D. C., and Lily Mitchell Barnett, of Memphis, Tennessee.

J. L. Ruffin Moving Into New Location

The feed store and produce business conducted by J. L. Ruffin is this week announcing its removal to new quarters across the highway from the Ford place in the new building which has just been finished.

Mr. Ruffin is one of the pioneers in his line—seller of feeds and foodstuffs, and buyer of pretty nearly anything a farmer has to sell. Mr. Ruffin is proud of his ten years of service to the people of this district—both buyers and sellers. His business has outgrown his present quarters, hence the move to the new location.

Turn to his large adv. on another page of this paper. Along with his announcement of removal will be found congratulatory cards from some of the firms whose products Mr. Ruffin has handled in building up his good business and making his fine record. Besides being a buyer of all kinds of produce, he represents some of the best lines of products the market affords.

Mr. Ruffin wants you to visit him at his new location. If you have produce to sell, he will give you the highest price. If you wish to buy feeds or groceries, his prices are in line with all other first class merchandise. And whether you want to buy or sell, he will be glad to show you about the new store of which he is so proud.

COLONEL FRANK KNOX ON RADIO HOOK-UP TONIGHT

Colonel Frank Knox, the Republican vice presdential nominee, will make his acceptance speech over the radio at 8:00 o'clock tonight. It will be over a nation-wide hookup. Don't fail to tune in and hear him. It bids fair to be one of the greatest speeches of the times.

CHILTON COUNTY OIL MEN ORGANIZE AGAINST TAXES

Meeting Held Friday Night, And Officers For County Committee Are Eelected

A Petroleum Industries Committee for Chilton county was organized at the courthouse in Clanton Friday night of last week. The meeting was called by Mr. Earl M. Hearne, secretary of the Alabama organization, and the local Committee was organized under his direction.

County officials chosen were: W. E. Huddleston, chairman; R. J. Sumner, 1st voce chairman; L. E. Diefenderfer, secretary, H. L. Hampton, vice chairman; E. N. Bentley, vice chairman; Will A. Gulledge, vice chairman, C. C. Conway, vice chairman. Publicity committee — W. L. Sims, chairman; J. P. Lawrence D. A. Teel. Problems and affairs committee—M. Z. Atchinsno, chairman; W. G. Billingsley, J. E. Easterling. Legislative (Executive) commitee — W. E. Huddleston, chairman; R. J. Sumner, 1st vice chairman; L. E. Diefenderfer, secretary; W.L. Hampton, E.N. Bentley, Will A. Gulledge, C. C. Conway, W. L. Sims, M. Z. Atchison.

EARLE M. HEARNE,
Secretary,
Alabama Petroleum Industries Committee.

Two sets of resolutions were odapted at the Clanton meeting, setting out the reasons and purposes of the organization, which in general are to wark for reduction in the gasoline taxes of the State. A uniform gasoline tax all over the state is advocated by the committee.

The Chilton County Committee was the twenty-third such organizatiin to be perfected in Alabama. All other counties in the State are to be organized as rapidly as possible, the same method being used elsewhere as was followed at the Clanton meeting.

CITIZENS MILITARY CAMP CANCELLED

The Citizens Military Training Camp which was scheduled to be held at Fort McClelland, Alabama, commencing July 29th, has been canceled due to the infintie paralysis epidemic which is pravalent in some sections of Alabama.

The Commanding Officer of the 4th CMTC Camp Area at Fort McClellan, Alabama, desires to call this fact to the attenetion of all accepted applicants, alternates, and other young men who have been interested in applying to attend the camp. He has also announced, as a protective measure, that no Alabama young men residing in his camp area will be accepted for any Citizens Military Training that may be held at other Army posts in this vicinity, this summer.

A GOOD DEMOCRAT CAN'T TAKE ROOSEVELT FOR SECOND TERM

Birmingham, July 23, 1936.
Editor Union-Banner:

Until I saw a clipping from your paper in one of the daily papers, I did not know that there was a Republica npaper in Alabama.

I have supported Democratic nominees for president from Tildon to Roosevelt, but I will not support Roosevelt for a second term.—Thomas L. Cannon.

THE BIG DAY

There will be a Union rally at Center Hill, two miles west of Jemison, Saturday, August 1st. Mr. Everson, national president of the F. E. & C. U. of A., from St. Charles South Dakota, state officers of the Union, and possibly several labor leaders, will speak. There will be dinner on the grounds. The public is cordially invited to attend.

SEVENTEEN APPLES ON ONE CLUSTER

Mr. Clyde Morris, young man driving between here and Baker Schoolhouse, brought in to The Union-Banner Monday a fine buich of apples, all joined on one stem closely together.

Mr. Morris stated that the tree came from Coosa county, and that it is a very heavy producer of fruit.

LOOKING FOR THE FORGOTTEN MAN

Press reports inform us that President Roosevelt is cruising in the cool waters of New England and adjacent provinces of Canada, trying no doubt to forget about the Forgotten Man, who, after more than three years is still with us in undiminished numbers. Perhaps even the President has grown weary of his self-appointed goal of remaking America and outlawing all unhappiness by act of Congress. The same rather comprehensive program has been tried out before, in many lands and at many stages of the world's history, always the same result. The so-called "new deal" is in reality the oldest form of political clap trap known to man. Perusal of the pages of history reveals more than one early edition of Franklin Delano Roosevelt, in the early days of Greece and Rome, before the Christian era. There is absolutely nothing new in the demagogue who asks the people for power, and promises in return to cure all the ills of mankind to do away with the curse of Adam and guarantees to every man, however undeserving, the "More Abundant Life."

After three years and more of Mr. Roosevelt we find that the weather is still too dry at times, while at other times there is excessive rainfall. A portion of our population is still thrifty and self-respecting, another portion shiftless and looking for a handout. This latter element has undoubtedly increased since the regime at Washington inaugurated its famous system of hobo hotels, and other devices to make work less attractive. The American people are still afflicted with outbreaks of murder, larceny, cancer and cute radio announcers. The farmer is getting more for his cotton, and paying vastly more for everything he buys, because the Government has "soaked" the men who own the plants that make the things he buys, and they have passed along the added tax burden to the consumer. All things considered, the millenium still appears to be a long way ahead.

So it appears that even Mr. Roosevelt has temporarily abandoned his hunt for the Forgotten Man. If he were still intent on the search, he might find him on the seared plains of the West, where the whole structure of living has crashed under the impact of the drought. The present trend indicates, however, that even the stricken farmers of the drought area are fed up on quack panaceas and Government prescriptions. The farmers of the West, like our farmers of the South, are well grounded in Americanism and individualism. Some of the more religiously inclined among them are reported to see in the present disaster a Divine retribution of the wanton destruction of foodstuffs and slaughter of livestock perpetrated by the Democratic administration, which has presumed to tamper with even the laws of nature. At any rate, a recent survey shows that in the very heart of the drought-smitten area a majority of the farmers are for Landon.

It is not surprising, therefore, to find Mr. Roosevelt fleeing from the cares of state to the coasts of Maine and Canada. It will come to many as a surprise, perhaps, to learn that his summer home is in the Canadian province of New Brunswick; that an American chief executive should find it necessary or desirable to move to foreign soil for rest and recuperation. In any event, Mr. Roosevelt is taking it easy under the British flag, calling by Quebec to pass his respects to Lord Tweedsmuir, the Governor-General of Canada, letting the Forgotten Man worry along for a while without him.

During the past three years there has been developed in the United States another kind of Forgotten Man, who has been overlooked not only by Mr. Roosevelt, but by too many other politicians in power. This, the true Forgotten Man of 1936, is the man who is guilty of the crime of owning property and paying taxes; the business man and the home owner—in short, all those who have been bled white by the taxgatherer, and treated with contempt and hostility while the bleeding process has been going on. The great American middle class has suffered in silence; but there have been some ominous rumblings of late, which Mr. Roosevelt, if he has had his ear to the ground, might detect even in Canada. Perhaps he has done well to take it easy while he can.

REPUBLICAN EXEC. COMMITTEE CALLED TO MEET SATURDAY P.M.

The Republican Executive Committee of Chilton County is hereby called to meet at the courthouse in Clanton on Saturday afternoon, August 1st, at 2 o'clock, for the purpose of discussing and arranging plans for the coming Republican campaign in Chilton County, and to attend to any other matters that may properly come before the body.

Every member of the Committee from every precinct is urged to attend this meeting, and all other interested Republicans are also invited.—T. E. Wyatt, Chairman; C. C. Conway, Secretary.

SEVEN-YEAR OLD CHILD DIED FROM SNAKE BITE SUNDAY

O. G. Friday, 7-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Glover Friday, died shortly after midnight Sunday morning at the office of Dr. Napoleon S. Johnson, as a result of a snake bite suffered Saturday afternoon about 3:00 o'clock.

Reports were that the little fellow was playing with other children near his home when he was bitten and fell. He was taken to Billingsley, and from there brought to Dr. Johnson's at Clanton. About two hours had elapsed since he was bitten before Dr. Johnson saw him, and his leg was badly swollen. Anti-snake bite serum was injected, and he seemed to rally early Saturday night, but died later.

ONE ARREST BY CITY OFFICERS

Mayor C. Fenn Jones reports only one arrest was made by city officers during the past week. This one was for speeding; sentence of $1 and costs were imposed.

L. L. McCARY HERE

Mr. L. L. McCary, our good friend from Dallas county, was in Clanton shaking hands with Chilton county friends Monday. Mr. McCary lives in a predominantly Democratic county, but he is a brother of our own Frank McCary, and his politics pretty well coincides with that of his brother.

The Union-Banner is always glad to see Mr. McCary, and we shall always expect him to come to see us when he is in Chilton county.

HAND FAMILY TO HOLD ANNUAL REUNION AUGUST 7TH

The Hand family will hold their 11th annual family reunion at Poplar Springs church, 3 miles south of Clanton, on Friday, August 7th, 1936.

Everybody is invited to come and spend the day with us. Come with well filled baskets and those who just can't come in the morning, make a special effort to be with us in the afternoon.

Following is the program:

10:00 A.M.—Two songs, "The Old Rugged Cross," and "Take My Life," followed by prayer.

10:15—The reunion will hold its business meeting during this hour.

11:00 A.M.—Song, "I Am Bound For The Promised Land." The annual homecoming sermon by the Rev. J. D. Hughes, old time pastor and friend of the family.

12:00—Dinner will be spread and indeed this will be a happy hour.

1:15—Sermon by the Rev. Herschel Day of Howard College: subject, "The White Robe Christian," Rev. 7:13, followed by song, "Satisfied With Jesus."

2:00—Essay, entitlde, "The Home."

2:15—Talk by Mrs. E. D. Hand; subject, "The Love of Christ."

2:45—Recess for 15 minutes.

3:00-5:00—This period will be taken up in songs, talks, etc.—J. W. Hand, Chm., Bessemer, Ala.

PROF. W. LEE HIGGINS HERE

The Union-Banner was pleased Saturday afternoon to have as a distinguished visitor Prof. W. Lee Higgins, of Boaz, Alabama.

Prof. Higgins is the main stay of the Showalter company, publishers of scared song books, and is an outstanding teacher of scared music. He, together with Mr. Floy Devaughn, is teaching a school now at New Brocton, Ala., and just last week finished a record-breaking school at Oozier another south Alabama town. There were about 150 pupils at Dozier, and the enrollment at New Brocton is expected to reach close to that figdre.

Another interesting thing about Prof. Higgins is that he hails from Marshall county, the home county of Hon. Oliver D. Street. We are always glad to have Prof. Higgins visit us.

Judge Throws Out AAA Pact On Milk

Brewster Refuses To Grant Injunction Asked Against 22 Boston Dealers

Boston, July 23.—Federal Judge E. H. Brewster threw out of court today another Agricultural Adjustment Administration milk marketing agreement, declaring it was "a matter beyond powers delegated to the federal Government."

He refuses to grant an injunction asked by the AAA against 28 Greater Boston milk dealers accused of violating a Boston milk marketing agreement.

From Samuel W. Trator, Federal milk administrator for the Boston area, came the assertion tonight that the adverse decision was so "sweeping" that "of course the Government cannot ignore it."

Judge Brewster ruled the AAA lacked power to regulate agricultural products within the state.

CHILTON COUNTY CLEAR OF "POLIO" SO FAR SAYS KIMMEY

According to Dr. J. M. Kimmey, county health officer, Chilton County is still clear of poliomyeletis "polio" for short, better known as infantile paralysis, which has been sweeping North Alabama, South Tennessee, and Northeastern Mississippi.

Dr. Kimmey stated that not one single case has so far shown up in this county. Upon announcement that the nasal spray could be obtained at the county health office, Dr. Kimmey said that his office had been swamped with applicants for treatment, both white and colored. Health officials advise three "shots" one day apart, and after this one a week so long as the danger exists. Hundreds have been treated so far, and last Monday morning, both Dr. Kimmey and Miss Irene Smitherman, nurse in the health office, were administering treatment.

Dr. Kimmey further stated that the people of the county are showing a splendid spirit of voluntary cooperation in preventing the dread disease, in keeping children out of crowds, at picture shows, swimming pools, and the like. He asks that parents keep up this vigilance, in the hope that the danger of "polio" may be held down in Chilton.

REVIVAL BEGINS AT COOPERS NEXT SUNDAY, ADGUST 2ND

The revival services will begin at Chestnut Creek, Coopers, next Sunday, August 2nd. Rev. T. E. Steeley, of Roanoke, will assist the pastor, Rev. J. W. Jones. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

PATTERSON HICKS TAKES OVER PRINCIPALSHIP OF HIGH SCHOOL

Mr. Patterson Hicks, of Florala, Ala., arrived in Clanton last week to take up his duties as principal of Chilton county high school. Mr. Hicks will remove his family here within a few weeks, and will occupy the Searcy home, next to Mr. Percy Pitts.

This new principal comes to Clanton highly recommended as a high school principal; he has had broad experience as a school teacher. A native of Calhoun County, Mr. Hicks graduated at Jacksonville teachers college in 1918, and took a B. S. degree at Auburn in 1924. Then in 1928 he took an M. A. degree at Columbia University.

His record of teaching covers a period of 17 years, 10 years of which he was principal of Covington County high school, at Florala. He taught four years in the Florala school before becoming principal.

Mr. Hicks is a World War veteran, married, is a Kiwanian and a Baptist. He has been a resident of Florala for 15 years. He has already become a member of Clanton Baptist church, having placed his membership here last Sunday.

The Union-Banner joins the other people of Clanton in extending a warm welcome to Mr. Hicks and his family into our midst. We predict great work at Chilton county high school under his leadership; and we offer our assistance to him and the institution any time we can be of service. We all want to make Chilton county high school the very best possible.

MRS. TIFFIN BACK HOME

Mrs. J. B. Tiffin, who was injured in an auto wreck near Owensboro, Ky., several days ago while on a vacation trip with her husband, was brought back home last Tuesday morning.

Mrs. Tiffin's condition has been described as more serious than was first thought. Mrs. Tiffin suffered a severe spinal injury, and will be confined to her home some time for recovery.

Mrs. Tiffin was carried by ambulance from Owensboro to Evansville, Ind., where through drawing room accomodation could be secured for her.

Angry Democrats Planning A Revolt

Senator James Reed Heads Group Proposing To Ban Alien Control Of Party

Boston, July 27.—Prominent Democrats opposing President Roosevelt plan to organize revolt on a national scale at a conference in Detroit.

The meeting is being promoted by former Sen. James A. Reed of Missouri and Sterling E. Edmunds, St. Louis attodney; it was reported Former Gov. J. B. Ely of Massachusetts plans to attend, Bainbridge Colby of New York, secretary of state in the Wilson Cabinet, also hae accepted an invitation, it was said.

Invitations are being sent to dissident Democrats through the country over Edmunds' signature. They are addressed to "constitutional Democrats who are opposed to the present alien control of our party's name and machinery in 30 or more states."

Ely was one of five Democrats who sent a joint anti-Roosevelt manifesto to delegates to the Democrats national convention, urging them to repudiate the President. Colby was another, the three co-singers were Alfred E. Smith, Reed and Daniel F. Cohalan of New York.

Whether Smith would attend the Detroit meeting could not be learned. A person close to sponsore of the conference said "Smith doesen't like to get away from New York much; it's difficult to tell whether he'll be there."

The inference that the one-time presidential candidate had been invited was not disputed.

ROBERT M. RAWLS

The death of Robert M. Rawls, editor of The Athens Courier, removes from the ranks of Alabama newspaper men one of the most forceful personalities that it has known. Mr. Rawls was a robust, vigorous independent editor. He had his own opinions and voiced them freely. He was also a successful newspaper business manager. He made his paper profitable. He will be missed by the council board of the State.—Montgomery Advertiser.

MR. C. H. GILES BROUGHT IN LARGE WATERMELONS

The Union-Banner was the recipient of a fine watermelon from our good friend, Mr. C. H. Giles, of Maplesville Route 1, last Thursday. It weighed about 50 pounds. Mr. Giles has another melon that tipped the scales at 65 pounds.

KEMP DRY GOODS COMPANY OPEN FOR BUSINESS TODAY

Mr. W. A. Kemp, manager of the new store here known as the Kemp Dry Goods Company, is this week announcing his opening. For this occasion Mr. Kemp is offering a big opening sale Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week, during which time many special attractions are being offered. An attractive feature ten per cent discount on all purchases.

This is a brand new store with brand new merchandise. Mr. Kemp asks The Union-Banner to assure the trading public of this section that he is going to carry in this store at all times first class merchandise, and at the same time, his prices will strictly be in line. Read his adv. elsewhere in this paper and visit this new store during its opening sale.

City Pays $3,000 On Bonds Yet Undue

According to information given out by Mayor C. Fenn Jones last Tuesday, Mayor Jones and the City Council called in adn paid off $3,000 of the city's bonded indebtedness last week.

Mayor Jones stated that inasmuch as the bonds were drawing interest and that the finances of the city were in shape to retire this amount of bonds, he could see no reason why they should not be paid and the interest stopped on them, thereby saving money for the city's taxpayers.

Mayor Jones and his councilmen have made a good record during their administration and so far as we have been able to ascertain, this is the first time that bonds fo rthe city of Clanton have been called in and paid off before retirement date.

It is the intention of Mayor Jones to run for re-election, and the outlook for re-election is good. The Mayor made the following statement for publication regarding his candidacy, payment of the bonds, and the connection between the two:

"Last week I caled in three $1,000 bonds for payment. These bonds were not due, but we had the cash to pay them and I saw no reason why the City should continue to pay interest on them. I had another reason for paying the bonds at this time. I shall ask for re-election to the Mayor's office, and I do not expect to be defeated, but should I be, I wanted to be sure the money we have accumulated went to pay the city's debts, where it rightfully belongs. This makes a total of $14,00 of bonds that have been retired during my time in office.—C. Fenn Jones.

TREATMENT FOR SNAKE BITE

The Union-Banner is glad to announce that a snake bite serum has been perfected, which, when applied within a reasonable time, proves effective. The new serum is "Antivenin" and is obtained from the blood of horses which have been highly immunized against the venoms of North American snakes. It will antidote the venoms of copperheads, cotton-mouth moccasin, and the rattlesnakes, but is not effective against the coral snakes.

Snake bite accidents frequently occur at a distance from habitations and far from immediate medical aid, but inasmuch as most of them are inflicted on some part of the leg or arm, it is entirely practical for the victim, himself, ca napply the proper first-aid treatment.

Apply a ligature or tourniquet a few inches above the bite. A rubber garter, a piece of small rubber tubing, a handkerchief, cord, or even a shoe string will do. Do not apply it tightly, but just firm enough to retard circulation returning through the veins toward the heart. The sole object of the tourniquet is to delay absorption of the poison into the general circulation, but if it is applied too tightly or kept on too long gangrene is likely to set in, with resulting destruction of the flesh in the affected area. It is important, therefore, to release the tourniquet every 10 or 15 minutes for about a minute at a time.

Go to a physician as soon as possible.

Don't run or get overheated. Don't take any alcoholic stimulants. Circulation increased by exercise or by alcohol, serves to distribute the poison much more rapidly throught the body. Don't injure the tissue by injecting potassium permanganate, that is now known to be of no value as an antidote. Do not depend upon snake bite "cures" or home remedies commonly used. They are of no value.

Do not cauterize the site of the bite with strong acids or the like.

O. G. FRIDAY

Funeral services for little O. G. Friday 7-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Glover Friday of Billingsley, were held at Bethsalem church Sunday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock. Burial was in the cemetery at that place, with Martin in charge

Death came to the child shortly after midnight Sunday morning, as a result of a snake bite suffered about 3.00 o'clock Saturday afternoon. Anti-snake bite serum wos used in treatment, but so much time had elapsed before treatment was started that it was ineffective.

LETTER FROM DR. BOB JONES

Cleveland, Tenn.
July 16, 1936.

Dear Friends:

In just a few weeks, the railway trains and highways of this country will be crowded with young folks going off to college. Hundreds of young people who ente rcollege this fall will come back at the end of the year with question marks in their minds about the existence of God and the reality of religion.

Let me warn you fathers and mothers! Be careful where you send your children to school. Take no chances. Play the game safe. There are good orthodox Christian colleges in teh United States but THERE ARE NOT VERY MANY OF THEM. I wish to assure that the students who attend the Bob Jones College will come back home to their parents having had as good educational advantages as can be found in any institutio nin America and having had individual, constant, and personal attention and having had their faith preserved and stimulated.

If you wish literature, write Bob Jone College, Cleveland, Tennessee.

Sincerely yours,
BOB JONES.

There were other visitors in the afternoon, and after several enjoyable hours everyone returned home hoping to meet again soon. The day was greatly enjoyed by everyone.

CLANTON METHODIST CHURCH

Upon the advice of the health officer, the Vacation Church School for the children, which was to be held this week and next week, has been postponed indefinitely.

During the month of August, the vesper servic s held at 5 o'clock, will consist of a varied program. Music of various kinds will be featured. The service is only thirty minutes in length and very inspiring. Mrs. Barney Roberts has charge one Sunday afternoon and Mrs. Percy Pitts the next Sunday afternoon. Mrs. Roberts will make the program next Sunday afternoon. The public is invited to these services.

Sunday morning the pastor will occupy the pulpit, speaking on the theme, "The Curse of Copy Catting." Services of last Sunday were well attended in spi e of the Polio scare. Do not let hot weather, company, or anything else keep you away from church Sunday.

MT. CARMEL NEWS

Last Sunday was our annual singing day, and we are glad to report that the occasion was a grand success. Much interest was manifest by he large crowd of good singers present. Everybody participated in singing praises to the Lord. The radiant countenances evidenced an inward meaning to every song.

Space will not permit an outline of the day's program, but we would not fail to mention the splendid service of the quartets. They were: the Devaughn quartet, the Oak Grove quartet, and the White City quartet. An object of unspeakable delight to the attentive congregation was the several soul-stirring duets of Mr. Bill Coker and his little son.

The day was completely occupied in singing worshipful hymns. Thanks to everyone present for good behavior. The occasion was uninterrupted by any misconduct. Only at the bounteous dinner table was any jacular comments heard; those were of a wholesome, Christian nature.

Everyone was welcomed publicly and as many as possible personally. As a manifestation of our heartfelt welcome, we cordially invite everybody back at any time.—Reporter.

Been fitting glasses in Clanton thirty-five years, and still going. New equipment.—Upchurch Drug Company.

LAY DAM 15—HOMEWOOD 13

The hard-hitting Lay Dam Killowatts took another high scoring fray last Sunday afternoon on their field, defeating the Homewood team of the Birmingham City League 15 to 13.

Sloane and Halmon led th evisitors' attack with three hits each, one of Sloane's going for the circuit, and culminating a 9-run splurge in the 8th to tie the score at 13-all. Reynolds and Golson led for Lay Dam with three each. After the score was tied in the 8th, Cecil Jones, first Killowatt up in the last half of that frame, hit one to Melburne's fast ones to the wide open spaces far over "Mitch" Williams' head in right field for another homer.

For Lay Dam Armstrong had a single, Baker a single, Reynolds 3 singles, Jones a single and a home run, Hayes a double and a triple, Greene a single, and Golson a triple and two singles; Cobb, Tatum and Warren failed to hit.

Golson started on the mound for Lay Dam and was pulled in the 8th after three straight hits had scored two runs. Foshee replaced him, but failed to last through the inning, Homewood tieing the score on his pitching. With two away, Warren took up and struck out the third man, to quell the uprising, and received credit for the victory.

Elmore started for Homewood, but was ineffective, and was followed by a pitchers' parade in which 4 pitchers saw duty, the most effective being season, a fine bal lpitcher; Deason's weakness was lack of control.

The Homewood team bobbled seven times and Lay Dam 3.

READ J. A. HEADLEY'S LETTER

Jemison, Ala., July 27, 1936.

Editor Union-Banner:

Well, I guess I feel like drinking a "cocoa" as Mr. J. A. Headley says; so I am ready to go. I don't know Mr. Headley, but since reading his piece last week in The Banner, I think I have a very good picture of him. I agree with him in the first paragraph of his letter, but that is as far as I do agree. I am not 60 years old—hardly half of that—but I feel like saying a word in behalf of the aged. Mr. Headley has accused them wrongfully, as he wonld know if he had taken time to get their sentiments on the Townsend $200 a month plan. I have heard several of the older people say they did not want $200 a month, for they would not know what to do with it.

Now, I dare say Mr. Headley would not be fighting it if it were for him; for his letter leads one to believe that he meets Mr. Roosevelt's bread wagon every week for his flour and canned beef, and that is what he is fighting for. Now, if he will fight for this dole, what would he do for $200 a month? He thinks that this amount for the aged would bankrupt the government; yet Roosevelt's spending and waste are all right to Mr. Headley. Now, does that make sense? I am not in favor of the Townsend plan, neither am I in favor of this bunch that is spending this government into bankruptcy now. Most people feel that it it not nearly time to open your eyes, but you should have had them open for a long time, then you could see that every member of this Democratic, Socialist or what not party should be using a turnplow instead of trying to bankrupt the government.

I doubt if Mr. Headley knows what promises the Landon-Knox ticket has made, any way, they are not broken yet. We have seen what the Roosevelt-Garner promises amount to, just something to be broken. Yet I think the farmers and laboring class of people have had enough broken promises for the past four years to last them for quite a long time. It is not the laboring class of people who want Roosevelt. It is the people who have I.W.W. (I Won't Work) written all over them. Laboring men want to work for what they get—not have it handed to them like a hog.

I would like to remind you, Mr. Headley, that the old Hoover wagon has passed on just as the Roosevelt wagon has just about done. The wagon we will be riding in for the next four years will be the Landon wagon.

As to how many farmers ever heard of Governor Landon, it gives me quite a laugh to think that Mr. Headley never heard of him until a few days ago; and he wonld be surprised at the size of the box car it would take to hold the farmers that will place their cross under the elephant in November.

Yours for the Republican party.—Marvin Martin.

PARDON NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned, John Mims, who was convicted in the Circuit Court of Chilton County in November, 1935, for violating the prohibition law and sentenced to 11 months and 4 days in the penitentiary, will make application to the Hon. State Board of Pardons for pardon or parole. (Signed)—John Mims. 7-23-2tpd.

RIDERVILLE REUNION

The annual reunion of the Riderville and surrounding community was held at the lovely home of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Gay, Stanton, Ala., Route 1, on July 21, 1936.

The morning was filled with laughter and joy as everyone took part in the conversation.

A barbecue dinner was spread under the outstretched arms of an oak grove. Everyone enjoyed the dinner very much.

During the afternoon, everyone gathered and talked about the news of yesterday, today and tomorrow. watermelons and peaches were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Willis Smitherman had the largest family present.

The whole community wishes to express their deepest words of appreciation to Mr. and Mrs. Gay and family for their splendid deeds of gratitude shown us during the day. May God bless them in all their undertakings of life and may all their troubles be little ones.

Firestone

GUM-DIPPED TIRES

are used on Greyhound Buses"

Says C. E. Wickman, President, Greyhound Corporation, world's largest highway transportation system

FOLLOW the lead of big tire users who buy only on proof of performance.

Last year Greyhound buses traveled 138,000,000 miles from Coast to Coast and from Canada to the Gulf across deserts and over winding mountain roads.

They have won the National Safety Council's highest award in inter-city bus operation for the past four years. This is indeed a tribute to careful driving, efficient equipment and the reserve safety of Firestone Tires made possible by the Firestone Patented Process of Gum-Dipping which prevents internal friction and heat.

Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires run up to 28° cooler and give greatest blowout protection—the scientifically designed non-skid tread will stop your car up to 25% quicker and give you 50% longer non-skid mileage.

Take no chances! Buy your tires on proof of performance. Let us equip your car today with Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires, the Masterpiece of Tire Construction!

Rid Yourself of Kidney Poisons

DO you suffer burning, scanty or too frequent urination, backache, headache, dizziness, loss of energy, leg pains, swellings and puffiness under the eyes? Are you tired, nervous—feel all unstrung and don't know what is wrong?

Then give some thought to your kidneys. Be sure they function properly for functional kidney disorder permits excess waste to stay in the blood, and to poison and upset the whole system.

Use Doan's Pills. Doan's are for the kidneys only. They are recommended the world over. You can get the genuine, time-tested Doan's at any drug store.

LAY DAM 6—TALLASSEE 5

Local baseball fans were treated to one of the finest games of the season last Tuesday afternoon, when the Lay Dam Killowatts defeated a fine Tallassee team 6 to 5, the affair going 12 innings.

The game was a nip and tuck affair throughout, the Killowatts coming from behind on two accasions. In the 12th, after Tallassee had failed to score, Dock Backer led off with a single. Two infield outs put him on third and Cecil Jones rifled a single over second to clinch the decision.

A full account of this game could not be secured, but spectators voted it the best game played on the Clanton field this season.

Fewer Aches and Pains More Health and Pleasure

PAIN drags you down—physically, mentally, morally.

Why continue to endure it? Try Dr. Miles Anti-Pain Pills for Headache, Neuralgia, Muscular, Rheumatic, Sciatic, and Periodic Pains. They seldom fail.

Dr. Miles Anti-Pain Pills are pleasant to take and prompt to act. They do not upset the stomach, cause constipation or leave you with a dull, depressed feeling.

Ask your druggist or any of the hundreds of thousands enthusiastic users. Probably you too can find relief.

I think all Dr Miles medicines are wonderful, but Anti-Pain Pills are my favorite.
Mrs. Doc Blankenship, Stamford, Texas

I have used your Anti-Pain Pills only a short time, but they have given me prompt relief. They did for me in a week more than any other medicine I had taken for a year. Phil Goller,
Milwaukee, Wisconsin

I am never without Anti-Pain Pills. I think they are much better than anything else I have ever used. Sometimes when I am tired and nervous, and feel like I would go under, I take two Anti-Pain Pills and in a sort time I feel like a different person. Mrs. S. Tidabach,
Stroudsburg, Pennsylvania

Your Anti-Pain Pills have been used in my home with wonderful results. I recommend them.
Maggie Belle Dudley, Vanceboro, N. C.

Your Anti-Pain Pills helped me a great deal. I have used them for years. I carry them everywhere in my purse and always keep them in the house. They have saved me a great many sick headaches.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert

Now that the national conventions are over and the campaign of 1936 is on the way, the Republican leaders who visit Washington are expressing quiet satisfaction over the fact that the nominees of our party in Congress will not be neglected in the fighting this year. Most of them emphasize the fact that that is highly important, more essential than it has been in a long time, that the Republicans win a majority of the seats in Congess in the November election. While the Demicratic majority in the Senate seems well assured for the next two years at least, owing to the number of holdovers, the situation with regard to the House of Representatives is, of course, different, inasmuch as an entirey new membership will be chosen in the election. And should Governor Landon be elected to the presidency, a probably of which Republicans are now beccming hopeful, then it would make his task much easier if he were to have the support of a Republican Congress back if him. The experience of President Hoover is pointed to as an example. During the last two years of his Administration his battle with the depression was made doubly difficult because he had a hostile Congress to deal with.

Republicans generally have expressed great satisfaction with their new National Chairman, John D. M. Hamilton. However, if control of Congress is as important as they claim —and it is just that important from their standpoint—then the set-up of the Republican Congressional Committee ought to afford them much additional satisfaction. The Chairman of the committee, Chester C. Bolton, Congressman from the Twenty-Second Ohio District, which is a par tof the city of Cleveland, fully measures up to the repuirements of the job during this ticklish year of 1936. Mr. Bolton is youthful, active and pessesses a vigorous and pleasing personality. He is a good business man and executive of ability, and when it comes to the modern political attribute of dynamics, he posses a full share of them. While modest in his demeanor, Mr. Bolton has the ability and the inclination to go places, and he probably will. Elected to the Chairmanship in the spring of 1933, following the death of Congressman Will R. Wood, Mr. Bolton assumed the duties at a time when Republican mentality seemed to have sounded the G-string of despair. But he carried on and deserves the thanks and good will of his party for so doing. That he was not discouraged then is a good omen of what he may be able to accomplish, when times seem more propitious.

Assisting Mr. Boton will be former Congressman Bachman of West Virginia, who will have charge of the Chicago headquarters, and Congressman Bacon, or Long Island, who will be in charge of New York offices of the committee. Both are experienced men of political ability who know what it is all about. In the permanent headquarters of the committee at Washington will be found Earle Venable, a man of fine personality and high character, who has political sagacity and sound judgement born of years of experience on Capitol Hill and with the committee. The committee's publicity will continue to be in charge of Mr. Warren Wheaton, a newspaper man of long political experience, who can be counted on to write the right thing and who, to put it in the vernacular, "knows what it is all about."

In short, the Republican Congressional Committee is now organized in such way, for the campaign, that it will doubtless do a good job in directing Republican forces in the attempt to win the next Congress in the Elephant. And no Republican who has studied the situation will deny that the task is an important one.

NEWSPAPERS "TAKE A WALK"

That there is a real and considerable defection in the so-called right wing of the Democratic party—though some commentators are disposed to call it the Jeffersonian wing —away from the New Deal organization as perfected in the Philadelphia convention, is not indicated solely by the action of men like Al Smith, Governor Ely and "Jim" Reed in taking a walk from the Brain Trust politocal planks.

There has been a considerable switching of support among so-called old line Democratic newspapers from President Roosevelt. The papers in question are either maintaining a friendly neutrality toward the candidacy of Alf Landon or are openly supporting the Kansas governor in his effort to be elected President of the United States.

One of the latest and by no means the least important of these newspaper defections is that of the Omaha World-Herald. For years this Nebraska paper has been one of the most important Democratic organs of the Middle West. The background of the World-Herald is thoroughly Democratic. The paper was formerly edited by the great Commoner, William Jennings Bryan. For years it was published by Senator Gilbert H. Hitchcock, a Democrat of courage and ability, who, during the Wilsonian days, was known as one of the closest friends of the World War President. For half a century the World-Herald has been one of the moulders of opinion in Democratic ranks in the Prairie States.

The defection of the World-Herald is due to its disagreement with the fundamental principals of the New Deal. This disagreement is well illustrated by some recent editorial comment of the newspaper, which said:

"By his sweeping onslaught Mr. Roosevelt has precipitated uncompromising war between the government he heads and private enterprise. It will be bitter throughout the campaign. In the event of his re-election it will grow increasingly bitter through four long years.

"And just as long as that war rages, the billions of credit and money tied up in the banks, idle and unused, will remain idle and unused. The millions of idle workers will remain unused, unless it be on public labor. Enterprise will not only be chilled as now, but frozen. No doors of opportunity will open—save to government jobs.

"This newspaper believes the American system, both economic and political, is not so desperately sick, so hopelessly beyond cure, that it is necessary to kill and replace it with an order alien to our traditions, repugnant to all our aspirations."

The Omaha newspaper, however, is not the only one which has turned thumbs down on the modernistic principles of the New Dealers. The attitude of the Baltimore Sun, one of the most influential newspapers in the country is a case in point. No Republican paper has been more effectively critical of the favorite policies of President Roosevelt, Mr. Wallace and Prof. Tugwell than the Sun. There may be mentioned, too, the pungent words which go out each day from Frank Kent, whose name has long been associated with the Sun, and who has became one of the best known syndicate writers in the country.

Some of this newspaper's defection has been in the Solid South. There it may be effective in turning states which are traditionally Democratic, but it is at least significant of the trend of thought of thousands of Jeffersonian Democrats all over the country. Mention in this respect might be made of the Lynchburg (Va.) News, the Winchester (Va) Star, the Charleston (S. C.) News and Courier, the Charlotte (N. C.) Observer, and there are others.

TWO MORE "TAKE WALK"

Significance continues to be attached in political circles to the number of so-called old line Democratic leaders who have expressed their dissatisfaction with the New Deal and their intention to support Governor Landon in the 1936 campaign. Governor Al Smith's phrase, "take a walk", has become almost a campaign slogan, or at least it seems to have furnished aspiration for some of the well known old line leaders of the Democratic party.

While Senator Bruce has retired from politics, and is not the head of any pilitical organiation in Maryland, his defection from the New Deal is regarded as important. In the first place, he is a man of high character and strong personal influence in his state. In the second place political observers feel that his action discloses a state of mind which may be typical of that of many old line Democrats in various parts of the country.

Mr. Breckenridge is the active Democrat who entered his name in the Democratic primaries against that of President Roosevelt this spring, although he had no hopes of winning. He did, however, succeed, without organization, in gathering many votes in states like Maryland and Pennsylvania.

Senator Bruce in announcing his support of Governor Landon was content to say that he had been bitterly disappointed with President Roosevelt as an incumbent of the office of President and that he was deeply gratified with the nomination of Governor Landon and with his stand on monetary issues.

Mr. Breckenridge in his statement was a trifle more specific. He outlined seven reasons why he thought that the election of Governor Landon would be a good thing for the people of the United States. The reasons were:

"Greater security and prosperity for all those at present unemployed in agriculture, commerce, transportation and industry.

"2. Speedier re employment at a good wage for the millions of unemployed because the economy of scarcity and other follies of the present Administration will be done away with.

"3. Economy and common sense in government with diminishing taxes and more money in the citizens' pockets for personal expenditure and the stimulation of business.

"4 Greater freedom from hatred and strife between the various elements of our population.

"5. The ending of all threats of the freedom of the press and radio.

"6. The ending of all threats to the independent efficiency and integrity of the judiciary.

"1. The ending of the present and future menace to the American system of constitutional freedom existing in the philosophies that control the directing minds of the present Administration."

Senator Bruce and Mr. Breckenridge represent a type of Democrats who, while not active in the New Deal organization, are noted in their own communities for the weight of their own personal opinion.

MAN IN THE MOON

PROMISE AND PERFORMANCE

The Constitution

The 1932 Democratic platform stated:

"We favor the enactment of every CONSTITUTIONAL measure that will aid farmers to receive for their basic farm commodities prices in excess of cost."

On September 28, 1935, at Fremont, Neb., President Roosevelt said:

"I like to think that agricultural adjustment is an expression, in concrete form, of the human rights those former patriots sought to win when they stood at the bridge at Concord, when they proclaimed the Declaration of Independence, and when they perpetuated these ideals by adoption of the Constitution."

That plank in the Democratic platform was an admirable one, made all the more so in that it included in the qualification of "Constitutional" in the description of its intended measures. And the president's latter statement was very gracious, patriotic and high sounding. But let's take a look at the record as to the "Constitutional" measures passed. Besides the following, there have been no agricultural acts passed under the New Deal, so far as the South is concerned:

The Agricultural Adjustment Act, commonly known as the AAA, which constituted complete regimentation of agriculture, was declared "unconstitutional" by the U. S. Supreme Court on Jan. 6, 1936, after the farming interests of the nation had operated under it for about two years. Inasmuch as the Kerr Tobacco Control Contract, The Bankhead Cotton Act, and the Potato Control Act were drawn up along the same lines as the AAA, and in fact were integral parts of it, all these acts were repealed by Congress on Feb. 10, 1936, when it became sure that they, too, would meet the same fate as the AAA.

And, although Mr. Roosevelt had spoken so solemnly of the Constitution and the Supreme Court while in his campaign of 1932, when this ruling was handed down he scathingly denounced the Supreme Court and that part of the Constitution which, according to his views, "binds us down and carries us back to the horse and buggy days", finally rumoring that there might be some kind of action taken to have the Constitution amended so that these agencies might be allowed to function. This, alone, proves the president's lack of respect for our revered and cherished national institutions as opposed to his personal wishes.

Force In The AAA

At Topeka, Kansas, on September 14, 1932, Mr. Roosevelt, in speaking of his intended farm plan, said:

"The farm plan must not be coercive. It must be voluntary, and the individual producer should at all times have the opportunity of non-participation if he desires. It must be so organized that the benefits will go to the man who participates."

The Bankhead Cotton Act of 1934 imposed a penalty tax of 50 per cent of the market value of lint cotton on each pound of cotton ginned in excess of the individual farmer's allotment. Violation of this act was punishable by a fine not to exceed $1,000, or by imprisonment not exceeding six months, or by both.

The Kerr Tobacco Act imposed a tax (like the cotton act) of from 25 to 33 1-3 per cent excessive growth of tobacco, and violation was punishable by a fine not exceeding $5,000 or by imprisonment not exceeding five years, or both.

The Potato Control Act provided a tax of 45 cent sper bushel for all potatoes marketed in excess of allotment, with penalties for its violation.

The Supreme Court in its decision handed down on January 6, 1936, stated:

"Congress has no power to enforce its commands on the farmer. . ."

How does this stack up against the President's words at Topeka? Every farmer in Chilton County KNOWS that the penalties set out in the above were eenacted. Can our people be expected to again place their confidence in a man who holds the fulfillment of his promises so lightly?

Emergency

The preamble of the AAA of 1933, contains this passage:

"An act to relieve the existing national economic EMERGENCY by increasing agricultural purchasing power, to raise revenue for extraordinary expenses incurred by reason of such EMERGENCY, to provide EMERGENCY relief with respect to agricultural indebtedness, to provide for the ordinary liquidation of joint stock land banks, and for other purposes."

According to the above, the framers of the AAA undoubtedly intended to leave the impression o nthe farmers that there was an emergency, which fact I think one will not deny, and that their intention was to hold the AAA only so long as emergency existed. Yet in a statement made on October 25, 1935, when the emergency question arose, the president said:

"IT NEVER WAS THE IDEA of the man who framed the AAA, of those in Congress who revised it, nor of Henry Wallace or Chester Davis (who carried out the act) that the AAA should be EITHER A MERE EMERGENCY OPERATION, or a static agency."

Thus, again, it seems that the highest executive in the land has reversed his stand, after the confidence of the people had been given, and openly admits that a gigantic and pitiful HOAX had been perpetrated on the farmers of the nation, and that IT WAS SO INTENDED FROM THE VERY BEGINNING, despite his former statement that is was olyn an EMERGENCY institution. And yet, the Democratic party asks you to AGAIN support a man who, by his own words, admits that NOT ONE SPARK OF CONFIDENCE can be placed in his promises.

Extravagance In Government

The Democratic platform of 1932 stated:

"We advocate the IMMEDIATE and DRASTIC reduction of governmental expenditures by abolishing useless commissions and offices, consolidating departments and bureaus, and eliminating extravagance, to accomplish a saving of NOT LESS THAN 25 PER CENT in the cost of federal government."

In his acceptance speech on July 2, 1932, Mr. Roosevelt said:

"FOR THREE LONG YEARS I have been going up and down this country preaching that government costs too much. I shall not stop the preaching."

Speaking in Pittsburgh, Pa., on Oct. 19, 1932, Mr. Roosevelt said:

"That (the Hoover spending), my friends, is the most reckless and extravagant pace I have bene able to discover in the statistical record of any peace-time government anywhere, any time!

Let us now examine Mr. Roosevelt's spending record, compared with the last year of Mr. Hoover's administration. In that fiscal year, 1932, there was spent $5,153,644,895. In Mr. Roosevelt's FIRST year, 1933, he did cut expenditures to $5,142,954,000, although his promised 25 per cent reduction would have cut it down to approximateley $3,865,233,671. But in 1934, the first year the brain trust really began its work, the governmental expenditures were almost double the last named amount, which Mr. Roosevelt had pledged would be spent—the exact figure being $7,105.050,000. The 1935 figure was $7,375,825,000; and in the fiscal year ending on June 30, 1936, the Roosevelt administration spent $9,882,000,000 according to figures given out by Mr. Morgenthau, Secretary of the Terasury.

Think of it! The American people elected Franklin D. Roosevelt on the strength of his promises, and this ONE BROKEN PROMISE alone has cost the American taxpayers IN ONE YEAR the staggering sum of over SIX BILLION DOLLARS!

And as to reducing the number of bureaus, commissions, etc., as the "candidate" Roosevelt promised so faithfully, in order to bring about that "25 per cent reduction," the record is open to prove to all who wish to look thereon, that instead of cutting out bureaus and commissions, the present administration has set up new ones almost without number. Here is a partial list—There are manp,many more: AAA, CCC (Commodity Credit Corporation), FFMC, NRA, NLRB, SSB, NBCC, USEO, FDIC, FSLIC, HOLC, FHA, RA(Tugwell's pet), PWA, TVA, REA, EHFA, FERA, CWA, WPA, FSCC, CSB, SEC, NA, FCC, FCT, NRC, RRB, and NEC, and numberless others.

The present administration has run the alphabet ragged and you American taxpayers were paying the bill and WILL BE paying it for years to come. To scan the list of bureau names and symbols resembles a first grade teacher's alphabet lesson, or the testing room of a spectacle fitter.

Instead of REDUCING expenditures by "at least 25 per cent," the Roosevelt administration RAISED them during the year 1934 by 38 per cent, in 1935 by 43 per cent, and in 1936 by 92 per cent! Can you rely on a man who makes such big promises, and offers such pitiful performance?

Yet, in the face of these figures, Mr. Farley, the president's wheel horse, speaking in Salt Lake City on August 1, 1934, said:

"You are having the most economical federal administration you have had for years."

This, we believe, in the face of unimpeachable facts, as given out by the New Deal's own officers, is the most apparent misstatement of facts ever made, and an insult to the intelligence to every American.—Man in the Moon.

WEATHER AND POLITICS

With the news of the terrible drouth on the western part of the country on the front page of every newspaper during the middle of July and the reports of the rushing of relief to the stricken areas by the government, there has naturally been some speculation abong the political observers as to what effect the drouth will have on the election this fall.

Some of those friendly to the New Deal have privately expressed the belief that while the drouth has been a deplorable thing, the relief work of the government will bring additional support to the New Deal ticket this fall from those who have been helped. They base their statement on the belief that the president will get a large portion of his political strength from those who have been helped by the P. W. A. or some other form of government relief during the past three years.

There are others, however, who are not so sure that the general effect will be so helpful to the Administration. They point out the fact that there has been much criticism from consumers in our cities and towns as to the great increase in the cost of living. The drouth will make living even higher this fall. While the New Dealers themselves will naturally disclaim that they brought on the drouth, yet the belif is generally expressed that the slaughter of pigs and the crop curtailment started the cycle of higher prices to the consumer through scarcity and processng taxes. So, it is easily possible that the scarcity from crop destruction will have more than one political effect. Doubtless, after all, the American people will decide the election on fundamental issues rather than weather conditions.

THE NEW ELEPHANT TRAINER

Judging by the success of his efforts in leading the drive to nominate Governor Landon for the presidency and the absence of factional dissension and soreness following the Cleveland convention, John D. M. Hamilton, the new Republican National Chairman, ought to make a good record, according to Frank P. Litschert, who writes of the Republican National Convention and the part which Mr. Hamilton played in it, in the current issue of the National Republic under the caption "The New Elephant Trainer." Speaking of the nomination of Governor Landon, Mr. Litschert says:

"Landon was the popular choice of the convention, and if we are to read correctly the results of the State primaries held, he was the popular choice of the Republican voters back home. That this conclusion is true is evidenced by the fact that there was less bitterness in Cleveland at the close of the Republican Convention than there has been at the end of any national political convention of modern times.

"The nomination of Governor Landon has wide political significance. In the words of William Allen White, the noted Kansas editor, the 'mild courtesy mention of his name a little more than a year ago has swept Alf Landon into the leadership of the Republican party.' The Kansas Governor, comparatively little known outside his native state, soon became a national figure and a distinct presidential possibility. Of course, Governor Landon's personality and his public record as the chief executive of his state went far to recommend him as the standard bearer of the Republican party. But to cash in on his character and ability in a political contest, any candidate must have the right kind of publicity and organization, under skilled direction.

"This brings us t othe now official trainer of the G. O. P. elephant, Mr. John D. M. Hamilton, leading young lawyer of Topeka. How about Mr. Hamilton? He has done a good job up to this point. Will he continue to perform well as the national leader of this great political party? Here is a question the answer of which will go far in writing political history during the next five months.

Remember the old fashioned teacher who used to tell us that a penny saved was a penny earned?

It is said that there are ten million people unemployed in the United States — Besides those who have federal jobs.

CHAMPION NOSE-HOLDER

"How", asks the New York Sun, " can even a hardened politician like Senator Robinson have the nerve to say that the Roosevelt administration has faithfully complied with the spirit of the 1932 platform when the New Deal crew, instead of reducing government costs 25 per cent has spent nineteen billion dollars in one Congress, when instead of eliminating bureaucrcay it has built is up tier by tier; when instead of removing government from all unnecessary activity in the fields of private enterprise it has gone heavily into T. V. A. and other socialistic enterprises; when instead of eliminating bureaus like the Farm Board the New Deal has embraced every agricultural cure-all invented by the sub-marginal minds that surround the President?"

The reason is—and of course the Sun knows it—that good old conservative Joe Robinson could get away with it better than any of the "sub marginal" minds that surround the President, much of whose work the Arkansas Senator as thoroughly detests at heart as does any Democrat on a walk.—Springfield, Miss., Union.

SEVENTY-FOURTH CONGRESS

Some Congresses may perhaps lay claim on records of statesmanship. This one made an undisputed record of another kind—a record of extravagance.

There are persons who get a thrill out of spending their own money—as long as it lasts. But the thrill of spending other people's money is a sensation reserved to the elect—and the elected.

If your Congressman voted for the majority, look well upon him when he gets home and be duly impressed for he is a man who spent, or helped to spend, $20,000,000,000.

Perhaps you will get a chance to speak to him. If so, be tactful. Don't say millions. You would hurt his feelings. Billions is the word. Say billions and he will be happy.

And, above all, don't ask him how the money was spent. of course, he doesn't know.—Chicago News.

A statistician says the death rate from automobile accidents is much less in Russia than in the United States. True enough. But in Russia the average working man doesn't own his shirt, let alone an automobile. And if he did have a car, there wouldn't be any roads to drive it on.

An optomistic New Deal politician says Roosevelt will carry Kansas this year by a bigger majoriy han he did in 1932. Yeah? and Joe Lewis knocked out Schmeling in the first round.

Haile Sellassie, who went to Geneva to get same consolation out of the League of Nations, now knows how the girl felt who was left waiting at the church.

It might be well to bear in mind that when Uncle Sam plays Santa Claus it is the taxpayer who holds the bag.—Washington, D. C. Post.

They do say that Governor Landon rode in a horse-drawn vehicle during his vacation out West. Which is more apt to raise the dust than Vincent Astor's yacht.

American stores are now selling hams from Poland, which shows how the A. A. A. and Cordell Hull's reciprocity tariff has helped out the American farmer.

Mr. Hopkins is going to move farmers from the drouth region into better locations. We presume this means into the doubtful districts.

NO CROONER

Landon is not a crooner over the radio. There are many whose lilting sentences and sparklink diction outshine his. But this you can bank on: he well means every word he says, and will make every effort to carry out whatever promises he makes, which will be nothing that will be impossible. He is the type of man who had rather go down to defeat than have it said he was elected on promises that he afterward broke. This country needs more common sense in office and less soft spoken promises over the radio.—Charles Mann in Osborne, Kans., Farmer.

IGNORED—NOT FORGOTTEN

We said the other day that the Democratic platform might take either one of two courses in refence to the broken pledges of the platform of 1932—it might ignore them or it might explain them. We said that to ignore the platform of 1932 would be the easier way, "but it would hardly be good politics; it would be dodging an issue that an allert opposition very probably emphasizes." However that may be, it is the way that has been chosen. The platform of 1936 has nothing whatever to say about the platform of 1932. "Why bring that up?" was apparently the attitude of the framers of the platform. We attempt to explain the unexplainable? Let bygones be bygones. And, anyway, the public's infinite capacity for forgetting can be depeneded upon." But it is much to be doubted that the public will be permitted to forget those brave and fine pledges of economy, balanced budget and sound money, and the question will be asked: if those primary pledges of the platform of 1932 were thrown into the waste basket and a course entirely opposite to them adopted, what can be expected of the pledges in the platform of 1936? —St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

IMPROVING LOCAL ROADS AND LOCAL ROAD ADMINISTRATION

By T. J. Arledge

The Federal-Aid highway bill, known as the new Hayden-Cartwright bill, authoriing oppropriations for the fiscal years 1938 and 1939, has been passed by both houses of congress, according to an article in the Engineering News-Record. Authorizations for each of the years included in the bill are as follows: regular Federal-Aid, $125,000,000; grade crossing elimination, $50,000,000; secondary or federal roads, $25,000,000; forest highways, roads and trails, $14,000,000; national highways, $10,000,000; national park roads and trails, $7,500,000; roads in Indian reservations, $4,000; and highways in nontaxable public lands, $2,500,000. The secondary road authorizations specify farm-to-market roads, rural free delivery mail routes and school bus routes. This is the first federal aid appropriation for secondary or feeder roads, money actually appropriated for use on County roads as stated above.

Under the terms of this bill it will be necessary for the Bureau of Public Roads to apply the money for the secondary roads through the state departments. It is naturally felt that the States that will most nearly meet local conditions, and this is undoubtedly true where there is the proper cooperation between the State Highway Department and the counties. And the highway planning surveys now in progress should furnish the information on which to base a satisfactory plan of allotment in each state. It might be possible that the State Highway Department would have about the same control or advisory control, as involved as the Bureau of Public Roads now exercise over the federal aid work on the State systems. The counties, under such a plan, would be required to match the funds to furnish the engineering control. The important thing about county federal aid work is that while it would be only a part of the total county work, the higher standards that would have to be adopted would be reflected in all other county road work. The most satisfactory results will be obtained by the closest cooperation between county State and Federal officials, working together for a plan that will be satisfactory for all.

As I said in my first article in this paper: Administration of local roads is only one of the functions of local government of immediate concern to a community, and cannot be removed without destroying the balance that should exist among these functions. Where is the line to be drawn between roads of local and roads of state-wide importance? What principles should govern the expansion or the contraction for that matter, of the State Highway system? That is as much a question for community planners as it is for highway engineers; it would be a mistake to classify roads entirely on the basis of type or volume of traffic. A high-type surface carrying a considerable volume of traffic may very properly belong to a county trunk system, and if it belongs there functionally it should remain there. There can be little objection to having state and county highway departments perform the same classes of work; indeed, there is a decided advantage in assuring a suffficient amount of county work, supported by a stable source of revenue, to encourage the highest type of engineering management.

The Department of Public Roads of Chilton County is only an infant, but the personnel is constantly being strengthened and gradually raised to a standard to meet the most rigid requirements of the most critical, and though we are sorely in need of better equipment, especially trucks to handle materials used in the repairs to bridges and road surfaces, every member of the organization is daily overcoming and surmounting every obstacle in their path of progress as different parts of these articles will indicate. Chilton County will be ready and amply able to apply their allotment for secondary road work.

FIRST 1936 BALE BRINGS 22 CENTS

The first bale of the 1936 cotton crop, produced in Montgomery County, sold at noon yesterday for 22 cents a pound, representing a premium of about nine cents a pound bid in the bale. Last year the same young farmer had the distinction of selling the first bale on July 29, but yesterday's price was seven cents a pound better.

The premium bale weighing 401 pounds, will be stored at the Alabama Warehouse on Coosa Street. So far as local cotton dealers knew, this was the first bale ginned and sold anywhere in Alabama.

Mr. Thrasher said the bale was gathered over 110 acres of March cotton. He predicts an average yield on the farm of about a bale to the acre. His plans are to start picking next Monday.

SAMSON DRIVER

Samson Driver, age 81, died at his home near Coopers on Clanton Route 2 last Thursday, after an illness of some duration.

Funeral services were held Thursday morning at 11:00 o'clock at Bethel church, with Elder J. W. Kelley officiating. Burial was in the cemetery at that place, with Spigener directing.

Surviviors are: his wife; three sons—J. M., John W., and B. O. Driver, all of Clanton Route 2; five daughters—Mrs. Maggie Vinson of Clanton Route 2, Mrs Fannie Ingram and Mrs. Ressie Stephens of Coopers, Mrs. Lula Knight of Mt. Creek Route 1, and Mrs. Lela Sellers of Bunnell, Fla.
Grandsons acted as pallbearers.

Mr. and Mrs. K. F. Doss of Birmingham spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Bob Barber and Mrs. Southworth.

MARVIN DURBIN IN WRECK LAST FRIDAY AFTERNOON

Marvin Durbin, Chilton County supervisor of the Resettlement Administration, was in an auto wreck at Collins' store, about four miles north of Clanton on the Birmingham highway last Friday afternoon. The other car was driven by a man named Dutton.

According to Mr. Durbin's version of the affair, he was driving south on the highway, when the Dutton car drove directly into his path without warning, Durbin's car striking it squarely in the side. Both cars were smashed somewhat, although no one was seriously injured.

CEMETERY CLEANING AT WALNUT CREEK TUESDAY

Everyone interested in the cemetery at Walnut Creek church is urgently requested to meet with us on next Tuesday, August 4, equipped with all necessary tools for cleaning off the cemetery. This cemetery is rather large, and unless a good crowd of workers help in the work it is quite burdensome. Therefore, we ask that all who have people buried there make it a point to be on hand at 7:00 sharp. —Committee.

NEGRO CAMP MEETING POSTPONED

The state camp meeting for negroes which was to have begun this week out at the camp grounds four miles southwest of Clanton, has been called off indefinitely on account of the "Polio" scare over sections of the State. A. B. Craig, the pastor, states that announcement will be made later as to when the camp meeting will be held.

CLEAR TRACK AHEAD!

Actual L. & N scene along Licking River in Kentucky

With "Go" signals showing all along the line, the American railroads are driving ahead to new triumphs in service and efficiency—going after business, and getting it, in a way to make any railroad man justly proud.

Of course the recent years have not been easy. But in face of tough times, these dependable carriers have made their bid for increased business by stepping up freight train speed by 43%, by cutting the running time of passenger trains, and by increasing their comfort by air conditioning, providing greater cleanliness, restful quiet, safe, agreeable travel at its best.

At the same time there has steadily gone forward a vast program of improvement—$172,000,000 invested in the past six years in laying heavier rails—a third of a billion dollars spent during the same period in new track construction, and more than three billions put into right-of-way maintenance—all of which makes faster schedules possible with safety.

And the L & N has shared in these giant forward strides. Never before could this railway give you such superb service—take you on your journey with such speed, economy, comfort and safety.

L&N THE FRIENDLY RAILROAD

What the L & N Means to the Central South

Employs 26,000 people, breadwinners to many thousands more.

Payrolls amount to over $40,000,000 per year. Buys over $10,000,000 in supplies per year. Pays over $4,000,000 in taxes annually. As a citizen, therefore, it contributes to the welfare and commercial interests of the communities it serves and those outside from which it purchases materials and supplies.

It offers courteous, complete, fast and dependable freight and passenger service. It asks the patronage of the public in the hope that it deserves it.

FROM A. A. JACKSON

Editor Union-Banner:

I noticed an article in your paper of last week from J. A. Headley, which eulogized President Roosevelt and all the administration bunch, and criticized the men of the age of 60 and up, accusing them of lining up with the Hoover, Landon, Knox and old Townsend bunch.

I can't see how Mr. Headley can afford to blame these old fellows for so doing, because a lot of them feel that the colored wash woman has had preference, and got relief when the needy fellows wailed.

One certain old fellow who is past 70 years of age and is not able to work, produced one light bale of cotton last year and paid the administration four cents per pound on part of that little bale for the privilege of selling it.

The Roosevelt administration was kind enough to pass a law giving the old fellows a pension of $15 per month provided the State matched it with $15. The Legislature passed the law matching the administration's $15. That would have give the poor needy aged a pension of $30 per month.

But Mr. Headley's administration bunch of Alabama run this old pension law to a red tape fizzle, and it seems to have exploded in the relief offices of the State, as it seems that the white collar relief bunch has the power and authority to say who is eligible and how much these old fellows shall draw.

And it appears further to me that this white collar bunch has decided that there is none eligible, and has the poor old fellows' applications piled up in a big file, while they sit around in their office and draw a fat salary.

I will mention another old fellow who is near 80 years old, and his wife around 75 years old. They have no property and no children who are able to care for themselves.

This old couple applied for relief and got none, there was a petition circulated by their neighbors and about 40 signed it. And in the face of these conditions Mr. Headley wants all of this bunch put back in office next November, and is asking the laboring people to help put them back.

I don't believe Mr. Headley will get much help from the poor working people of Chilton County.

The second reason why these fellows of 60 and up are lining up with old Townsend is because they believe his plan is sound and workable, and that it would put an end to depressions, relief agencies, and give prosperity to the masses of the nation.

Mr. Headley, you know the wise will change, and the good book tells us that as long as the light holds out to burn the vilest sinner may return. So get with the bunch that is working for equal rights to all and special privileges to none, and when we get that system, depression, poverty and misery will disappear in this land of plenty.—Yours against political discrimination, A. A. Jackson.

NEW CEDRON NEWS

Sunday was our regular preaching day and Rev. M. W. Mims delivered two wonderful sermons that were enjoyed by all. Our revival meeting will begin on the second Sunday in August. The Rev. M. Lockhart will assist Rev. Mims, and we cordially invite everyone to come.

The picnic held at the New Cedron ball ground Saturday was a success. Base ball games were enjoyed in the morning and afternoon. Our boys won one game and lost two, but we know they did their best. Most of the players were not in the best of condition because of losing sleep hauling watermelons, but they played well.

At the noon hour a bountiful picnic lunch was served by the ladies of the community and everyone enjoyed this very much.

Remember our Sunday school next Sunday at 10:00 o'clock a.m. and B. Y. P. U. at 7:00 o'clock p.m.

BIRMINGHAM BLACK BARONS TO PLAY HERE FRIDAY P.M.

Birmingham's Black Barons, one whole country, defeated the local negro team last Friday afternoon by the lop-sided score of 15 to 1. Attendants at this game were loud in their praise of the baseball prowess of the Black Barons.

The same teams will play next Friday afternoon. It is reported that the manager of the Black Barons has said that next Friday his team will see if they can stay "at bat" all afternoon. That would be something! This game will start at 3:00 p.m.

The management of the Clanton negro team announces that he has bolstered his team for Friday's game by the addition of several good players from the surrounding territory, including Cezelle Marbury, from Greenville. He expects to put a good team in front of the Black Barons and expects to make the going quite a bit harder for the big timers from the magic city.

SERVICES AT HOME OF BILLY ADAMS SUNDAY

Please allow me space in your paper to report the meeting at the home of Uncle Billy Adams on Sunday, July 25. There was a large crowd of both young and old people present.

We thank the people for their cooperation. Brother J. P. Littleton delivered a wonderful message, using the parable of the prodigal son.

We want everyone to know that you are welcome to com eand wirship God at Uncle Billy's house. Come on people when there are services at his house. It sure does make him feel good in his soul for you all to come and bring messages to him in his afflictions. Every meeting gets better.

MOONEY REUNION HELD IN COOSA COUNTY JULY 12

A reunion of the relatives and close friends of the Mooney family was held at the home of Mrs. S. J. Mooney, near Weogufka in Coosa County on Sunday, July 12. Dinner was spread under the shade trees and enjoyed by thirty-seven relatives and close friends of the family. Water melons were enjoyed by the attendants in the afternoon.

Vatchel Lindsey attended the reunion from Chilton County. Vatchel spent nearly two weeks with friends in that section of Coosa County. While over there he worked a few days at the sawmill of Mr. Robert Prather at Weogufka. He also visited the homes of C. N. Dozier, O. J. Honeycutt, J. O. Stewart and Roy Carter. He returned home by way of Sylacauga and Calera, after having spent some most enjoyable time with old friends and relatives. Vatchel is looking forward to the time when he can mak ethis visit again.

POULTRY REQUIRES CARE DURING SUMMER MONTHS

Auburn, Ala. — Poultry flocks will earn bigger profits during the hot summer months if given water, reports John E. Ivey, extension poultryman, in advising that birds will not grow or lay well when overcrowded in hot, poorly-ventilated houses. However, provisions should be made to protect the young birds from chilling nights, he warns.

Since green feed is scarce and hard to digest during hot, dry weather, a good fish oil should be placed in all growing mash feed during the summer months to provide the necessary vitamins, he advises.

A well-balanced developing mash should be before growing birds at all times. Instead of saving on feed costs by cutting down on the amount fed each bird, cull the poor layers out of the flock. A wet mash should be fed layers to help maintain summer egg producting. This should be fed in about 20 minutes, feed about 3 pounds per 100 hens.

If natural shade is not available, inexpensive artifical shade may be provided by constructing a range shelter with pine poles and sacks painted with cement mixtures. Write for special Experiment Station circulation entitled "A Sack Cement Poultry House."

Parasites are espicially bad in summer, so check the flock frequently for infestation. Clean the dropping boards as often as practial.

T. M .T. M. CLUB MEET

The T. M. T. M. young ladies club of Jemison, Alabama held its weekly meeting Thursday afternoon. We were honored with the presence of Miss Hodo, state supervisor of the T. M. T. M. club, who directed the meeting. She suggested we give a play and we were unanimously in favor of it. We chose the following plays to be presented at the Jemison High School Auditorium in the near future, "Murderer at Large," and Alice Blue Gown." There will also be musical entertainment and tap dancing.

We elected new officers; they were as follows: President, Melba Patten; Vice president, Frances Glasscock; Secretary and Treasurer, Emma Jean Edwards; Assistant Secretary, Sarah Gibson.—Emma Jean Edwards.

NOW IS TIME TO PLANT FALL IRISH POTATOES

Auburn, Ala.—Now is the time for farmers who have not already done so to plant their fall Irish potato crop, advises Prof. L. M. Ware, head of the horticulture and forestry department of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

The potatoes do best when planted on a moist but well drained productive bottom land. If this is not available, they should be planted on the most moist soil on the farm.

An application of 800 to 1,000 lbs. per acre of 4-10-7 fertilizer is recommended. Contact of seed and fertilizer should be avoided as much as possible.

Small potatoes may be planted whole or large pieces should be cut to 1 or ½ ounce pieces. The seed should be planted 5 6 inches deep and 16 inches apart in 30 to 36 inch rows.

A 4 inch straw mulch over the potatoes will give a better stand and a much higher production.

The seed should be treated in the southern half of the state with ethylene chlorhydrin. In the northern half of the State, where less than sir weeks have passed between digging in the spring chrop and planting of the fall crop the ethylene chlorhydrin treatment may be of value.

Bliss triumph from the local-grown spring-crop or from South Alabama or Rose Four from the Hasting section of Florida are the best varities. Northern-grown Green Mountain potatoes held in storage for the fall crop produce satisfactorily.

FERTILIZER SALES HIGHEST SINCE '30

Auburn, Ala.—Fertilizer tag sales in 12 southern states during the fiscal year which ended June 30, totalled 4,163,301 equivalent tons, or 6 per cent larger than for the preceding twelve months, and was the largest volume for the period since 1930, announces the National Fertilizer Association.

With the exception of South Carolina, which reported a slight decline, increases occurred in all of the States.

BEST FFA SPEAKER IN ALABAMA NAMED

Auburn, Ala.—John W. Calhoun, Notasulga, has won the distinction of being the best FFA speaker in the state. He won first place in a statewide speaking contest here the past week. As State winner he will compete in the southern regional contest later this summer at Tallahassee, Fla

Other contestants in the State finals were Marion Taylor, Gorgas; Henry Dunn, Albertville; Joe Johnson, Vernon; and Lelland Driscoll, Frisco City.

CAN CULL CHICKENS FOR WINTER MONTHS

Auburn, Ala.—Now is the most economical and convenient time for canning chicken because this is the usual time for culling the flock, advise some economic specialists. The plump 2-year old hens, no longer profit to keep, are ideal for canning. Their meat has better texture and flavor after processing than the more tender delicate meat of very young chickens.

FARMERS DESIRING TO BUY DROUGHT CATTLE MAY APPLY TO AGENT

Farmers interested in purchasing well-bred breeding cattle at reasonable prices from drought-stricken areas of the west, should make application to county agents immediately, advises R. J. Goode, state commissioner of agriculture.

Full details of how such purchases may be made have been received by the local county agents from Dr. L. N. Duncan, director of the state extension service.

Emphasizing the importance of farmers making applications for the desired cattle immediately, Commissioner Goode stated that this plan "gives us an opportunity to secure the best class of breeding stock at reasonable prices."

LAY DAM WILL PLAY BUCK CREEK SUNDAY

The high flying Lay Dam Killowatts will entertain the Buck Creek team from Siluria next Sunday afternoon on their own park. The Bucks already have a good club, and reprots are that they are bringing plenty of reserve strength. Lay Dam has one of the hardest hitting aggregations in Alabama's amateur circles. See this one, at 3 p.m., Sunday.

PHILIP'S MISSIONARY LABORS

LESSON TEXT—Acts 8-5-40.
GOLDEN TEXT—Therefore they that were scattered abroad went everywhere preaching the word.—Acts 8:4.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Philip Tells the Glad News.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Philip Tells the Glad News.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC —Pioneering for Jesus.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC— The Gospel Crosses the Frontier.

Evangelism is the work of every follower of Christ, and primarily the work of the layman. This duty cannot be delegated to the church as an organized body or to its official servants.

Philip was a layman, a deacon in the church by office, but an evangelist by the gift and calling of the Holy Spirit. His experience in leading the Ethiopian eunuch to Christ demonstrates that one who is yielded to the Spirit—

I. Will Find Opportunity for Soul Winning (v. 26). Most unexpected places will afford opportunities. Philip was in the midst of a great revival in Samaria when the angel of the Lord sent him to Gaza—a desert place. Who would he meet here? Remember that the great world-evangelist, Dwight L. Moody, was converted in a humble shoe store by the earnest approach of a Sunday school teacher.

II. Will Respond Immediately to the Spirit's Leading (vv. 29, 30). The Spirit said "go." Philip "ran." The fundamental of fundamentals in God's children is obedience. The opportunity, the inquiring soul, the equipped personal worker, all were prepared by God for just that moment. All would have been lost had Philip failed to obey.

III. Will Find That Men and Women Are Ready to Receive the Truth (vv. 28, 31-34).

God prepares souls, and more are willing to be saved than we think. Whether it was through his experience at Jerusalem, his spiritual hunger before he went up, or the reading of the Word, or all these together, the eunuch was ready.

Neighbors, schoolmates, tradespeople, fellow workers—they may present God's opportunity for us.

IV. Will Find That God Honors Men by Using Them to Win Others. He could "save a man all alone on the top of the Alps," but he doesn't ordinarily do it. Remember it was "the sword of the Lord and of Gideon" that wrought a victory. The eunuch needed an interpreter of the truth. Philip was God's man.

V. Will Know God's Word (v. 35). We cannot interpret what we do not know. One who is not personally acquainted with the Living Word by regeneration, and the Written Word by diligent study, is not able to help others. Could you begin (as Philip did) at Isaiah 53:7, and lead a man to Christ? If not, should you not begin to study your Bible with such an end in view?

VI. Will "Carry Through" to a Decision (vv. 36, 37).

A salesman may be brilliant, cultured, and persuasive, but what counts is the signature on the dotted line at the bottom of an order. Philip pressed for and obtained a decision.

VII. Will Follow-up His Convert (vv. 36, 37).

Much so-called evangelism fails to go beyond a mere profession—a declaration of faith. The eunuch and Philip both knew that an inward faith declares itself in an outward act—and he was baptized.

VIII. Will Recognize That the Message Is Important, Not the Messenger (v. 39). When the work was done the evangelist was carried away by the Spirit. God's work goes on. His workman we set aside. As an advertising company has well-expressed it, "The purpose of advertising is to impress the product upon the reader's mind, not the medium."

It is a fine testimony to the effectiveness of Philip's ministry that although he was gone his convert went "on his way rejoicing." His faith did not rest on the evangelist nor any human fellowship—he knew God. Let us be sure to win souls to God and not simply to a personal allegiance to us or to a religious organization.

Why not be a Philip? Any man or woman who knows the Lord Jesus Christ as personal Savior can be a winner of souls. It has well been said that all that Philip had was "a love for souls, a knowledge of the Word and a sensitiveness to the leading of the Lord. That is all we need. If every Christian were a Philip the world would be won for Christ in ten years."

Count Your Blessings

He is a wise man who does not grieve for the things which he has not, but rejoices for those which he has.—Epictetus.

BOB JONES COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

"I am the way, the truth, and the life." Jesus said that. That statement is either true or it is not true. Any person who makes that statement is either a madman or he is God incarnate. Think of a person in our day standing before the world and making the statement, "I am the way, the truth, and the life." It does not shock you when Jesus says it. It seems to be the sort of thing we expect Him to say. If that statement is true, then how can the world hope to turn away from Jesus Christ and get out of trouble? He is the way out of chaos. Congress is not the way. The president of the United States is not the way. No king is the way. He is the way. He is the way out of our sin. He does not merely show us the way. He is the truth. "Ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free". No man knows the truth who does not know Jesus Christ as a personal Saviour. No man can think accurately through world poblems who does not know Jesus Christ. The humblest Christian in the world has a better solution for world problems than the greatest king, potentate, or president or ruler who ever lived who is not a Christian. Alexander Caesar, Napoleon, were great geniuses. They built empires. These crumbled. The kingdom which Jesus Christ built is imperishable. He had no army and no navy. He came riding into the city on an ass. He was a man of sorrows and acquainted with grief. He was despised and rejected of men. He was nailed to a cross and died the most ignominious death it was possible to die, yet He is the Truth. He is Life. We hear a great deal of talk about the abundant life. No man lives the abundant life who rejects Christ's personality. Material things do not give life. Men may live in palaces and enjoy wealth and never know the meaning of life. A man may be poor and yet when he is consions that Jesus Christ is his Savior he knows that all things are his. The stars that shine like diamond points in the sky above him speak to him of his wealth. The gold in the sunset reminds him of his home city where the streets are paved with gold. The opening of the door of the morning on golden hinges tells him of hiscoming king, the son of Righteousness who will arise with healing in His wings. It is strange that the statesman of the world on great occasions do not rise up and tell men that the way out of all of their difficulties is not the way of selfishness and pride and prejudice. It is the Jesus way. Kings and Presidents, politicians and statesmen, unless they acknowledge Jesus Christ as Lord, will end in failure.

We are now in the midst of a heated political campaign. During the Republican Convention the editor was engaged in evangelistic meeting in Hamilton, Ontario. He listened in over the radio. During the Democratric Convention he was at home and listened in over his radio. Governors, Senators, Congressmen judges, bankers, labor union heads, and all sort of people yelled, shouted, paraded, and kept it up for days. The world is facing the most serious problem it has ever faced. This is no shouting time. Shouting comes with victory—victory not for men or parties but a victiry for the cause. The world is in sin. Human hearts are broken. A feeling of despair fills the souls of millions. Of course, these conventions were opened with formal prayer, but when you think of these conventions you think of shouting, yelling and excitement, bitter words, the stirring of emotions, the arousing of prepudice, and the appeal to selfishness. I am an evangelist but if I should conduct an evangelistic campaign that had one-fifth of the excitement of either convention, a large percentage of the men assembled in these conventions would say, "He is fantic. I don't believe in excitement in religion". They believe in excitement in political conventions. The trouble is we have more politics than we have religion. They are more interested in self and their plans and the victory for their plans than they are in the program of Jesus Christ and the cause represented by our Lord.

STATE OF 2,500,000 PERSONS DEPEND ON DUNCAN, GRAVES AND KELLER, SAYS BEELAND

A charge that the State of Alabama is being controlled by a triumvirate which places selfishness above the welfare and destiny of more than 2,500,000 citizens, along with a strong denunciation of dual jobholding is the answer in behalf of Consumers Anti-Sales Tax Association to the recent activities and statements in behalf of a special session of the Legislature to raise more revenue.

Jeff P. Beeland, of Greenville, state campaign manager of the anti-tax body, names the triumvirate as Dr. L. N. Duncan, of Aubuan; Gov. Graves and Dr. J. A. Keller, state superintendent of education, and asserts that when they "put their heads togather, the rest of us had better watch out or we will certainly be carried on a snipe hunt."

Beeland's statement, issued from Greenville Saturday, said:

It seems that we have reached a form of government that has centralized the power in three men and approximately 31 paid subordinates who are attempting to control the destiny of more than 2,500,000 people, forgetting that they were honored with the position and selfishly endeavoring to put over tax programs that will further jeopardize the interests of those who are paying the bill.

May we illustrate with a ruling of the attorney general of the State of Alabama whereby he rules that a county board of revenue cannot fire or call for the resignation of a farm demonstration agent, but that this power is delegated to Dr. L. N. Duncan and the commissioner of agriculture and we can see that this law from which the attorney general is quoting was framed at the instigation of the dual job holder, the president of Auburn. The law further permits 10 per cent of the electorate of a county to call for a special election demanding that a county board of revenue approve the selection of a farm demonstration agent whether the county wanted one or not. This practically permits Dr. Duncan to say, "I am the man." We believe he is Tax Man No. 1.

A COMPARISON

(By Paul C. Mims)

Much has been written by the Democratic press regarding the new Republican standard bearer, Alfred M. Landon. Seems there is quite a bit of difference in opinions these various Democratic editors have of the "budget balancing" Landon. Some are honest enough to admit that Mr. Landon "has something on the ball", while others are narrow enough to state that his main asset is that "nobody knows anything about him." In between these two extremes, all kinds of opinions have been voiced.

We believe that no better way of comparing the two, Landon and Roosevelt, could be found than by comparing the men themselves, their stated aims, and their attitude toward the whole situation. A few weeks ago, Jim Farley said: "This is going to be one of the dirtiest campaigns on record." Again he said: "This election will narrow down to a decision by the American people on this one question: Do you want the New Deal, or don't you?"

Mr. Roosevelt is the golden-voiced orator, seeking to gain followers by fine oratorical gems and with gilded promises; Mr. Landon makes his appeal on the ground of good common sense, and on only one promise—to put tried and proved business methods to work once more in the higher offices of government.

Mr. Roosevelt appeals to class hatred; Mr. Landon says simply: "Man shall eat bread by the sweat of his brow. We shall see that no deserving person shall suffer through misfortune, but we shall see that the indolent and the slothful shall not subsist from the work of the thrifty who work and save."

Mr. Roosevelt tells us that: "these expenditures must be carried on, that those unemployed may be taken care of." Mr. Landon says: "When good honest business methods are put to work in this government, confidence will be restored; and when this is done, the problem will not be to find jobs for workers, but to find workers for the jobs."

Mr. Roosevelt has many times shown an inclination toward a desire for dictatorship. Mr. Landon says: "We are all Americans. We must work together, and for each other, and for America and her best interests."

Mr. Roosevelt cames from a long line of politicians. He was trained in the beginning for a political career. He became known through his activities as a politician. Mr. Landon first attracted attention as a man who did big things "with his boots on." He came up in the oil fields, and knows the business from the boring of the well to the president's desk. In early life, his policy was not to issue orders, but to decide what was best to do, himself, and do it!

In short, Mr. Roosevelt is a dreamer of dreams—impractical dreams—as proved by his record. Mr. Landon is a doer of deeds—practical work—likewise proved by his record.

Mr. Roosevelt's administration record is one of broken promises, mounting deficits and increased taxes. Mr. Landon's record as Governor of Kansas is one of a few promises but all of them fulfilled, together with many beneficial administrative acts not even promised, wiping out of existing state indebtedness, economy in government, and its enevitable attendant lowering taxes.

We, too, believe with Mr. Farley, that the election will boil down to a national decision as to whether America wants more of the New Deal or whether our people are yet ready to return to safe and sane methods which have proved themselves in performance in years past.

In short, here is the question:

"Do you want the New Deal? Or do you want an economical government—of the people, by the people and for the people—as it was planned by the framers of our national Constitution?"

ALABAMA CONGRESS OF PARENTS AND TEACHERS

Montgomery, July 27.—Education's claim that about four million in additional school funds are necessary was held up last week by a non-partisan group of Birmingham men who have made a study of school finances. The survey was directed by Charles F. Zukoski of the first National Bank of Birmingham for the benefit of leginlative groupes.

The independennt study groupe placed the addtional needs of the public school last year at $2,500,000 for an elementary term of seven months and a high school term of nine. It was declared that approximately the same amount would be needed for 1936-37. Probable additional needs of higher education for normal functioning were placed at $1,300,000, making the total $3,800,000.

The two largest sources of revenue recommended by the group were a tax on liquor under state control and an increase of three mills in local property taxes where it is needed. A tax on luxuries on items not after certain economy meaeures are put into force.

RUNAWAY CALERA BOY IS SOUGHT BY FATHER

Louis Cain, 13-year-old Calera boy, was being sought througout North Alabama Tuesday by his distraught father, J. W. Cain, who also carried a plea to "come home" from the lad's worried mother.

Louis failed to return home from a trip "to the Postoffice" Wednesday, after his mother had whipped him for disobedience, Mr. Cain told Post clerks to whom he gave the boy's discription for a want ad.

Enlistig the aid of Birmingham and Jefferson County officers, he continued to journey northward toward Decatur, the family's former home, planning to visit another son in Huntsville and other relatives elsewhere in his search.

The brown-haired, brown-eyed lad was dressed in blue shirt and overalls, brown cap and black shoes, said Mr. Cain, a textile worker.

CAPITOL NEWS BUREAU

Montgomery, Ala.,— Governer Bibb Graves has maintained a commendable "hands-off" policy in the disposition of Alabama's sporadic labor disturbances, while at the time avoiding partisan disputes.

This has been possible despite the necessity for summoning armed guardsmen to protect life and property during the coal and red ore strikes in Jefferson and Walker counties the dock workers strike at Mobile and the textile workers difficulties last Wednesday at Talladega.

Relatives of World War veterans killed or injured in the Florida hurricans of 1935 are urged to file benefit claims by W. R. M. Palmer, state compensation director of the WPA.

Palmer said claimants need not file a formal notice, but could protect their rights by applying to the U. S. Employes Compensation Commission at Washington or to WPA compensation officers at Birmingham, Montgomery, Gadsden, Tuscaloosa, Decatur and Mobile.

Adj. Gen. John C. Coleman of the Alabama National Guard. left late last week for Fort Oglethorpe, Tennessee, for two weeks encampment, where he will join his headquarters troop.

The Cavalry Brigade from Birmingham opened its encampment there on July 12th before other encampments were postponed because of the infantile paralysis threat.

Electricity consumers in 21 south Alabama towns won rate cuts of from 10 to 25 per cent through negotiations completed with the Alabama Public Service Commission and W. M. Brunson, peoples attorney.

The revision approved by the commission followed conferences between Brunson, Alabama Power Company officials and municipal officials will become effective on August 1st.

With a few accounts yet to reach the gasoline department of the State Tax Commission, collections for July on June sales have ealready passed the million dollar mark, according to announcement last week by Henry S. Long, chairman of the commission. At the close of business Saturday, collections amounted to $1,007,108.40, against a total for July last year of $846,378.84.

This means each county will receive for its road fund approximately $7,500 immediately after the close of this month. The other half of the funds go into the State Highway fund to finance the $25,000,000 bond issue floated in 1927 for road building, and to build as well as maintain public highways.

Collections in June for May sales this year amounted to $979,087.66.

FEDERAL SPENDING LISTED FOR STATE

Dozen Governmental Agencies Spend ..$331,437,501 In 3 New Deal Years

Washington, July 27. — Record of a dozen governmental agencies showed today they spent $331,437,501 in Alabama during the first three years of the "New Deal."

The figures cover the period from March 4, 1933 to March 31, 1936.

Of the total, $145,375,901.41 was in loans and $186,061,608 was in grants, allotments and other payments on which the Government's investment is not to be returned.

The Federal Emergency Relief Administration led the list with Alabama allotments totaling $60,446,700. Next came the Commodity Credit Corporation, whose loans in the State amounted to $46,849,169.85.

Other loans are: R. F. C., $22,810,507; Farm Credit Adm., $19,715,800; Resettlement Adm., $446,973; Home Owners Loan Corp., $36,802,123; and Public Works Adm., $13,59,462.

The Federal Housing Administration had insured loans of $5,283,800.

Added to its loans for Alabama projects, the Public Works Administration had paid out $1,669,350 in direct grants, bringing the total to the State to $28,128,812.

Other grants were: A. A. Adm., $30,937,764; Resettlement Adm., $[illegible]222; Civil Works Adm., $15,708,8[illegible]; Emergency Conservation Work, $[illegible]861,218; and the Bureau of Public Roads, $23,420,027.

Additional amounts under the Emergency Relief Appropriation Act of 1935, not included in the above, totaled $29,995,362.

The annual revival services will begin next Sunday, August 2nd, at New Salem Baptist church. The Rev. H. Hester, of Birmingham, will do the preaching. The public is cordially invited to attend all services.—G. H. Carroll, pastor.

Health Officials Ask Ban Of Gatherings

Children Should be Kept Away From Crowds To Control Paralysis

At a regular meeting of the Chilton County Medical Society held on Tuesday evening the situation in regard to infantile paralysis was discussed at length. This discussion was led by Dr. W. H. Y. Smith, epidemiologist from the State Health Department. At the conclusion of the discussion the following resolution was adopted by the County Board of Health:

We, the Board of Health of Chilton County, urge that all gatherings throughout the county be disconitnued until the epidemic of infantile paralysis now prevalent in the counties north of us has ceased. Especially do we urge the parents of all children under the age of sixteen, to keep these children away from gatherings of any kind. The bringing of these children to town, especially on Saturdays, should, we feel, be discouraged for the present.

CONVENTION OF DOCTORS HELD AT MITCHELL DAM

A convention of doctors was held at the club house at Mitchell Dam on Tuesday of this week, August 4th. There were 82 doctors present, while preparations had been made to care for at least 125. However, reports are that an enthusiastic meeting was held.

Dr. Mason, head surgeon for Alabama Power Company, was in charge of the meeting, and was one of the principal speakers. Other prominent men present and taking part on the program included: Dr. J. N. Baker, head of Alabama State Health Department; Mr. Thomas W. Martin, president of Alabama Power Company; and J. M. Barrey, vice president and general manager of Alabama Power Company.

VISITORS FROM NEW HAVEN

A family of fine folks from New Haven, Conn., visited Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Stanley at Mitchell Dam during the past few days. They were: Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Monk and daughters, Harriet, Phyllis, Jeanett and Wilma. Before coming here, these people had visited other relatives at Union Grove in Marshall county, in Cullman and in Laurel, Miss. From here they went to Atlanta, where they will visit Mr. and Mrs. Frank Porch. Mr. Monk is an uncle of Mrs. Stanley and Mr. Porch.

The Monks were attendants at the all day singing at Enterprise last Sunday, which was a novel procedure to Mrs. Monk and the daughters. There are no such gatherings in New Haven, they say.

Six People Injured In Wreck Near Clanton

State Representative, R. L. Hill and five other persons were injured in the collision of two automoblies in a driving rainstorm one mile north of Clanton last Friday.

Hill, a Marion County doctor, suffered a concussion of the brain and severe cuts and bruises. He was reported "resting comfortably" today at a hospital here.

Others injure dwere listed at the hospital as Dolphus Lovette, of Jemison, riding with Dr. Hill; Frances Brawley, Edward Brawley, Mrs. Agnes Roberts and Mrs. Mary Bolan, all of Wylam, Jefferson County.

All were seriously hurt except Edward Brawley, highway patrolmen said.

The four Wylam residents were removed to the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad Company's hospital at Birmingham Friday.

Lovette, unidentfied for several hours, suffered a fractured skull.

State Patrolmen, Wallace Waites and Earl Henley reported the accident occurred on the crest of a hill. No arrests were made.

OPEN BOLL OF COTTON

The first boll of cotton has been brought in to the Banner Office. It was brought in by Mr. Fonzie Thomas, who lives on the farm of E. H. Mims, east of Clanton. The open boll was picked on July 30th.

Another cotton boll, a well matured one, was brought in Tuesday at noon by Mr. J. M. Kelly, of Thomas School community, on Clanton Route Two.

MR. A. D. SCOTT PURCHASED LAWRENCE SERVICE STATION

Mr. A. D. Scott this week became owner and operator of the Lawrence Service Station, which was taken over a week or so ago by Mr. Busbee of Calera. Mr. Busbee was called back to his former job, hence his sale of the filling station.

Mr. Scott has named the station Gulf Pride Service Station, and he will continue to dispense Good Gulf products of all kinds. He will also do washing and greasing.

OFFICERS OF YOUNG DEMOCRATS MOVE UNDER G. O. P. SIGN

Silverhill, Ala., July 26.—All officers of the Baldwin League of Young Democrats Wednesday had gone over to the Republican banner.

Secretary Frank Vorel announced his resignation Wednesday and said that President Albert Koehler and vice President, John Bowman, both of Elberta, had also resigned. The league had a small membership and was active in only a portion of the county.

The three gave as the reason for their political change the statement "Roosevelt is spending too much."

Baldwin County normally polls around 800 Republican votes in a total county vote of 3,500.

Spanish War Vets To Meet At Mims Pond

The Spanish-American war veterans of Chilton county will hold an all-day picnic at Mims pond the 4th Sunday in August, the 23rd. The program will consist of spsaking and other interesting features. The State Commander will be present, and several camps will be represented.

All Spanish war veterans of Chilton county are urged to attend; the ladies auxiliary members of the county are asked to bring baskets well filled with good eatables. This is expected to be a great day. —Jeff Best, Adjutant.

A TWIN APPLE

The Union-Banner was presented with a Siamese twin apple, the doner being Bob Marler, Monday of this week. Both apples were growing from the same stem; one was an inch and a half in diameter and the other was about two and one half inches.

CHILTON MATTRESS FACTORY MOVED TO OLD RUFFIN PLACE

Mr. Ernest Jones announces removal of his mattress factory from South Clanton to the place recently vacated by Jeff Ruffin on the highway north of Clanton Motors.

Mr. Jones has been re-vamping mattresses for the past thirteen years, and really knows how it is done. He fixes pillows too.

CHARLIE THORNTON OPENING UP A GENERAL REPAIR SHOP

Mr. Charlie Thornton has this week opened up a fix-it shop in the metal building at the rear of Evan Paeeish's seed store. Mr. Thornton says that he is going to do repair work on bicycles, typewriters, adding machines, and the like. He would like the opportunity of getting acquainted with you, and invites you to call to see him.

KEMP HAD GOOD OPENING

Mr. W. A. Kemp, of the new Kemp Dry Goods Company, says that he was pleased with the fine opening the new store enjoyed the last three days of last week. The weather man seemed to be a little inconsiderate of Mr. Kemp, but he is not complaining at all. His opening surpassed even his expectations. Mr. Kemp thanks his great host of friends who called by during the three opening days.

Kemp Dry Goods Company is a most attractively arranged store. The wares are displayed in the most modern fashion; everything is new and spick and span in every detail. As one enters the door you are met with the fine spirit of cordiality which is a characteristic of Mr. W. A. Kemp and which is written on the face and in the demeanor of the other clerks.

YOU AND YOUR CHILDREN EACH OWE YOUR UNCLE SAM $300

[AN EDITORIAL]

A citizen of Chilton County the other day said that Franklin D. Roosevelt had done more for him than any other president of the United States. That man and two of his sons alternately have been working for some government agency for the past two years or more. This man spoke the sentiment of some other people of Chilton County and all over the country. He probably spoke a meager truth; and if he has got his eyes closed and keeps them closed the rest of his life, he will likely never know the fallacy of such a statement. Certainly Mr. Roosevelt and the present Democratic administration have done lots for some people; but no one can get around the fact which is substantiated by federal statistics, that for every government dollar spent on its various projects two dollars will have to be paid back into the federal treasury. It takes the other dollar to administer and distribute this money; on an average only one dollar gets to where it is started.

Therefore, if this man is blind and stays blind, he can probably live under the delusion that to him it is all coming in and nothing going out, or probably the big fellow somewhere is paying in the money which Roosevelt is distributing. But who is the big fellow and where is his money coming from? We all have to close our eyes mighty tight to make ourselves believe that all who work and produce will not have a part in the paying back process.

I am one of the 125,000,000 people who go to make up the population of these United States, and my part of the federal debt is $300. My child and your child also owes Uncle Sam $300. If you have a wife and five children your family owes Uncle Sam $2,100. This debt is more binding than a first mortgage, even though you and your wife had nothing to say about incurring the indebtedness. But you owe it and you are going to pay it regardless of whether you like it or not.

When Woodrow Wilson went out of the White House the per capita indebtedness in the country was $240. The three succeeding Republican presidents reduced the per capita indebtedness to $131. After Mr. Roosevelt had been president four months this indebtedness for each person in the country had risen to $180. Now it is $300, and President Roosevelt himself says "Social pioneering is just in its beginning."

The $33,000,000,000 debt, Mr. and Mrs. Plain Citizen, must be paid, and paid by you and your children—even those yet unborn. Your taxes have already mounted, but you haven't seen anything yet. The reckless spending has not stopped but it is much greater this year than it was last. Naturally all taxation will be held down to the minimum until the election is over, but then the lid will be permitted to fly off.

This Democratic administration will go on record as the greatest debt-builder since the founding of the government; and you who will have to pay it did not authorize the indebtedness.

Mr. Landon promises economy in government and so does the Republican platform adopted in Cleveland. We must have economy or this country is going to face unspeakable consquences, and there is no way around it.

A CALL TO PATRIOTISM

In accepting the Republican presidential nomination, Governor Alfred M. Landon sounded a call to arms to which patriotic Americans of all parties, all classes and all sections can and will rally in this crisis in our nation's history. His acceptance speech was a dignified statement of American principles, and a convincing indictment against the radical politicians in Washington masquerading in the guise of the late lamented Democratic Party.

Outstanding among its utterances was Governor Landon's pledge to restore constitutional government, to respect his oath to uphold and defend the constitution of the United States. In so doing he touched upon what is undoubtedly the most sinister menace to American institutions today—the contemptuous disregard of the Roosevelt regime for the constitution, the fundamental law of the land.

It is cheering to hear Governor Landon promise to respect the constitution to end the present system of "personal" government and to give us once more what has long been our proudest boast—a government of laws and not of men.

The nominee gave a plain answer to the class in this country which has been taught to expect nothing, and has come to depend upon the Government dole rather than personal effort to supply a livelihood. He reminded his hearers that the rewards of life come to those who suffer for them, and there is no future on relief rolls. While promising relief to those in actual need, he promised also to do away with the political aspect of relief, to end waste and extravagance in this age as in other governmental activities.

He favored cash benefits to farmers, not as a permanent proposition but during the present era of readjustment to normal conditions. Reference was made to something which the Southern farmer is fast coming to realize, namely, that the benefits of government subsidies will in the long run be more than offset by the loss of our foreign markets.

The entire trend of the address stressed the need of a self-respecting citizenry depending upon its own efforts and enjoying the fruit of its own labor, rather than a nation of relief-hunters looking for a living to a partisan government engaged in plundering one class for the benefit of another. He struck out vigorously against the Roosevelt policy of government intimidation and hostility toward business, and arraying class against class.

Of special interest to Southerners was Governor Landon's declaration in favor of state's rights, and against centralization of power in Washington.

Governor Landon's acceptance address was received with enthusiasm throughout the nation. It is interesting to note that the chief criticism directed against it has come from a few radical labor leaders. This bunch of near-Communists have had their way with Roosevelt. They know that they cannot control Landon, and see in his election an end to class government and class warfare. So they shout that he is "not fair to labor."

The labor record of the Republican party needs no defense; it has given the American workman the greatest prosperity he has ever known. Mr. Landon's position on the labor question is eminently fair and impartial. That is where the trouble lies. Those radical "left wing" so-called labor leaders dread most of all a government returned to its proper role of impartial arbiter. They want a man in the White House who will be "fair" to proletariat extremists by being unfair to the rest of the American people. They know that Landon is not their man.

Republicans In Chilton County Arrange For Strong Campaign

Executive Committee Met With Candidates Last Saturday Afternoon And Set Up Campaign Committee

The new County Republican executive committee met at the courthouse in Clanton last Saturday afternoon as per special call issued last week. The new chairman, T. E. Wyatt, presided, and the new secretary, C. C. Conway, was at his post of duty.

Republican nominees for the places of Justice of the Peace for Beat 4 and Constable were named by the committee. J. L. Wilson was selected for Justice of the Peace and R. L. Wells as Constable. D. S. Robinson was selected as nominees for Justice of the Peace in Beat 10. The chairman was authorized by the committee to certify these names to the Probate Judge to be placed on the ballot for the general election.

New Young Republican Officials

T. E. Wyatt and Mrs. Gertrude Calloway turned in their resignations as chairman and secretary of the young Republican Federation of Chilton County. As the new chairman, Mr. Clifford Manning, of Maplesville Route 1, was elected. The new secretary will be selected at some early date.

A resolution was offered by W. J. Billingsley relative to the Republican campaign of Chilton County. This resolution, which was adopted by the committee, follows:

Clanton, Ala., August 1, 1936.
To the Republican Executive Committee, of Chilton County, Ala.

Realizing the importance of there being conducted in Chilton County a united and militant campaign for the furtherance of the principles of the Republican party and a full presentation to the citizens of the entire county of the important issues before our people, we, the four Republican nominees for the four county offices to be filled, have selected a campaign committee to care for the above duties. As chairman of this committee we have selected Mr. Wiley M. Bean, of Clanton, Ala.; and as secretary-treasurer we have selected Mr. J. Dewey Rockett, of Clanton, Alabama.

It is the desire of these Republican candidates and we hereby ask that each and every beat committeeman in the various precincts of Chilton County serve as members of the campaign committee to help inform the citizens of the county of the issues that are and will be before us during the coming campaign.

Therefore, these Republican candidates hereby submit our action in choosing this campaign committee to the County Executive Committee, and ask that if they see fit, to approve it. —Respectfully submitted,—W. J. Billingsley, nominee for County Treasurer; J. L. Burnett, nominee for Commissioner, third district; O. L. Devaughn, nominee for Commissioner, Fourth District; P. M. Martin, nominee for Member School Board.

The executive committee went on record as recommending to the newly selected campaign committee that they enlist one or two ladies in each beat to assist in the work of the campaign. This work can be effectively carried on in conjunction with the recently organized Women's Republican Club of Chilton County.

This was a most harmonious and encouraging meeting of the committee. Everyone seemed to have the interest of the Republican cause at heart, and all were willing and anxious to lend their assistance to the end of putting over the Republican ticket, both national and county, in November. Short speeches were made by various members as well as by some visitors.

"MR. DEEDS GOES TO TOWN" TO SHOW HERE FOR 2 DAYS

Next Sunday and Monday, August 9th and 10th, the management is putting on one of the best pictures yet filmed. Cinema critics have hailed the new picture, "Mr. Deeds Goes To Town," as the only real contender for honors with "It Happened One Night.",

"Mr. Deeds Goes To Town" stars Gary Cooper and Jean Arthur. It is pointed out that the new film has just finished runs of as high as five weeks in some of the principal cities of the country.

It is coming to the Wadesonian for two days only, Sunday and Monday. You will want to see "Mr. Deeds Goes To Town," one of the few great pictures.

L. E. DIEFENDERFER WILL OPERATE NEW PAN-AM PLACE

The new Pan-Am Gasoline station, which is now under construction on the McSwain lot above Fourth Avenue on the highway, will be operated by Mr. L. E. Diefenderfer.

Dief has been out of the filling station business for the past year, but some years ago the name Dief became inseparable from the idea of gasoline and filling station service, and the same is still the case. He operated Dief's Service Station on the highway and first Avenue for a number of years, and there gained the reputation of being a man cut out for that particular kind of work.

The station, which will retain the name of Dief's Service Station, will open for business about October 1st, and probably earlier. Complete announcement of the opening will be carried in the county papers.

DR. GRAGG SAYS CREDIT SHOULD GO WHERE CREDIT BELONGS

Recently several prominent officials of the Works Progress Administration of Alabama and citizens of the county were entertained at Gragg Field at a barbecue. In carrying an account of the enjoyable event, the newspapers stated that Dr. Gragg was host.

However, we have been informed by Dr. Gragg that several other citizens of the town contributed much toward the entertainment and the success thereof. "Don't give me all the credit," Dr. Gragg stated, "because there were several fellows who did just as much if not more than I did."

ORVILLE WRIGHT TO STAGE SHOW AT STANTON, ALA.

Orville Wright and his "Isabella Racketeers" will stage a show at Stanton Junior High School auditorium on Friday night, August 7th, at 9:00 o'clock. Due to the revival that is being held there this week, the show will begin immediately after the services close. This show consists of plenty of good music, black-face comedy, jokes, singing, and buck dancing. Everyone come and bring your friends. Admission 10c and 20c.

MAZER CONTINUES BIG PUBLIC SALE

Mr. I. S. Levine, manager of Mazer's Store, and his brother, Mr. Sol Levine, desire that the people be informed of the continuance of the big public sale instituted in that popular store last week.

The Messrs. Levine say that their sale has been continued by acclamation which is to say that the trading public demands such continuation; and these two popular and accommodating gentlemen always go their length in doing the bidding of their constitutents, the trading public of central Alabama.

Another full page adv. is carried this week in The Union-Banner, enumerating some of the special inducements offered at this store. If you fail to read the adv. you may probably miss just the item of wearing apparel that you wanted and at an even better price than you hoped to get it. Read what Messrs. I. S. and Sol Levine are offering you.

Evan Parrish Moved Back To Old Place

Mr. Evan Parrish, operating the Southern Seed and Plant Company, last week moved back into his former location, next to Newt Gray's Barber Shop. The business of Mr. Parrish and Evans Variety Store have been combined, and will operate as Southern Seed and Plant Company.

Mr. Parrish has a number of friends in this section, who will be glad to learn that he has gotten back into his former location. He will continue to operate the same kinds of business as before, with some new lines added, including a cream station, seeds and feeds, magazines and candy, etc. Mr. Parrish and his associate, Mr. Julian Evans, invite you to visit them and enjoy the cool breeze that is always blowing in their store.

Mr. Parrish is advertising his formal opening for Saturday of this week, August 8th.

Case Of Paralysis Is Reported In County

There is reported a case of paralysis resulting from Poliomyelitis in Chilton County. The victim is a young man—J. C. Jones, 21-year-old son of Bart Jones, of New Cedron community. The young man seems to have been ill for a week, but the signs of paralysis were detected in his left foot last Sunday. The young man is not seriously ill, and has not been bad sick all the while.

RECOMMENDS SIMPLE REMEDY FOR TREATING SNAKE BITE

Mr. Jonah Mims of Clanton R. 4, was in the Banner office last Friday and told us a remedy for snake bite which is simple and which he says is most effective. You merely take half a box of Arm & Hammer baking soda and make it into a poultice and place it on the place where the snake bit. Leave it there for twenty minutes, and if the pain is not gone, make up a new poultice and repeat. Do this until the pain is all gone.

Mr. Mims says that this remedy has been tried on the bite of a rattle snake pilot and other kind of poisonous snakes, and it works one hundred per cent. He wants everybody to know about it.

CHESTNUT GROVE

We are glad to state that the health is very good here at present. We should all be thankful for good health.

Miss Edna Lucas spent Saturday night with Mrs. G. G. Nabors.

Miss Margarett Nabors is visiting relatives in Ensley at present.

Mr. A. O. Anderson and Mr. G. G. Nabors were in Clanton Saturday on business.

Mr. and Mrs. G. G. Nabors and Mrs. Sallie Lucas were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Max Nabors Sunday.

Rev. Dewey Robinson, of Thorsby, preached a good sermon for us Sunday afternoon. We think he is a fine young preacher.

Rev. Horace Nabors, of Bessemer, will run a few days meeting for us following the fourth Sunday in this month. Everybody come and help us to have a good meeting.

LAY DAM SCALPED BUCK CREEK BY SCORE OF 18 TO 3

The high and mighty reputation of Buck Creek's baseball team being well nigh unbeatable is a thing of the past. Lay Dam's invincible Killowatts took the Bucks into camp Last Sunday afternoon to the field at Lay Dam and scalped them to the tune of 18 to 3.

Lay Dam's triples and doubles pattered all over the lot to provide the high notes in the mournful Buck Creek "march of the dead," with Buck Creek errors supplying the accompaniment.

Buck Creek opened up in the first inning as if they really meant to make a game of it, putting over two tallies for start. Lay Dam came back in the same inning to tie the count. In the second inning, however, Lay Dam's "murders row" turned on the heat in no uncertain manner, pu ting over five runs; in the third the Buck Creek defense became demoralized and went to pieces, seven more tallies came in and in the 4th, the Kilowatts tapered off with a paltry four runs and called in part of the substitutes, finishing under the wraps.

Buck Creek scored one sun in the third on base on balls and one of their few extra base blows, and then folded up fo rthe afternoon.

It seems that any game the Killowatts play is either a very onesided affair, or an extra high scoring game. Those fellows have power to spare. Any man on the club is a potential home run clouter, even the pitchers; in fact, many times this year the pitchres have led their club with the willow in their respective games. There is not a weak spot in the line up, either on the defense or on the offense.

Nor has the Lay Dam schedule been an easy one. They have taken them in stride just as they came—big and little, good and bad—and Lay Dam's 1936 record will stand with the best in amateur circles.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Scott and son, John Ed, spent Monday in Montgomery.

COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

Christianity is Christ and Christ is Christianity. There are by-products of Christianity which people are mistaken for Christianity. We hear a great deal of talk about social security and doing something for our fellow man. A great many people interpret this to mean Christianity. It is not. No man is a Christian until he accepts Jesus Christ personally. A man may accept some truth that Jesus taught and still be a sinner. The difference between a Christian and a non-Christian is simply this. The Christian has Christ and the non-Christian have not. Politicians sometimes "cash in" on the by-products of Christianity and yet reject the Lord Jesus Christ. All the real valuable things we have, such as social service and child welfare work are nothing more or less than the shadow of the personality of Jesus Christ. Men reach for this shadow, but a shadow is intangible. You cannot hold it. Men cannot keep the shadow of Jesus when they reject His personality.

All human reform with the person of Jesus Christ left out will be temporary. Man in his unregenerated state is naturally selfish. He will use even the by-products of Christianity for himself. Most of the appeal that politicians make are appeals to the selfish impulse. Sometimes they appeal to hatred and set one class against another. It is a great responsibility to be a leader of men. It is wicked to make appeals to the selfsh emotions of men or to the emotions of hate, prejudice, He said: "If thine enemy hunger, feed him." Return good for evil. Do good to those who despitefully use you. That reminds me. Jesus never told the masses to do anything, except to come to Him and find relief from their burdens, their sorrow, or their sins. He warned the masses of the inevitable consquences of evil doing. Jesus set up standards of living for unregenerated men. Jesus told Has desciples, "I am the Light of the world. Ye are the salt of the earth." He told His own what He expected of them. He taught that unregenerated were not His friends. He made it plain that they were His enemies. He taught that no man can be neutral. Every man is on one side or the other. According to His teaching, every man was a friend or foe to Jesus Christ. He taught that His friends were the ones who did what He said do. Things are awfully "messed up" in this modern world. Millions of people are being led astray. We are building false hopes. Of course, we live in the world, but let us not be held in subjection by mere ethical teaching. It is selfish. It is sinful. It will break out beyond bounds. It must be held in subjection by armies and navies and the polceman's club. Self preservation makes the unregenerated man accept an army, a navy and a police force. It is not goodness that makes men accept these things.

STATE CAPITOL NEWS

Restored to full vigor and health, Governor Bibb Graves will personally direct his legislative program for full school terms, and adequate public health and welfare facilities.

Dr. J. A. Keller, State Superntendent of Education, announced $370,000 will be divided among Alabama public schools immediately. The fund was made available last week by Comptroller Charles Lee, on approval by the Governor.

The money was composed of $306,000 from the educational trust fund and $67,000 from the state 8-mill tax levy.

About 200,000 noses were sprayed by pulbic health officers, private physicians and nurses to prevent infantile paralysis, according to an estimate by Dr. J. N. Baker, State Health Officer.

With the task of prevention well under way, the state educational department, through Dr. J. N. Hobdy, vocational director, announced that plans had been made to rehabilitate the "polio' children by giving them treatment by the Crippled Children's Service, funds for which are provided under the National Social Security Act.

"When the incidence of the disease has abated," Dr. Hobdy said, "children who have been crippled or otherwise handicapped by it will be assembled at clinic where examinations will be made and hospitalization and treatment provided."

SINGING AT HIGHLAND

There will be an all day singing at Highland the third Sunday in this month August the 16th, and we invite all singers and lovers of music to come and be with us.

Come and bring your new song books and a well filled basket.

REVIVAL MEETING AT MINERAL SPRINGS

The revival meeting will run at Mineral Springs the week following the third Sunday in this month. The Rev. J. A. Smallwood, of Birmingham, will do the preaching. The pastor has had Rev. Smallwood in a meeting recently and he would like to say just here, that you will have no regrets in hearing this powerful preacher. Make preparations to attend this meeting. Come one. Come all.—Rev. M. Lockhart, pastor.

SARDIS NEWS

We are glad to say that the Lord has wonderfully blessed the people in this community with reasonable health and nice showers.

There have been two good revivals adjoining this community during the past month, one at Adams and the other at Antioch.

Let's don't forget that next Saturday and Sunday are our regular preaching days. Everyone is invited to come and I am sure that you will not regret being there.

We want to invite everyone that is interested in the church and cemetery to come to Sardis church on Friday morning, August 7, to help clean up for the revival which will begin on the third Sunday, August 16. We will have the same helper that we had last year, Rev. Homer Carroll.

IN MEMORY

The death angel visited the home of Mrs. Bessie G. Wright and called to rest her dear father, John Clackler, age 63. After four months of suffering, he died on Friday, July 30, and was buried on Saturday, July 31, at 11:00 o'clock, with Spigener directing and Rev. C. J. Moates and Rev. S. J. Ezell officiating, at Mt. Pisgah church.

He leaves to mourn his loss, a wife, 5 children, four brothers and seven sisters. Weep not, dear children, for Daddie for we feel that our loss is Heaven's gain.—A friend.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our many thanks to our friends and neighbors for the bountiful supply of groceries brought to our home on the night of July 21. It amounted to something like $9.00 worth. May the Lord bless each and everyone that contributed.—Uncle Nicolas and Aunt Minerva Minor.

The New Firestone STANDARD
IS THE BEST Buy IN TOWN!

$6.95 4.40-21

FIRST GRADE QUALITY—The new Firestone Standard Tire is built of first grade materials by skilled workmen, and embodies the Firestone patented construction features of Gum-Dipping and two extra layers of Gum-Dipped cords under the tread.

GUM-DIPPED CORD BODY—Every cotton fibre in every cord in every ply is soaked in liquid rubber by Gum-Dipping. This is the only process that prevents internal friction and heat, providing greater strength, blowout protection and longer life.

TWO EXTRA LAYERS OF GUM-DIPPED CORDS UNDER THE TREAD—This patented Firestone feature binds the whole tire into one unit of greater strength, cushions road shocks and gives extra protection against punctures.

LONGER NON-SKID MILEAGE—The new scientifically designed non-skid tread is wider, flatter, with more and tougher rubber on the road, giving long even wear and thousands of extra miles.

LOW PRICES—These low prices are made possible by volume production in the world's most efficient factories.

THE FIRESTONE NAME AND GUARANTEE—Every Firestone Standard Tire bears the Firestone name, your guarantee of greater safety, dependability and economy.

County Farm Agent's Notes

MASTER FARMERS TO BE SELECTED IN ALABAMA

Auburn, Ala.—In cooperation with the Extension Service of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, the Progressive Farmer is this year selecting a number of master farmers in Alabama.

Plans are being made for joint awards to be presented these outstanding farmers and their wives during Farmer's Week at Auburn this year.

The Master Farmer awards are not to be made as a result of a contest, but the selections are based on something more than the production of good crops and good livestock. The recipients must, of course, be good farmers whose improved soil fertility produced better than average yields, and whose farms are equipped to produce economically, but they must also be good citizens, taking an active and constructive interest in national, state, and county affairs. They must also maintain home sin keeping with financial means and desirable American standards.

METHODS OF CONTROLLING PECAN ROSETTE GIVEN

Auburn, Ala.—Conclusive evidence that pecan rosette, a nutritional disease affecting pecan trees, may be controlled by aplication opf zinc sulphate in any one of three ways has been proved by the Bureau of Plant Industry, U. S. Department of Agriculture.

The three methods of applying the zinc sulphate, as recommended by scientists of the Bureau of Plant Industry, are as follows:

1.—Spraying a solution of zinc sulphate on the trees in the summer.

2.—Applying a zinc sulphate directly on the trees in the summer.

3.—Inserting zinc sulphate into the tree trunks in early spring.

REVIVAL AT MT. CREEK

The revival services will begin at Mt. Creek on Sunday, August 9th. The Rev. Emmett Williams, pastor of the Norwood Baptist church, will deliver the messages. A cordial invitation is extended to all to attend these services.—J. D. Hopper, pastor.

ALABAMA FARMERS BUY BETTER STAPLE COTTON

Auburn, Ala.—Alabama farmers are manifesting a greater interest in better staple varieties of planting cotton.

This is revealed by J. C. Lowery, extension agronomist, in reporting that a large amount of the seed purchased by Alabama farmers for planting in 1936 were good seed direct from breeders. Only 16 per cent of the seed purchased were of a variety shorter that 7-8 inch staple length.

COWS NEED PLENTY WATER, AIR, SUNLIGHT

Auburn, Ala.—Plenty of fresh water to drink and fresh air to breathe and sunlight will cause cows to give more at a smaller cost, says F. W. Burns, extension livestock specialist.

"Milk is about 87 per cent water and large amounts are needed both in feed and liquid production of milk," he says, "A cow will not drink all the water she needs unless she can get it frequently."

REMINDERS

Profitable odd jobs that should receive attention during August are suggested in the monthly "Reminders" in the Ford Farm Almanac and facts Book. Accarding to the Almanac, this month is a good time to sow orchard cover crops; dig pit and trenches silos; tighten hoops on stave silos; install chutes in the granary; arrange fences for hogging down crops; plant late gardens; and cut down hollyhocks.

Important birthdays in August include those of Alfred Lord Tennyson, Napoleon Bonaparte, and Virginia Dare, the first white child born in America. Other historic events which occurred during the month include the information of the World Court, the completion of the first Atlantic cable, the drilling of the first oil well in United States; and the ratification of the woman's suffrage amendment.

Full moon this month occurs on the 22nd, last quarter on 9th, new moon on the 16th, and first quarter on the 24th, according to the Almanac.

MANY MULES BEING GROWN IN ALABAMA

Auburn, Ala.—Farmers in 32 Alabama counties are this year producing 3,100 colts, report county agricultural agents who are encouraging mule production so that the farmers of the State will not have to spend large sums of money each year for workstock.

Sumter County is leading with over 500 colts, while other counties with more than 200 each are: Dallas, Morgan, Pickens, Marengo, and Butler.

The agents also report that 1,720 mares have been shipped into these counties this year to produce colts. Tallapoosa County has shipped in 200 mares, while Randolph, Sumter, Morgan, Madison, Franklin, and Dallas have shipped i nmor ethan 100 each.

Colts need grain as a supplement to the mare's milk to make them grow into strong muscular animals, with good heavy bone development, states J. C. Grimes, hea dof the Animal Husbandry Department of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

"The earlier the colt can be taught to eat the more independent it will become, therefore the greater the possibility of being able to secure more work from the dam," he says.

If the feed box of the mare is placed low the colt, when from three to four weeks of age, will begin to nose about and finally locate it. Eventually it will learn the taste of grain and nibble in the mother's feed box at feeding time."

FARMERS ARE TOLD HOW CONTROL PECAN WEEVILS

Auburn, Ala.—By placing picking sheets over the ground under pecan trees, jarring each limb of the tree, and then picking up the weevils from the sheet and droppng them into kerosene, Alabama farmers can control the pecan weevil which causes many wormy pecan nuts.

"Each limb should be jarred once or twice either from the ground or by the use of a padded pole, on, in case of high trees, by climbing the tree and jarring each large limb with a padded club," advises H. S. Swingle of the entomology department of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute. Heavy jarring is not necessary or desirable."

Mr. Swingle says that the trees should be jarred once a week from the middle of August to the middle of September.

ELEPHANTS—SUNFLOWERS DEMOCRATS

The racket in the Governor's outer office the other day was a good natured, if heated, debate between Pitt Tyson Maner, secretary of the state democratic committee, and Paul C. Mims, of The Clanton Union-Banner, staunch Chilton County Republican weekly.

Mims, bearding the lion in his den, stalked in boldly wearing an elephant in his coat lapel. "I forgot I had it on," he grinned when Montgomery reporters called his attention to it, "but I'm honest in my convictions and I won't take it off. Next time maybe I'll bring you a bunch of sunflowers."

With Maner pooh-poohing, Mims declared that Chilton County would go into the Republican column without a doubt next November, and that Landon would sweep the nation.—Under The Capitol Dome, in The Alabama Journal.

QUEST FOR "IDEAL" 4-H CLUB GIRLS SHOW RECORDS ARE LONGER AND BETTER

The annual quest for "ideal"4-H club girls is turning up longer and better records, states the National Committee on Boys and Girls club Work which is conducting the project jointly with 75,000 local, County and state club leaders.

While girls with 3 to 5 years records predominate among county winners, state and national contestants will show 5 to 10 years participation in wide variety of projects—the ideal 4-H training which embraces over 20 major subjects, and as many minor ones.

"The marked improvement in length of girls records and numbers of subjects studied since this contest was inaugurated 13 years ago shows the public", it is stated.

The extra college scholarship of $300 and $200 are provided in the awards this year for national Winners in the top prizes of $400 scholarship. State champions heretofore receive all expense educational trip to the National Club Congress to be held in Chicago, November 27 to December 5. In addition to the foregoing awards provided by Montgomery Ward to foster club work each county winner receives a handsome gold medal.

State winners will be announced November and the national victors during the Chicago Club Congress. No fee or obligation of any kind is required of contestants or winners.

UNIVERSITY NEWS

University, Ala., Aug. 3.—Dr. Albert B. Moore, Dean of the Graduate School of the University of Alabama, and head and professor of history in the College of Arts and Sciences and Graduate School, will deliver the commencement address before the 1936 summer class of the University on Friday, August 23, Dr. John R. McLure, director of Summer School announced Saturday. Dr. Moore will speak on Alabama's Contribution to National History.

Miss Mary Robertson, registrar of the University, announced that 245 students have filed applications for baccalaureate degrees to be awarded August 21.

Lawrence B. Tipton, state director of safety, who supervised the first Southern Traffic Officer's Training School, held at the University of Alabama from July 20 through 31, was awarded a silver trophy as a token of appreciation from the 100 members of the student body of the school. All Southern states were represented.

Students in the summer school of the University of Alabama have been advised to cooperate with U. S. Health Authorities in stopping the spread of infantile paralysis in this state. Students are being given the anti-paralysis spray and officials have recommended that studnets stay away from infected areas over week ends or at any other time.

Dr. Seale Harris, prominent Birmingham physician and professor emoritis of medicine at the University, told students of the Traffic Officer's school that a person who has drunk two or three cocktails or a couple of bottles of beer is potentially more dangerous in a car than a person who is dead drunk.

STANTON 4-H CLUB ENJOY PICNIC

The Stanton 4-H club enjoyed a picnic last Friday, July 31. It was planned to have it on the creek so everyone could go in swimming, but as the weather was so bad, we had to hold it in the schoolhouse.

The morning was spent playing indoor basket ball. At noon the lunches were spread inside the school building, and everyone enjoyed their lunch, with plenty of lemonade to drink.

After dinner a short rest was needed, and at this time, N. B. Ivey, assistant County Agent in 4-H work talked to the group and got several more project cards filled out. Mr. Shelton Cook, the local leader of the Stanton Club, also had a few words to say to the Club. Afterwards, the game resumed, and everyone seemed to have had a good time all during the day.

JUST FROM SHOULTS

Farmers are well pleased with their beautiful crops in this community. Some say that C. T. Walker's corn is going to commit suicide. Well, just so it don't shoot itself to death.

There will be a cemetery working at the Lawley Graveyard on Tuesday, August 11th. Come all. Come early. —Uncle Remus.

TWO REVIVALS WERE VERY SUCCESSFUL

The revivals just closed at Pates Chapel and Highland were very scucessful. The Rev. J. A. Smallwood, of Birmingham, did the preaching at Pates Chapel, and the Rev. E. A. Norris, of Mitchell Dam, filled the pulpit at Highland. The paster has never heard preaccing done with more force and power than was done by the two brethren. There was not a great number of additions to the church ralls, but the churches were geatly revived.

Miss Lorena Guy of Montgomery was a visitor in Clanton last week.

Expression of Appreciation

We would like to say at this time that our opening sale, notwithstanding the exceedingly bad weather, was all we had hoped for, and really beyond our expectation.

We want to take this opportunity to thank each and everyone who visited our store and helped to make our opening sale the success it was. We want you to know that every purchase made and every kind word of encouragement and good wish expressed is very deeply appreciated.

We are very much gratified with the start we have made and the outlook for the future development of our new business. And we want to assure you that we are going to do our dead level best to merit a goodly share of your Dry Goods and Clothing trade.

We want you to feel that you are welcome at our store, and we are glad for you to come in to see us at any time, whether you have trading to do or not.

Again, we express our deepest appreciation and thanks.

4-H JERSEY CATTLE CLUB

Members of the 4-H Jersey Cattle Club of Chilton County met at the County Agent's office last Saturday, August the first at 7:30 to make a tour to each member's home.

The purpose of this tour was for each member to see what and how the other members were getting along with their cow or calf.

The tour started from the County Agent's office and thirteen homes were visited during the morning. At each home the animals were examined and commented on by different ones.

When we returned to the office, B. N. Ivey, Asst. County Agent in 4-H Club Work, remarked on what each one needed to do to his animal in preparation for the show that is to take place in September.

The entire group enjoyed watermelon at the Dennis home and a free picture show was given by Mr. Wade at the New Wadesonian Theatre Saturday afternoon.

POULTRY FLOCKS NEED CULLING AT PRESENT

Auburn, Ala.—High feed cost makes it most improtant for Alabama farmers to cull their poultry flocks, eliminating the "broader birds" and keeping the good ones.

Proper culling may mean the difference between a profit and a loss, says John E. Ivey, extension poultry specialist, in explaining that poor birds may be unprofitable to the extent of eating up the profits of the good birds.

GOOD MEETING AT HIGHLAND

A good meeting was held at Highland church last week. The Rev. Norris delivered some of the best sermons ever heard. Those who did not attend sure missed some good services. We are praying that there will be another good revival meeting held at Highland. Rev. M. Lockhart made some good talks, also it was the best singing I ever heard in my life and the best prayer meetings also.—Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Kelley.

ANNUAL SINGING HELD AT ENTERPRISE LAST SUNDAY

The annual all day singing was held at Enterprise last Sunday. Services were called to order by I. D. Huett, and prayer was offered by Rev. S. D. Deloach. W. M. Devaughn was elected chairman for the day.

Directors before noon were: Ralph D. Grant Edwar Jones Herman DuBose Lewis Kilpatric, J. J. Boone, J. W. Cagle Floy Devaughn, E. A. Cobb, and A. L. Brown. Before noon there were quartets by the Cobb sisters of Birimingham, the Devaughns and the White City quartet.

After all enjoyed a bounteous dinner, services were resumed with a song by the chairman. The following directed in the afternoon , Lee Grant T. E. Wyatt, L. T. Grant, H. C. McDaniel, R. T. Dye, C. M. Billingsley, J. B. Crew, Floy Devaughn, J. E. Varner, Deual Jones, W. L. Jones, H. G. Carter Steve Stanley. Several specials were sung during the afternoon by Tabernacle quartet, Prattville Quartet Cobb Sisters, the Devaughns. One duet was sung by Ralph Grant and Floy Devaurghn, also these two young men each sung a solo. The benediction was invoiced by Judge J. F. Posey of Pratville.

The singing was a most enjoyable one. There was a splinded class, and a large attentive audience. Everyone seemed to enjoy it to the fullest, and are looking forward to the same occasion in 1937.

SINGING SCHOOL AT SHILOH CHURCH BEGINS AUGUST 10

Mr. Melton Hughes, of Coopers, will church begining Monday, August 10th teach a singing school at Shiloh church beginning Monday, August 10. It will continue for three weeks. If you live close to Shiloh you should get in touch with Mr. Hughes and arrange to attend this school.

He is a young man with a promising future before him. He is closing an eighteen-day school at New Harmony this week and reports that he has had a very fine school down there. Melton Hughes is the son of L. Dewey Hughes, and grandson of Rev. J. D. Hughes.

WILEY LITTLEJOHN'S LONG BEAN

Mr. Wiley Littlejohn, of Clanton, is a champain bean shooter, if raising long beans has anything to do with it. He brought a pod of it to The Union-Banner last Monday that was exactly twenty-seven inches long. Mr. Littlejohn say that the variety is called a Yard Bean, for the reason that they very often grow a yard in length.

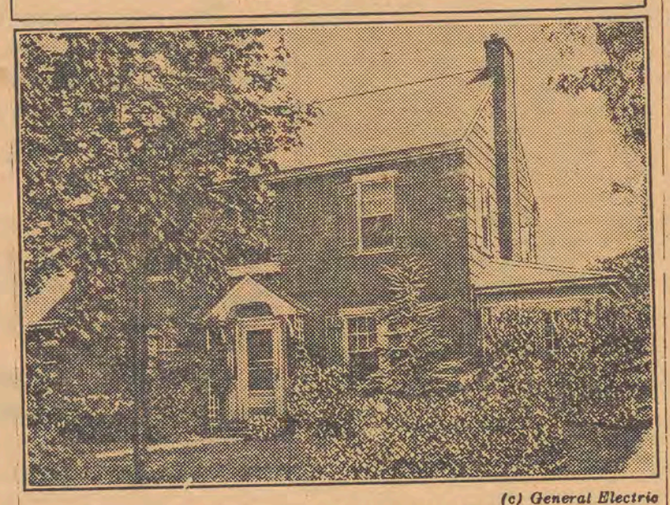
Hot Weather Tips

Practical Hints On How To Make Your Climate To Order



(c) General Electric

The historic house from which has emanated hot and cold weather comfort for millions of other homes in America. Located in Schenectady, N. Y., where it is hot in summer and cold in winter, this normal frame house has always inside it as perfect a climate as any ocean or mountain resort.

IF everyone could loaf under the trees in hot weather, sipping cool drinks and making no effort, there would be no heat prostrations, and everyone would be happier. But this imperfect world does not permit the human animal to do that for more than a few moments at a time. We can, though, increase our comfort considerably by observing a few simple rules during the worst hot weather.

1. Don't wear clothes that are tight anywhere. You need easy circulation of the blood.

2. Eat light foods like salads and fruits as much as you can, and go light on hot and heavy dishes. Eat slowly.

3. Wear light clothes and wear a hat against the direct rays of the sun.

4. Watch yourself while taking heavy exercise on a very hot day. You needn't avoid it altogether, but be careful.

5. Since few things are more miserable than a sunburn in hot weather, treat the sunlight with great respect. A skin whitened by winter sheltering may flare up very swiftly after half an hour of Old Sol.

6. Drink plenty of water.

7. Place electric fans or air circulators in strategic positions in your house so that they create moving currents of air.

8. In general, take it easy and be as calm and philosophic as you can. The alligator offers a useful though somewhat impractical example; he just lies in water and shade and sleeps!

J. A. HEADLEY WRITES

Well, I am going to leave it to the good old citizens of America to be the judges by their ballots in November, as to who gets the cocoa. I feel just like they feel as to who rules, or as to who they put in the White House to see whether we live or half starve. I feel that the biggest majority of people have their eyes open in that direction, inasmuch as they were wounded practically to death, as I was, from 1928 to 1r32 by that bunch of money grabbers and poor man robbers. That bunch tixed one in such shape that it took all the figuring and planning that me and my family of six could do, all of the hard labor that could have been done on a farm the size of mine, which was at that time 114 acers, all paid for, to pay the taxes on it, and to keep and to have anything over just bread. That is not saying a thing about our clothes. We just wore the rags that we had on hand at that time.

I had my wife and boy operated on during that time and couldn't pay a dollar. I deeded 18 acres to the hospital for the services, leaving me 96 acres. At the present time since 1933 I have been coming back up hill, thank God. I call the 96 acres mine, with plenty all around me and money in the bank, I go to bed every night with my mind at rest. I get up every morning, start a sweet song and go about my work rejoicing.

As brother Marvin Martin accused me of meeting Roosevelt's bread wagon once a week and getting my flour and canned beef, I want to tell Mr. Martin right here that I meet it every day and get a plenty. There is one more word that I would like to say to Mr. Martin. From 1928 to 1932, I met Mr. Hoover's band wagon and got disappointed, after his spending several billions of dollars a year of the taxpayers money and the poor class did not receive the first penny of it, but the rich got the last nickel of it. Do you remmeber that, Mr. Martin?

What you said about my making false statements or cussing anybody such as our old grandfathers in my letter of July 23, is a willful mistake of yours. You said you had me pictured. I think you gave me a clear picture of yourself. You are a man who wants to dodge the truth in every issue. Now, Mr. Martin, if either you or me get the cocoa, let's get it friendly and with the naked truth. Then it won't ulcerate our stomach when we take it down in November.

Now, as to Mr. A. A. Jackson telling me that I ought not to blame him for reaching out after the $200 a month. I do not, Mr. Jackson, but you seem to want to take what I have for me and my family along with you as you go after it. I am not willing for you to do that. So, boys, let's hustle along. I hear the whistle on the Roosevelt wagon now.—J. A. Headley, Clanton, Route 4.

ALABAMA STATE FAIR BEGINS SEPTEMBER 28

Birmingham, Ala., Aug. 5.—Keeping in step with the rest of the country in this year of great fairs and celebrations, Alabama will do its part by putting on one of the biggest and finest state fairs in history at Birmingham, Ala., for 6 days and 6 nights from Monday, September, 28, to Saturday, October 3rd.

Secretary-Manager P. T. Strieder has just announced that two of the outstanding new features of this year's Alabama State Fair will be a livestock show under the direction of Dr. M. F. Jackson and a huge flower show under the direction of Mr. Roy Marshall, superintendent of Birmingham parks and recreation.

The cattle show will be housed in two buildings 60 feet by 140 feet each. Mr. F. W. Burns of the Extension of animal husbandry will be superintendent in charge of the dairy cattle and Mr. R. S. Sugg of the extension of husbandry will be superintendent in charge of the beef cattle.

Miss Jaunita Allen spent the week end with Mrs. Cecil Ellison.

Eight Girls—All Lovely!

Comedian Ed Wynn calls these young ladies his "Eight Lovely Girls." Their singing is a regular feature of Wynn's weekly radio appearance with Graham McNamee. "They're lovely to look at . . . and lovely to hear," says the comedian. He and his pretty singers are heard over the NBC network at 9:30 E.D.S.T. every Tuesday night.

LETTER FROM DR. BOB JONES

Cleveland, Tenn.
July 16, 1936.

Dear Friends:

In just a few weeks, the railway trains and highways of this country will be crowded with young folks going off to college. Hundreds of young people who enter college this fall will come back at the end of the year with question marks in their minds about the existence of God and the reality of religion.

Let me warn you fathers and mothers! Be careful where you send your children to school. Take no chances. Play the game safe. There are good orthodox Christian colleges in the United States but THERE ARE NOT VERY MANY OF THEM. I wish to assure that the students who attend the Bob Jones College will come back home to their parents having had as good educational advantages as can be found in any institution in America and having had individual, constant, and personal attention and having had their faith preserved and stimulated.

If you wish literature, write Bob Jone College, Cleveland, Tennessee.

Sincerely yours,
BOB JONES

ALABAMA SCHOOL OF TRADE

More and more boys and young men are turning their attention to trades training. The depression has forced to their attention the fact that the skilled mechanic is in a much more favorable position to secure steady employment that the man who has o trade. The depression, too, has limited the number of young men who have been able to enter the various trades, and as business continues to pick up, this shortage of apprentices will be keenly felt.

The Alabama School of trades will open on Monday September 7. The trades to be tought this yera will be: printing, Mr. W. G. Galloway, instructor; auto mechanic, Mr. C. E. CLANTON LAUNDRY HAS INSTALLED NEW EQUIPMENT

In keeping with its policy of staying abreast of the times and of securing the very best of equipment at all times, the Clanton Laundry has installed a new boiler, which is automaitc throughout, even being electrically stoked, and everything.

Mr. Leo Thompson, manager of the Clanton Laundry, is a stickler for efficiency, and his machinery is kept in tip-top shape at all times. When any new appliance shows up, Mr. Thompson investigates to see if it will help his plant. If he believes it will, he buys it.

The Clanton Loundry is a distinct asset to Clanton, and is an institution of which every Clanton person may well feel proud.

Schools and Industry Unite in Sponsoring Vast New Youth Movement to Fill Void in Education

TAKING cognizance of problems arising from the increasing complexity of modern society, business leaders and school authorities in Detroit are combining their efforts in the joint sponsorship of a new youth movement intended to supplement the work of the nation's educational system. Results of lasting benefit to the country are predicted by supporters of the plan, including School Superintendent Frank Cody, who cites the records of the 45 scholarship winners in the Fisher Body Craftsman's Guild competitions as evidence of what may be expected. 1—Donald C. Burnham, of West Lafayette, Ind., in his hydroplane, built with the rebate given students at Purdue, whose names appear on the distinguished list. 2—Mr. Cody presents plaques to the winners of the inter-school model coach-building competition in Detroit as Guild Secretary William A. McLean looks on. 3—Raymond A. Smith, of Lawton, Okla., another $5,000 scholarship winner, masters the trombone to become a member of the Carnegie Tech Kiltie Band. 4—Howard Jennings, of Denver, Colo., an amateur composer of no mean ability, follows his hobby while attending the state university. 5—Charles W. Gadd, of Spokane, Wash., builds an integrator as an aid in his study of calculus at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

JEFFERSON D. BLANKENSHIP DIED ON WEDNESDAY, JULY 29

Jefferson D. Blankenship, age 75, died last Weednesday, July 29th, at his home on Clanton Route 1, about two miles north of Clanton, after an illness of several years.

"Uncle Jeff," as he was affectionately known by hundreds of people in Chilton county, was one of the most beloved and highly respected men in central Alabama. Several years ago he was stricken with paralysis, and never fully recovered. However, he has never murmured, but met everyone with his usual smile and friendly greeting, bearing his burden with patience.

Funeral services were held at New Salem on Thursday, August 30, with Rev. W. P. Lowery and Rev. Dewey Robinson officiating. He was laid to rest, with Masonic honors, in the New Salem cemetery, with Martin directing.

Survivors include: His wife; two sons—J. G., of Weogufka, and E. G., of Birmingham; two daughters—Mrs. Jennie Evans of Clanton, and Mrs. Dollie Barrett of Thorsby and one brother—Green Blankenship, of Vincent, Ala.

Pallbearers were: G. F. Harris, B. F. Massey, A. K. Morgan, W. H. Sartor, G. C. Harris, and Earl Crowder.

WAS GLAD TO HAVE VISITORS

MR. W. A. KEMP

The Kemp Dry Goods Company, W. A. Kemp, Manager, is pleased with the response from friends to the invitation to visit their store's formal opening the last three days of last week. "We were more than pleased," said Mr. Kemp in speaking of the visitors and congratulations received from the many callers at the opening.

COL. FRANK KNOX DELIVERED HIS ACCTEPTANCE SPEECH ON THURSDAY NIGHT, JULY 30

Col. Frank Knox of Chicago, made his speech accepting the Republcan nomination for vice president last Thursday night, in Chicago, Ill. A host of several thousand people was gathered for the gala ceremony.

Flaying the New Deal from stem to stern, Col. Frank Knox climaxed his speech by a statement that has brought several squeaks from Democratic speakers and writers. Col. Knox said: "When the Roosevelt administration came in, the country had already begun to emerge from the bottom pit of a grevious world depression."

There have been those all along who firmly believe that Mr. Hoover had already begun to whip the depression in the summer of 1932, but that when the election returns began to come in that early fall, indicating Democratic victory, the blocks were gradually kocked form under the structure which Mr. Hoover was building. The later election and ultimate inauguration of Mr. Roosevelt, several people believe, had a decided effect of setting back the work of regaining national economic equilibrium which Mr. Hoover had set out upon.

To say the least of it, Col. Knox made a stirring and forceful speech. He promises to be a real campaigner, and he, connected up with Governor Landon, presents every indication of giving the New Deal fits during the next few months.

Judge and Mrs. J. Lee Smith and children, Lillian and J. Lee, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. J. Hance Alred and children, Callen and Jerry, returned on Sunday from a two weeks trip to the West, visiting many interesting points, among them Pike's Peak.

Miss Alice Brooks returned to her home in Andalusia Wednesday, after spending several days here with Mr. and Mrs. James Wade and Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hayes.

Mr. and Mrs. Grady Broadhead of Montgomery are guests of friends and relatives here this week.

Mrs. L. F. Hester of Birmingham was the guest of Mrs. Jim Collins last week.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert

As this is being written, Republicans all over the country seem to be revelling in rosreate hopes. This is all, of course, very natural. For about four years they have seen nothing but political gloom ahead of them. Even a week or so before the Cleveland convention it seemed that the best that could be done would to put up a game but losing fight, with the prospects of 1940 in view. Some Republican leaders had even consoled themselves with the thought that maybe they would be just as well off if they didn't win until 1940.

The Cleveland convention changed all this. What was expected to be a perfunctory turned out to be something like an old-fashioned revival. The Republicans nominated what was very likely the strongest ticket they could possibly have nominated for this campaign. They got a young dynamic National Chairman. Immediately the common expression changed from an "All right, all right," to "Come on, boys, let's go!" With real leadership to rally around, and candidates who inspired confidence among the rank and file of the party, immediately all thought of looking ahead to 1940 vanished. There came an immediate realization that the really important campaign for the Republicans to win is the campaign of 1936.

The reviving hopes of the Republicans everywhere have been given a rosy tinge by the result of straw votes and various other kinds of polls which have been made since the Cleveland convention. One big fact-finding organization which uses both the mails and house-to-house canvassers to arrive at its conclusions, reported that there had been a waning of Rooseveltian strength since Landon was nominated and that the Kansas Governor now has the edge by a few electoral votes. A prominent Eastern farm magazine reported that its first returns showed that Landon was the stronger among the agriculturists of the country. Reports claimed that in many sections of the country Governor Landon was getting more applause in the theatres than was President Roosevelt when the likenesses of the two men were thrown on the screen.

All of which has been very fine and has served as a good tonic to set the Republicans going, a tonic that has been sadly needed for these "three long years." The election, however, is not to be won by straw votes, or applause in motion-picture theatres. Something in the way of organization is needed. There is no question but that the Republicans have two valuable leaders in Chairman Hamilton of the National Committee and Chairman Bolton of the Republican Congressional Committee. These two committees will function smoothly and efficiently. They will do their bit.

But anyone who knows anything about politics will tell you that after all elections are not won in New York, or Washington or Chicago. Neither is victory achieved in the 48 State Capitals. Presidents are elected down where the grass roots grow. A fine and efficient organization at the top is very important. But no less important, even more essential, is organization in the counties, the wards and the precincts. And this organization must be made by "the boys" back home.

If the Republicans want to win, therefore, they will cheer the results of the straw votes when these are favorable, and applaud their leaders in the movies when their faces appear on the screens. But they will not stop at this nor allow it to give them a false sense of security. They will silently go to work organizing for next November. It is a good guess that while all this straw balloting is going on, the astute Mr. Farley is not idle. He has the deserving Democrats and the payrollers busy, wherever possible, to improve his organization. He would be neglectful of his duty if it were not the case. Let the Republicans, therefore, if they want to win, go forth and do likewise. The national and state headquarters cannot do it all, though they are a big help. A lot of work has got to be done quietly at home.

TO THE YOUNG VOTERS OF CHILTON COUNTY

Young Citizens Of Baldwin County, In Deep South, Set Us Worthy Example

Up until a few months ago it was a common concession among lots of politicians that the New Deal party was holding out inducements to the young voters of the country, and that they were turning to that party more than to the conservatives generally aligned with the Republicans. The above did seem to be the actual condition up until a year ago; but the tide has definitely turned.

The young citizens of Baldwin County, in South Alabama, have come to realize what the exorbitant spending of the Roosevelt regime means to the on-coming generations. They, like thousands of other young citizens everywhere, know the billions being spent now will have to be paid back, and they also know that those of us who will be the citizens ten years from now and on in the future will have to do the paying. For these reasons, the young Democrats of Baldwin County have repudiated the New Deal and its spendthrift methods and have turned to the party that offers a protection to them from the ravages of unbearable taxation and public usury. They give as the reason for their action "Roosevelt is spending too much," and no more truth can be embodied in any five words of the English language.

This move on the part of young citizens of a regular Republican state would not hold out so much significance, but when it comes from the very depth of the Democratic South, it is most significant indeed. It means that not all young people are content to being made serfs of a so-called political party which has not only repudiated its name, but is fast heaping abuse, servitude and sacrilege upon the citizens of the country. These young citizens have grasped what it all means to them now and what it is bound to mean to them in future years; and they have registered their disapproval in a most manful and unmistakable manner. This is a worthy example to the young voters of Chilton County.

We already have a strong young Republican organization in Chilton County, and it is going to be made stronger. We urge the young voters of the county to chime in with us and help in this great work. This fight means more to the younger people than it does to older ones, for the simple reason that we are the ones who will have to balance the budget of the nation in years to come. Let all young citizens of Chilton County wake up, as they have done in Baldwin County, and let's present a united front against the New Deal party with its array of arrogant spending and usurpation of American principles and inalienable rights. We will not have to journey alone, but we will meet with plenty of ready response from our older citizens who have brought our country up safely thus far. They will stand by us and hold us up. Wake up, young Americans, and sound a loud hurrah to Baldwin County!

SPIES AND SOME OTHERS

A former enlisted man in the Navy was sentenced the other day for 15 years in prison for selling naval information to a Japanese officer.

The information he peddled, as far as the public knows, was of no great importance to anyone, yet by selling it he came under the espionage law and made himself technically a spy.

When he was lined up with a number of other prisoners they drew away from him.

And one particularly tough-looking yegg sneered at him.

Spying against one's country is so dastardly an act that even the mill-run of criminals despise those who commit it.

And yet, which is worse, to sell petty secrets to a potential enemy, or to bore from within and seek to overthrow one's form of government by the force of intrigue?

The generality of Americans would look down upon and draw away from many highly placed persons in this country if they realized that those persons are capable of inflicting more and greater lasting damage upon the American people than any foreign country could hope to inflict.—Detroit Free Press.

It may require all of half a century for Americans to get back to talking in mere millions.—Toledo, Ohio Blade.

Our ancestors trusted in Providence and thought a depression was part of the ordinary hardships of life.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Up to this time we haven't noticed where the Brain Trust alloted any money to repair the sidewalks in New York.

Sometimes the most promising candidates are the ones who make good the fewest of their promises.

MAN IN THE MOON

PROMISE AND PERFORMANCE

Balancing The Budget

In regard to the important phase of government, balancing the budget, one which received much comment, and was discussed widely during the former Roosevelt campaign, the 1932 Democratic platform set out:

"We favor maintenance of the national credit by a federal budget annually balanced on the basis of accurate executive estimates within revenues raised by a system of taxation levied on the principle of ability to pay."

In his inaugural message on March 4, 1933, President Roosevelt said:

"Through this program of action we address ourselves to putting our national house in order, and MAKING the INCOME BALANCE OUTGO."

After nearly a year o fthe New Deal had passed, and after it became common knowledge that INCOME would fall far short of OUTGO, the president, in his budget message on Jan. 3, 1934, said:

"Furthermore, the government during the balance of this calendar year (1934) should plan to build its 1936 expenditures, including recovery and relief, within the revenues exextected withi nthe fiscal year 1936. We ought to plan to have a DEFINITELY BALANCED BUDGET for the third year of recovery, and from that time on seek a continuing reduction of the national debt."

Further along the New Deal road, when the Roosevelt regime had definitely committed itself to a reign of extravagance, and when fear began to arise regarding new taxes, the president stated on September 29, 1935, the following:

"Thus it is clear to me that the federal government, under the provision of present tax schedules, WILL NOT NEED NEW TAXES or increased rates to meet the expenses of its necessary annual operations and to retire its public debt."

Now, government expenses have EXCEEDED government income throughout the Roosevelt administration. According to the president's own statement, made in his budget message on Jan. 3, 1936, from figures furnished him by Mr. Morgenthau, his secretary of the treasury, the deficit amounted to $3,989,000,000 in 1934, $3,575,000,000 in 1935, and was estimated by Mr. Roosevelt, himself, at $5,966,000,000 for 1936.

Further, Mr. Roosevelt took up high finance "guessing" early in his administration, and began "estimating" the 1936 deficit as early as Jan. 3, 1934. On that date he estimated that there would be no deficit for 1936. On Jan. 3, 1935, he took another "guess" at the 1936 deficit this time that it would amount to $4,529,000,000. A year later, on Jan. 3, 1936, he looked in the crystal ball and took another guess, this time dropping his estimate to $3,234,000,000. Finally, on April 25, 1936, he took a last long shot at the guessing game, and called the 1936 deficit a flat THREE BILLION DOLLARS. But only five days later, Secretary Morgenthau, the man who really was handling the long green, estimated this 1936 deficit would be $5,966,000,000.

And finally, on March 3, 1936, in his message to Congress less than six months after he had said there would be no need for new taxes, he said:

"We are called upon t oraise by some form of PERMANENT TAXATION AN ANNUAL AMOUNT OF $620,000,000."

Promises—plenty of them. Performance, fulfillment of promises, a clear idea of the nation's needs and the ability to cope with the big problem that he had created—Mr. Roosevelt nor his brain trust could produce. Another instance of guess-work, pure and simple, with the stakes being the billions of dollars of tax money being wrung from the overburdened taxpayers of the nation, and which will be required at the hands of generations yet unborn. What officials! What a system! And withal, the welfare of 130,000 Americans depending thereon!

The National Debt

During the four years of Hoover's administration, the national debt increased $3,592,000,000, an average per year of $898,000,000.

Speaking of this "grave condition" in his acceptance speech on July 2, 1932, Mr. Roosevelt dropped this flowery gem to his hearers:

"I propose to you, my friends, that government be made solvent, and that the example be set by the President of the United States."

There was a thunderous applause when he uttered these words. Now let's take a peep at the way he has handled the money business and the national debt. From March 4th, 1933, until May 15, 1936, the Roosevelt administration increased the national debt by the sum of $10,605,000,000—an average yearly increase of $3,314,000,000. In short, Mr. Roosevelt has increased the national debt almost as much each year he has been in as Mr. Hoover did all during his four-year term. That was the EXAMPLE he set as President of the United States and of which he spoke so smoothly in 1932. These figures may be checked against the daily statement of the U. S. Treasury by anyone who may doubt them.

But that is not all. According to guaranteed debt figures issued by the Federal Reserve Bulletin, the gross national debt on June 30, 1936, was $34,500,000,000, and the total increase from March 4, 1933, to June 30, 1936, was $13,563,000,000—that is the sum that Mr. Roosevelt has increased the debt in a little less than three years and four months.

On top of all this, during the Roosevelt administration the U. S. government has been brought to guarantee the PRINCIPAL AND INTEREST of $4,654,000,000 of securities issued by various governmental companies and corporations. These figures are according to the national Director of the Budget. Note that title—Director of the Budget!

And yet, after all this—after he had denounced Hoover for spending his comparatively "paltry" $3,592,000,000, and after he, himself, had spent $13,563,000,000, and had sent the national debt to the very highest peak in the nation's history, he had the brass-bound nerve to state in his budget message on Jan. 3, 1936:

"THE CREDIT OF THE GOVERNMENT IS AT ITS HIGHEST."

That may be true according to the method of bookkeeping used by Mr. Roosevelt and his brain trusters, but back in the "horse and buggy days" when we were coming up, our ledger had two columns—credit and debit—and the credits didn't climb along with the debits. Something has happened. Either bookkeeping systems have changed, or somebody has made a great misstatement of facts and figures. What do you think?

How Much Is A Billion

Nowadays, when talking of our nation's finances, it is old fashioned to speak in mere "millions" of dollars—we have graduated to the "billion" class. We speak of "billions" as smooth as an eel slipping off a greasy log. Perhaps we speak of "billions" so glibly that many of us do not realize just how much a billion dollars really is. Let's figure a bit, and try to visualize what the term billion really means.

Let's suppose that you had a billion dollars piled up in front of you. You start to counting dollars at the rate of one per second, a tthis rate you would count 60 per minute, 3,600 per hour, and 86,400 per day. Keeping up with this counting for 24 hours per day, without stopping to eat or sleep, it would take you a little over 31 years and 259 days to count that billion dolars.

At this rate, to count $13,563,000,000 the New Deal has increased the national debt in three years and four months, would take you over 430 years. To spend this collossal sum, the New Dealers have been forced to spend over $129 for each and every second between March 4, 1933 and June 30, 1936.

At one time Mr. Roosevelt said he wanted to do something "to put money in circulation." And if you will leave it to our simple and homespun opinion, he has at least succeeded in one undertaking.

Again—what do you think?—Man in the Moon.

JUDGE POSEY ATTENDS ALL DAY SINGINGS

One of the most interested and conscientious attendants at lots of singings in south Chilton, Autauga and Elmore Counties is Judge J. F. Posey, present Probate Judge of Autauga County. Judge Posey and Mrs. Posey attended the all day singing last Sunday at Enterprise, and no two people got more out of the services than did the Judge and his wife.

Some people seem to labor under the false impression that it is rare if not impossible for a person to be a singer or a lover of sacred song and be a successful politician or business man. We cite such inclinees to Judge Posey, who is now serving the second year of his third term as Probate Judge of Autauga County. He is one of the most likable men one ever meets, a devout Christian man, and evidently a capable probate judge, in view of his long term of service. And too, the Judge is most likely somewhat of a politician. We do not mean one of the kind of politicians who resort to any and all kinds of unfair methods to keep his constituents whipped in line, but a man who has a way of winning the respect and confidence of his people and holding such respect and confidence.

Judge Posey possesses a rare personality and at all times displays his reverence to the Higher Power and his sympathetic devotion to his fellowman. Judge Posey's politics, of course, is democratic, but he is most certainly a good Democrat. Sometimes, we believe he might be a Republican if it were not for the fact that there are so few avowed followers by name of that party in his fine county.

Judge Posey attended a singing school which Prof. L. T. Grant taught at Prattville early this year, and he learned to read music and to direct a class. Even before that he attended lots of singings in his and adjoining counties, and always enjoyed them to the fullest extent. We welcome Judge Posey to any and all of our singings in Chilton County, any time that he feels disposed to visit us. We are always glad to have him and his good wife with us. And we commend him to the people of Chilton County as a man who is a lover of all day singings, a Christian of the highest type, and at the same time a shrewd politician and one of the best business men and probate judges in Alabama.

TEN YEARS AGO

One of the most significant features of the 1936 campaign, which is still in its infancy, is the divergence of opinion between the old fashioned Democratic regulars and the so-called New Dealers. This divergence is not between the members of the brain trust and those who have "taken a walk" and abandthe so-called Democratic organization for the present campaign. It extends to men who are still on the bandwagon—Senators Glass and Byrd, of Virginia, and to a great many stalwart old-line Democratic newspapers such as the Baltimore Sun.

This split between the new leaders of what was once called Jefferson's Democratic party and the Old Guard, is now so generally recognized and accepted as a political fact that we are apt, if we do not stop to ponder for a moment, to accept it as something that has always been the case. If we fall into this error we are apt to miss the great significance of the political cleavage.

For instance: The New York Sun recently called attention to a bit of peroration on former Governor Al Smith, delivered ten years ago. It is worth repeating:

"Some da yin the distant future men and women will raise statues to a great man by the name of Smith. And when they do I hope that instead of a list of his titles to fame they will carve the simple words: He taught us to think and to think straight."

This bit of deserved tribute to New York's former popular governor was not delivered by a member of the Liberty League. It was not even put into words by one of Tammany's faithful. It was delivered a decade ago in the New York State Democratic convention by its chairman, Franklin Delano Roosevelt.

A lot of water has flown under the bridge since 1926. It would be interesting to know what President Roosevelt now thinks of Governor Smith's ability to think straight. Mr. Smith is for the old constitutional form of government, sans regimentation and sans government interference in private business. A great many Republicans will be of the opinion that is the proof of Mr. Smith's ability to think straight. Among New Dealers there may be another opinion.

The political feeling between Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Smith in 1926 and their political relations now, are good evidence of the fact that things have changed. They give us some evidence of the chasm that exists between the New Dealers and Jeffersonian Democrats of the Governor Smith type.

WHO IS THE WORKER

Quite frequently we hear from a platform orator, generally one who is running for office, that he is the friend of the "working man." Again we hear that this political party or that one, is the patron of the "working man." Perhaps it would be just as well to pause and inquire for a moment, just who is this "American working man" anyhow, and how did he get that way.

In nations of the Old World there is, in most countries, a class of workers which is entirely distinct from the other strata of society. A working man has a very difficult time jumping into the economic group that is above him, and certainly he is for all time barred from social success, even if he, or the members of his family, should be vain enough to want it. In the old European idea of human society there was a landed gentry, a group of tradesmen, and then the group of workers. It was, and still is in most cases, very difficult to advance from a lower group to a higher. We have, therefore, in countries where the situation exists, class goverment, with blocs and factions in the parliamentary body, if any.

In the United States this has never been the case. Every man has worked who had the ambition and the opportunity to do so. There has been no class of idle rich. The average industrialist has put in so many hours as the salaried man or wage earner, and he often points with pride to the number of jobs he has been able to afford for others through the effort of his own thrift, intellegence and industry.

Abraham Lincoln put it well when he said: "There is no permanent llass of hired laborers among us. Twenty-five years ago I was a hired laborer. The hired laborer of yesterday labors on his own account today, and will hire others to labor for him tomorrow."

Here is embodied the true American principle of progress. It is in recognition of such a principle that we have builded the greatest economic empire ever known to man, in a period of time, the brevity of which defies all history.

Work has never been looked upon in America as degrading, but as the means of better things for the individual and his family.

Because of this fact however, this is not the time for Americans to assume an attitude of condescension toward class-ruled European nations. For we are confronted with a real danger of class consciousness ourselves. On every hand we hear the cry of the demagogue—who is usually begging for votes—that he is "for the working class", and "against the idle rich and capitalist." Often he promises a redistribution of wealth, by taking property away from the man who has accumulated it through its own thrift and enterprise, and giving to it those who have never earned anything for themselves.

The great danger is, of course, that an attempt at redistribution of wealth through increasing high taxes will only end in poverty and misery for all, as has been the case in Russia. But there is another danger which is as great—a danger that the United States will become a nation of class conscious haters of the other fellow. Such a condition will spell the end of American prosperity and American progress.

ISSUE OF PRINCIPLE

Never in the history of the present party system in the United States has a major party gathered for its convention under the shadow of such a document as that which Mr. Smith, Mr. Colby, Mr. Reed, Mr. Ely and Judge Ohalan have published to their fellow Democrats.

There have been, of course, many party schisms producing their effective statements of difference. When the "gold Democrats" split with their party after its capture by Bryan in 1896, they spoke with the bitterness engendered by a deep issue of principle. But never has a major convention been summoned to repudiate its president and its whole leadership in an appeal so scathing as this, signed by its own previous presidential nominee, by one of its former Secretaries of State, by a celebrated leader of its forces in the Senate, by one of the ablest of its former state governors and one of its prominent jurists.

The conviction of these men that an uncompromisable issue of principle has been raised by the New Deal's usurpation of the Democracy speaks through their line of their excoriating summons. It speaks in their identification of Franklin D. Roosevelt by name, as the man who must be put aside for "some genuine Democrat," if the convention is to do itself "fit to follow in the footsteps" of the great leaders upon whose names the party has called for so many years.—New York Herald-Tribune.

LEGION TO MEET AUGUST 23-25 AT HUNTSVILLE

With reports for the past few days showing that the epidemic of poliomyelitis is on the wane in Alabama, Dr. Francis Marion Inge, Department Commander announced yeserday that the postponed Alabama American Legion Convention would be held August 23-25, inclusive at Huntsville. The dates were set by the Alabama Department Executive Committee following a conference with Dr. J. N. Baker, State Health Officer.

Dr. Baker said the situation seemed encouraging that, if the improvement continued, there would be little danger by the time set for the convention. Those who plan to attend the Convention are advised to take the alum-picric acid spray before going to Huntsville.

All plans have been made for the Convention, and Huntsville is waiting for the Legionnaires and their families with a royal welcome.

Steamship Company Announces S. S. Florida to Care For Alabama Visitors To Cuba

With the increased interest being manifested in the all-expense tour to Havana, Cuba, August 15, a follow-up of the Alabama Press Association trip that was made in June, the officials of the Peninsular & Occidental Steamship Company have announced a change in steamers for the August trip.

To care for a larger number of Alabamians who will take advantage of the low-priced tour, as well as vocotionists from Georgia and Florida sailing on the same date, the S. S. Florida, palatial ocean liner, new in every respect, will be placed on the Port Tampa-Havana route for this tour.

Those making the trip August 15th will enjoy a tour of West Florida on Sunday before boarding the steamer and the same sights that the press association party enjoyed in June. The price of the tour is $73.70 from Montgomery and return, with every necessary expense included. Reservations can be made with W. Roy Brown, Gay Teague Hotel, Montgomery, Alabama.

W. J. PETERS

W. J. Peters, age 77, of Isabella community, died last Thursday, July 30, at the Central Alabama Hospital.

Pallbearers were his four sons, with J. W. Suites and Boots Fulford.

CLANTON GOSPEL TABERNACLE

A two weeks revival at the Clanton Gospel Tabernacle closed on Sunday, August 2nd. This revival was conducted by the Rev. A. J. Dailey, and was one of the best ever held in Clanton.

Interest in this meeting grew throughout the two weeks, until the last few nights saw overflowing audiences in attendance.

Rev. Dailey preached four times on Sunday, the closing day, and some who attended all the meetings said that the one on Sunday night—the closing sermon—was the very best of all.

He is known throughout this section as one of the best evangelists who ever came to Clanton. We are hoping to have him with us from time to time in the future. Announcement will be made each week when services will be held at the Tabernacle. Sunday school every Sunday at 9:45. Come and be with us. You are welcome.

Miss Janice Roberts Baker entertained Miss Eddie B. Doss, of Birmingham, with a picnic. The guests included were: Mrs. Bob Baker, Mrs. W. S. Southworth, Mrs. W. M. Southworth, Miss Muriel and Nookey Armstrong.

IMPROVING LOCAL ROADS AND LOCAL ROAD ADMINISTRATION

By T. J. Arledge

Local roads are bound to the land and to community plans made to fit into and benefit those who live in the community. The county is frequently charged with inefficiency and carelessness in handling its roads. Yet the county remains an indispensable agency in local road administration.

The various functions of roads and highways may be divided into two general groups—those of roads and highways that have as their primary purpose the carrying of traffic only incidentally related to the use of abutting property and those having ask primary purpose service to the abutting property, and those having as their primary purpose service to the abutting property, as the traffic-thoroughfare system, as the basis of "structural element" of the larger community, the state; the other consists of roads that are directly apurtenant to adjacent lands. The function of the first is general or state wide, that of the other is local. The government unit that has jurisdiction over the functions of the larger community is the only agency competent to deal with the traffic thoroughfare system that performs such a function. The governmental unit that has jurisdiction over the functions of the local community is the only agency competent to deal with the roads that are of local significance.

Any attempt to divide jurisdiction over the major thoroughfares of a state highway system among the local governmental agencies through whose territories the thoroughfares pass would be turning back toward the unsatisfactory conditions that existed before the establishment of the state highway departments—conditions that would be accentuated to the point of confusion by modern traffic conditions. On the other hand, in spite of apparent economics of operation and apparently greater efficiency, centralized administration of local roads violates the intimate relatio that exist between the local roads and abutting and to which they are appurtenant. The relation of local roads to the use of adjacent land is second in its intimacy only to the actual physical characteristics of the land itself. Actually, the basic distinction between the fields of general and local government is vital to sound road administration.

With this in mind, local government of our local roads, at a conference with the State Highway Department heads in Montgomery last Wednesday, it developed that I was advised that Chilton County would be eligible for almost any amount of the funds, provided in the Hayden-Cartright bill, passed recently by Congress, we might be able to match, dollar for dollar. this bill was referred to in my article last week in this paper. Full information as to requirements in connection with the type of roads was not available at this conference, but I was advised that the Division Engineer of this district would visit me later and clear up all points in the matter. It was also learned that the State Highway Department would cooperate to the fullest extent in seeing that Chilton County was given every opportunity to share in these funds provided they use it on secondary rural roads.

To this end the State Highway Department has advised that a complete survey of all county roads is now under way in the State, and that a survey party could be expected in Chilton county in a week or two. These surveys are being conducted by the State Highway departments with the co-operation of the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads. Federal Highway officials who are coordinating the various state surveys think that a selection should be made of those roads that, because of their importance, merit early consideration in an improved program. Future programs can be planned intelligently only with information as to which roads should be improved first. Each survey has three branches—a Highway Condition survey, a Highway Traffic survey and a highway finance survey. So far there are surveys being made in 36 states.

This survey of Chilton County roads will locate the actual location of every house in the county. including the location and name of all churches, schools and other known landmarks. This will be of great benefit to our Road Supervisor and will save the cost of mapping the road system as provided by the law establishing this office. Of course, it will eliminate the costly work of traversing the entire road system, but it will not provide the map I have planned of the county, which will not only show the roads and streams in the county where possible to place his name on the space available.

From this map, with the assistance of the Commissioner's Court or their appointed committee, we will select those roads which will become first to receive attention and be developed for permanent surface treating. This work and the type of surface will depend on requirements set up by the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads for standard secondary roads. Preliminary plans for this work should be commenced now, as the funds provided by the government will be available January 1, 1937.

Lesson for August 9

SAUL CONVERTED AND COMMISSIONED

LESSON TEXT—Acts 9:1-9, 17-19; I Timothy 1:12-14.

GOLDEN TEXT—I was not disobedient unto the heavenly vision.—Acts 26:19.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Saul Becomes Jesus' Friend.

JUNIOR TOPIC—On the Road to Damascus.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Appointed for Service.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—After Conversion, What?

The conversion of Saul of Tarsus is on of the outstanding events of Bible history. It presents one of the strongest evidences of the truth of the Christian faith, for only on the ground of regeneration can we account for the change in Saul's life, and only on the assurance that he met the Living and Risen Christ can we account for his conversion.

As our lesson opens we find the brilliant, zealous, young Jew, Saul, as:

I. A Bold Persecuter (9:1, 2).

He was "yet breathing out threatening and slaughter against the disciples of the Lord." The death of the godly Stephen had only increased his determination to wipe out those who were "of this way"—the followers of the One who is "the way." But as he carries letters from the high priest to Damascus which would authorize him to imprison them, he meets the Christ whom he persecutes and he becomes

II. A Convicted Sinner (vv. 3-9).

Stricken down by a brilliant heavenly light, he finds himself talking to the Lord Jesus. He hears from his holy lips the solemn indictment of those who persecute God's people—"Why persecutest thou me?" He who lays unkind hands, or untrue accusation upon God's children had best beware, for so closely is our Lord identified with his people that when they suffer, it is he who bears the hurt.

In a single sentence the Lord disposes of the persecuting zeal and the sinful skepticism of this proud young Pharisee, and Saul enters into Damascus not as the haughty persecuter, but as a man trembling and astonished at his own sin. He spends three days shut in with his own soul and God, not seeing, not caring to eat, losing all consciousness of earth, but entering into communion with God. By God's grace the old life is pulled up by the roots as it is displaced by the new life in Christ Jesus. And now God is ready to send his servant Ananias to address Paul as

III. A Converted Brother (vv. 17-19).

The fears of Ananias that Saul might still be a worker of evil (v. 13) are soon overcome by God's assurance that in the praying Saul he had prepared for himself "a chosen vessel" (v. 15) to bear the gospel to the Gentiles and to kings, as well as to the children of Israel. Let us not fail to note carefully that the greatest of all Christian leaders, the apostle Paul, was led out into his life of loyalty and service to Christ by a humble layman. Repeatedly God's Word by precept and example stresses the vital importance of personal work on the part of lay men and women. The leaders of Christian work during the coming generation are now in the Sunday School classes of our churches, perhaps in a little wayside chapel in the country, in the village church, in the mission or settlement house.

Saul knew nothing of that subtle hypocrisy known as being "a secret believer," for at once he made open confession of his faith in baptism, and "Straightway he preached Christ in the synagogues that he is the Son of God" (v. 20). He became indeed

IV. A Mighty Preacher (I Tim. 1:12-14).

In this passage Paul is writing to his son in the faith, Timothy, about thirty-four years after his conversion. As he looks back over the years he forgets the trials and sorrows, the beating with rods, the shipwrecks, the bitter disappointment over false brethren (Read II Cor. 11:23-28). He remembers only the matchless grace of God that showed mercy toward a blasphemer and persecuter, and counted him faithful, appointing him with "his service."

Paul summarizes that which we know to have been the great life of the world's mightiest preacher by attributing it all in true humility to "the grace of our Lord" which "abounded exceedingly with faith and love which is in Christ Jesus." For to him "to live was Christ" (Phil. 1:21).

MARY CATHERINE WALLACE

Mary Catherine Wallace, age 82, of Meridian, Miss., died on Monday, August 3rd, at the home of Mrs. C. T. Jones, in Gowan Addition to Clanton. The deceased was a sister of Mrs. J. W. Thompson, of Clanton Route 1.

The remains were sent by Martin to Meridian, Miss., for burial Tuesday. The funeral was held in Webb Funeral Home, Meridian.

Among survivors are three daughters—Mrs. J. W. Thompson, Clanton; Mrs. Minnie Maurey, Birmingham; and Mrs. M. C. Wilson, Meridian.

Mr. Leo Thompson, grandson of the deceased, made the trip by air to Meridian to attend the funeral, and had not returned at this writing. For that reason, full particulars could not be gathered. A full account will be given in next week's issue.

JOSEPH M. DORSE

Joseph M. Dorse, 40, well known negro of Clanton and one of the best thought of men of his race in this community, died at his home in West End on Sunday, August 2nd. He is survived by his wife and several brothers and sisters.

Funeral services were held at the Union Baptist church in West End, Clanton, on Wednesday, August 5th. Burial was in the Hopewell cemetery, with Masonic honors.

VISITED IN MT. CREEK

Mrs. Alton Bolen and John Bolen, of Jackson, Ala., who have been the guests of the former's mother, Mrs. C. M. McKee, of Mt. Creek, for two weeks, have now returned to their home. The Bolens report a most enjoyable visit. They went out to the river several times fishing, and carried lunch, went boating, and also went to the dance hall at Verbena on Saturday night.

Mrs. Bolen spent last week with her brother, Mr. and Mrs. Russell McKee, of Clanton, which was also an enjoyable visit. The party went to Birmingham Friday and spent the week end with relatives.

The party visited Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Cooper, of Deatsville Monday night and enjoyed a dance given in honor of Emma McKee and John Bolen.

A party consisting of Dennis McKee, Arrie Gentry, Emma McKee, and John Bolen motored to Montgomery Tuesday night to see the show. They expect to go to Jackson, Ala., about August 15th, to visit Mr. and Mrs. Alton Bolen. They are planning on going from there to Shreveport, La.

KELLER OUTLINES PLANS TO AID INFANTILE PARALYSIS VICTIMS

The plan of administration of the Crippled Children's Service of the National Social Security Act by the State Department of Education of Alabama offers comfort and encouragement to parents of children afflicted with infantile paralysis. When the ravages of the disease have abated, these children will be assembled at clinic approved by the State Health Department, where examination will be mode and hospitalization and treatment provided for through the Crippled Children's Service of the Department of Education.

When all has been done to physically restore the crippled children, then the rehabilitation staff of the Department will plan courses in vocational guidance, followed by vacational training, placement in employment and supervision of their work when employed for a period of one year. This activitywill make for economic independance for those children who are physicaly handicapped becanse of crippled conditions resulting from a present attack of poliomyelitis. The Federal Government and the state of Alabama have planed well in this connection, and the State has been in operation for ten years prior to the passage of the social Security Act, must of necessity be amplified.

LOSS IN PROPERTY VALUES CAUSE FOR SCHOOL PLIGHT

Property assessments in Alabama dropped 26 per cent between the years 1930 and 1935, according to a recent study made in Montgomery. For the first four years of this period the decrease was gradual, averaging about 3 per cent per year. During the year 1934-1935, however, the drop approximated 14 per cent.

"Thus what was a slow decline in assessments between 1930 and 1934, became a toboggan slide in 1935," said Mrs. James Fitts Hill, president of the Alabama Congress of Parents and Teachers, Monday in commenting on the causes of the existing shortage in school money.

HOUSEWIVES EYE FAMILY BUDGET AS PRICES SOAR

June Survey Shows Food Costs 30 Per Cent Up From Year Ago

GENERAL LEVEL TO RISE HIGHER

Chicago, Aug. 4.—Faced with rising food prices because of drouth and government curtailment, householders in city and hamlet sought to determine today how their family budgets might be affectde.

A comprehensive survey of major commodities markets and an inquiry among food traders brought out facts that might shed light on the problem.

It costs the average man 30 per cent more to feed his family in June than it did three years ago, the Department of Agriculture estimated. Market analysts now seek to ascertain what the rate of increase might be this year—with farm prices at the highest general level since 1930.

There was agreement on the commodities markets that the general level of food prices would rise. The upturn is under way. The figures on grocery bills invariably parallel in various degrees the figures chalked up in the big commodities and wholesale markets and wholesale prices have boomed in the last six weeks as they have seldom done since war days.

World wheat prices have been cut to a level indicated as the lowest since 1927. Experts contend that the domestic corn crop may be the smallest since 1881. Other crops, including many common vegetables and fruits are short. Poor pastures and lack of feed have cut milk production.

Economists asserted food prices at retail counters probably would show a gradual broad upturn but food prices could go only so high as the general ability of consumers to pay.

Mrs. Guy Roberts of Calera arrived Tuesday to be the guests of her mother for several days.

MEMBERSHIP DRIVE TO BEGIN SOON

Montgomrey, Ala., August 3. — A drive to enroll one million new members will be started August 10, by the executive committee of the Consumers Anti-Sales Tax Association of Alabama, B. C. Apperson, executive secretary, announced this week as officials completed plans for the drive.

The opening blast in the membership drive will be made by the "big gun" of the anti-sales tax group and Jeff P. Beeland, of Greenville, campaign manager of the organization, E. M. Megginson, of Mobile, and J. W. Johnson of Langsdale, vice presidents, Apperson and others plan to take "the stump" to bolster the membership well over two million members pledged against any form of a sales tax o rother additiona ltax measures.

Beeland, who has been in demand as a speaker, but who could not fill all requests for his appearance due to personal business, has made arrangements to appear in many counties of the state in the drive.

"If we are to protect our own interests against taxes that will confiscate our pay envelopes and business in Alabama, we must fight as never before," Beeland said in commenting on the membership drive.

"Almost two million consumers in the state joined in our campaign during the past session of the legislature against a sales tax which would eat up the pay envelope of thousands of low salaried workers and deprive them of the very necessities of life," he added.

Apperson is now making up a schdule of speakng engagements for officials o fthe association and has issued a statement to all civic clubs in the state that the association would furnish speakers to discuss the sales tax when possible.

Petitions have been distributed all through the state to be signed in protest against any increased taxation.

Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Ham, of Birmingham, were the week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Gerald.

Farm Mass Meeting Called For Saturday

Chilton To Cooperate With Twelve Other Counties In Alabama In Marketing Cotton

Are you a cotton farmer? If so, surely you are interested in getting the best price for your cotton. Definite and practical plans are being worked out through which Chilton County may cooperate with twelve other counties in Alabama in selling their cotton directly to mills and to national and international buyers. Since cotton is the principal money crop of the South, and since the value of this product is, to a very large extent, based on the grade and staple, we believe that you are interested in having your cotton graded by a licensed and bonded grader. By selling it in bulk a graded and stapled cotton, we should be able to get the true values of our grades and staples as well as the highest market price. We believe it to the interest of every cotton farmer to attend this meeting and hear the plan explained. Mr. W. P. Gordon of Oneonta, Ala., who is a practical farmer, and who has had much experience in grading, stapling and marketing cotton both for himself and for cooperative associations of farmers of various states, will be here to explain fully the proposed plan. Every farmer in Chilton County is urged to attend this meeting. —Sincerely, C. A. Maddox, S. A. Harel, S. Y. Dominey, L. B. Popwell, W. L. Sanders and J. E. Cobb.

FINAL MERCHANTS AWARD TO BE MADE AUGUST 22

The final award to be made by the merchants of Clanton will be on Saturday morning, August 22nd, announces Marvin W. Marcus, the promoter of the trade-building campaign.

Mr. Marcus recounts that this final award will make a total of sixteen, in which a total amount of $400 has been distributed to the people who trade in this territory.

In connection with the regular awards to be made on the closing day, there will be a lot of special inducements to the trade offered by the participating merchants. You are asked to watch next week's papers for further details of the various offerings.

17 LEGISLATORS PAID BY STATE

Montgomery, August 6.— Seventeen members of the legislature drew salaries from the state aggrgating about $2350 in July, payroll records showed today.

Leaders of the Anti-Sale Tax Assn. charged a few days ago that 31 legislators are on the payroll and threatened court a action to vacate their Senate and House seats.

The list of legislators employed by the state follows:

Rep. R. F. Hammer of Dallas, assistant general highway supervisor, Highway Department, $200 a month.

Sen. Webb Chesnut of Cherokee, assistant general highway supervisor $200.

Rep. R. L. Tolbert of DeKalb, highway inspector, $125.

Rep. J. B. Sandford of Elmore, tobacco tax agent, $125.

Rep. J. R. Wallace of Clarke, tobacco agent, $100.

Rep. S. M. Blann of Sumter and John S. O'Neal of Jackson, gasoline tax agents, $125 each.

Rep. P. C. DeVane of Chackaw and R. G. Langdon of Pickens, motor carrier agents, $125 each.

Reps. A. U. Hollis of Lamar, J. E. Hendley of Covington and J. D. L. Byares of Lawrence, tax commission employes, $150 each.

Reps. T. P. Tompkins of Russell, J. B. Reynolds of Dale and E. J. Owen of Etowah, and J. T. Heflin of Randolph, tax commission employes, $125 each

Rep. John C. Arnold of Jefferson, field man an unemproyment compenstation commission, $125.

Loss In Taxes Is Traced To TVA

Funds to be paid the State of Alababa by the Tennessee Valey Authority this year "will by no means make up for the loss in taxes on account of properties being removed by it from the tax roll," Thomas W. Martin, president of Alabama Power Co., said in a formal statement Saturday.

"The payment of $40,000 by TVA to the state and the possible payment of additional $10,000 appears to cover the amount to be paid the state for 1936, and is to be compared with approximately $2,500,000 paid by Alabama Power Co. during the past year."

Mr. Martin declared that "over 235,000 acres are being acquired by TVA in various counties in North Alabama in connection with its dams being built for power development,' adding that "because the constitutional excuse for TVA developing power is navagation, the lands will automatically be removed from the tax roll."

"School funds will sustain the largest losses," he said.

THE BLUE MOON INN NOW OPERATING SOME BUT NOT COMPLETED

Mr. John Thomas, who for the past several weeks has been building a nice dance hall and other apputernances up just above Verbena, was in Clanton Monday morning, and says that the dance hall is now operating two nights a week. The place is not completed, but it is rapidly approaching completion. It is known as The Blue Moon Inn.

Mr. John Thomas is a relative of the Thomases who live in that vicinity, his father having died not so long ago. For 25 years Mr. Thomas has been up in New York state, and has spent some time in California. He plans to stay with his business down there permanently.

Jeffersonian Dems Say New Deal Red

Censure Roosevelt For Acts Tending To Communism, Against Platform

Detroit, August 9.—Charging that the New Deal is a "blend of Communism and Socialism," the conference of Jeffersonian Democrats from 22 states Saturday appealed to "genuine Democrats to unite in a nation-wide campaign to defeat President Roosevelt for re-election.

The appeal was contained in a declaration of principles adopted by the tnai-New Deal Democrats, many of whom have played important roles in the affairs of the party and nation.

The 50 conferees from the 22 states today brought their two-day conclave to a close in the Book-Cadillac Hotel with these developments:

1.—They adopted the set of principles in which they declared that President Roosevelt is destroying the traditional Democratic party and that his practices indicate "a pervision of heart and spirit which can neither be remedied nor condoned."

2.—They decided to form a permanent organization, with former United States Senator, James A. Reed, of Missouri, as chairman, which will organize the Democrats in the nation and the states for a concerted campaign against Roosevelt.

3.—They decided to permit each state organization to be free to pursue any policy best calculated to defeat the New Deal even if this includes public endorsement of the Republican ticket—Governor Landon and Col. Knox.

In the declaration of principles, the constitutional Democrats refrained from public specific endorsement of Governor Landon, but individual declarations of support for him were made by more than a majority of the conferees.

These indorsements of Landon included former Governor Ely, of Massachusetts, Col. Henry Breckinridge, of New York, chairman, John Henry Kirby, of the southern committee to defend the constitution, and Dean Gleason L. Archer, of the Suffolk Law School of Boston. Attorney Robert S. Bright, of Frederick, Md., for 43 years an active Democrat, announced today that he had sent a contribution of $500 to Governor Landon's campaign and would work for him actively.

ONE FINED IN CITY COURT

Mayor Jones reported only one case on his docket last Monday morning. This was for fighting. Mayor Jones, after hearing all evidence, assessed a fine of $1 and costs of $5 in this case.

DO YOU BELIEVE YOUR EYES?

It has been a saying—"seeing is believing." But Mr. Jim Bell, of Murray-Bell Hardware Co., has built a contraption at his store that almost causes one to lose confidence in that good eyesight he has been bragging about.

This outfit consists of a wooden stick into the end of which a regular straight pin is stuck. In each side of the wood strip a pocket knife is inserted, and the whole outfit rests on the tip end of a needle, which stands in a vertical position, the point of contact being the side of the pin and the tip of the needle.

Furthermore, the whole thing goes round and round, flying jenny fashion. At first sight, one puzzels over what makes the thing go around, and after this wears off he begins to wonder how it can be so nicely balanced that in doesn't fall off the tip of the needle.

Mr. Bell has put on some novel displays at his store—in fact he is forever coming out with something about like this. But we believe this one is the best he has ever put up.

Call around by Murray-Bell's store and see if you are smart enough to figure out the problem. Its a good one.

LARGEST ARROWHEAD

The largest Indian arrowhead to be exhibited lately was brought to the Union-Banner last Monday morning by a young man, J. T. Rushing, of East View Comminuty.

The arrowhead, apparently made of a fine grade of bluish white flint, measures four and 1-8 inches, and the tips of the shoulders are exactly three inches from point to point.

The young man said that he found it just above the foot of a hill on their farm four miles east of Coopers.

YOUNG WOMAN KILLED BY TRAIN AT WESSINGTON WEDNESDAY A.M.

Miss Vera Mae Davis Rutherford, age 30 years, was killed by a northbound freight train about daylight Wednesday morning at the crossing at Wessington north of Jemison. Martin was called and brought the body here and prepared it for burial. The funeral was held at Oak Grove Wednesday afternoon, Martin in charge.

She was the daughter of W. T. Davis, of Jemison Route 1. Besides being survived by her parents, she leaves three small children, who live in homes near Clanton. Their ages are 12, 9 and 4. There are three brothers, Richard Henry, Robert Leo, and William Thomas, Jr. There is one sister, Mrs. Viva Lee Corey.

It is thought that probably the young woman was on her way to Clanton to see her children when she met death, as she had some clothing and shoes with her.

EIGHT ARRESTS BY SHERIFF

Sheriff Hardy reported eight arrests by county officers, toge her with state highway patrolmen during the past week. These, with their disposition, are as follows:

One for burglary. In jail

One for assault and battery. Bond for $300.

One for violating the prohibition law.

Two for reckless driving. Both released on justice court on payment of fine and costs.

Miss Lola Traywick is reported to be seriously ill at the home of Mrs. Campbell in North Clanton.

OSCAR B. POPWELL HERE

A pleasant caller on the Union-Banner Monday was Mr. Oscar B. Popwell, from Bernice, Lousisana. Mr. Popwell was here on a visit two years ago. He is a brother of Ed and Howard Popwell, a son of John Popwell, who died in 1902. Oscar Popwell has a daughter, Miss Fay Popwell, who has been working here in the Elmore store for some time.

Mr. Papwell has been away from Chilton county for several years. Although he has been in Bernice for only five years, he stayed in Birmingham and other places several years after leaving his home county.

MEETING IS HELD HERE IN THE INTEREST OF RAISING TOMATOES

About twenty business men and farmers of this vicinity met at the city hall Monday night and heard discussions about the raising of tomatoes for shipment and saw stereopticon slides on the subject. Three prominent L. & N. railroad men were here and discussed the raising of tomatoes with the local men. The visitors were: Mr. J. C. Willis, of Birmingham, division freight agent; Mr. E. J. Smith, of Birmingham, train master; Mr. J. C. Hayden, of Athens, agricultural agent.

These gentlemen pointed out that in Gibson County, Tennessee, last year over a million dollars worth of tomatoes were shipped, there being about 1,800 cars from that one county. That section of Tennessee also ships cucumbers, cabbgae, sweet potatoes, besides their cotton and corn. They have something to sell every month of the year, most of which is shipped.

A significant fact abuot it all is that Chilton County has a much better soil fo rthi skind of farming, and the climatic conditions are usually better. An effort is going to be made to interest Chilton County farmers to raise tomatoes for shipment.

MAGUIRE ACCEPTS FLORALA CHURCH

Baptist Convention Executive For Nine Years Resigns To Return To Pulpit

The Rev. John Maguire has resigned as associate director of the department of education and training of the Baptist State convention to accept the pastorate of the church at Florala, it was announced yesterday by Dr. F. M. Barnes, secretary-treasurer of the executive board. The resignation will become effective on Aug. 15, the date marking the ninth anniversary of Mr. Maguire's connection with the organized Sunday School work in the state.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Maguire are widely known among Baptists of Alabama for their activities in organizing and promoting Sunday schools and with young people's work. Mr. Maguire came to Montgomery nine years ago from St. Jo, Texas. He is a graduate of Howard Payne College in Texas.

WHY IT HAS NOT HAPPENED TO US

[AN EDITORIAL]

In discussing the recent poll by the American Institute of Public Opinion, showing that forty-five per cent of the American people believe Roosevelt and his New Deal policies are tending toward a dictatorship for this country, the Birmingham Age-Herald carries an editorial entitled, "It Hasn't Happened Here."

In its weak apology for Roosevelt's patent dictatorial tendencies, the Age-Herald gives us assurance of freedom from a dictatorship at this time in the following language:

"Thirdly, we know that the three branches of the federal government are still functioning. When the Supreme Court has felt that the President of the Congress has usurped power, it has unhesitatingly stepped in to protect the state or the people. There need be no fear of dictatorship so long as we have the present Supreme Court."

If down-right knavery is not to be imputed to the Age-Herald in the statement, "there need be no fear of a dictatorship so long as we have the PRESENT Supreme Court," then there is an unsurmountable and inevitable inference to be drawn from the statement—that if we did not have the present Supreme Court, there would be real danger of a dictatorship. If this is true, then the reason and logic of the Age-Herald does great credit to the intelligence and foresight of the forty-five per cent of Americans who believe the Roosevelt tendency is toward a dictatorship, and does little credit to those in the same crowd who are yet unable to see the danger signal.

If the present Supreme Court is our protection from a Rooseveltian New Deal dictatorship, ordinary intelligence and prudence would suggest that we look into the prospect of whether the present Supreme Court will likely last through another term of Roosevelt's authority and power to name Supreme Court Justices when vacancies occur.

The average age of the present Supreme Court Justices is more than seventy years. One is eighty, and three more are well into their seventies. Who doubts that if Roosevelt is reelected, he will get the chance and exercise the opportunity of naming the successors in the Supreme Court to several of the present judges? And who doubts that he will select brain trusters of the type of the Frankfurters, Tugwells, Cohens and others who have been assisting Mr. Roosevelt to lead us thus far toward a dictatorship?

A president who has in a high-handed, ruthless manner, converted Congress into his rubber-stamp plaything supinely placing its approval on all brain trust concoctions in the way of "must" legislation and completely abdicating to him the constitutional functions of Congress,—such a president is not going to fail to use the opportunity, if it comes, to pack the Supreme Court with his yes-men, and thereby convert his highest tribunal and only safe guard of our liberties into another rubber-stamp, willing to place its approval on President Roosevelt's plans for dictatorial powers.

When Roosevelt's contemptuous, slurring remarks about the Supreme Court are remembered, and when it is considered that he keeps in his cabinet a man like Wallace, who is capable of speaking of the Court and the Constitution as Wallace has, and when the Age-Herald virtually admits that all that remains between the people and a dictatorship is the present Supreme Court, is there anything strange in the result of the poll of the American Institute of Public Opinion showing that forty-five per cent of the people now believe that Roosevelt has the country headed for a dictatorship?

Is it at all strange that the belief of a dictatorship is impending in this country under Roosevelt shows up much stronger in the sections of the country where the highest educational advantages are enjoyed by the largest number of people and the highest degree of intelligence and achievement prevails, while th highest percentages who do not believe that a dictatorship is impending are down in the deep South, where illiteracy, pre-

LANDON AGREES TO TALK DROUTH WITH PRESIDENT

High Spot Of Campaign May Occur At The Meeting Of The Mid-West Governors

Topeka, Kansas, August 8.—A meeting of President Roosevelt and Gov. Alf M. Landon in Iowa early next month promised today to provide a high spot in the presidential campaign despite the desire of both candidates to emphasize drouth relief rather than politics.

Friends of the Republican nominee believed at first glance that the proposed conference of western governors with the president could not escape being viewed, indirectly at least, in the light of political affairs because it unavoidably will put the two candidates on the same national stage.

Landon himself will make every effort to keep politics out of the conference, just as President Roosevelt insisted that campaign considerations must not enter into his tour of the drouth area.

Will Be Ready

But the views of the two men on the vital national problem confronting the conferences have been emphasized in recent weeks and will necessarily form the background of interest in their meeting.

Associates of the governor pointed out that he will go to the meeting as the chief executive of Kansas concerned with "anything of benefit to Kansas."

In addition, he will have completed his first campaign tour of the eastern states, which will include scores of five-minute stops throughout a wide farm belt area and will have made three major addresses to better acquaint the nation with his views on national problems.

Expects To Attend

"If there is any meeting anywhere at any time of any benefit to the State of Kansas, I will attend as Governor," was Landon's comment on news dispatches telling of the President's proposed conference. "Kansas has cooperated in every instance with the Federal government and all of its agencies dealing with any emergency or relief measures."

Although his comment on the conference plan left him the right to decide whether his attendance would be of benefit to Kansas, it was obvious that he expected to be present.

J. TOY WILLIAMS HERE

Dr. J. Toy Williams, returned Missionary from China, was in Clanton the first of this week to visit his mother, and other relatives and friends in Chilton County. Mr. Ernest Williams, of Decatur was also here to see his mother and brother, Mr. T. L. Williams.

Dr. J. Toy Williams reached Seattle, Washington, from Shanghia, several days ago. From here he will go to Ridgecrest, N. C., where his wife has been for some time. In a few days they will be back in Clanton on their way to Texas, where they expect to spend several months. The Williamses will remain in this country about a year before going back to their missionary work in the Orient.

Spanish War Vets To Meet At Mims Pond

The Spanish-American war veterans of Chilton county will hold an all-day picnic at Mims pond the 4th Sunday in August, the 23rd. The program will consist of spsaking and other interesting features. The State Commander will be present, and several camps will be represented.

All Spanish war veterans of Chilton county are urged to attend; the ladies auxiliary members of the county are asked to bring baskets well filled with good eatables. This is expected to be a great day. —Jeff Best, Adjutant.

VISITED FOLKS IN BIRMINGHAM

Mr. R. A. McBride, the old-time railroad man, recently visited his children and grand children in Birmingham. He has been working as a telegraph operator for 46 years, beginning his career with the L.&N. at Graces station on July 31, 1890. During his life ime Mr. McBride has been a barber, justice of the peace, and in fact most everything one can mention—he has done a little of it. Any way, Mr. McBride says that he likes Clanton and its people.

SPIGENER FUNERAL HOME TO IMPROVE QUARTERS

Mr. Sam Cope, local representative of the Spigener Funeral Home, informs us that his company has purchased from Mrs. Walter Poole the old Jim Middleton house and lot, near the grammer school, on the Mapesville highway. This is the building in which the Spigener Funeral Home has been located for some time.

The Spigener company intends to completely renew the building in the near future, making of it a modern, up-to-date location for the work in which they are interested.

Spigener Funeral Home hae been in Clanton for sometime, and has built for itself a reputation for efficient service in its line of work.

ELLISON TO PREACH AT MT. PLEASANT SEPT. 6

Rev. F. A. Ellison asks The Union-Banner to announce that he will preach at Mt. Pleasant schoolhouse on Sunday morning, September 6th, at 11:00 o'clock. The public is cordially invited to attend.

1936 Relief Rolls Show Increase

Federal Figures Show Steady Growth During The Past Year

Washington, August 8.—A report indicating that more needy unemployed were receiving help from the Federal, State and local governments in March this year htan in March, 1935, were made public today by the Works Progress Administration.

The WPA estimated that 1,930,000 families and single persons—in addition to the 3,751,000 who had federal work relief jobs las tMarch—were on direct relief in that month. The combined total is 5,681,000 cases, while previous FERA reports showed 5,463,690 received relief of some kind in March, 1935.

The nearly 2,000,000 families and single persons on direct relief were largely being handled by states and local communities this year, whereas a year ago they were under the FERA program.

Today's WPA report said employment by all work relief agencies declined to 3,303,559 on June 27, 1936, figure including 2,255,898 WPA jobs.

WPA officials declined to amplify the report, except to say that the 3,751,000 employed on work relief projects last March included many who had not actually been on relief. The report said 15 per cent of works program employes on June 27 were not from relief sources.

Officials said they had only estimates of the direct relief rolls in many states and communities last December.

The report estimated direct relief cases declined from 2,150,000 in January this year to 1,930,000 in March, adding:

"Families and single persons receiving general relief represented more than 15 per cent of the population of the United States in the first three months of 1935. On the basis of recent estimates, this ratio decreased to 5.6 per cent for January 1936, and to five per cent for March.

"The large decrease during the year was caused chiefly by transfers to the works program, the majority of which took place in November and December, 1935. The slight decline from January to March, 1936, may be attributed in part to the works program and private employment, and also to the decline of funds available for general relief and to the increase in the number of persons receiving benefits under the Social Security Act."

A table showing the percentage of relief labor employed by different agencies drew attention in view of President Roosevelt's present insistence that PWA projects use more workers from relief rolls.

On June 27, the table said, 70.4 per cent of the workers on PWA projects, and 55 per cent of those on PWA low cost housing developments, were not from relief lists. About 95 per cent of the 2,255,898 WPA workers, however, were listed as formerly on relief.

PROMINENT VISITORS WERE IN CLANTON FROM CHICAGO

Mr. and Mrs. M. Lande had as their guests week before last, Dr. M. L. Beckler, Dr. George Craft, and Miss Mae Lande, of Chicago, Ill. The party spent the week end at Orange Beach and were accompanied by Buddy Thompson, Misses Edith, Ruth and Pearl Hand. They returnde to Clanton via Pensacola and Mobile. Dr. Beckler and Dr. Craft were very much impressed with Clanton and especially the Central Alabama Hospital, which they said was a credit to any small town. Dr. Craft, Dr. Beckler and Miss Lande left last Saturday for Chicago.

First New Bale Sold Here Last Tuesday

The first bale of cotton, 1936 crop, from Chilton county, came into Clanton Tuesday morning from the farm of O. C. Rushing on Verbena Rt. 1. It was ginned by Mr. J. N. Dennis. The bale was bought in by Mr. John McSwean, manager of the Chilton County Exchange, for Farm Bureau.

The bale weighed in the seed 1,150 pounds; after ginning the bale weighed 403 pounds. The price paid by Mr. McSwean was 12.75, which was about a cent higher than the regular price.

The first bale last year came into Clanton on August 14, by W. H. Carroll and was ginned by Mullins and Popwell. The first bale in the county last year was ginned by DeRamus at Verbena, and sold for 15c a pound.

VACATING IN FLORIDA ALL THIS WEEK

A group of Clanton people are vacationing in Florida this week, including Mr. and Mrs. Herschel Gore, Mrs. Jewel Goodman, Mrs. Alpha Wyatt, Miss Ethel Cagle, and Miss Bessie Gilmore. They are at Tower Beach, or Fort Walton, near Pensacola.

Several people from Clanton have visited this vacation spot in our neighboring state to the south this summer, and all say that it is a mighty fine place to while the time away.

"POLIO" EPIDEMIC ON WANE

According to reports from over Alabama, the widespread epidemic of poliamyelitis, or "polio", infantinle paralysis, as it is most commonly known, is definitely on the wane.

Added to this cheering news comes the report from Dr. J. M. Kimmey, head of the Chilton County Health Department, that no new cases have shown up in Chilton County, and no new ones were reported for the whole state during the past week end.

The one case so far reported in this county, that of J. C. Jones, 18-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Barak Jones of New Cedron communiy, resulted in death.

In discussing the situation with a representative of The Union-Banner, Dr. Kimmey stated that the people of Chilton County have shown a fine spirit with health authorities in helping to keep dows the threat of an epidemic in the county. Hundreds of people have taken the treatment at his office, while between 1,000 and 1,500 atomizers and supplies of the spray have been sold, where people preferred to do their own spraying. Further, people have cooperated wonderfully with the request that children be kept out of crowds.

So great has been the added work in Dr. Kimmey's department that a call for help was issued. The WPA responded by sending a registered nurse, Annie Lee Robinson of Birmingham, to help with the treatment, and Maudie Durbin to help with the clerical work connected with the rush.

Regarding the spray, itself, and the rumors that have gone around about it, Dr. Kimmey had the following to say:

"I have heard that it has been reported that the spray will injure the olfactory nerve, causing permanent injury to the sense of smell of those taking the treatment, but so far I have had no such instance brought to my attention. It is recommended by the U. S. Health Service as the only known aid in helping to fight the disease, and comes from them with the assurance that it is harmless.

"The spray that is being used was perfected by the U. S. Health Service. Groups of monkeys were used to test the product after it had been perfected. In the noses of one group of monkeys the spray was used; in the other group no spray was used. Then both groups were subjected to washings from known cases of "polio". The result was that none of those treated with the spray took the disease, while 90 per cent of those not sprayed died with it. Microscopic examination of mucus from the noses of those sprayed failed to disclose any trace of germs of the disease. And in no case was there notice of any harm to the olfactory nerve.

"With this knowledge and assurance the national health service sent out the spray for human use, believing the results would be the same on people. It is true that it was not given out as a 'sure' preventive agent, but was more of a trial, although, as said before, tests on monkeys had already proved highly satisfactory.

"However, we are proud to be able to report that not one single person who has been sprayed has contracted the disease. While this is not positive proof that the spray is a sure preventative, yet it seems to be getting the desired results—and results count."

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by J. W. Fant, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County

STATE FAIR WILL HAVE A BIG POULTRY SHOW

Birmingham, Ala.—The poultry show at the Alabama State Fair this year will be much larger than last year according to P. T. Strieder, Secretary-Manager of the fair.

Last year the Fair had some 2500 birds on display in the poultry show but this year will be seen an even greater number of entries with over 3,500 birds already in sight for this year's showing.

The fair will be held at the State Fair Grounds, Birmingham, Alabama, for six days and six nights from Sept. 28th to Oct. 3rd, and promises to be bigger and better in every way than the big fair last year.

Mr. R. Quinn will again be Superintendent in charge of the poultry show, with Mr. Fred W. Otis, Secretary of the Madison Square Garden Show acting as judge.

Two new features to be introduced at this year's fair will be the Live Stock Show and the Flower Show.

The new Flower Show building occupying a space of 50 feet by 180 feet, will lend itself to an unusually large display of plants and flowers and the show inside the new building will be augmented by a beautification of the grounds forming the approach to and surrounding the building.

GAME AND FISH NEWS

Montgomery, Ala.,—It is expected that within the next few rays definite information will be received from the proper authorities in Washington, giving the open seasons and bag limits on all migratory birds, according to Commissioner I. T. Quinn, of the State Department of Conservation.

"There seems to be some misunderstanding on the part of some in reference to the fixing of the open season on migratory birds," declared Mr. Quinn.

"The State Conservation Board," said Mr. Quinn, " is authorized and required by law to fix the open seasons and bag limits on all resident game birds (non-migratory) and game and fur bearing animals. Under the Migratory Bird Treaty Act based on the treaty between the United States and Canada, the Bureau of Biological Survey of the United States Department of Agriculture recommends to the Secretary of Agriculture the open season on all migratory birds, including upland and shore birds and waterfowl.

HOG PRICES EXPECTED DECLINE, SAYS BUREAU

Auburn, Ala.—Hog prices probably will decline during the fall months because more hogs are expected to be put on the market during the fall months, reports the Bureau of Agricultural Economics. A small crop this year probably will lead to some liquidation of sows and spring pigs in the next few months.

AAA PAYMENTS OPEN FOR PUBLIC INSPECTION

Auburn, Ala. —Payments to cotton producers, the base acreages of individual producers, productivity indices and the county association expreses under the Agricultural Adjustment Administration will be made availadle for public inspection either at the Agricultural Adjustment Administration in Washington or in the offices of the county agricultural conservation associations.

Rural electrification is going forward at a steady pace in Talladega County.

Each day for the past 8 months Dale County farmers have received an average of $1,101.39 for hogs sold cooperatively.

A puse-bred 4-H pig project has been inaugurated in Butler County and a truck load of pigs shipped in from Tenessee.

Henry County is producing more hogs for market this year than at any time since 1930.

An attractive new recreation building fo rcounty-wide camps, rallies, and picnics has been completed and dedicated in Coosa County. It is located on a 10-acre park which was purchased by the County.

Cleburne County farm women are using towsacks and shellac in making picture frames.

Bibb County farmers have recently bought a fine jack and several pure-bred mares from outside the County in an effort to increase mule production in that county.

ARMY WORMS STRIKE STATE COTTON CROP

Auburn, Ala. — Cotton leaf worm commonly known through the State as the army worm) has already made its appearence in Alabama and threatens to do considerable damage to young cotton advises Prof. J. M. Robinson, head of the zoology-entomology department of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

First reports of the cotton pest came from Calhoun and Greene Counties. Specimens of the insect have been definitely identified as the cotton leaf worm.

"The cotton pest can be controlled by dusting the cotton with calcium arsenate," says Prof. Robinson.

Dusting should be done when they appear in large numbers on cotton with immaturn bolls. The dust may be applied undiluted with dust gun at the rate of 5to6 pounds per acre or it may be shaken from cloth bags at ends of poles. If bags are used each pound of calcium arsenate should be mixed with 9 pounds of hydrated lime to prevent loss of large quantities of arsenicial. An application made with dust gun is cheaper and more effective than one made by poles and bag."

Cotton farmers may expect serious damage if the worm becoms numerous before the bolls mature.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Taylor (Louella McDowell) are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Ed Giles this week, out on Maplesville road. Mrs. Giles reports that they are having a fine time; she also adds that the road is being paved right along near their place.

PREACHING AT HOME OF UNCLE BILLY ADAMS SUNDAY

Rev. A. L. Durbin will preach at the home of Uncle Billy Adams Sunday afternoon, August 16. Everybody come. The service last Sunday was real good, and enjoyed by a large crowd. Rev. Hughes did the preaching.

"Where is John?" That was the inquiry made recently concerning a man who was working in a department store in Philadelphia. "He has been promoted, he is in the basement," was the prompt reply of the clerk. What an illustration for Christians! A Christian is promoted by going down. "He that humbleth himself shall be exalted." That is not the language of the world. It is the teaching of our Lord. "Make something out of yourself." We hear that often. The New Testament teaches us to crucify self; and exalt Christ. The writer tells thestudents of Bob Jones College that the cause is everything. If the cause "goes over", then the man in the line with the cause "goes over". If Christ wins, (and he will win), then the Christians win. If we suffer with Him, then we shall reign with Him. "When He shall appear then we shall appear with Him." We exalt Him when we humble ourselves. His exaltation lifts up those who have humbled themselves in His presence; so remember the way up for Christians is down.

The most important things in life often receive least attention. Young people are now planning to go to College. Fathers and mothers pack up their sons and daughters and send them off to school. Many of them never stop to think that a student's entire future life depends upon the contacts he makes off at college. The friends you young people will have as long as you live, you will make in college this year. It does not matter where you go to college as far as the academic subjects are concerned. In this particular all colleges are alike. One college may excel in one subject and another college may excel in another, so the academic part of your education is not the big thing. Do you young people know anything about the teachers that are going to teach you? Paul went to school to Gamaliel. He never mentioned the institution. Gamaliel was his university. What kind of young people will you have for your associates? Do they smoke and drink; make fun of Christianity? Will your college mates be reverant and serious? Will they be Christian? These are the important things; not buildings and laboratories, and historical colleges. Remember, your entire future will depend largely upon the contacts you make off at college this year. May the Spirit of God guide you in the choice of an educational institution.

LEGUMES INCREASE CORN AND COTTON

Alabama Experiment Station shows that winter legumes increased both corn and cotton yields.

In an 11-year expriment the average annual production of corn following winter legumes has been 34.2 bushels per acre compared with only 7.7 bushels with no legumes, reports Dean M. J. Funchess, director of the Alabama Experiment Station.

For the same period the average production of cotton has been 1433 pounds of seed cotton following legumes compared with 432 pounds on adjoining plots without legumes.

In a 2-year rotation on the Sand Mountain and the Tennessee Valley Substation the turning under of vetch ahead of corn has increased the corn yield 23.7 bushles per acre. It alco increased the seed cotton yield the following year 248 pounds, reports J. W. Tidmore, head of the department of agronomy and soil. This means that the vetch, which cost $2.00 per acre for seed, produces $33.66 worth of cotton and corn.

Winter legumes—Austrian winter peas, hairy vetch, and crimson clover should be planted the last half of September and the first half of October. However, now is a good time for farmers to make arrangements for their planting seed, inoculation, and fertilizer.

Indications point to heavy planting by Alabama farmers this fall.

MARKETING TOMATOES

Messrs. J. N. Dennis, L. E. Diefenderfer, John Deramus and Royal Roper went to western Tennessee during the tomato harvesting season and observed the production and marketing of tomatoes. These men were very favorably impressed with the tomato industry in Tennessee and believe that if developed in this county it will mean as much or more to the farmers than the strawberry crop.

SOIL SERVICE GROWING TREES SHRUBS AND VINES

Auburn, Ala.— In an effort to meet the demands during the next planting season, the soil conservation service is growing about 47,000,000 trees, shrubs, and vinesin nuseries at Atmore and Dadeville reports Samuel R. Morgan, Jr., soil conservation forester in Alabama.

In addition to those being produced in Alabama, approximately 118,000-000, seedlings are being grown in nurseries in South Carolina, Georgia and Mississippi.

PETROLEUM TAX NEWS

According to a statement issued on August 1st by Mr. A. Sentnell, Chairman of the Jackson County Petroleum Industries Committee at Scottsboro, Alabama, motor vehicle operators and owners in Jackson County on that date began saving 3 cents per gallon on their gasoline purchases as a result of the Jackson County 3 cents per gallon tax being removed by the County Board of Commissioners. The tax was taken off for a period of three months in order to see how it affected business. It will mean a saving of better than $35,000.00 per year to the motor vehicle owners of Jackson County, and will permit them to pay other bills and buy other merchandise from the merchants of Jackson County, Mr. Sentnel said.

He further stated that the gasoline dealers and members of the Jackson County Petroleum Industries Committee are feeling in high spirits because they see the business which has been driven out of the County because of this tax coming back to them since the tax reduction has brought about a corresponding decrease in price and places them on an even basis with the surrounding sales territory. They expect their business to increase anywhere from twenty-five to thirty percent as a direct result of the removal of this tax.

If the tax is finally removed permanently, it is expected also that automobile and truck sales of the automobile dealers in the county will also increase greatly, Mr. Sentnell said, because, at the present time in Jackson County there is only one motor vehicle to every 21.1 persons while in the State of Alabama as a whole, there is a motor vehicle to every 10.9 persons. Thus Jackson County has just slightly more than half as many motor vehicles per population as does the State as a whole, he said.

It is further pointed out by Mr. Sentell that there are 178 gallons less per motor vehicle sold in Jackson County than there are in the State as a whole.

From the Romantic

GULF of MEXICO

to TURUKHANSK, Siberia

(as the crow flies)

FROM reading the newspapers you'd think that rural electrification is something brand-new. Yet, if you were to take the rural lines built by this Company since it pioneered rural electrification away back in 1923 and place them in a straight line, they would reach from Mobile, Ala., across Mt. McKinley, Alaska, and into the Bering Sea.

And then, if you'd extend the line to include the 3,000 miles of rural electric lines included in our present construction program, you'd find yourself ending up in the vicinity of Turukhansk on the Yenisei River in Siberia.

Or, if you don't like the direction we suggest, try extending our rural electric lines southwestward from Mobile and you'd be near Cuyaba, Brazil, when you came to the end of the line. Perhaps you'd prefer extending the lines eastward across the Atlantic Ocean and North Africa. If so, you'd find yourself near Tripoli on the Mediterranean Sea when you finished.

So you see thousands of Alabama farmers have been enjoying electric service for years, long before "rural electrification" became a political catch phrase. Rural electrification is nothing new with us. We went through the "experimentation" period years ago. When our present construction program is completed, we will have built 6,100 miles of rural lines! And by that time we'll probably be extending them further.

LAY DAM TO PLAY STOCKHAM TEAM SUNDAY AFTERNOON

The Lay Dam baseball team is scheduled to play the strong Stockham team of the Birmingham City League on the field at Lay Dam next Sunday afternoon.

Lay Dam has one of the best amateur teams in Central Alabama, while Stockham in one of the leading city league teams in Birmingham district. The Lay Dam club will find in Stockham a worthy opponent, and will be in there fighting from the first for a victory.

As usual the game will get under way at 3:00 p. m. A number of local fans have been attending the games at Lay Dam this summer, and Lay Dam officials especially invite these back for Sunday's game, as it is expected to be one of the best of the season

MARVIN MARTIN REPLIES TO J. A. HEADLEY LETTER

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me space to reply to Mr. J. A. Headley's letter in the August 6 issue of The Union-Banner.

If Mr. Headley will read his piece in the July 23 issue of The Union-Banner I am sure that he will see that he accused the old people of pulling for the Townsend $200.00 a month plan. Now, if this is not true, I apologize. If it is true, I don't think I need to apologize, but the apology should go the other way. I wish to say that if there is anything in this world I detest, it is a liar. Naturally, I don't like to be accused of dodging the truth, when I have spoken only the truth so far as I know, and will continue as long as I speak anything.

Now, the first thing I would like to know is who wrote, or helped to write the letters you have been sending to The Union-Banner? They sound as if the same one wrote both of them. So if you had any help in writing them, please tell us who he, or she, was. As for mine, I write them myself.

So much for that. Now with a few serious thoughts. You have spoken of the billions of dollars that Mr. Hoover spent that did not do the poor people any good. Have you forgotten that we had a Democratic Congress during his administration and they blocked almost every move he made. On the other hand, Mr. Roosevelt has had everything handed to him. He has had more power than any other man in the history of the United States. The billions spent during the Hoover administation would not pay the extra white-collar men of today.

Now this relief you are so proud of. On May 7th, figures show that the relief workers in New York State were paid $75.00 per month. As you know, the ones on relief in Alabama were paid only $19.00 per month. Now I ask you if that was fair, and why was it done? The reason for it is plain. It was relief in the South and vote buying in the North, and this vote buying is costing you, and everyone, for this national debt has to be paid and the amount per capita is approximately $300.00. Now for you and your family of six it would cost you $2,100.00. Now are you any better off? When this is paid, I am sure that it would take more of your land than the hospital bill did.

So, Mr. Martin, I would take another look at that wagon you heard blowing. It might be Mr. Roosevelt's tax collector in the wagon coming after your other 96 acres.—Marvin Martin.

REFUGE NEWS

CLANTON, ALABAMA

UNIVERSITY NEWS

University, Ala.—Alabama reaps annually in dollars and cents from her so-called "extractive" industries approximately 275 millions of dollars according to the estimates of Dr. Stewart J. Lloyd, Dean of the School of Chemistry, Metallurgy, and ceramics in the University of Alabama. Professor Lloyd classifies as "extractive" industries the element operations by which are extracted those fundamental things from earth and sea and air without further treatment or processing to supply the essential substances of our material wants.

Agriculture provides for 175 millions of the state's income; mining and quarrying, 50 millions; the forest industry 30 millions; hydroelectric power 20 millions; fisheries half a million; while mariculutre chemicals and air reduction provide nothing.

Cotton and cotton seed, Dr. Lloyd estimates, provides 100 millions and corn between 30 and 40 millions of dollars. Sweet potatoes, peanuts, Irish potatoes, dairy products, livestock and poultry, and fruits and vegetables provide the remainder of the 175 millions of dollars.

LAY DAM WINS 2; LOSES 2

The Lay Dam baseball team didn't fare so well during the past week end as it has been doing for the most of the season. During the last week the Killowatts won two and lost two for a week's even break.

Last Wednesday afternoon this team came to Clanton and defeated J. E. Easterling's Clanton team 15 to 5. Clanton has not had a regular team all season, picking up a team now and then in order to give local fans a game.

On Thursday afternoon the Killowatts went to Siluria and lost to the Buck Creek team in a good close game, 6 to 4. Many Clanton people went with the Lay Dam team, and reported a good game.

Saturday afternoon Lay Dam went to Tallassee and defeated that team 7 to 4, the game going 14 innings. Local fans attending this game reported it one of the best games they have seen this season, with many sparkling plays by both clubs.

The surprise game of this week, however, was on Sunday, when a team from Montevallo made up of players from here and there and everywhere, came down to Lay Dam and defeated the Killowatts 9 t o7. Suffering from a let-down after the strenuous game of Saturday, and also a little overconfident of this Sunday game, the Killowatts spotted Montevallo 2 runs in the first. Lay Dam gave Golson a 6 to 2 lead in the third, and Foshee took up the hurling burden, managing to let the visitors ahead of him 9 to 7 before he was removed for Warren to start the 8th. Warren held Montevallo in check, but the Killowatts had waited too long; they couldn't get to Kendrick, and lost what had been considered a set-up.

In only one inning, the 3rd, of this Sunday game did the Killowatts look like their regular slugging selves. For the rest of the time they played a listless game, lacking their usual pep and snap and punch.

ROBINSON SPRINGS

We, the people of Robinson Springs wish to say that we sure did have a good revival and we had nice crowds. We appreciate all the cooperation of all the other churches who vistied us. We received twelve members. There will be baptising Saturday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock down at the creek below the church.

There will be an all day singing at this place Sunday. The old-time singing in the Harp and Harmony books. Everyone is invited to come and bring a well filled basket.

Brother Dewey Robinson helped run the revival. We sure did appreciate his help.—Reporter.

Making a Hobby of One Kind of Picture Subject

Many amateurs make hobbies of finding subjects with which to typify a single idea, phase of life or activity. Here are two pictures from an amusing collection picturing "Innocuous Desuetude."

WEALTHY art collectors often indulge their fancy by specializing in one kind of picture subject, such as landscapes, marine views, genre sketches or portraits, and assembling the pictures in a separate exhibit.

As an amateur photographer you do not have to be wealthy to enjoy a similar hobby. With your camera you, too, can make a specialty of one kind of subject and derive even more pleasure than does the art collector, because you have made the pictures yourself.

Choices for a one-subject photographic collection are endless. There are all sorts of appealing individual objects, types of which may be selected; there are the different activities and phases of life, the various phenomena of nature, and the characteristics of human nature, all of which may be portrayed in interesting pictures, if you will cultivate a discerning eye for them, and have your camera with you when you go places.

We know a clever amateur who chose as his subject WIND—big winds, hurricanes, cyclones, blizzards, breezes and zephyrs. He was so enthusiastic that he would hardly take his camera out if the wind were not blowing. His pictures consist of things in movement under the impetus of wind, or the results thereof—trees bending under the force of a storm, pretty girls with tresses and garments fluttering in the breeze, white caps at sea, windblown snow drifts, whirling chimney smoke, wind-whipped flags and bunting, and the havoc wrought by wind.

Another has specialized in faces of cows and produced a collection of cow portraits wonderful to behold. It is surprising how much amusing variety there is in the expressions of cows, especially those taken when the cow is alarmed. All who see this collection laugh.

"Innocuous Desuetude" is the subject of another collection, being "off-guard" snapshots of human beings in all sorts of attitudes of repose, and chuck-full of human interest—bench warmers in the park, tramps, dozing fishermen, water-front loafers, and gossipers on the steps of the country store.

Still another, a circus fan, specializes on circus pictures, inside of the big tent and out. No one can see his snapshot collection of sideshow freaks, clowns, barkers, elephants and gaping spectators without immediately yearning for peanuts and pink lemonade.

Picture hobbies of others are fires, lightning, waterfalls, yachts, railroad locomotives, and so forth.

Pick your subject and try it. There's a world of fun and adventure in it, and a great chance to use your artistic talent in the photography.

Take advantage of the good season we have in the ground and plant a fall garden. Be wise, make your living at home

Legume Seeds

We will have a car of peas and vetch to arrive within a few days and are now booking orders at a guaranteed price. The price we have now is the lowest price we have ever sold legume seed for. Come in and talk this matter over with us. We will have all kinds of clovers for fall planting. Every farmer in Chilton County should plant one or more acres of Southern Giant Burr Clover. This clover will withstand winter as well as or better than vetch and peas and requires no fertilizer or Inoculation.

CREAM STATION

We are now buying cream twice a week, Wednesday and Saturday, and paying highest market prices. Our cream business is good and we are striving for 1,000 pounds butterfat for Saturday. Will you not help us reach this goal? We appreciate the fact that most of you visited us on our opening day last Saturday, and we want you to continue giving us your patronage.

Poultry and Eggs

Mr. Urshall Mims, a fine Chilton County boy, will be with us on Saturdays paying market prices for your chickens and eggs. Mr. Mims will be glad to have his customers call in to see him on this day of each week.

WHAT COWS NEED TO MILK AT THEIR BEST

"Many a cow doesn't give half the milk she's capable of giving," says W. R. Arends, dairy expert of the Purina Mills. 'He points out that it takes a certain amount of feed to keep a cow living, and by nature she will use feed first to live on. What's left goes to milk. This brings out the importance of giving the cow not only plenty of feed but a variety of feed to do the best job of milk-making. It's the feed that is turned into milk that counts most of all to the dairyman, according to Arends.

Landon Sends Greeting To Gathering In Iowa

Topeka, Kan., Aug. 10.—With the courage and spirit of the pioneers who tamed the West, the American people can conquer every modern problem and progress to an "even greater future," Governor Alfred M. Landon declared today in a message of greetings to the centennial celebration at Council Bluffs, Iowa.

Landon recalled how the pioneers of the last century conquered the West and linked it to the East with the steel bands of railroads. He paid tribute to Abraham Lincoln, who laid the terminus of the Union Pacific Railroad in Council Bluffs and had the vision to foresee the part it would play in developing the West and linking it to the Union.

"How splendid and fitting it is that the Council Bluffs Chapter of the O. A. R. has enshrined the memory of Lincoln in the monument that stands where he stood on your hills, looking toward the East," Landon wrote in his message. "How fitting that there should be inscribed on that monument 'King of men whose crown was love, whose throne was gentleness,' Celebrated Future, Too.

"The great railroad and the West, forever a part of the Union is the monument to his statesmanship. All these things you celebrate today yet more. You celebrate the future of America, as well as its past.

"If America should tame the wilderness, shall we cry quits because in these modern days there are problems to face?

"Ours is to dedicate ourselves anew to the great future of America. The Creator has given us unbounded resources. With a population only 6 per cent of the population of the whole world, we have created one-third of the wealth of the world.

"Let the challenge go forth from your celebration:

America here, today renews its vision and from the vanatge points of all that it has achieved looks forward in the courage and spirit of the men and women who wrought this achievement to an even greater future."

Plans Ranch Trip

The Governor planned to spend the next few days in virtual seclusion, working upon speeches he will deliver on his initial invasion of the East late this manth. He may leave here late tomorrow or Wednesday to rejoin his family in Estes Park, Col.

Leaving Estes Park early in the morning of August 20, he will board his special train to Denver and Journey leisurely eastward to fulfill his speaking engagements in western Pennyslvania nad New York. He will make a score of "personal appearances" from the rear platform of the train in Colorado, Nebraska, Iowa, Illinois and Ohio before reaching Middlesex, Po., his birthplace for his first campaign speech on August 22. His other engagements are in Chatauga, N. Y., August 24, and Buffalo, August 26.

Mrs. J. M. Shepherd and Miss Sophia Mullins motored to Birmingham Tuesday and spent the day.

Mr. and Mrs. Grady Broadhead returned to their home in Montgomery after spending the week here as the guest of Dr. and Mrs. J. P. Hayes.

Mrs. Claudie Pipes, of Montgomery, spent several days here last week.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Reynolds had as their guests for the week end, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Box and little daughter of Birmingham.

Miss Callie Watts has gone to market this week.

Miss Peggy Page is visiting Miss Theda Wyatt, of Montevallo, this week.

Miss Ruth Edgar, of Butler, Ala., spent the week end as the guest of Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Edgar.

SELF-FED CALVES DO BETTER THAN PAIL FED STOCK

Why does the calf that runs with the cow develop faster than the calf that is pail fed? Dairymen and livestock men will admit this to be a fact—but why it is so has never been definitely settled.

Some new light has apparently been thrown on the subject by Purina Mills' Experimental Farm at Gray Summit, Missouri. There it has been found that calves which are self fed on a feed in compressed checker form do much better than calves which receive exactly the same feed in the form of gruel. When the calves are self fed they eat a few bites now and then throughout the day. This evidently results in a more thorough mixing of the food with saliva and has its effect on making digestion easier than is possible with pail feeding. With pail feeding, the calf is inclined to gulp its feed in too large a quantity at one time to be handled efficiently by the digestive system. Digestion, it appears from the experimental findings, is not burdened

WEDNESDAY CARD CLUB MET

Members of the Wednesday Card Club were entertained on last Wednesday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock by Mrs. J. Hance Alred. The spacious living room was decorated in a profusion of summer flowers. Three tables were arranged for bridge. After a series of games, Mrs. J. C. Burnett held high score and was awarded club prize. Mrs. John Armstrong was awarded the prize given each week by the Modern Beauty Shoppe for second high score. The cut prize, also given by this shoppe, was awarded to Mrs. Armstrong also. At a late hour a delicious salad plate with ice tea was served the following guests: Mrs. Grady Reynolds, Mrs. J. C. Burnett, Mrs. John Armstrong, Mrs. James Wade, Mrs. Frank Callen, Mrs. N. S. Johnson, Mrs. Arthur Johnson, Mrs. John Deramus, Mrs. Omar Reynolds, Mrs. H. M. Simpson, Mrs. J. Lee Smith, Mrs. John Hollis of Mitchell Dam, and Mrs. Creigh.

Miss Helen Rhoerig and Miss Celia Gerald spent Tuesday in Birmingham.

Mrs. Hughes Kennedy and children are the guests of Mrs. Kennedy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Pipes.

INSIDE EGG CONTROL BRINGS BETTER PRICES

Egg size and egg shell color are inherited. However, the inside of the egg is something the poultry raiser can do something about. According to the Purina Research Farm, it has been found that the interior quality of an egg is greatly influenced by the feed given hens. By controlling the feed the poultry raiser can control the quality of eggs his hens lay.

Recently the Purina Research Laboratories have developed an all-in-one egg mash that gives hens just the things needed to lay eggs that have uniform light lemon colored yolks, surrounded with thick clear whites. It is said that the flavor and vitamin content of the eggs are also controlled. The eggs produced on this controlled feed are so uniform in interior appearance, quality, flavor and vitamin content, that they bring premium prices on the market.

NEW AID TO CHICK LIFE AND GROWTH

More chicks have a better chance of living since science discovered Puratene, the concentrated source of vitamin A, commonly known as the disease-resistance vitamin. Added to chick feed, Puratene steps up the vitamin A activity two and one-half times. This gives baby chicks added reserve and resistance in their battle for life against the treacherous disease germs that so frequently wipe out half the chicks in the batch.

"Pur-a-tene helps to strengthen the linings of the air passages and intestines causing them to act as natural armor against disease germs," says Meade Summers, Purina Mills poultry specialist. "The development of this new vital substance and the discovery of its resistance building power have led to the exclusive use of Pur-a-tene in chick startena. It is available to all chick raisers now."

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert

Revolution has raised its head in Spain and the war clouds of Europe are looming blacker. There are already rumors that this trouble in the land of the Don may bring general, continental war. There are stories that certain European nations have already begun to look on one side or the other of the contest with favor. France with the Socialist premier, and Soviet Russia are said to be backing, in sentiment at least, the so-called "regulars" who include a great many socialists and Communists, while Italy and Germany are reportedly hoping that the insurgents will win because many of those are supposedly Fascists.

For a time it was rumored that the Spanish government was seeking to buy munitions of war in France, and so seriously was this story taken by diplomats in Europe that the French government is said to have been warned that such action might start trouble with Germany and Italy. In short, one revolution si being followed in Spain by another. Whether or not this will be successful remains to be seen. The so-called Republican liberals first seized the government under pretext that they were intending ridding the country of alleged oppression which existed under the monarchy. But as is usually the case, the radicals have moved steadily to the left. Free speech was suppressed and religious persecution followed. The Communists have been steadily growing in strength until many Reds in Europe predict that Spain would be the next country to follow Russia into Communism.

Then came the counter-revolution. The government claims that it is monarchists and tacists while the revolutionists themselves contend that they are only seeking to save the country from communism. What is evidently the case is that unhappy Spain is being torn between two factions which are steadily becoming more and more radical, veering further to the right on one hand and to the left on the other. It is probable that constitutional government will be lost sight of altogether, and that no matter which side eventually wins, Spain will be anything but the republic which the first revolutionists set out to achieve.

There is one other interesting thought on the situation. A great many people have advised that the United States enter the League of Nations and the World Court as the only effective preventive of war. These people evidently envisioned only one kind of war—that which occurs between two nations. Yet history tells us that there are more revolutions and civil wars than there are international inflagarations.

Just how would the LeLague or the League Court go about preventing or stopping a war like the one in Spain? If stopping can be done, now is the time for the League to "Strut its stuff". Certainly the war in Spain is terrible and it ought to be ended. But the League is helpless, and will continue to be helpless. Even if it did intervene, such intervention would doubtless be the signal for general European war. And thus again do we see the futility of such an organization as the one at Geneva as a promoter of peace.

Wife: "Yes, I know dear; but don't say anypiano, John."

Husband: "But I gave you the money for the next installment."

Wife: "Yes, I know dear; but on't say anything. I m going to pay them as soon as they get it down stairs, because I've decided to have is in the sitting room."—Montreal Star.

SAUCE FOR THE GOOSE

Although the platform adopted by the Republicans in National convention at Cleveland, resolving that the United States ought to be kept free from entangling alliances inevitable through the League of Nations and World Court, met with the general approval of ninety-five per cent of our people, regardless of their political affiliations, there have been outcries from two or three confirmed internationalists who believe that Uncle Sam ought to make a life business of playing Santa Claus and guardian to the rest of the worlld. To a great many people the criticism of the Cleveland plank on international relations, by those who have criticized it, will only prove the soundness of the plank itself.

These internationalists, who don't like the idea of Uncle Sam's remaining at home to mind his own business, prefer to have the United States tied up in international arrangments, which will make it our "duty" to lend more money to nations who have already demonstrated their unwillingness to pay their debts, to interfere with men and money if necessary in problems in Europe and Asia which are none of our business, to give free advice where none is wanted, and to grant unrestricted entrance into our country of pauper-made goods from Europe and Asia which will displace the goods of our own workmen and farmers. The American people want none of this foolish procedure.

It is true, as has been repeatedly said by Republican and Democratic statesmen alike, that to tie ourselves into any sort of world governing structure would obligate us to mix into every quarrel in Europe, petty or great. With Europe now divided into armed camps it would eventually mean, if we took sides, sending soldiers across the seas to enforce a decision in a matter which was none of our business, and ushering in new meatless and sugarless days at home.

But that isn't all of it. We remember the old trite saying that "what is sauce for the gander is sauce for the goose." Our right to interfere in Old World affairs would carry with it the right for Europe to mix with the diplomacy and politics in the New World.

It is interesting in that respect to note the statement made some time ago by a Middle Western Senator to Arthur Brisbane, the newspaper columnist, to the effect that "an international court in 1778 would have kept this country a British colony."

This is a sound inference. If the colonists had been compelled to take their troubles to an international court packed with representatives from countries who had their own colonies to govern in the New World, it is difficult to guess what would happen.

Now in 1936 if a New World problem were taken before an international tribunal controlled by nations which had a common interest in exploiting commercially the Americas, it isn't difficult to guess what would happen.

What the internationalsts want to do is to come out of the clouds and face real conditions.

CHANGING THE CONSTITUTION

One of the arguments of the so-called liberals, who are not really liberals—only "regimentists"—is that old fashioned Americans who uphold the Constitution are "fetish worshippers." They assume that those who believe in our basic law regard it as so sacred a document that they would not change it in any part. The country, they say, has been growing so rapidly that it needs many constitutional changes. In fact, a great many of those who preach a new era would like to sidetrack the Constitution altogether because it stands in the way of the sort of government that controls many nations today.

As a matter of fact the sane and sound constitutionalist has no sort of complex as that charged by his radical opponents. He does believe in American constitutional government because he knows that it is the only kind of government yet devised which has given a nation freedom and yet permitted its people to develop its full and latent possibilities. But he does not maintain that our Constitution is above change. What he does insist on is that the changes be sound and in keeping with the American ideals of government and that they be brought about by the people themselves in an orderly way. Governor Landon, in his notification address, brought out this point clearly when he said:

"It is not my belief that the Constitution is above change. The people have the right, by the means they have prescribed, to change their form of gavernment to their wishes. If they could not do this, they would not be free. But change must come by and through the people, and not by usurpation. Change should come openly, after full and free discussion and full opportunity of the people to express their will."

Here is sound American doctrine. But it is not a doctrine that will appeal to the visionaries who have sought to subvert the Constitution through legislative processes or by executive edict. For they do not want to amend the Constitution by the method legally provided, because they know tha tin any free and full discussion of the amendments which they would recimmend, the people would take a hand and put the proposed changes into the discard. So it would be much easier, they believe, to make the necessary changes by having Congress pass a law, and then doing some bureaucratic legislation by issuing some bureaucratic orders. This process has been followed more than once during the past three years. Fortunately the Supreme Court has stood in the way of junking the Constitution. But the radical "reformers" still have hope. They believe they will find a way to do, by indirection, the things which they have no authority under the constitution to do.

President Roosevelt has "shoved off" for a two week's cruise off the New England coast. The editor of that paper is staying at home, from his usual two week's vacation in Colorado, fearful that the country will go to the deminition bow-wows during his absence. Qucer world, isn't it?—Kansan

---

When a New York deputy sheriff was trying to evict a tenant from an apartment house for failing to pay his rent, she threw flour on him from the upstairs window. But, thanks to the Supreme Court, it didn't hurt him any, because he wasn't hit by the processing tax.

With their right wing crumpled a little by the defection of Al Smith, Jim Reed et al., and the left wing shattered by the defection of the radicals to the third party, it looks like the New Dealers will be compelled to do a lot of fighting with their center.

It's going to be a sorry day for poor Miss Spain if she eventually has to choose between the Communists and the Facists.

Backward races are the ones that still have to kill people by hand.—Portland, Oregon, Express.

MAN IN THE MOON

PROMISE AND PERFORMANCE

Taxes

This series of articles would not be complete without a discussion of taxes—the president's promises compared with performance. At Sioux City, Ia., on Sept. 29, 1932, Mr. Roosevelt said:

"I shall use this position of high responsibility to discuss up and down the country, at all seasons, at all times, the duty of reducing taxes, of increasing the efficiency of government, of cutting out the underbrush around the governmental structure, of getting the most public service for every dollar paid for taxation. THIS I PLEDGE YOU, and nothing I have said in this campaign transcends in importance this COVENANT WITH THE TAXPAYERS of this country."

Later, at Pittsburgh, Pa., on Oct. 19, 1932, he said:

"Taxes are paid in the sweat of every man who labors. If excessive, they are reflected in idle factories, tax-sold farms, and hence, in hordes of hungry tramping the streets and seeking jobs in vain. Our workers may never see a tax bill, but they pay in deductions from wages, increased cost of what they buy, or (as now) in broad cessation of employment. Our people and our business cannot carry its excessive burden of taxation."

An examination of the report of the Secretary of the Treasury reveals the startling fact that, despite the campaign promises to lessen taxes, they have grown yearly. Taxes for the fiscal year 1933, ending on June 30, of that year, which tax plans were drawn up by the Hoover administration, were $1,-855,174,208. For 1934, under Roosevelt's administration, they were $2,954,038,131; in 1935, they were $3,621,043,062; for 1936, they were $4,228,036,000. and in his budget message to congress on Jan. 3, 1936, the president estimated the federal tax bill for 1937 to be $5,494,114,000. No less than 13 new laws, with their executive bureaus, all national in scope, have been set up by the Roosevelt administration, each and every one of them gnawing away at the tax money. But that is not all. After the president had asked for more taxes during the last session of congress, such tax bill was passed with this notation:

"This bill will take care of the President's request UNTIL THE NEXT SESSION OF CONGRESS."

Heaven only knows what will be enacted in the way of new taxes if Roosevelt should be reelected, and that fateful "next session" should be called. That new taxes are planned is evident that the record shows quite plainly that the Roosevelt regime is a builder of new taxes. If this outfit has increased taxes after promising to reduce them, (as the record proves), then WHAT WILL it do if returned to power, after the above expression of intent to raise taxes?

Consumer Taxes

Much has been said and written about Roosevelt's friendship for the "little man". In the president's book, "Looking Forward", published in 1934, on page 104, the following appears:

"Not only must the government income meet prospective expenditures, but this income must be secured on the principle of ability to pay. This is a declaration in favor of graduate income, INHERITANCE and PROFIT TAXES, and AGAINST taxes on food and clothing."

By this he sought to leave the impression that his desire was to place the big burden of taxation on the "big mules" of the nation, and ease the "little folks" from a part of their tax burden. Yet, a report given by Robert Jackson, assistant general counsel of the Treasury Department, before the Committee on Finance of the U. S. Senate, on Aug. 6, 1935, stated as follows:

"In 1930 we find that the so-called 'well-to-do' were paying 38.7 per cent, with the 'little men' paying 61.3 per cent."

Further, despite the president's expressed air of lowering the "little man's" taxes, he stated in a letter to Roy. W. Howard, on Sept. 2, 1935, the following (this letter was not made public until it was disclosed in a recent senatorial investigation of tax measures):

"What is known as consumer's taxes, namely the invisible taxes paid by people in every walk of life, FALL RELATIVELY MUCH MORE HEAVILY UPON THE POOR MAN THAN ON THE RICH MAN. In 1929 consumer's taxes were only 30 per cent of the national revenue—today they are 60 per cent."

And that is the way the president has carried out his COVENANT with the tax payers of the country. No one asked him to class his promise as a COVENANT—it was his own idea. How sacred are the covenants of the chief executive! He has broken them all!

1936, while proposing the new tax bill, the

In his message to Congress on March 3, president stated:

"Such a revision of our corporate taxes would be GREAT SIMPLIFICATION of the tax procedure in corporate accounting, and in the UNDERSTANDING OF THE WHOLE SUBJECT by the citizens of the nation."

This revenue bill, of which the president was speaking, in setting forth the procedure by which taxes would be figured, read as follows:

"If the revenue credit is a percentage of the adjusted net income which is less than 62.5, the tax shall be a percentage of the adjusted net income equal to the sum of 7.5, plus eleven thirty-firsts of the amount by which 62.5 exceeds the percentage which the dividend credit is of the adjusted net income."

In the light of the president's claim of GREAT SIMPLIFICATION in tax procedure, I want my readers to read that last paragraph all over again, and see, if you can, just what it means. We give up—it goes completely over our heads. And if reports from some of the "sharps" around Washington are anything to measure by, it just about goes over everyone's head. Secretary Morgenthau said of the bill and its method of procedure:

"I can't say that the bill is correct or not, nor whether it is good or bad. I have been in this banking game for some time, but I have never seen assumptions and probabilities used in actual money transactions until now. In fact, the whole thing is AS CLEAR AS MUD to me."

If the head of the treasury can't understand the bill that is to provide his department with the money it is to work with, how, in the name of high heaven, can the average man be expected to understand it? And Mr. Roosevelt spoke of GREAT SIMPLIFICATION!

Sound Money

In speaking of the money question, the president said on Nov. 4, 1932, at Brooklyn, N. Y.:

"The Democratic platform specifically declares, 'We advocate a sound currency to be preserved at all hazards'. That, I take it, is plain English."

On April 20, 1933, just a little over a month after the president went into office, the gold standard was abandoned under an executive order issued by President Roosevelt.

On May 12, 1933, President Roosevelt approved the Thomas Amendment which gave him the following powers, among others:

"1. To issue $3,000,000,000 of currency in the form of UNSECURED United States notes. (fiat money).

"2. To fix the weights of the gold and silver dollars at such amounts that the president finds necessary, and to provide for the UNLIMITED COINAGE of gold and silver at the ratio so fixed; or to reduce the weight of the gold dollar by any amount up to 50 per cent."

On Jan. 31, 1934, the president made a proclamation, fixing the content of the gold dollar at 59.06 per cent of what it had formerly been. And in the proclamation was embodied this passage:

"I RESERVE THE RIGHT BY VIRTUE OF THE AUTHORITY VESTED IN ME TO ALTER AND MODIFY THIS PROCLAMATION".

And that, too, we take it, is plain English—that he reserved the right to do absolutely as HE willed with the nation's money. Truly these are the acts of a monarch. If one will but read the record of President Roosevelt and his henchmen, he must undoubtedly conclude that here is the most outrageous page in American history—these last THREE LONG YEARS.

Many good Democrats admit that Mr. Roosevelt is too extravagant. We would like to submit that the Roosevelt regime is not only extravagant—it is irresponsible, hypocritical, unethical, monarchistic—and in its final analysis, so un-American that it would fit far better with the historical pages of Henry VIII, George III, and other "blood and iron" monarchs of the old world.—Man in the Moon.

FOR THE SMALL FARMER

The so-called small farmer in the United States, the man in the country who has struggled hard to maintain a home, keep up the repairs on his place and, perhaps, send his children to college, has long been the backbone of rural America and an important part of our national life. He has always been a rugged individualist. No serious attempt had been made to regiment him until the Wallace-Tugwell A. A. A. program was put into effect. And the individualistic farmer was advised that this move was only temporary; that he was to be told what to plant, what livestock to raise and how and when and where to sell his produce—but for the duration of the depression only. Then, after the scheme got to going we were informed that it was to become a permanent fixture in our national life.

In recompense for crop reduction and the submission to regimentation, the farmer was to be paid for what he didn't produce—was to get rich through a process of scarcity.

Now the facts have come out, they give the average small farmer serious food for thought While he was receiving a check for a comparatively few dollars to make up for this failure to produce grain and livestock that he was afterward to need very badly, Mr. Wallace et al. dealt out many princely fortunes to some of the banks, the insurance companies and the great sugar producing croporations, the heads of which might properly be termed in Roseveltian words, a part of the economic royalism in America. New York banks were well remembered for not raising sugar, and one Canadian bank got a big sum. Many checks went to great life insurance companies, and sugar corporations in the United States, in Hawaii and in Puerto Rico got stupenduous sums for alleged sugar curtailment. One British-owned corporation got an independent fortune for curtailing its cotton crop in Mississippi.

The big fellow, under the Tugwellan dispensation, got the cream while the little fellow got a spoonful of very blue milk.

Mr. Wallace and his boys and girls dealt out the abundant life, but the abundance all went to the fellows who didn't need it.

Then came the drouth. Millions of acres withered and the owners saw their crops go to ruin. Prices shot sky high and the cost of living went up by leaps and bounds. If these individual farmers who had been given a few dollars to curtail production now had their idle acres under cultivation, they would profit by having something to sell, and the cost of living would not shoot skyward. Evidently there is something here for the rugged independent individual farmer of America to think about.

EXPERT TESTIMONY

When John R. McCarl declared that Governor Landon, if elected president will give the nation one of the most economical administrations in "many a moon", it may be taken for granted that here is something more than mere political talk. Mr. McCarl is not given to idle mouthings. As comptroller general of the United States for fifteen years he has unsurpassed acquaintance with the high cost of government and an admirable understanding of why it is high. He has had so extended an experience with the ways of federal officials and has listened so often tn their pleas that he can tell almost at a glance whether they are natural "spenders" or sincerely interested in making the taxpayers' load as light as possible.

Mr. McCarl has just paid a visit to Governor Landon and, like all others who have made the same journey is deeply impressed: "The Governor", he says, "possesses such a keen sense of responsibility for a public trust that undoubtedly his full influence will be exerted for curtailment of appropriations to amounts reasonably necessary for legitimate undertaking by the federal government and for total elimination of appropriations for impracticable or foolish ventures—but with respect to costs of administrations or government overhead I venture a prophecy that his will be the most economical administration our country has experienced for many a moon and in striking contrast with the extravagance now so prevalent."

Coming from any source, ths would be warm praise. Coming from John R. McCarl it is more than that. It s about as iron-clad a guarantee as the country can have that the election of Governor Landon will mark the prompt end of waste and extravagance of the Roosevelt program. Coupled with the rigid declaration in the Republican platform, as well as the known facts in the Landon record as chief executive of the state of Kansas, it constitutes heartening news to a people that have been forced to donate a large part of its income and its resources to the New Deal tax collectors and which has received only a lot of useless promissory notes in return.—Boston Transcript.

Speaking of a campaign song for the New Deal, how about "Red Sails in the Sunset "

25 YEARS AGO

News Items as Published in The Union and in The Banner, Issues of August 10, 1911

Next December Chilton County will be 36 years old. It was made a county 43 years ago, in 1868, but it was called Baker County, in honor fo Alfred Baker (brother of our Uncle John). In 1875 the name was changed to Chilton in honor of William P. Chilton, a famous jurist.

In 1870 the population of Chilton County was, according to federal census, 6,194. There were 710 square miles in the county. Ten years later, 1880, the population had grown to 10,793. The year 1890 found us with 14,549, this decade bringing us two railroads.

Montgomery sold its first bale of cotton Tuesday morning. It sold for 20 cents a pound.

The army worm is said to be invading Chilton County and taking cotton fields as they go.

Miss Etta Matthews is visiting her brother, Dr. E. A. Matthews, and family.

In 1896 a new courthouse was built to replace the old wooden structure. Spot cash was paid for the new structure.

In 1910 the census gave Chilton County a population of 23,187. There are four incorporated towns, and five substantial burgs.

Miss Delene Hayes is visiting friends on Mulberry.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Chrichton spent a few days this week in Sylacauga.

Married this week—Joe Boozier and Miss Alice Bryant, Gordon Howard and Miss Mattie Rodgers, J. T. Blalock and Mrs. Agnes McCreless.

GROWING EXPENDITURES

We have been told repeatedly, of the New Deal expenditures, that they have been fifteen billio ndollars more than those of the previous administration and that they have succeeded in running us about that much more in debt. The sums stagger the imagination because nobody but a college professor would be able to conceive them.

In an effort to elucidate them, Congressman Carroll B. Reece, of Tennessee, in a recent statement pointed out that the 74th Congress just adjourned, set the all-time high record of spending more than twenty-billion dollars, which is just about seventy million dollars a day for each day that Congress was in session.

"The human mind cannot grasp the enormity of this sum," Mr Reece said. "It is more than $150 for every man, woman and child in the United States; or, stated another way, it equals $20 a minute for every minute since the birth of Christ. Such extravagance is almost criminal. It mortgages the life of every citizen and pawns the future children yet unborn."

In spite of the fact that the New Deal professors, themselves, inform us that the depression is over, and that they "cured it," it remains lamentably true that the 74th Congress, recently closed, spent more money than the 73rd Congress.

There is something rotten in Denmark. If the depression has lightened, then the expenditures ought to be less. Now, how about it? It is true that in some lines of business, especially those which make and sell consumer goods, which have a habit of wearing out. Business is better, and there has been an increase in some values in the stock warket. But it is also true that there are twelve million of unemployed in the nation. These people do not deal in securities, and they have no money to deal with, even if they were inclined to that business. So, for them, at least, the depression as real as ever. They must be clothed, fed and sheltered, and the result is continued great expense of money.

Taking care of the unembployed, however, does not account for all 'the expenditure. Under the New Deal we have substituted bureaucracy, wherever possible, for old-fashioned representative government. And bureaucracy is always increasingly expensive. It feeds on the fat of the land and the more it eats, the bigger it grows and the more it wants.

When you are talking these hot withering days about the crops the government paid the farmers to plow under, remember that the fellow who really paid is the American consumer, and this includes the man on the farm as well as the man in the city.

The gent who carved the Declaration of Independence—or whatever it was—on a pinhead has nothing on Mr. Farley, who has just suceeded in putting a grand canyon on a postage stamp.—Macon Telegraph.

Reviewing the state of the nation, we might take a bit of pride in the thought that no other power could have given us the walloping that we have given ourselves.—Little Rock, Ark., Gazette.

A substitute for the invalidated coal bill is only one of the worries of the industry. A more important one is the substitutes for coal which are appearing on the market.—Charleston, W. Va., Daily Mail.

Old documents unearthed at Genoa, Italy, show that the Columbus expedition to discover America cost $6,000. But it has cost fifteen billions to save it, and i tisn't saved yet.

It is said that the government wants to move the good old ship Constitution from Boston to Washington. Well, if the ydo, let's hope they treat it better than they have the Constitution that is already in Washington.

Now when the United States is importing millions of dollars worth of farm products that ought to be raised at home, why doesn't somebody blame the shortage on to the "economic royalists"?

A Boston man who was celebrating getting a divorce was arrested for turning in 100 different fire alarms. He should have gone to Philadelphia and rung the Liberty Bell.

In the good old days the town philosopher used to sit all day ond whittle and think. Now the boon doggler just whittles and lets the Brain Trust do all the thinking.

You can now buy canned spinach juice as a pre-breakfast drink. We are beginning to wonder just how far this thing is going to go.

G. DuBose, Executor of Anna Goodwyn DuBose.

PRODUCERS URGED TO CONSERVE SEED FOR 1937 PLANTING

"With seeds of many soil-conserving crops nearly ready for harvest, it is time for Chilton farmers who expect to take part in the Agricultural Conservation Program in 1937 to make plans for conserving seed supplies for use next year," says County Agent J. W. Fant.

"The farmer who saves an ample supply of legume and grass this fall will be in a better position to take part in a conservation program in 1937," he continues.

Not only will the effects of drought be reflected in the supply of seed, but the need for those crops will be greater next year because of the drought.

Where it is practicable for farmers to harvest the seed of soil-conserving crops such as cowpeas, soybeans, crotolaria, velvet beans, Etc., they may not only supply their own needs but also those of their neighbors. On the other hand, he points out that in some cases where a farmer does not have sufficient acreage in soil-conserving crops to yield enough seeds for his own uses, he may be able to add to his supply by harvesting his neighbor's seed on shares.

"This office will be glad to give advice on the seed situation in the state and how to harvest, cure, store, and clean seed crops," says Mr. Fant

CHILTON COUNTY FARMERS HELP BUILD THE EMPIRE OF BALDWIN

Among those farmers who are developing one of the richest counties in Alabama, Chilton county has contributed some of the most successful, according to a recent survey made by the County Agent of Baldwin County. Many of these farmers moving there 10 and 12 years ago fell right into the new system of farming at the outset and have been improving gradually and expanding until today they are on the road to independence. There is something about the Chilton County farmer that just makes for successful agriculture. He has the thrift and initiative known in a new section. He is a known hard worker yet he enjoys the sports of hunting and fishing so abundant around his home. He takes an interest in community activities and develops into a good leader.

Among the many ex-Chilton farmers who are succeeding in Baldwin are the Childress family, Hankins, Campbells, DuBose, Hays, Palmer, and many others. These farmers just mentioned are not only making successful farmers, they are rearing large families who are worthy assets to the County.

One unsual incident about farm boys in Baldwin is when they become of age they are content to buy a farm and immediately start out for themselves. Hiram T. Childress has four sons who are married, living on their own farm and a real success at farming. This is true of many others.

Baldwin County offers an opportunity not found elsewhere.

VISITORS FROM CULLMAN

Passing through Clanton from Mobile to Cullman, Messrs. Mr. and Mrs. Otto O. Richter, of Cullman, and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hauk and son Robert and Miss Caroline Dengler, all of Saginaw, Michigan, stopped off in Clanton Tuesday of this week.

BOSWELL TEACHING SINGING SCHOOL AT ENON IN SHELBY

News from Prof. A. O. Boswell reports that he began his singing school at Enon, in Shelby county. Monday morning of this week, with a good enrollment. Mr. Boswell says that there were 50 in attendance Tuesday morning, and more expected later in the week. Prof. Boswell is expecting to have a most successful school up there.

COTTON WORM

Cotton worms are showing up in various parts of the state and several farmers have reported worms in Chilton County. Each farmer should check his cotton carefully for an infestation of the cotton worm.

Dusting cotton with Calcium Arsenate should be done whenever worms appear in large numbers on cotton with immature bolls. Undiluted Calcium Arsenate should be applied with the dust gun at the rate of 5 to 6 pounds per acre, or it may be shaken from cloth bags of porous material on the end of a pole. If bags are used each pound of Calcium Arsenate should be mixed with 9 pounds of hydrated lime to prevent wasting large quantities of Arsenate. An application made with a dust gun is cheaper and more effective than one made with poles and bags.—J. W. Fant, County Agent.

OLD TIME SINGING TO BE HELD AT HIGHLAND

The singing convention in the Harp and Harmony will meet at Highland church on the first Sunday in September and Saturday before. We invite all lovers of music to be with us and bring a well filled basket.—W. B. Cooper, Chairman.

LETTER FROM DR. BOB JONES

Cleveland, Tenn.

August 13, 1936.

Dear Friends:

My work as an evangelist has taken me into practically every state in the Union and into most foreign lands. I have met literally thousands of young people who went off to college and who came back with wrecked faith and shattered morals. I, therefore, made up my mind to build a college with as high educational standards as any other college in America and at the same time stand for the old time religion and for the absolute authority of the Bible.

Remember, the Bob Jones College give sPiano, Violin, Pipe Organ, Voice, and Speech without additional cost.

The 1936-37 college year opens September 9th. If you wish literature, write the Bob Jones College, Cleveland, Tennessee.

Sincerely yours,

Adv. BOB JONES.

ANOTHER YOUNG PREACHER

Another Chilton county young man to take up preaching is Mr. Steve Hughes, of Jemison. For several weeks Mr. Hughes has been preaching at Rocky Mount in the northern part of the county.

He is a promising young man, and his friends and followmen in pushing forward in the work which he has undertaken. Surely Chilton county needs more preachers and more preaching, and for young men to enter the work in encouraging to us laymen and is deserving of our encouragement to those assuming the God-sent task.

Therefore The Union-Banner extends its congratulations to Steve Hughes, and we wish him God-speed in the work of spreading the Gospel.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF J. C. JONES

On last Friday afternoon, July 7, about 3 o'clock, the death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Jones and carried away their dearly beloved son and brother, J. C. He was 18 years, 4 months and 16 days of age.

J. C. was a brilliant student of Isabella High School, being in his senior year there. He took an active part in the activities of the school room play ground. He was a lover of all good sports, always playing the game fair and square. He went about all things with a determination to win, however, he met loss with a smile. He had the ability for gaining and holding friends. Everywhere he went the clouds seemed to disappear.

For some reason, unknown to us, God, in His infinite wisdom, saw fit to call him from our midst. We knew that it was God's will for him to leave us, and some sweet day we will better understand why he was taken away so soon.

Let us not grieve, but say "The Lord giveth and the Lord takeh away; blessed be the name or the Lord." We know that J. C. trusted in God for he prayed from the beginning of his illness and talked about that happy home where there will be no more pain nor sorrow.

He leaves to mourn his departure, his father, mother, and one small brother, Charles. His grandfather and grandmother Jones of Sylacauga and a host of other relatives and friends.

May God bind this family's broken heart and cheer them as they look forward to the great reunion beyond where there will be no more sad partings.

Funeral services were held Saturday morning at New Cedron Baptist church, with Rev. M. W. Mims officiating. Interemnt followed in the churchyard cemetery at that place, with Martin and sons in charge.

Active pall bearers were the boys with whom he was actively associated. They were: Elwyn Collins, Wilbert Conway, Bill Cox, Ocie Williams, Irby Johnson and James Powell.—A true friend.

ALABAMA MERCHANTS TO MEET IN 20TH SESSION

Birmingham, Ala., August 5.—Thousands of merchants from all parts of the state and adjacent communities are expected her on August 26 and 27, when the twentieth annual convention of the Alabama merchants Association will be held here with registration headpuarters at the Municipal Auditorium.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Be Sure They Properly Cleanse the Blood

YOUR kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as nature intended—fail to remove impurities that poison the system when retained.

Then you may suffer nagging backache, dizziness, scanty or too frequent urination, getting up at night, puffiness under the eyes; feel nervous, miserable—all upset.

Don't delay? Use Doan's Pills. Doan's are especially for poorly functioning kidneys. They are recommended by grateful users the country over. Get them from any druggist.

LEGION TO MEET AUGUST 23-25 AT HUNTSVILLE

With reports for the past few days showing that the epidemic of poliomyelitis is on the wane in Alabama, Dr. Francis Marion Inge, Department Con nander announced yeserday that the postponed Alabama American Legion Convention would be held August 23-25, inclusive at Huntsville. The dates were set by the Alabama Department Executive Committee following a conference with Dr. J. N. Baker, State Health Officer.

Dr. Baker said the situation seemed encouraging that, if the improvement continued, there would be little danger by the time set for the convention. Those who plan to attend the Convention are advised to take the alum-picric acid spray before going to Huntsville.

All plans have been made for the Convention, and Huntsville is waiting for the Legionnaires and their families with a royal welcome.

REVIVAL MEETING AT MINERAL SPRINGS

The revival meeting will run at Mineral Springs the week following the third Sunday in this month. The Rev. J. A. Smallwood, of Birmingham, will do the preaching. The pastor has had Rev. Smallwood in a meeting recently and he would like to say just here, that you will have no regrets in hearing this powerful preacher. Make preparations to attend this meeting. Come one. Come all.—Rev. M. Lockhart, pastor.

SINGING SCHOOL AT SHILOH CHURCH BEGINS AUGUST 10

Mr. Melton Hughes, of Coopers, will teach a singing school at Shiloh church beginning Monday, August 10. It will continue for three weeks. If you live close to Shiloh you should get in touch with Mr. Hughes and arrange to attend this school.

He js a young man with a promising future before him. He is closing an eighteen-day school at New Harmony this week and reports that he has had a very fine school down there. Melton Hughes is the son of L. Dewey Hughes, and grandson of Rev. J. D. Hughes.

VITAMIN DISCOVERY TO HELP CHICK LIFE

Entire Carload of Carrots Needed to Make One and a Half Barrels of New Vital Ingredient.

Again science throws out a "lifeline" to baby chicks. It comes through the discovery of Puratene, a new ingredient that's extremely rich in vitamin A, the "disease resistance" vitamin.

"So rich in vitamin A is this ingredient, Pur-a-tene, that an entire carload of carrots is required to make one and one-half barrels," says C. S. Johnson, head of the Poultry Department of the Purina Mills. He adds, "One pound of Pur-a-tene contains as much vitamin A activity as 750 pounds of yellow corn meal, which up to this year has been considered one of the richest sources of vitamin A.

Vital to Chick Life and Growth

In speaking about the vital need of vitamin A for the life and growth of chicks, Johnson says, "An absolute lack of vitamin A will result in chick death. Partial lack of vitamin A causes growth to be retarded, eye trouble to develop, and makes the chick easily susceptible to disease and infection. Poultry raisers should make sure that an abundance of vitamin A is in their chick starter:

(1) To insure maximum growth and development.
(2) To build a strong, healthy digestive tract so that the chick can make complete use of the feed it eats.
(3) To build resistance to disease germs and infection."

Poultry raisers who see to it that their chick startena this spring is rich in vitamin A are going to see a difference in the livability, growth and development, according to Johnson. He points out that the surest and safest way of giving chicks an abundance of vitamin A is to make sure that Pur-a-tene, the new concentrated vitamin A discovery, is one of the ingredients which their chicks' starter contains.

Gold Medallion to Admiral Byrd Commemorates His Lonely Vigil

A SUPERBLY human note was struck at a recent dinner at the Waldorf-Astoria in New York City tendered by combined American Industry to Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd—"in acknowledgment of his invaluable contributions to science and to pay tribute to those qualities of heart and spirit that make him universally admired and an inspiration to his countrymen."

During the course of the dinner at which the Admiral spoke briefly, for the first time, of the appalling experiences of his lonely vigil in the shadow of the South Pole, he was presented with a four and one-half inch gold medallion symbolizing American Industry's tribute to his heroic exploit.

The face of the medallion depicts the Admiral seated at the radio in his tiny advance weather station tapping out "All's Well" to Little America, while the reverse side bears the following inscription:

DICK BYRD—GALLANT GENTLEMAN

Due to a combination of unforeseen circumstances it became his duty as he saw it, to keep, alone, a six month vigil for meteorological observation at the world's southernmost outpost. Before the middle of the long Antarctic night he was stricken desperately ill from the poisonous fumes of a faulty oil stove. Survival seemed impossible. He deliberately chose to die rather than tap out an S.O.S. on his radio. In fact, he further squandered his strength and lessened his chance for survival by painfully hand-cranking his radio to keep his schedule and report "All's Well" to Little America, lest his silence cause his comrades to risk their lives coming to his rescue in the darkness. For months of the bitterest cold ever endured he hung precariously on the edge of the abyss. Untold suffering did not compel him to alter his decision. By a miracle he was spared.

THE ORIGIN OF A BANK

By ROBERT V. FLEMING,
President American Bankers Associction

A group of men, stockholders, put up their money, which is capital. They set up a place of business and accept your money, deposits, and agree to give it back when you demand it.

R. V. FLEMING

Your money and theirs is loaned to those who you think could repay.

The bank loans not to those who have a brilliant idea and nothing more, who need capital to start a business, because that would be going into partnership using depositors' money for speculative purposes. It loans not to those who have no demonstrated capacity for business management. It does not loan on get-rich-quick ideas or to those who would be merely throwing good money after bad in a sinking venture.

A bank is as necessary to a community as a retailer, or a railroad, or a manufacturer. It provides a service—to depositor and to customer—a service necessary to sustain the great volume of business activity carried on in this complex business world.

Economists tell me that nine out of ten of the millions of business transactions carried on daily in the United States are done on credit—only one on cash. This is an age of credit.

Credit Is Confidence

Credit is simply confidence, one man in another, that he will keep his word, and, what is important just now, that conditions are such that he will be able to keep his word.

A bank is the highest development of this credit and confidence in the community. It accepts your money; pledges itself to return it on demand. It supplies the stream of credit needed for the community's many business activities. It assumes the risk of its judgment in deciding to whom and how it lends your money. If it makes a mistake, its stockholders and directors pay, —sometimes double their investment.

Without banking facilities we would return to the days when wampum and tobacco were tokens of exchange and when, as a result, there was little credit and little business.

A bank is the repository of that part of the nation's credit and confidence represented by the community. A strong bank indicates a healthy business life. Citizens who are long-sighted in thinking of their community should help to keep their bank in a strong position by refusing to repeat idle rumors as to its condition, by co-operating with it in conserving and developing soundly the community's credit facilities.—Burrough's Clearing House.

BUSINESS PROSPECTS AND ELECTION YEARS

Economic Commission Finds Little Substance in Old Fable That Business Should Be Poor

Usually there is not much substance in the old belief that business is poor during election years, says the Economic Policy Commission of the American Bankers Association in the course of a discussion of the business outlook.

We have had thirty-six presidential election years in our history since the first inauguration of Washington, and the records show that twenty-one of them have been years of prosperity or at least years in which business has been better than normal, while only fifteen have been years of depression, or years in which business has been below normal.

"It seems reasonable to expect that 1936 will be a better business year than 1935, largely because of the continuing operation of the economic forces that have made business better this year than it was last year," the Commission says. "Individual consumer purchasing power should be at least as large next year as it has been this year, and it seems reasonable to expect that more employment will be found."

FARM STATEMENTS

Financial statements based on regularly kept farms inventories are a great aid in establishing better relations between the farmer and his banker. A budget, an inventory, and a credit statement disclose to the farmer the status of his business and the credit to which he is entitled. They provide infor ation to the banker as to whether the farm is a paying plan., and show not only if there is adequate security, but also if the loan gives promise of profit to the borrower.—American Bankers Association Agricultural Commission.

Bank Institute Meeting

NEW YORK.—The thirty-fourth annual convention of the American Institute of Banking, the educational section of the American Bankers Association, will be held in Seattle, Washington, from June 8-12, 1936, it is announced. Six special train movements are being arranged for to carry the delegates, and it is expected that there will be an attendance of about 1,500. The institute has chapters in over 200 cities.

HENS NOW LAY EGGS TO ORDER

Research Reveals Through Control Feeding Poultry Raiser Can Get Egg Quality Wanted.

The housewife who has a backyard flock can have her eggs to order, according to C. S. Johnson, head of the Poultry Department of the Purina Mills. He points out that the backyard hen can be made to lay eggs with the uniform light lemon-yellow yolks which stand up high and round, in the center of thick, clear whites. The eggs will have that delicate, rich flavor, that go so far beyond mere freshness. They will be made richer in vitamins, too.

"Kitchen testing has brought out a marked difference in the quality of eggs," says Johnson. "Any housewife knows that eggs having a superior body of white give an added rise, fluffiness and smoothness to the body of a cake. She knows, too, that quality of eggs shows up in many other ways of cooking. Take poached eggs, for instance. Those with thin whites separate from the yolks and about all that is left are poached yolks. When the eggs have thick whites, clinging to the yolk, there is a globular, meaty portion of poached white around the yolk—a pleasing, appetizing appearance.

Quality Determined Before Laying

In discussing the matter of getting hens to lay eggs to order, Johnson says it's a matter of controlling the feeding of hens. He adds, "The real quality of an egg is determined before it is laid. If the hen doesn't get in her feed just what is needed to build a quality egg, you simply cannot expect the production of a quality egg. Frankly, if you want your hens to lay eggs to order, you have to give them the things in their feed to make eggs accordingly.

"After years of research at the Purina Experimental Farm, testing this and that ingredient, a combination has been developed that gives hens what they need to lay eggs to order. The yolks are light lemon-yellow and stand up high and round in the center of thick, clear whites. Not only are they rich in vitamins but they have a delicate, rich flavor when served.

"This special feed to get hens laying eggs to order, called Layena, is an all-in-one feed. Nothing else is needed. Just this complete feed and water. Contrary to what might be expected, it does not cost any more to feed hens on this special feed. As a matter of fact, considering the quality of the eggs and the increase in the number of eggs produced by the feed, it really costs less."

WASHING AND GREASING

A. A. JACKSON REPLIES TO J. A. HEADLEY LETTER

Editor Union-Banner:

May I have a small space in your paper to reply to Mr. Headley's letter of last week, in which he says that I told him he should not blame me for preaching out after the $200 a month, and that I wanted to take what he had himself and his family along with me.

Now, Mr. Headley, you know that my article contained no such assertions or ideas, but was written in behalf of the old fellows 60 years old and above, who cannot get to the Roosevelt wagon as you call it, but are forced to remain down in the gutters of poverty, and are forced to use only a limited amount of food here in a land of plenty and with a national relief agency. Shame on any individual or any statesmanship that will pretend to perpetuate a relief or an economic system that will discriminate against an old deserving white man in favor of a colored wash woman.

Now, Mr. Headley, you say that since 1933 you have been coming back up hill with plenty all around you, and money in the bank, and go to bed every night with your mind at rest, and get up every morning, start a sweet song and go about your work rejoicing.

Mr. Headley, that is a mighty fine state to be in; I am glad for you and can realize how you feel. Your case just about represents mine, but I did not get it from the Roosevelt wagon, but from the Southern Railroad Company by giving them six years of service, and invested the proceeds of that service in the property that I now have at Lomax. The Hoover wagon did not carry it off from me.

Mr. Headley, remember, the good book says in I John, 3rd chapter and 17th verse:

"But whoso has this world's goods and seeth his brother have need and shutteth up his bowels of compassion against him, how dwelleth the love of God in him." So, Mr. Headley, we see from the teachings of the scriptures that you and I cannot go through this old world with plenty of everything around us and money in the bank, and thousands of humanity going through the same old world in poverty and want, and be in line with the teachings of our God. No, we can't do that.

Now, Mr. Headley, in conclusion I ask you wouldn't you be willing to join in with everyone else and pay a 2 per cent transaction tax on all of your business transactions in order to send 24 billion dollars through the channels of trade each year and give every deserving mna and woman a chance to get out of the ruts of poverty and crawl up to a level with you and me, and join us in receiving the sweet peace when we retire at night, and arise in the morning rejoicing and singing the sweet songs that you and I now sing?

Such conditions would be an answer to the prayer Jesus taught us to pray which contained these words, "Thy will be done on earth as it is in Heaven."

Remember, as long as the light holds out to burn the vilest sinner may return.

Yours for an economic system that will give all humanity a chance to obtain enough of this world's goods, that they may be able to retire at night as Mr. Headley does, in sweet peace, and arise in the morning rejoicing and singing the sweet songs of Zion. May God bless you all.—A. A. Jackson.

GOVERNOR TALMADGE OF GA. DESCRIBES THE DEMOCRATIC NATIONAL CONVENTION IN PA.

Governor Eugene Talmadge, of Ga., tales issue with the Democratic national convention held in Philadelphia. The two main points are states rights and the race question. Some of the statements of the Georgia chief executive follow:

The convention in Philadelphia abolished the two-thirds rule. They also write into their platform the management of the internal affairs of the states by boards and bureaus in Washington. This plank in the platform is the death knell of the sovereignty of states.

There were a great many negro delegates at the Philadelphia convention. Along with the negro delegates there were a great many negro visitors and newspaper reporters. These negro delegates and newspaper reporters stopped at the same hotel with our white ladies and our white men from the south. They ate at the same tables they stood around in the same hotel lobies chatting.

In other words, social equality and political equality was established at the convention in Philadelphia.

A negro preacher, Rev. L. Marshall Sheppard, of Philadelphia, opened the convention with prayer. Senator Ellison D. Smith, delegate at large from South Carolina, walked out—but later came back. Then a negro delegate, Arthur W. Mitchell, of Chicago, seconded the nomination of Franklin D. Roosevelt for president. At this juncture the same delegate from So Carolina, Senator Ellison D. Smith walked out again, tore up his credentials, said that he was through and that he was going back to South Carolina and tell the people just what was going on at Philadelphia.

But the negro activity was not over. A negro delegate, Carl Glass from St. Louis Md., second in the nomination of Vice President John N. Garner, of Texas.

We people in the south have always been tought that to remain solid democratic would protect the white people of the south from negro officers, from social and political equality.

We thought that if the south split we would have negro deregates to the convention, and negro officers sent down here from Washington.

Therefore we remain solid democratic.

No Republican adminstration has ever forced the negro on the southern people as did the convention at Philadelphia.

The New Deal papers of Georgia and the south are printing just a little more about this negro domination and equality with negros as they can get by with, but let's see what appears in the papers north of the Mason and Dixon line:

Here's something from The New York Herald-Tribune, of June 26.

Philadelphia, June 25. — Governor A. B. Chandler, of Kentucky, said "John Walker (negro alternate) is one of us; anything he wants we'll see that he gets it".

The local democrats even have colored quaker maids to act as guides for the visiting colored delegates and their friends.

Meanwhile the negro politicans are circulating among the white leaders at the convention and in the hotel rooms a list giving the actual number of negro voters in every state including the solid south. Above every thing else, the colored politicans have impressed the party leaders with the super-importance of the vote in such pivotal states as New York, Ohio, Illinois, Indiana and Missouria.

The northern papers are also carrying the pictures of these negro delegates conspicously on the front pages.

It is news. Why don't the papers of Georgia give Georgia the news, and the southern papers give the news as to what happened up in Philadelphia?

When they insist on boards and bureaus seprate states, it is going on the very fondation stone of democratic principles.

When they flaunted negroes in the hotels and dining rooms, and had them making nominating speeches to our southern people it was saying to us:

You don't amount to anything anyway. We will buy you. We will make you associate with the negro, and make you like it.

There are thousands and thousands of good white women and men in the south who will register their protest against this outrage.

Lesson for August 16

SOWING AND REAPING

LESSON TEXT—Galatians 6:1-10.

GOLDEN TEXT—Be not deceived; God is not mocked; for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap.—Galatians 6:7.

PRIMARY TOPIC—How to Behave.

JUNIOR TOPIC—When We Choose.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Sowing and Reaping. (Effects of Alcohol).

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Sowing and Reaping. (Effects of Alcohol)

Satan is "the god of this world." And as such he has wrought confusion in every realm and particularly in the field of moral distinctions and responsibility. Instead of clear-cut lines of right and wrong, white and black, he has managed to befuddle the minds of many so that they see only a twilight gray of moral indifference. He has lulled many a man and woman into a false security that somehow sin may be yielded to with impunity. To some he says there is no God, and no punishment for sin. To those who will not yield to such a bold attack he more subtly suggests that God is love and that there will be no judgment. Some there are who think that formal association with religious organizations will somehow atone for all their carelessness of life. How great is the need to emphasize the truth of this lesson that "God is not mocked, for whatsoever a man soweth that shall he also reap" (v. 7). These are eternal and immutable principles.

The epistle to the Galatians expounds Christian liberty as based on justification by faith. This life of liberty is a life in the Spirit, and this means walking in the Spirit.

I. The Christian's Attitude Toward Others (vv. 1, 2).

The spiritual concerns of life are far more important than the material, therefore the writer points out that the believer is

1. Considerate in spiritual matters (v.1).

Sin is in the world. Men, even Christian men, fall. Who is to help them? and how? Fellow sinners and spiritual weaklings cannot help. Sanctimonious and "holier than thou" folk will only criticize and hinder. The spiritually strong must help the weak, doing it gently, not judging severely.

But not all the problems of the world are spiritual and the Christians will be

2. Helpful in bearing the burdens of life (v. 2).

The Christ spirit leads a man to bear his neighbor's burden.

II. The Christian's Attitude Toward His Own Life (vv. 3-6).

The true believer is characterized by

1. Humility (v. 3). The man who is wrapped up in himself is always a very small bundle.

2. Self-judgment (v. 4). Compare I Cor. 3:10-15. God will one day judge our lives. We do well to judge them now in the light of eternity.

3. Self-reliance (v. 5). The one who is quick to bear another's burdens is slow to ask others to bear his.

4. A sacrificial spirit (v. 6). The true disciple will honor his teacher and will share with him not only his material things, but also the good things she finds in God's Word.

III. An Eternal Law of Life and Conduct (vv.7-9).

1. The law stated (v. 7). "Be not deceived; God is not mocked: for whatsoever a man soweth that shall he also reap." We never question this law in the realm of nature. We expect no wheat when we sow wild oats. But, fools that we are, we think God is less exacting, less true to his perfect holiness and righteousness in the realm of the moral and spiritual. Let us awake before it is too late!

2. The law illustrated (v. 8). The flesh stands for self, self-will, or selfishness. The man who lives for himself and his own pleasures reaps "corruption" even in the present world.

3. Its obedience rewarded (v. 9). God is gracious. Well doing is not only its own reward, but in future prospect there is a reward at his hand for those who are not "weary in well doing."

IV. A Summary and Conclusion (v. 10). This gathers up the truth of the entire context, reminding us that "as we have opportunity" (and sometimes it really knocks only once) we are to "work that which is good" (and it may take effort and sacrifice) "toward all men" (even if we don't like their nationality, or color, or creed, or lack of creed), "and especially" (and now we come into the intimate family circle) "toward them that are of the household of faith."

Your Voice CAN Travel More Quickly Than Ever

THE average time required to complete all long distance telephone calls is now only 1.5 minutes, as compared to 7.5 minutes in 1925. Place a long distance call, and almost every time the connection will be made at once, while you hold the receiver to your ear.

While the speed of the service has been steadily increased, the cost remains low. New operating methods and improved equipment have made the service as clear and convenient as on local calls.

Bettering the service while extending hours for reduced rates and actually decreasing the cost have prompted many customers to comment to the operators or write to the Company expressing appreciation of the service and surprise at the low cost.

You, too, will be pleased with the speed, clearness and low cost of long distance telephone service. Use it to keep in touch with friends, relatives and business associates in other cities.

For information, just call the "long distance" operator.

WORK CENSUS DEBATED

Washington, August 7—Commerce department officials, who have been quietly studying unemployment figures since 1933 estimate today that a abou. 9,550,000 person is out of work. Ernest G. Draper, acting commerce secretary, said the department's figures represent a "composite estimate" of unemployment and are based in part on statistics of other government agencies. For some time, the department has been considering the feasibility of census of jobless.

The hitherto unpublished figures today fixed unemployment in March, 1933, at 15,100,000. Draper said the peak was reached in that month. By last April the estimate had dropped to 9,900,000 and since then, Draper said, "it is reasonable to ssume" there has been a further reduction of 300,000 to 400,000.

He emphasized that the figures are not kept officially by the department and are suplied from various sources largely for its own information. In the absence of official government figures, labor and busisness organizations have advanced widely varying estimates of unemployment.

President William Green of the American Federation of Labor estimated recently that more than 11,000,000 persons were out of work, while an estimate in April by the National Industrial Conference board, a statistical organization backed by corporations, placed the figure at 9,800,000 Green said the estimate took into consideration the 4,346,000 persons that have been added to the potential working population since 1929.

Residents of Chilton County received a total of$38,000from the Home Owners' Loan Corporation during the three years period of refinancing operation which terminated June 13, 1936, according to the final figures furnished Judge John D. Petree, State Director for the National Emergency Council. This sum represents 21 individual loans.

A total of 16,617 distressed home owners in Alabama were extended aid in the sum of $37,036,794. Of this money it is estimated that $2,010,000 went toward the payment of tax assessments, the estimated average of tax and assessment payments per loan in Alabama being $121.

According to the 1930 United States Census reports there were 105,494 owned non-farm homes in Alabama the Home Owners' Loan Corporation refinanced mortagages on 15.8 percent of this number.

MRS. J. A. JONES ENTERTAINS WORTH WHILE CLUB

The recently organized Worth While Club met with Mrs. J. A. Jones, Thursday afternoon, August 8.

Preceding the business discussion Mrs. Henry Esco rendered several beautiful piano selections. Delicious refreshments were served to the following members: Mesdames J. R. Hardy, Willie Bean, Jessie Jones, Manley Atchison, W. W. Jones, Luther Bean, Herschel Gore, Henry Esco, Aubrey Gore, J. A. Jones.

Mrs. L. C. Reynolds and little son, Harry, and Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Matthews and attractive daughters, Frances Lee and Fay, left Wednesday for Panama City and other points.

PLEASANT HILL

We are glad to say that health at this place is good at present.

Our revival ended last Friday night. We sure did hear some good sermons from our pastor, Rev. W. E. Robinson. We didn't get any members.

Next Sunday, the third Sunday, August 16th, is our regular preaching day. There will be services Sunday and Sunday night.

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Willis, of Woogurka, spent a few days last week with her daughter, Mrs. Lake Davis, and brother, Mr. G. W. Sammons, and three sisters, Mrs. P. A. Arledge, Mrs. J. R. Cost and Mrs. P. M. Cleckler.

Miss Berta Lou Gore spent last Wednesday night with Miss Central Cost.

Miss Gertrude Gore spent last Thursday night with Miss Central Cost.

Rev. Lenzie Smith visited our meeting a few times last week.

Misses Dotha and Jesse and Mr. Osmond Cleckler had for their dinner guests last Wednesday: Miss Daisy Martin, Miss Lizzie Martin, Miss Pearlene Martin, Miss Alta Mae Blow, Miss Hazel Blow, Mr. Earl Littleton and Mr. Davie Cleckler.

Thursday Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Martin had for their dinner guests: Mrs. Ola Blow, Mrs. B. L. Cleckler, Miss Alta Mae Blow, Miss Dotha Cleckler, Miss Flossie Littleton, Mr. Davie Cleckler, Mr. Osmond Cleckler, Mr. Jimmie Dell Twelly, of Georgia, Mrs Earl Littleton and Mr. Lubie Martin.

Friday Rev. and Mrs J. R. Cost and family had for their dinner guests, Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Martin and two children, and Rev. W. E. Robinson.

Mr. Norman Cost and family, of Calera, spent Friday, Saturday, and Sunday with Rev. J. R. Cost and family.

Mrs. G. W. Sammons and Dutch and Cecil Sammons had for their dinner guests Friday: Miss Lurlene Blow, Miss Hazel Blow, Miss Alta Mae Blow, Miss Dotha Cleckler and Miss Jessie Cleckler.

Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Cleckler and family were: Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Martin, Miss Lurlene Blow, Miss Central Cost, Miss Annie Cost of Calera, Mr. Davie Cleckler, Messrs. Wallace and Wilton Littlefield of Union Grove, Mr. Harlom Brasher.

Mrs. Howard Robinson and little son of Clanton spent last week with her mother, Mrs. P. M. Cleckler and family.

Mrs. Maudie Cost is spending this week with Misses Ressie and Lessie Ellison to attend the revival at Mt. Zion.

A large crowd from Pleasant Hill attended the singing at Mt. Zion last Sunday.

Remember our Sunday school at 9:30 and preaching Sunday and Sunday night.—Reporter.

Foes Of F.D.R Held Meeting

Detroit, August 7 —Avowedly seeking a campaign formula capable of chystrlizing the new deal opposition within the democratic party into anti-Roosevelt protest votes, a score or more of men once influential in the party today converged upon Detroit.

From Massachusetts came Joseph B. Ely, former democratic governor; from Missouri, James A. Reed, former democratic senator, and from New York, Bain bridge Colby, secretary of state under President Wilson, all of whom joined in an unheeded plea to the democratic national convention to put Mr. Roosevelt aside and nominate a "genuine democrat."

How their opposition to the new deal might be made most effective, spokesmen said, was their first objective. Two proposed courses of action were foremost—the entry of a "Jefferson democratic" ticket in the presidential race or a move to swing dissident democrats to the support of Alf Landon, the republican nominee. These two plans were mentioned in a formal statement by Sterling E. Edmunds, St. Louis attorney, who in co-operation with Reed, called the meeting.

A closed meeting was planned beginning today with 'every man free to express his views," Edmunds said, predicting that the discussions might continue into Saturday. Alfred E. Smith, former governor of New York and democratic presidential nominee, had announced he would not attend, and former Judge Daniel F. Cohalen of New York, long-time Smith supporter, was in Europe. Both signed the plea to the convention.

Edmunds said thirty or forty were expected to attend haming among them in addition to those listed: Henry Breckinridgt, who opposed President in the several state democratic presidential primaries; Thomas F. Cadwallader, Maryland chairman of Breckinridge's campaign; William A. Constock, former democratic governor of Michigan; John Henery Kirby, Texas Democrat; and Joseph W. Bailey, Jr., former democratic house member from Texas and son of a famous democratic senator from that state.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank the good people of this community for their kind deeds and help during the sickness and death of our dear father, Mr. S. Driver, also Dr. Eiland for his untiring help to the end. May God bless each and every one is our prayers.—Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Ingram.

PARSCHALL SAYS REPORT IS UNDERHAND TRICK

Montgomery, Ala., August 10.—Attacking the Zukoski school report as "propaganda originated and sponsored by the education department and the office holding high taxers, M. M. Paschall, field representative of the Consumers Anti-Sales Tax Association of Alabama, branded the report as "education's underhand trick by the tax-eating politicians."

Paschall attempted to get a copy of the report here at the education department but was refused.

"Has Dr. J. A. Keller, superintendent of education, put a muzzle on the reports?" the anti-sales tax official asked.

"Was the report made up for distribution among the drys of Alabama? I am told that the report was freely distributed to about 70 dry leaders at the governor's office last Wednesday, but that Dr. Keller gathered up all the extra copies left at the governor's office that day and put them in the vaults at the education department," Parschall said.

Some time ago Paschall appeared before the Monigomery county grand jury in protest against dual-job holding by members of the legislature. The jury in its report condemned the practice as "unwise."

"Since there was so much secrecy about the report at the education department I sought to learn something about it and I learned first of all that it was not an 'impartial' report, but a report made from and based on the propaganda figures and estimates of he education department, Dr. L. N. Duncan and the other office-holding high-taxers," Paschall costiinued."

"Mrs. James Fitts Hill, president of the Alabama Parent-Terchers Association took pride in saying that the man who wrote the report was C. F. Zukoski, Jr., a vice president of the First National Bank of Birmingham, but there is something strangely familiar about it.

"Fact of the matter, it is the same stuff Dr. Keller and Dr. Duncan tried to get the legislature to believe at the last special session. By refusing to give the tax-eating politicians more money, the legislature branded the whole set-up as "bunk" by saying 'no more money."

WHY IT HAS NOT HAPPENED TO US

judice and tradition blind and stifle every thought and sentiment where political and governmental questions are involved, if the name Democrat appears?

Why didn't the Age-Herald just admit that because of its own blind partisan prejudice, provincialism and tweedlee-dumbism, it doesn't care if we have a dictatorship supplant our present American system so long as it bears the Democrat label? Even though those masquerading under that banner have killed in the house of their fathers every Democratic principle.

That the American people are awakening to a realization of the perils confronting their institutions is shown clearly in the result of a recent poll by the American Institute of Public Opinion. This non-partisan survey showed 45 per cent of participants in the poll answering "yes" on the question of whether the Roosevelt administration may lead to a dictatorship. With nearly half the people awake to the menace of the arrogant bureaucracy in Washington, we may take renewed hope in the permanence of our American system of government. Dictators too often have risen to power in other countries because the people went to sleep, and lost their liberties before they knew what was happening. The poll thus has its good as well as its evil features. It is disheartening to know that our country's affairs are in the hands of those whose conduct already has been such as to cause so many people to believe that they aim at the overthrow of our liberties. On the other hand, it is gratifying to see that Americans are alive to the danger and on guard against it.

The dangerous thing about a dictatorship is that it involves no change, at first, in the outward froms of government; it creeps upon a people without any blare of trumpets, and its menace is not realized until it is too late to do anything about it, in many cases. Rome is a conspicuous example of a nation which retained the shadow of liberty long after it had lost the substance. In the days of her greatness, Rome was a republic. After she fell into decay and into the hands of despots, she still retained the outward trappings of a republic. The name of Nero has gone down in history as the greatest tyrant the human race has ever produced; yet Rome at the time of Nero still had her senate, and the outward semblance of her former liberties. The trouble was that the Roman senate had become the servile tool of the executive power, as lacking in backbone and convictions as the Democratic majority in Congress today. It has been a sickening spectacle to witness the duly elected representatives of the people in Washington trade off their liberties in return for the postmastership at Squedunk, or a finger in some of the vast new sources of plunder opened up by the New Deal. Nero and Augustus and the rest of the Roman dictators had no postmasters to appoint, they did not even have Jim Farley, but they did mighty well, considering their limitations. They kept the people satisfied with free rations, and free shows to amuse them. No doubt their system found many defenders who used the argument of "But just look what we are getting out of it" which so many New Dealers use today, apparently on the theory that every American has his price.

It is not necessary to go back to ancient times to realize that what the dictator wants is power, and not necessarily the outward forms which once went with power. Mussolini rules Italy with an iron hand, yet he is not King of Italy. That country has a king, Victor Emanuel, whose name seldom gets into print, who is a mere figurehead, while Mussolini wields the power. Likewise, in Germany, Hitler does not wear a crown, and has not assumed a kingly pose, but his control of the German nation is more absolute than the Kaiser's ever was. Germany still has her law-making body, her parliament, or Reichstag, as it is called, but it is a joke, the mere tool of Hitler and his associates in the Nazi clique. They have elections yet in Germany, but they are conducted in a way which should make even the Democratic rings of Tammany Hall and Mobile, Ala. green with envy.

Our American dictatorship is a disease still in the early stages; it should be crushed before it can take hold. Already American business has felt the "mailed fist"; for the rest of the people, the iron hand has been concealed in the velvet glove—until the time comes to take the glove off. The administration has been busy coddling a large element of our population, trying to buy the votes of the people with their own money, trying to drill Americans into mass formations and dependence upon governmnt decrees, like the people of Germany and Russia.

In November, the American people will have a clear-cut opportunity of saying whether they approve the changes made and planned in our system of government by an administration already widely suspected of dictatorial designs. We predict that the coming election will show that an overwhelming majority of Americans prize their rights and liberties, and that their votes are not for sale, directly or indirectly.

New Deal To Get Gong, Knox Says

G. O. P. Candidate Declares Program Is Expensive "Amateur Hour"

Huntington, W. Va.—An attack on the New Deal as "the most expensive amateur hour in history" by Frank Knox, vice presidential candidate, who also advocated a "real share the wealth movement" of widespread employe owenership of stock, opened a drive by Republicans to recapture West Virginia.

The nominee, speaking before his party's state convention last night and an overflow crowd of several thousand persons, added:

"And in November, the American people will give all those New Deal performers the gong."

Knox declared there had been a strong movement in the direction of wider stock distribution among workers, but that this had been halted "only temporarily" by the depression.

He also amplified his party's position on labor matters, saying:

"The relentless forces in the American system are moving toward shorter hours and higher wages. Our Republican administration will encourage this trend."

Knox made a definite bid for Democratic support, telling the convention the "mad course of the Roosevelt administration" had alienated many leading Democrats and that the November battle was "not a campaign against the Democratic party."

"Within the Democratic party itself distinguished leaders like Senator Glass and Senator Gore and Gov. Smith and your own West Virginian, John W. Davis, realized that this mad course would injure the Nation."

Knox called the New Deal "a grand show," but said "it cost too much."

CURTIS ROPER DEAD

News was received in Clanton Friday morning of the death on Thursday night of Curtis Roper, age about 32, at Decatur, Ala. The body was shipped to Gadsden and interment made there Saturday afternoon.

He was the son of Mr. Rufus Roper, a painter for Alabama Power Company, who died at Tallassee about four months ago. Survivals are three brothers: J. T., of Gadsden; Burl and Holliard, of Tallassee, and one sister, Miss Janie Dale Roper, all of Tallassee. The old home place of the Ropers was at Gadsden, Alabama.

MASKED MEN ROB AUTOIST ON BIRMINGHAM HIGHWAY

L. H. Pope, of Greenville, told police Friday ngiht, two masked men stopped his car near Red Devil Lake on the Birmingham Highway and at the points of pistols, robbed him of $35.70.

He said that he had just passed the lake in the direction of Birmingham when a 1930 model Buick coupe pulled in front of him and stopped, thus blocking the road. The bandits jumped from their car, he said, and took his money. They made him head in the direction of Montgomery, the opposite direction in which they fled.

AN EGG WITH LANDON'S AND ROOSEVELT'S PICTURES

Uncle Jim Rutherford, of Clanton Route 2, brought to The Union-Banner last week a hen's egg with some sort of colored spots on it. Mr. Rutherford said that the spots were very plain to see as the picture of Landon on one end, and the spot on the other end was that of Roosevelt inverted.

Mr. Retherford says that he especially wanted John A. Headley to read about the picture of Roosevelt being reels upward on the hen's egg. Uncle Jim said that was about the way John's candidate for the presidency was going to come out in the election this fall.

WARNING ABOUT SPEEDING ISSUED BY MAYOR JONES

Mayor C. Fenn Jones is this week issuing a warning to speeders and reckless drivers within the city limits to slow down or expect arrest.

Mayor Jones stated Monday morning that there have come to him numerous complaints of speeders and reckless drivers, the most of which have been against regular drivers about the city, especially delivery trucks, and the like.

Mayor jones stated that instruction have been given city officers to arrest any and all drivers guilty of unsafe speeding or unsafe driving practices. He further stated that this order would be strictly enforced and fines assessed in all cases where sufficient evidence was brought.

CHANGES BEING MADE IN MAZER STORE HERE

Extensive changes are being made in the Mazer store in Clanton. A few floor is being laid, and when this is done numerous changes in the arrangement of goods will be made, according to Mr. I. S. Levine, the manager. All the shoes have already been placed in the rear of the building—and they really have shelves upon shelves of shoes. Other articles will be arranged in their respective department in the building. Mr. Levine says that when he gets it arranged to suit him, it will really be the most complete department store in this section of the country; and we do not doubt from the work that is now under way down there.

ALLSTATE TIRES TO BE SOLD BY CLANTON BUILDING SUPPLY

Sears Roebuck & Co. Joins with Local Firm To Put Over Well Known Tires And Tubes

Now, you can buy the famous All-State tires and tubes in Clanton, since Clanton Building Supply Company has been designated by Sears Roebuck & Company to distribute their products in Clanton. This will be good news to the automobile owners for Chilton County and this section of Alabama.

AllState tires and tubes are recognized as among the best on the market for the money, and everybody knows what a guarantee by Sears Roebuck means. Their guarantee will hold good on all products distributed through the Clanton concern.

Turn to the big adv. elsewhere in this issue of The Union-Banner and read all the particulars about the agency for this famous product being placed in Clanton.

NEW DEAL FARM PROGRAM MAKES 6 MILLION IDLE

Flood of Imports Deprives Americans Of Work, Says Congressman

"Six million men, who otherwise would be employed, are out of work today because the New Deal party has destroyed the home market of American agriculture and industry," Representative August H. Andresen of Minnesota, charged in an address at Fort Wayne, Ind.

Agricultural imports for 1935 exceeded a declared foreign value of more than $750,000,000, Representative Andresen said, adding that "all of these farm imports could have been produced in this country by American farmers and laborers in sufficient quantity to more than take care of domestic needs. This huge sum was a direct loss to agriculture in the United States."

Three million persons could have been employed in the production and processing of the imported commodities if they had been produced in the United States, Representative Andresen said. Three million more could have been employed in private industry had not the home market been destroyed. Pay checks, he said, went "to foreign labor instead of of to our own citizens, the consumers in this country paying the bill."

Landon Is Leading Big In Radio Polls

Two Stations Find Straw Votes Give Gov. Big Margin For President

Two radio polls show Governor Landon to be far ahead of Mr. Roosevelt. One presidential poll is being conducted in 18 states by the radio station KFTF, of Shenandoah, Iowa. This shows results as follows:

Iowa—Landon, 72 per cent; Roosevelt, 25; Lemke, 1.5; undecided, 1.5.

Nebraska—Landon, 82 per cent; Roosevelt, 18; Lemke, none; undecided, none.

Kansas—Landon, 77 per cent; Roosevelt, 15; Lemke, none; undecided, 8.

Missouri—Landon, 64 per cent; Roosevelt, 32, Lemke, 1; undecided, 3.

Fourteen Other States—Landon, 62 per cent, Roosevelt, 28; Lemke, 4; undecided, 6.

Station WIND of Gary, Ind., is asking listeners in Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin, Iowa and Michigan, to send in their preferences by mail. Straw votes cast so far give Governor Landon 1,404, Mr. Roosevelt 823, and Mr. Lemke 213.

CHURCHES MAKE GAINS

Often the statement is made that the world is going to the dogs or some worse place but the most recent church statistics refute them. The average gain in church membership over the past nine years has been 1.66 per cent as compared to an even one per cent increase in population. In 1935, according to Dr. George L. Kieffer, churches and religious bodies showed a gain in membership of 670-800 of which 538,800 were classed as adults—12 years of age or older.

THIS WILL BE A FEDERAL ELECTION AND NOT SAFE FOR BOGUS ABSENTEES

[AN EDITORIAL]

This coming election on November 3rd will be one in which several candidates will be running for Federal posts, and will therefore have to measure up to Federal specifications. Abuse of the absentee voting privileges is one way that the election laws are often shamefully abused, and those who care little enough for the sacredness of the ballot to pollute an election with illegal absentee votes, buying of votes, and the like, probably had better take warning and not become embroiled in an election perjury conflict with Uncle Sam.

The presidential electors and Congressmen are federal office holders and will appear on the ballots with the state, county and beat officials. Therefore, this becomes a Federal election and you know it is not safe to meddle with Federal business, especially elections.

There have been numbers of cases in Alabama during the past year where there was Grand Jury investigation of alleged abuses of the election laws, the principal ones were of the absentee statute. None of these investigations amounted to very much, but they might have if the proper steam had been put behind them. There has been considerable talk of some investigation into such abuses in Chilton County; and we will venture to say in this respect that the people of Chilton County have had about enough of this corruption of elections, and when they do get their fill of it, something is going to take place. We imagine that Hon. Charles B. Kennamer, Federal Judge for the Middle District of Alabama, would welcome such an investigation in his court and to say the least of it, such case before his court would receive an impartial investigation.

At all events, no good, law abiding citizen wants anything but fairness and squareness in elections as in everything else; and no good law abiding citizen is going to allow his name to be connected up with fraud and crookedness in any way.

It has been heard whispered around that certain Democrats have a new scheme to play in this election this fall. It is not known what this new scheme is, but it is well enough for the Republicans of the county to be on the guard for any crooked schemes that someone might attempt to pull. Let's be ready for them.

CHILTON COUNTY'S ROADS

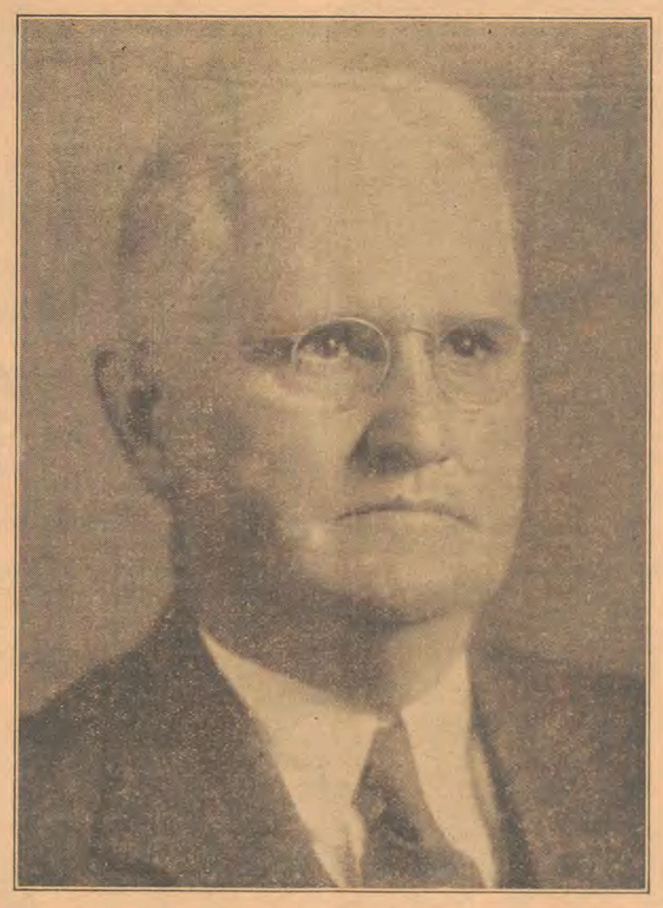
In regard to the road-working business of Chilton County The Union-Banner has only a few things to say. The main thing we can speak of with authority is that our roads need more work than they are getting; and further that unless our roads are worked up during the next few weeks while the weather is favorable, those of us who do much travelling next winter over the country roads will have a difficult time getting around from place to place.

This paper is not in position to place the blame on the road supervisor, or on the Democratic officials of the county, or on the Republican officials who still hold county offices. We do not know who is to blame; but we do know that our roads ought now to be in the process of getting repaired to withstand the winter rains that will inevitably come during the months that are before us. Not much work can be done on the roads when the rains and bad weather set in; but they should be gotten in proper repair now.

Some have suggested a referendum on the supervision business. That is not necessary and would not get us anywhere, nor could it reveal anything to us that we do not already know.

What The Union-Banner would like to see is for our officials to get together on some plan to get our roads worked during this dry weather before the winter rains set in. Of course this should be done as efficiently as possible and with as little interference from politics as practicable.

C. Fenn Jones Asks For Office Of Mayor Of Clanton Again



The above is a likeness of Mr. C. Fenn Jones, who has been serving as Mayor of the City of Clanton for the past two years. Mr. Jones is asking for re-election on the record which he has made while at the head of our city government and on the services he has rendered his constituents. Elsewhere in this issue of The Union Banner will be found a letter from Mr. Jones setting forth the grounds on which he is asking for re-election. Turn to Mr. Jones' letter and read what he has to say to you.

C. FENN JONES HAS UNION-BANNER'S ENDORSEMENT

When Mr. C. Fenn Jones came out for Mayor of Clanton two years ago, he received the public endorsement of The Union-Banner. This paper believes Clanton has been fortunate in having a man of Fenn Jones' calibre to look after the duties of Mayor; and we can see no reason that he should not be honored with the office again. Clanton needs him, so let's elect him again.

GOODYEAR TO BROADCAST LITERARY DIGEST POLL

Akron, Ohio, August 14.—P. W. Litchfield, President of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company, announced today that the Company has just completed arrangements to broadcast 3 times a week for nine weeks the results of the Literary Digest's copyrighted figures, which have a record of forecasting elections with unusual accuracy, will be made available regularly over the air in dual sponsorship. Goodyear has arranged with the editors of the Digest to make the returns public on a nation-wide network of NBC stations beginning Wednesday night, September 2nd, and continuing every Monday, Wednesday and Friday evening thereafter until the day before election. The final results will be given on Monday, November 2nd.

"Goodyear, of course, is not in politics," Mr. Litchfield states. "It occurred to me, however, that owing to the exceptionally intense interest this year by the Presidential campaign, people throughout the country would be even more interested in getting information as to the progress of the poll more frequently than it has been available heretofore. It is the duty, as well as the privilege, of every citizen to vote."

FUN FOR EVERYBODY AT STATE FAIR

Many Sensational Grandstand Acts; Mile Long Midway

Birmingham, Ala., August 17.—Fifteen big grandstand aces have been booked for the forthcoming Alabama State Fair.

The feature attraction to be seen each night in front of the grandstand will be the Barnes and Cruthers musical extravganza "The Show of the Century" a lavisan pproduction with 100 singers, dancers and comedians.

"The Show of the Century" is a convincing example of what can be accomplished for the outdoor stage. The producers of this fine production have outdone themselves in a determine effort to bring to the open air stage show up to the highest standards set by the theatre.

Schools Of County To Open Sept. 7th

Some Will Begin In September And Others Will Open In October

This week Supt. Luther E. Little announces the dates for opening of Chilton County's schools. So far, nothing has been done toward help on the school finance question, although another special session of the legislature is expected in the near future, which it is hoped will handle the question.

Supt. Little announces that the following schools will open on Monday, September 7: Alabama Mills, Chilton County High School, Clanton Grammar School, Isabella High School, Jemison High School, Jemison Grammar School, Lay Dam, Maplesville High School, Mitchell Dam, Oak Grove, and Verbena High School. All the others will open a month later, on Tuesday, October 6. Arrangements are being made for the regular teacher's institute to be held at the Chilton County High School building on Monday, October 5.

G. O. P. LEADERS SCORE TAX BAN BY DEMOCRATS

Administration Opponents Call The Program 'Political Pap'

Washington, August 14.—The Roosevelt administration's announcement that it planned to propose no new taxes at the next session of Congress evoked accusations of "politics" today from Republicans. "A political gesture pure and simple" was the way Representative Bacon, (R), New York, Eastern campagn manager of the Republican Congressional Committee, described the move in a formal statement.

Melvin C. Eaton, Republican chairman of New York State, said the tax announcement was a "political campaign statement,"while Harrison E. Spangler, Vice Chairman of the Republican National Committee, said the public could place no reliance on such assurances.

Hamilton Laughs

When Republican National Chairman John D. M. Hamilton heard of the Roosevelt administration announcement, he laughed and said he would comment in the words of Senator Walsh, of Massachusetts—"There may not be any new taxes this year, or the year after, but, oh boy, look out for the years to come."

F. D. R. Plea Cited

Spangler, in a statement at Chicago, said: "The same President who is now so thoroughly concerned about the welfare of the taxpayers, asked Congress last spring for one billon dollars to spend as he pleased. It will be remembered that the President's budget, which is supposed to reflect the governments financial condition, shows that if by any chance Mr. Roosevelt is re-elected, he will ask Congress for another huge blank check next January.

"What is the answer? There is only one answer. Inflation. The taxpayers are doomed to pay and pay if the ruinous spending is not stopped.

Called "Campaign Pap"

"The New Dealers are attempting to lull the country into a sense of security, as they have many times before. The American people, however, can place no more reliance upon these new assurances than upon the old ones already thoroughly discredited."

Representative Bacon said the New Deal announcement "should be viewed in the light of other New Deal promises so gaily broken." New York State Chairman, Eaton said the announcement "represents the cheapest kind of political pap and campaign politics."
